The charming singing birds' services commenced at 10 o'clock a m. Sermon from the text, Psalms, 34th chap., 11th verse, as follows: "Come ye Children, harken nnto me, I will teach you the fear of the Lord. While your humble speaker continued to extend the cordial invitation to come, the seats and aisles were crowded with dear children that had already come with willing hands and countenances bright that told of the labors done in the Sabbath School. At 2:30 o'clock the Sabbath School officers and teachers engaged in the responsive reading programme; an essay by Miss Anne Henderson, subject, "Life," was good; Miss Laura Ransom, Thomas and John Cirns, with various others of the juvenile class, spoke committed pieces. Great credit is due the teachers of the school. Miss Cora Kerr, Miss Minerva Henderson and Miss Mary F. King deserve great credit as teachers of our Sabbath School, and the committee for the proficient manner of conducting these classes; and last but not least that added pleasure to the occasion was Bro. Geo. Ransom. A handsome collection was taken np for the children's educational fund."

Rev. A P. Blakemore, Springfield, Tenn., writes: "Children's Day was one of the grandest I ever witnessed in my life. The programme opened with a gospel hymn; leader Miss H. Brandfort The reading of Scriptnre was in concert with the African Methodist and Baptist Sunday Schools, who joined us. Rev. W. J. Young, of the A. M. E. Church, repeated the Lord's prayer. Eliza Blakemore, aged six years, sang. Miss O. Allen, of Nashville, was the organist. E Baide, superintendent of the Missionary Baptist School, gave a fine talk on the dnty of parents; Rev. W. J. Young on love; A. Hardin on what ought to be done for Snnday Schools. Fonr dollars was collected and forwarded to New York. The celebration closed with a good old Christian hand shake. Pray for our little band."

James Taylor, of New Richmond, O., writes: "We are in debt and cannot get out without some aid. Our camp meeting will begin the last Snnday in July, and continne to the first Sunday in Angnst."

Rev. H. Henderson, Rolling Fork, Miss., writes: "When I came here we had four churches. Now we have five, and seven preaching points. This is a nice little church, thirty by twenty feet, and twenty members. All came over from the C. M. E. Church last Sunday The elder was with ns May 23 and 24, and held second quarterly meeting. It was well attended, and the work found in good condition. We raised for pastor, $97 50; for the elder, $19 55."

Letters From the Laity.

Fanny Sherrill, Memphis, Tenn., writes: "We are having a good time this year. We have a good pastor; one whom we all love—Rev. J. W. Moore. Our Sunday school is improving since he has been with ns. I attend Snnday school, and teach the Testament class. We had a Sunday School celebration May 22, and had a good time. At night we marched by torchlight. There were 139 lights. We had a good time. There are a good many yonng ladies and yonng men here who need education. We are getting our churches all out of debt."

C. B. Baldwin, Houston, Miss., writes. "On Children's Day we had beautiful marching, and a nice dinner. W. Renfroe, James Pullam and several others came for ward and delivered beautiful addresses concerning education. This is the second time we have observed Children's Day at Mount Olive Church, and we believe that Children's Day is becoming an institution of education. The church is beautifully decorated. A. A. [illegible], superintendent; Phillis Pullam, treasurer; J. N. Mimms, librarian; D A. Prophet, Sallie Buchanan and Alice Mimms, teachers. Pray for our success. Collection, 70 cents."

W. B. Gasby, Sabine and Shelby circuit, Tex., writes: "The elder visited ns on the 13th and 14th ultimo; held our second quarterly conference, and we had a glorious time. Elder Smith aroused the brethren on the Circuit concerning missions, and urges us to do all we can toward helping to raise the million dollars. Our elder is not only loved by our church, but by the Baptist and C. M. E.'s, who are very strong in this portion of the country. The sacrament was administered to sixty-four. Our pastor, also Mr. S. Horn, was heartily received by all. Notwithstanding the hard times and other hindrances he is doing much good here at large. There has been a spirit of enthusiasm awakened among us, which speaks better for the future. Bro. Horn is a thorough going man. His tendency is to make peace and harmony among his people, regardless of denomination. We ask that the blessing of God may be upon him, and that his efforts may be crowned with success."

V. J. E. Grangent, Paulding, Miss., writes; "We observed Children's Day. We had a very large gathering. The seats were crowded with Sunday School scholars. At 11 o'clock our pastor, R. H. Patton, preached to us on the occasion, We had responsive reading, and reading by the superintendent and other gentlemen and officers of the school. We recited one hundred and thirty six verses from the Bible by heart. We collected the handsome little sum of $3, which the pastor will forward at his earliest convenience to the treasurer. Our church was very nicely decorated with sweet smelling flowers. It is a new thing to us, and everybody is well pleased. We anticipate a better time next June, should the good Lord see fit to let us live. The children admire it."

A. McGregor, secretary of Benolent Society No.11, writes: "Benevolent Society No. 11, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., had their annual sermon preached June 28, 1855, by Rev. H. Primm, of the Nashville district, and also C. L. Seward, of the Murfreesboro charge, and through the sermon he read his report, which showed up for one year's work. We had before the socities gathered the First Benevolent, the Sisters of Charity, the Daughters of Zion, and the Grand Lodge of Relief. Collections were taken up as follows: Benevolence, $4; Sisters of Charity $3,10; Grand Lodge $1,20; Daughters of Zion $1,10; Secretary $1,45; total $10,85.

Annual report of the Benevolent Society No. 11: Number of members on book, 143; paying members on books, 110; non paying members, 33; money collected, $294 35; paid out to sick, $232; funeral expenses, $66 50; for rent, $31; to secretary, $5; for one banner, $7 25; privilege tickets, $1 75 grand total, $339 50. The year ended June 28, 1885. Mrs. Cellie Calloie is president of this society."

C. E. Bradford, Wesley Chapel, Baton Rouge district, La., writes: "Our second quarterly conference was held May 28, by Presiding Elder Priestley. The reports were grand, and the elder gave encouragement. The elder preached and assisted at sacrament. Our pastor, G. Rogers, felt happy. We raised the elder's traveling expenses."

J. Allen, Deusonville, Miss., writes: "Since the arrival of Rev. C. L Crump the entire circuit have learned to love him. On Sunday he was with us and preached a wonderful sermon. On Children's Day the collection was $8 50 for the pastor; from the Sunday School, $3 30; total, $11 80. The people are in better spirits than they have been for many years. Received in the church this year, 35; converts, 4.

The M. E. Church.

A Million For Missions.

The Situation.

BY C. C. M'CABE.

Thousands of the ministry and laity of the Church are watching with the most intense interest the effort to raise one million of dollars for missions during the year 1885

The Spring Conferences are over, and we are able now to tell where we stand, and, to some extent, forecast the future. The treasurer's books show that he has received from January 1 to May 1, æ354,933 44. Therefore, if we succeed, we have $645,066 56 yet to raise to reach the goal.

Now, here are two tremendous "ifs" which I present for careful consideration:

1. If all the Presiding Elders' districts of the Fall Conferences will march up to the million dollar line, as indicated in the Missionary Chart, we shall have $446,616 more.

2. If the special efforts now being made by mass meetings, correspondence with individuals, and appeals to our 21,000 Sabbath-school for a supplementary collection, shall produce $178,450 56 the column will stand thus:

Already raised	$354 933 44
Fall Conferences brought up to the million dollar stan...	466,616 00
Special meetings, correspondence with dividnals, and appeals to 21,000 Sunday-schools	178,450 56
Gradd total	$1,000,000 00

Are there crowbars enough in all Methodism to move these two "ifs" out of the way?

Can it be done. Take the first "if." What presiding elder's district in all the West has an apportionment exceeding $1 per member.

Is there anything unreasonable in such an apportionment, or anything impossible or even very difficult about raising it.

Kindle the fire and try it. Some hearts will be prompted to give special thank offerings to God's cause this first year of our second century. Tell the people what the General Committee wants to do with this million dollars. How with this fund they will keep four thonsand men and women preaching and teaching the Gospel all over the world, and reinforce them with a thonsand more. Surely the people will respond to such an appeal.

It would be a good plan to take the collections early, then compare notes, and figure up, see how much more is needed to meet the million dollar apportionment, and then, by supplementary meetings, raise the balance to the last dollar.

Invite returned missionaries to aid in the work whenever they can be had. Returned missionaries of the London Missionary Society held four hundred and three meetings in London in two months.

Believe in the generosity of the people. On the evening of the 13th of May, 1884, a Methodist audience in Philadelphia gave $50,000 for the cause of Church extension.

Never imagine that all the big-hearted Methodists were in the Academy of Music that night. They can be found on every district.

As to the second "if:" We will tug at that with all our might. We are appealing with great confidence to the 21,000 Sabbath-schools of our church to aid us in this effort, by taking a supplementary collection, and we do hope that not one of them will deny us altogether. It is the cause of Christ that appeals to you. Your answer will be heard in heaven.

O Zion, put on thy strength! The night of five thousand slow revolving years that has hung over pagan world must be lit up with the Gospel of Jesus. Into these vast continents of gloom the messengers of hope and joy must penetrate to tell the myriads of despairing souls the story of the cross. "Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty, God hath shined."

Light reveals beauty. Who can tell the pebble from the diamond till the light reveals the jewel? God shone out of Zion, and Ruth came out of the land of Moab to "put her trust under the shadow of Jehovah's wings."

Read our reports. Think of the thousands already won to God in heathen lands. That glorious victory on the banks of the Ganges, in presence of the enemies of Christ, won only a few weeks ago, ought to bring a special thank offering to God.

Two hundred and forty-eight believed and were baptised in the Christian faith in three days, and shouted "Victory to Jesus!"

Take this million-dollar collection out of the subjunctive mood Make it a certainty. What then? The debt would disappear. That bloodhound of a debt, which has followed us for years, swallowing up $40,000 in interest in a quadrennium, would disappear for ever.

The General Committee would be inspired to assume the aggressive. The whole subject and tenor of their discussions would be changed. Now they anxiously consider how they can keep the work within their probable income. The men whose credit is needed to sustain the Missionary Society in bank have many warnings to utter about that portentous debt. Appropriations are cut down that ought to be increased.

Frontier presiding elders plead in vain for additional appropriations to meet the demands of the work in the Territories. Their appeals are disregarded because it is thought they must be.

The Treasurer's adverse report blocks the way to all advance Give the committee this million, and all would be changed. Old missions would be strengthened in foreign lands and new ones projected. One hundred young men who now stand at the altars of the Church, saying, "Here am I; send me," would be told to get ready for marching orders.

Our Home Missions would feel the mighty inspiration. All over the West and into the South reinforcements would fly to the help of those already there. No brighter day ever dawned on Methodism than that will be in which it will be recorded: "The Missionary collections are brought up to a milion per annum."

We turn to the West with eager hearts. How the destiny of the Republic hung upon the patriotic devotion of the West during the great struggle for the Union! Their armies were swift and mighty. They never knew defeat. They marched from Mill Spring to Donelson, and from Donelson to Shiloh, and from Shiloh by the way of Inka, and Chicamaugua down to Atlanta, and from Atlanta to the sea, and then, accustomed to everlasting victory, they sauntered by to Raleigh to receive the surrendered standards of Johnsons's army, and made the interview at Appomatox an absolute certainty.

Shall we not have some of that glorious courage, that wonderous enthusiasm, that consecretion of life and everything the human heart holds dear to one transcendent purpose! Shall we not have some of it in the work of God. Let it be once aroused fairly, and then by a swift march Methodism will pass on to her proper place at the front as the leader of all Protestant Christianity in missionary labor, success, and sacrifice throughout the world!

A Bargain in Corner Lots

Is what most men desire, but to keep from filling a grave in a cemetery lot ere half your days be numbered, always keep a supply of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" by you. When the first symptoms of consumption appear lose no time in putting yourself under the treatment of this invaluable medicine. It cures when nothing else will. Possessing, as it does, ten times the virtue of the best cod liver oil, it is not only the cheapest but far the pleasantest to take. It purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the system, cures boils, pimples, eruptions and other humors. By druggists.

The Free Church of Scotland General Association at its late meeting resolved, after an exciting discussion, by a majority of one hundred, that any of its churches in which a large majority of the congregation desired it, could introduce instrumental music. The Irish Assembly, after a day of contention and the same strife over the question, in which a large party left the hall, agreed to postpone all discussion until next year.

I most cheerfully state that Darbys Prophylactic Fluid was furnished to and extensively used by the surgeons in charge of General Hospitals in the Confederate service with great benefit to the patients—all the surgeons making a favorable report: A great deal of it was used in the hospitals.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, AUG. 20, 1885.

"Be ye holy for I am holy."

"All things work together for good to them that love God."

A religious life is fragrant, beautiful and useful while it lasts.

"Neither be ye sorry, for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

Pleasing excesses in children are grievous offenses in grown up people.

"Thanks be unto God which always maketh us to triumph in Christ."

"Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins."

A trifling preacher and decayed vegetation are unfit for their designated uses.

A minister should be a man with a born, innate principle of gentility about him.

"Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature, so I am with you always."

That which was sufficient for a slave is insufficient for a free man, woman or child. But a good many Negroes fail to appreciate this truth.

President Cleveland is reported to have said to a Mormon delegation: "I wish you out there could be like the rest of us." Considering all things this is at least an ambiguous sentence.

The Revised Old Testament is ready, but the appearance is that the run will not be near so large as that of the New. Our book house will carry a good stock in several styles and at several prices, always as cheap and as stylish as any in the market.

The late Gov. Henry A. Wise, of Virginia, chiefly notable on account of his official relation to the execution of John Brown, the champion of human freedom; was, it is said, opposed to slavery. One of his sons is now the Republican candidate for the Governor of that State.

In order to discern how shallow were the pretenses that the English war in the Soudan was waged against Mohommedanism, it is only needful to consider the effect of an alliance with Great Britain, one of the conditions of which should be Turkish occupation of that country. Such a treaty is not only possible, but entirely probable.

"Mr. John Jackson, of this office, got a $10 bill from the bank the other day. On the back of it was written: "When I was twenty-one years old I came in possession of $25,000. This is my last cent I have spent it all for whisky, women and horses. I am now twenty-four years old." What a lesson this should be to our young readers. Think of it; $25,000 squandered in three years, and he that was independent left penniless, and a moral, physical wreck. The bill can be seen at our office."—Hartford (Ky.) Herald.

Evil Communications.

The methods of politicians may be always honest in a sense, but they are probably not always moral. It is not moral to hand the drinks around at the gatherings for political purposes, and ministers of the Lord Jesus belittle themselves as they do the cause of Christ when they either do it or consort too much with others who are known to do it. We are inspired to write this in the dark as it were, with plenty of facts, well authenticated, for saying a good deal more But a hint to the wise is said to be, and in this case we hope it will prove to be sufficient.

If you feel nervous as to your kidneys, liver or urinary organs, use Hunt's Remedy.

Make Them Operative.

Every Southern, and almost every Northern State, has statutory enactments against race intermixture. Every State, North and South, has some sort of provision against lewdness. That there is an alarming degree of criminal commerce between the races, carried on mainly between white men and colored women, is apparent from the mingled fatherless progeny one meets with at almost every turn. This progeny is always a charge to some person other than those whose natural duty it is to support them. This burden usually falls upon either the State, or those who marry these unhappy mothers. Frequently the mothers being left alone to work out a support for themselves and children, are carried onward into deeper depths of infamy, with the hope of maintaining the result of the first crime. The remedy for this lies largely in an appeal to the courts in every case for the enforcement of such law as may exist against this, the wholesale debanchment and heartless abandonment of colored women. Of course it will be attended with many difficulties, not a little danger, and will often stride close to the heart of the higher social ranks. But let it be so. It will require heroic purpose and dauntless courage to reclaim from this brutal use a class whom it has doomed and devoted to it for centuries by those who regarded them only a short remove from beasts, and useful only as conveniences. A wholesome public sentiment can be soon created and arrayed against this more than diabolical form of outrage. If the Negro men do not purge themselves from all personal complicity in this debauchment of the women of their race, and then resist it to the last extreme when perpetrated by others, they need not hope for any real elevation for themselves.

The level of the women will be ever esteemed as the true level of men. Prompt and determined action on this line is the present duty. A manly and vigorous campaign on this line everywhere would soon result in the richest and most desirable outcome. All white women, and not a few white men, will align themselves alongside of the host of Negro fathers, brothers, sons and husbands who devote their life or meet death for the purity of their characters, families and country. Let their be a quick response of action to this appeal to the sense of Negro manhood. Let organizations be formed in every place. Let white people, who are favorable to the moral purity of our race, be invoked to join them. Let contributions be made, lawyers, Christian lawyers, be employed, and their advice obtained; and in this way let a systematic crusade against the debauchment of Negro women by Negro men and others be ceaselessly waged. Let the preachers of every denomination increase the volume and frequency of their sermons against this crime. Let every school teacher give time to lectures and admonitions on this line against this crying shame and abominable crime of our age and nation. We speak warmly and in favor of action. Is there not a cause for it? Must we be silent against this gigantic, insolent, festering crime; this blot upon our race's page; this slur upon our body politic? Must this journal go abroad, week after week, under the name of Christian, without one determined, bold and unequivocal protest against this sin? Must we forbear to speak of this terrific outrage upon the fair name of woman lest the true and virtuous of our readers blush for us, while passing before their very doors, and brushing against them at every step, sitting beside them in the house of God, and mingling with them in all the social places, are those who practice their lecherous riot, also their doomed and hapless victims. We will not hold our peace while tongue, and brain, and hand will serve us, and this insatiate, blighting monster crime remains and walks with uplifted head abroad. Ours is the cause of justice, truth and maidenly purity. We are at war with their foes, and desire to form an alliance, offensive and defensive with their friends. "First purity, then peace."

Race Prejudice.

Is race prejudice, as it exists in the South, instinctive, or is it the result of circumstances? As we do not find the same prejudice existing in other countries it cannot be instinctive. It must be the result of circumstances, and must die as we get further removed from the causes which produced it. Political equality can only find a sure basis on real equality. The political equality of the Negro is only surely his in perpetuity as he is regarded as the equal of the Caucasian, in the possibilities of his future development. It is too soon after the removal of the yoke of oppression, with its degradation and demoralization to whites and blacks, to expect the people who have been accustomed to regard the Negro as an inferior, not only in social position, but in race, to admit that he has endowments from the Creator equal to the other members of the human family. It will come. Time will bury the prejudices of the people of this country against the Negro. A new generation will rise up with no knowledge of the Negro as a slave, as an inferior in political life or school life; and when the Negro has had time to accumulate property and built himself elegant homes, and handles bank stocks, landed estates, and extensive manufactures, his social life will not be regarded as inferior to that of any other people. What the Negro needs is what every poor and ignorant man needs—education—to remove his inability to cope with others in the various pursuits of life; wealth to enable him to become a power in the business marts of the land; moral character, so that his intellect and his wealth may be best used to bless his race; not the Negro merely, but the human race. Any narrower views of the Negro's wants must be imperfect. He does not need anything more nor less than the rest of the race. He belongs to the human race; has been under disabilities for a while. God has removed them, and now the "brother in black" enters his life struggle with the same great needs as the "brother," on whom the Father of all, has put the yellow, brown, red or white skins. Prejudice must yield to humanity. It will die under the influence of truth in the nineteenth as it did in the first century. Jew and Gentile, Greek, barbarian, Scythian, bond and free, were made one in Christ then. Paul's address on Mar's Hill is as true now as 1800 years ago, and prejudice between the members of the human family must die, for God made them all of "one blood," and all have been redeemed by the blood of the everlasting covenant.

Be a Negro Man.

Let the Negro hating whites rage, and the color frightened Negroes imagine a vain thing, but we shall still maintain that illicit amalgamation in the past is no reason for the legal continuance of this crime in the future; and that progressive amalgamation between the white and black people means the destruction of the latter. Whatever we can do to preserve our distinctness as a race, that we will do. By the creation of one genus man in the order of God's providence several species of man have been developed. From God come both the genus and the species. If other species have by combination for oppression degraded any special type of man, we must not destroy that type to redeem it. We must claim its relation to the genus, and therefore its peerage, with all or any species of it. This race business is God's business, and "The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and gracious in all His work."

But Some Doubt.

The directors of the Methodist Men and Women's Mutual Aid and Beneficiary Association propose to invite members of various annual conferences to sit in council with them in their September meeting, at St. Louis, Mo., next September. Well, that is a proper move, for while none that we know of doubt either the integrity or good intentions of these excellent brethren, it would be foreign to the facts for us to deny that there is considerable and increasing doubt of the ability of the association to redeem its pledges to policy-holders. We hope they may be able to satisfy every doubter on these points.

Union Memorial Services Little Rock, Ark.

On the 8th of August the colored citizens of Little Rock, held Union Memorrial services at the A. M. E. Church. Rev. W. S. Lankford, of the M. E. Church preached a sermon at 11 o'clock a. m. to a respectable audience, in which most if not all the colored churches in the city were represented. At 3 o'clock p. m. Judge Thomas was called to the chair, and Rev. W. S. Lankford and Prof. Temple were chosen secretaries. A committee, consisting of Mr. A. Rector, Prof. H. R. Pinckney, Rev. W. S. Lankford, Hon. Rideout and Prof. Ish, appointed at a previous meeting, submitted the following preamble and resolutions, which were read most feelingly by Prof. H. R. Pinckney, of the Philander Smith College:

Whereas, The news of the death of General Ulysses S. Grant has occasioned keep sorrow and profound sympathy throughout the whole country, evoking also expressions of the most tender feelings from abroad in this hour of the nation's great affliction; and,

Whereas, His whole life has been a living example and positive demonstration of the correctness of the wise man's saying, "When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice; therefore,

Resolved, That we commend to the young men of our country the exemplary life of this distinguished citizen as worthy of imitation. That in testimony of respect to the memory of the illustrious citizen, whose death removes from us one of the most renowned in the world. We bow in sorrow with faith in Him who hath declared that "all things work together for the good of them that love God."

Resolved, That we share, with the rest of the country, as citizens of color, in the universal grief felt at the death of General Grant who, in every position, whether as a soldier or as a president, fearlessly and faithfully discharged every duty.

Resolved, That we do hereby express our full appreciation of his character and career as a public servant, and, as a race, cheerfully acknowledge his loyal and kind interest in us in the supreme hour of our need. That we shall as a people, ever venerate and revere the name of Ulysses Simpson Grant.

The orators of the day were then introduced by the president, and spoke af follows: Prof. Bailey, editor of The Sun, spoke eloquently of the many virtues of the fallen hero, General U. S. Grant, and his unflinching devotion to the cause of the poor and oppressed. Dr. J. H. Smith was next introduced and for some time held the audience spell bound with his polished words. The Doctor paid a lasting tribute to General Grant as a "ruler in righteousness" and as commander in chief of the armies of the nation in the hour of its most supreme peril. Rev. Dr. Howard, of the A. M. E. Church, was the first orator of the day, but in consequence of personal illness was not present to respond to his name. The question was then taken and the resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote. The choir of Bethel Church having discoursed some excellent music for the occasion, then sang the closing anthem, and Rev. Dr. Simms, of the First Congregational Church, pronounced the benediction.

JUDGE THOMAS, Pres.
W. S. LANKFORD,
PROF. J. T. TEMPLE,
Secretaries.

Personal.

—Hubbard J. Brent, Esq., Master Winchester U. B. F. Lodge 60 sends a very pleasant letter and is prosperous.

—Mrs. Rev. W. S. Lankford, of Little Rock, lately quite sick, is now much better and on the road to firm health again.

—We learn that the year rolls pleasantly along with Rev. J. W. Robinson, at Waco, Texas, and we rejoice in his prosperity.

—Rev. C. H. Bullington, of the Murfreesboro district, Tennessee conference, is closing up his first year as presiding elder with encouraging success.

—The Rev. J. L. Perrine, of Louisville, is becoming quite a proper favorite with young ladies of character and who know a real gentleman when they see him.

—Rev. T. S. Johnson, late of Centre Street Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, Louisville, has has been sent to Little Rock, Ark., and his wife is with him.

—Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Rust are in the East. He enjoys the well-earned reputation of having founded more educational institutions than any other living man.

—We are under obligations to Sir George Taylor for valuable correspondence. His health is not so good at present, but he expects to attend the approaching Grand Chapter F. A. M., at Lexington, Ky.

—Mrs. Emma Smith and Miss Laura Jones, of Louisville; Mrs. Laura Taylor and Miss Tiney Miller, of Jeffersonville, Ind., were visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Anderson, of Lexington, Ky.,

—The late Henry Sinymaster, of Stroudsburg, Pa., has left an estate estimated at between $160,000 and $200,000, to be equally divded, after the death of his wife, between the Lutherian Theological Seminaries of Philadelphia and Gettysburg.

—Rev. G. W. Sams is in fair health and is doing all he can to succeed in his charge. The proposition made in the last session of his conference to make a quarterly donation of $2 from each church was a good one, and the contributions are greatly needed by him.

—Rev. J. F. Hamilton, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, is gathing facts concerning the Methodist Episcopal school work among the freedmen. Dr. R. S. Rust or Joseph C. Hartzell, 190 W 4th Cincinnati, can furnish him a full supply of them and they would be glad to do so.

Rev. Ross Taylor, son of Bishop William Taylor, passed through Chicago, with his wife and four children, for California, July 9. Mr. Taylor says there is much sickness among the missionaries in Loanda, and that others would return if they had the means.—Northwestesn.

—Mrs. A. H. Stearns, a philanthropic lady of Morristown, Tenn., who has been sick for some time past, was able to be present at the late commencement exercises of our Seminary there, to the great pleasure of the large audience which greeted her. She has done much in behalf of Negro education in that section. We hope her complete recovery will be speedy and final.

—We are pained to learn that Dr. H. R. Revels, of the Mississippi Conference, has been lately passing through a severe spell of sickness, but we sincerely rejoice to know that he is now very much better. He was taken sick while away from home, but everywhere among the generous people of Mississippi, who passionately love him, is home for Dr. Revels. Let us pray the Lord to spare him to lead and counsel us many years yet.

—The Rev. "Dr." C. H. Collins, of Cynthiana, Ky., previously mentioned as one of the Kentucky "Gold Eagle" newspaper publishers, informs us that we were therein mistaken, as he has no direct or financial relation to that enterprise. We learn from him further that his connection with Israel Church, Washington, D. C., was not as pastor but as visitor by invitation of the pastor to preach a centennial sermon. We are glad to make these corrections in behalf of one whom we esteem a very worthy gentleman.

Schools and Colleges.

New Orleans University.

New Orleans University is supported by by the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Its doors are open to persons of both sexes and of all colors and religions. To all young men who have an interest in the welfare of their race we make an earnest appeal in behalf of education. Ignorance, vice and crime go together hand in hand; while intelligence, honor and virtue are intimately connected. Power for usefulness is measured largely by the extent of mental culture. Never before in the history of the world has education been more necessary to success than at the present day. Young man, do you hope to command positions of trust, to fill places of honor and usefulness? If so, you must prepare yourself for the conflict by education. Nothing else can make good this deficiency. Without intellectual culture your life work must, to a great extent, prove a failure. If you desire to be an honor to your race, a credit to yourself, and a useful member of society, do not neglect this important matter. See about it at once, and make preparations for attending some school of high standing. Remember that New Orleans University has been established especially for your benefit, that every possible effort will there be made for your rapid advancement, and that there you will recieve such training and culture as will greatly aid to make your life a triumphant success.

From every part of this fair, sunny land, there comes an earnest call for persons better qualified to preach and teach. Hence there ought to be multitudes of young men and women in our universities, preparing themselves to go forth fully qualified to discharge the duties demanded of them by their country and their God. None is so poor as to be unable to go to school, if he has the will. None is too old or too ignorant to recieve great benefit, if he comes with a true desire to learn. No parent who values the welfare of his child can allow him to grow up in ignorance, or to be educated where there is not a healthy influence in favor of religion and good morals.

Hausboro Colored Independent School.

We the patrons of the Handsboro Colored Independent School, closed Friday July 17th with an examination and a grand picnic given by the patrons of the school. We have a public school here also, but as we did not like the teacher that was given us we employed Brother T. H. Tipten, of Brookhaven, Miss., and paid him $40, per month and board, he has been teaching six months for us, and we like his teaching very much. He has given good satisfaction to all the patrons of the school. Bro. T. H. Tipten has been a faithful worker in the Sabbath School, he has built the Sabbath School up wonderfully. He labored faithfully for me and also the church, and he lived as a Christian in our midst, we feel sorry to give him up, hoping the good seed he has sown will grow, and God will not let him feel satisfied until he comes back and cultivates the good seed. We have paid to him since he has been here the sum of $240,00 in cash. As a mark of appreciation to Bro. T. H. Tipten, he was presented with near $30 worth of presents from the hands of his many friends. May the Lord bless Bro. Tipten where ever he may go.

Handsboro, Miss.

Church Polity.

MR. EDITOR—If a quarterly conference recommends a man for ordination, but does not give him a certificate, and he meets the next district conference with the same men, and they all say they recommend him, has the president a right to declare him not properly recommended?—Subscriber.

Answer—Yes.

It is proper always to distinguish between the law and the equity of a case.

Somethings unlawful may be equitable, but it is the duty of an administrator of law to apply the law as written.

It is thought to be not a judicious procedure to so lean toward the equities as to overlook, violate, or in any way maladministrate even the most minute legal technicalities of a case.

Oppressive laws are quite as obligatory as any other. The attempted enforcement of a law is a sure method of testing its quality. Hence to enforce them is the short route to the repeal of inadequate, unpopular, oppressive or obnoxious laws. But this shows the folly of violating or otherwise attempting to avoid the inconvenience of such laws, or of failing to enforce them while they are unrepealed.

Now, in reply to your question, we hold that the only thing the "president" can legally do under such circumstances as you have related is to decide that there is no legal evidence of the recommendation before him.

The meaning of your question then is this: What in our law constitutes legal evidence to the president of a district conference that an applicant from a quarterly conference under its jurisdiction has been properly recommended.

1. A certificate signed by the president and secretary in behalf of the conference making the recommendation. See Dis., 1884, p. 65, par. 101, sec. 2 and p. 119, par. 194, 195 and 196.

Here we find that the law of the Methodist Episcopal Church requires every candidate for ordination to its ministry to obtain a recommendation certifying that the members of the quarterly conference being acquainted with his gifts, grace and usefulness desire and request his ordination.

Now, the presumption is that any quarterly conference granting such a recommendation will issue the proper certificate, so that the president of a district conference acting upon this which is the only reasonable presumption must decide that the recommendation is not at all before him because he has no legal evidence of it, that is no certificate.

For him to decide differently would be for him to decide that a certificate was before him when it was not.

The testimony of the members of the quarterly conference, verbally given, that such recommendation was granted, is, in law, no evidence at all that what they state is true, and the fact that they are well known to the president and reputable for sound veracity, is of no account in the face of a statutory provision that the evidence of a recommendation for ordination is a written certificate, signed by the president and secretary of the quarterly conference granting it, even if the candidate for orders was himself president or secretary of the said recommending quarterly conference. See Baker on the Discipline Edition of 1884, p. 77, chap. III, sec. 4, par. C.

This rule prevents trouble further on, for the district conference must certify to the annual conference that legal evidence of proper action in the quarterly conference was before them. See Dis. 1884, p. 60, par. 94, sec. 4.

Otherwise the annual conference holding final jurisdiction would refuse to elect. Dis., p. 55, par. 80. Or the bishop being informed at the last moment that the forms of law in the case had not been complied with would suspend and cease from ordaining the objectionable person. Dis., pp. [illegible] and 274, pars. 408 and 409. So that, though such decision of the president of the district conference might have the ostensible appearance of a hardship, it would be in reality an act of friendship to correct the error and prevent the confusion which would increase with every step of its progress toward the time and place of ordination.

General Church News.

Missionary Catechism on South America,

What is the size of South America? It is a peninsula of triangular form. With a length of 4,550 miles, and a breadth of 3,200 miles.

What is the climate? About three-fourths is in the Torrid Zone.

Who are the natives? Indians, many of whom are in a half civilized state.

How may they be divided? Into four groups: The Appalachian, the Brazilian, the Patagonian, and the Fuegian.

When was South America first discovered by Europeans? In 1498, when Columbus sailed along the northern coast and landed at the mouth of the Oronoco. Cabral, a Portuguese, discovered the mouth of the Amazon in 1500. In 1508, Pinzon entered the La Plata river.

Who were the first European settlers? The Portugese, near the month of the Amazon.

What large Empire was on the West coast? That of Peru, which extended along the sea-coast for 2,500 miles and inland from 200 to 500 miles.

What was their government? The Inca was the civil and religious head, held sacred as a decendant of the sun. The people were mostly the slaves of the State. The land was allotted in three parts to (1) royal use, (2) government support, and (3) parcels to villagers for common use and cultivation.

What was their religion? A theocracy, the Inca being regarded as sacred. They worshiped the heavenly bodies, thunder and the rainbow.

What has become of this Pervian Empire? It was overthrown by Pizarro in 1531.

What European nations have founded settlements in South America? The Portuguese and Spaniards were the earliest, and at one time claimed control of the largest part of the continent. The French, Dutch, and British, have also made settlements.

Have any of the European nations any claim upon South America at this time? All the countries are independant of European control except Guiana, their independence having been secured during the early part of this year.

What are the political divisions of South America? The three colonial districts, British, French and Dutch Guiana; the empire of Brazil; and the nine republics, Argentine, Bolivia, Chili, Colombia, Ecuador, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

What is the religion of the people? The most of them are Roman Catholics, the Romish religion being recieved by them from the Spanish and Portuguese conquerors.

Are Protestant missions permitted? They are permitted in Brazil and in most of the republics, but are much opposed by the Romish priests.

What was the first Protestant work in South America? The first Protestant church in South America was formed by a colony of French Hugnenots on an island near Rio de Jeneiro in 1554 and survived until 1567, when the Portuguese dispersed the settlement.

What difficulties in the way of Protestant Mission? Opposition of the Roman Catholics.

What English Societies are at work in South America? The South American Missionary Society has 18 principal stations in Brazil, Argentine Repnblic, Uruguay, Chili, Terra del Fuego and the Frankland Islands; the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts has 4 stations, the London Missionary Society 2 stations, and the Wesleyan Missionary Society 6 stations in British Guiana. Dr. Kalley, of Scotland, directs an independent work in Brazil, and the British and Foreign Bible Society aids all societies and employs 2 agents and several colporteurs.

What Continental Society works in South America? The Moravians began work in British Guiana in 1777 and have now a large mission work with over 6,000 communicants.

What American Societies are at work in South America. The Presbyterian Church North in Brazil, Chili and Colombia; Methodist Episcopal, in the Argentine Repnblic, and Uruguay, with some evangelists in Bolivia and Paraguay; the Southern Presbyterians, Southern Baptists, and Southern Methodists, in Brazil, the American Bible Society has two agents and several colportenrs; there are also several missionaries in Brazil, Chili, and Colombia, sent out under the anspices of Wm. Taylor.

CONSTITUTION OF THE BATON ROUGE PREACHERS MEETING.

Preamble.

All things and all beings have a common origin, and a common purpose, and they are all connected and related by immutable laws. Every step in the progress of humanity grows out of, and is the effect of a preceeding step. This is preeminently so of the church organizations. The ministers of the Baton Rouge District are like the stones in a pavement—they lie near each other, but there is no unity between them. A division of a church should be run more like a tree than a pile of stones. There must be root and trunk, branches and leaves; solid fibre, and fluid juices; buds, blossoms and fruits.

Name.

Sec. 1—This body shall be called the "Baton Rouge Preachers Meeting" of the Baton Rouge District of the Louisiana Conference.

Membership,

Sec. 2—The "Baton Rouge Preachers Meeting" shall be compassed of ministers of the Baton Rouge District. Local preachers, supernanuates with such restrictions may be required by Preachers Meeting.

Meetings.

Sec. 3—The Baton Ronge Preachers Meeting shall meet monthly; on Tuesday after the first Sunday of each month.

Officers.

Sec. 4—The officers of the Baton Ronge Preachers Meeting, shall consist of a President vice President, two Secretaries, a Treasurer, and an executive committee.

Officers' Duties.

Sec. 5—The President shall preside at all Meetings and perform such other duties as are implied by the name of his office. The Vice President shall preside in the absence of the President, or when requested by him.

The Secretaries,

Sec. 6—The Secretaries shall keep and preserve a record of the doings of the Baton Ronge Preachers District Meetings in a book suitable for that purpose, including all motions whether in the affirmative or negative.

Treasurer.

Sec. 7—The Treasurer shall recieve all dues, contributions and donations to funds of the Baton Rouge Preachers Meeting, and hold the same subject to the control of the executive committee.

HUNT'S Kidney and Liver) REMEDY has saved from lingering disease and death hundreds who have been given up by physicians to die.

"Time and tide wait for no man. Hunt's Kidney and Liver Remedy cures all diseases of the kidneys bladder, urinary organs dropsy, gravel, diabetes and locomotive ance and retention of urine.

Strike the iron while its hot.

Hunt's [Kidney and Liver] Remedy

quickly induces the Liver to healthy action, removing the causes that produce Billious Headache, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Piles, &c.

"Honesty is a strong staff to lean upon."

HONEST TESTIMONY.
Over 70 Years Old.

Col Benjamin S. Hazard, of Warwick, R. I., over 70 years old, suffered for 15 years with a terrible kidney and bladder difficulty. He was persuaded to try HUNT'S [Kidney and Liver] REMEDY. In less than a week the excruciating pains left him and have never since returned. Mr. Hazard recommends HUNT'S [Kidney and Liver] REMEDY to every one similarly afflicted, with the greatest confidence in its power to cure.

"Use Wealth generously."

School Teacher.

Mr. H. L. Sober, principal of the High School at Poquonock, Ct., says:—"My kidneys became weak and sluggish. Finding relief in HUNT'S [Kidney and Liver] REMEDY, I continued its use until I had used four bottles, when I became well.

"Economy is the household mine."

Decided Benefit.

Mr. Hiram Franklin, of Nangatuck, Conn., contracted a disease of kidneys. Not finding any help as the last resort he began taking HUNT'S [Kidney and Liver] REMEDY. The first bottle giving decided benefit, he continued its use until he had used three bottles, when all trouble disappeared.

HEAVEN IS NEARER.

Oh, heaven is nearer than mortals think
When they look with trembling dread
At the misty future that stretches on
From the silent homes of the dead.
'Tis no lone isle in the brilliant main,
No distant but brilliant shore,
Where the loved ones, when called away,
Must go to return no more.

No; heaven is near us, the mighty veil
Of immortality blinds the eye,
That we see not the hovering angel band
On the shores of eternity.
Yet oft, in the hour of holy thought,
To the thirsty soul is given
The power to pierce through the veil of sense
To the beauteous scenes of heaven.

Then very near seem its pearly gates,
And sweetly its harpings fall,
The soul is restless to soar away,
And longs for the angel's call
I know, when the silver cord is loosed
And the veil is rent away,
Not long nor dark will the passing be
To the realms of endless day.

The eye that shuts in a dying hour
Will open in endless bliss;
The welcome will sound in an heavenly world
Ere the farewell is hushed in this.
We pass from the clasp of mourning friends
To the arms of the loved and lost,
And the smiling faces will greet us there
Which on earth we valued most.

Domestic Hygiene.

Evils of Roller Skating.

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

It is strange that nearly every amusement for the young and middle aged is liable to become an unmitigated evil. When base ball was first introduced many supposed it to be the dawning of a great international amusement, free from all danger to body and soul. It was not long until it was clearly demonstrated that it laid the foundation of diseases, many times baffling the skill of the best physicians, besides leading to great moral evil. So with roller skating. It was hoped that it might be a healthy amusement, profitable to both the moral and spiritual. But it is demonstrated that it is greatly injurious to both. Dr. Julia T. Mills writes in the Medical Record that "her experience forces her to the conclusion that no good, moral, mental or physical, comes from roller skating." It lays the foundation for organic diseases, and then aggravates them. Especially is this true of girls and young women. Of its moral evil we need not speak. Its needs but once to be seen to be understood.

The following excellent paper is from the pen of Dr. Wm. H. Curtis, and kindly furnished for this department:

MENTAL HYGIENE.

The condition of the body depends greatly upon the condition of the mind, and the condition of the mind upon that of the body.

The influence of the mind over the body is wonderful, and a person to a greater or less extent can govern the limitation of disease. There are some diseaes which cannot be kept from the system, but by an exercise of the will or a play of the imagination can be influenced for better or for worse. The following example will illustrate this fact. A physician was called upon one night to go to see a lady who was suffering with an attack of facial neuralgia. Being indisposed himself and not caring to lose his patient, he sent by the messenger two pieces of metal, one of copper, the other of zinc, with the instruction to apply one over seat of pain and the other over the opposite side of the body and to allow them to remain until she experienced a burning sensation. There was no efficacy in either one or both, but they had the desired effect for when he called next morning his patient had recovered and was praising his new remedy for neuralgia.

If many of the cases of melancholia, which is but bordering on insanity, could be taken at the beginning and be sufficiently aroused to have instilled into them an idea of what life is, and why and for what it is worth living, they could by a mental, together with a physical effort, be saved from a life of perpetual darkness.

Of all the qualities of mind which conduce to health and long life, none are more essential than calmness and serenity of temper, and their concomitants of cheerfulness and hope. Usually, too, they are combined with a quick and active temperament, and with rapid bodily movement and a love of exercise.

Don't worry, for it is known that worry kills more men than the toughest work.

Avoid excitement. "To live long," says Cicero, it "is necessary to live slowly."

It is a mistaken idea that mental labor is injurious, but taken by itself, apart from grief, fear, a stinted supply of food, exercise, etc, it is rather beneficial than injurious. "Overwork of the brain is probably less injurious than underwork." But here, as elsewhere, the principle laid down in our first sentence is true.

The regulation of the passions is another factor which leads to hygiene of the body. The control of morals have baffled the priest and statesman, but the government of the mind, where the passions are born, lies with each individual. It is known that each time anger is permitted to become uncontrolable there is the destruction of a brain cell. While the loss of one cell is apparently insignificant, oft repeated destruction necessarily have a deteriorating effect.

Nothing will keep a clean body like a clean mind. A pure mind begets virtue and virtue health.

Even fear and timidity can be carried too far, and can be brought under subjection by cultivation.

Undue sympathy and warm affection are prejudicial; they subject the owner to constant anxiety, and are as wearing as the excitment of politics or gambling. It may appear hard hearted and cruel to counsel against sympathy, but there ought to be moderation even in this.

Among the various ills that flesh is heir to, one of the direst is melancholy, or in plain English "the Blues." It is a disease, and a very prevalent one, which appears simple on account of its prevalence, and is deserving of more attention than it receives. Its growth is gradual and insidious, gaining strength by indulgence. The blood of a melancholy man is thick and slow in movement, creeping sluggishly through his brain, producing this oppression of mind.

What must we do for this condition? Something better than patience is necessary. The best course is to try and strengthen yourself by vigorous muscular exercise, because of our first principle that the condition of the mind depends on that of the body. Ruskin declares that "cheerfulness is just as natural to the heart of a man in strong health as color to his cheeks;" and it is often the case, so often, in fact, as to almost establish the rule that "wherever there is habitual gloom there is either bad air, unwholesome food, improperly severe labor or erring habits of life." Sterne, the author of "Tristam Shandy," in speaking of his own nature, says that it was by mirth that he fenced against his physical infirmities, persuaded that every time a man laughed he added something to his fragment of life.

The great panacea, the matchless sanative which is the infallible cure for this disorder is exercise, exercise, exercise. Labor keeps the spirits bright. Above all keep up a stout heart, a clear conscience and a healthy, clean mind, and ten to one the body will not suffer the ailments it was want to suffer.

'Work, Work, Work!

How many women there are working to-day in various branches of industry—to say nothing of the thousands of patient housewives whose lives are an unceasing round of toil—who are martyrs to those complaints to which the weaker sex is liable. Their tasks are rendered irksome and their lives shortened, yet hard necessity compels them to keep on. To such Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" offers a sure means of relief. For all female weakness it is a certain cure All druggists

The People's Church.

THE REV. J. W HAMILTON SPEAKS OF HIS REMOVAL FROM THE PASTORATE.

The removal of the Rev. J. W. Hamilton from the pastorate of the People'e Church a few days ago by the New England conference has given rise to considerable remark and feeling in the matter. Nine years ago Mr. Hamilton took charge of this parish, when it occupied the edifice on Church street and was a mission parish church. By the most faithful work and untiring zeal on his part, the present society has been established. The People's Church is at the corner of Columbus avenue and Berkley street and is the largest church edifice in New England, accomodating between 3000 and 4000 people The rule of the Methodist church is that its ministers shall be given new parishes every three years. The only exception ever made was in Hamilton's case. As he was building up the mission, he has been allowed to remain nine years; and now, just as his work is accomplished, he is removed—by order of a bishop who will not come here again for 10 years. Since Mr. Hamilton's removal two hastily summoned meetings of his parishioners have been held, at both of which he has been present and done his best to keep his congregation united. At the meeting Wednesday night a set of resolutions were passed expressing the grief and regret of the congregation at their loss.

Up to the present Mr. Hamilton has not felt that he could say a word on the subject, but yesterday said that he felt the time had come to make public his feelings in the matter, so as to avoid any misunderstanding of his supposed position. He said: "For obvious reasons, until now I have declined all invitations to answer questions publicy concerning my removal from the pastorate of the Peoples Church, but such is the universal comment, as you say, and on account of my relations to many personal friends in the city and outside of my parish, that I have no hesitency in saying a few things in the interest of the People's Church and my successor. I desire very much to have it known that this is in no sense a personal matter. There is no undue assurance in my saying that not a single official member of the church would have ventured to suggest my removal, and from every intimation given me, I am led to believe that had the New England conference voted upon the question, nine out of 10 of the ministers would have voted against a change of pastoral relation at this session of the conference. And it is not unfair to say that an equal proportion of the ministers in the six New England conferences would have given the same expression. From the understanding that I have of the words that have reached me from laymen and citizens of Boston, I am quite confident that a desire for change did not originate among them. No more candid and careful consideration could have been given to the subject than was by the presiding bishop. I sincerely believe him to have been actuated by an unbiassed judgment. From his standpoint it is simply a question of the rigidity of the law. Throughout the South and West, where this case has not been understood, a pressure has been made upon the authorities of the church either to increase the exceptions to the rule or obliterate this one. While no change was made, at the last General Conference held in Philadelphia in May, which would effect the People's Church. such has been the approach of the society to a position of self support that a number of the bishops have believed that it would stand the risk of a change for the sake of the law in the case. Again, it ought to be known that I have no responsibility in the matter whatever. No official intimation was given me that the change would be made until the announcement of the appointment was made by the bishop in open conference. But with the certainty of the change this was of course the manly, episcopal way of making the appointment. I entered into no negotiations with any churches in New England or out to secure a parish elsewhere. It was therefore similarly unknown to me that I was to go to Somerville parish. That this was the proper way under the circumstances to arrange my appointment is equally obvious.

It may be asked why did I not by some preliminary action in the building of this church or deed of it, provide for such an emergency. but I readily answer that I have not been aiming to create a personal following or building a church for my own ease or permanent occupancy. I am not in favor of independent churches. I have believed it were better to provide permanent supply for the pulpit in case I should sicken and die than to be looking out for myself. My letters will satisfy all my interested friends that I am not at work for this world or myself. The itinerancy of the Methodist Church has undoubtedly been a great secret of its success, but there will unquestionably, sooner or later, have to be further exceptions to the rigid rule in the interest of great local enterprises. I never acquiesced more heartily in any decision than I now do, under the circumstances, to my removal, and a great benefit must result at once from this great master stroke of the bishop. There is a sense in which the present enterprise has been principally a personal one. I have been left to carry it alone so far as any organized assistance has been offered At one time, indeed, the conference refused to vote to allow any collections to be taken in the churches in aid of the enterprise, and I have, therefore, never solicited such help. Had I, during any of the nine years failed, or the society failed, the simple eclesiastical remark would have been, "I told you so." Whatever sacrifice the work entailed, it was never possible for me voluntarily to leave it, but now, of course this act of the church relieves me of a load and responsibility which no one can possibly appreciate. The church at large is now at once made responsible for the indebtedness remaining upon the property. Boston laymen and Boston churches are now pledged to see that the work shall never fail, and I have been let loose so suddenly that I feel like a bird that has gone to sea in the air. At no time could I have left the church so well as now. The house is built, the congregation secured and 600 church members enrolled. Everything about the society is growing. A royal company of church officials have its success well in hand. As to my appointment, I simply am going back to an old home, as I began the building of the new church at Somerville 12 or 13 years ago to which I am now appointed. It would not be strange that I should be solicitons for the future welfare of the People's Church; and I beg for my successor, in whom I have the fullest confidence, a cordial reception on the part of the Boston people. He is in the fullest sympathy with the purposes of the People's Church. He is a young man of good promise, already good success and wonderful enthusiasm. It would not be fair, and most unkind, not to give him every sympathy and encouragement. He says himself that he would not have been more stunned had he been struck by lightning and lived than he was when his aapointment was announced.

I know just how much I have grown into this enterprise personally, but no great work, even in this world, must depend on any single man. I think I can appreciate, as no one else can, the consternation awakened among the people, but I know the people with whom I have been at work, and I am at liberty to say that the new pastor will recieve a most cordial greeting under the circumstances.

Many a man who had lost nerve, vigor and energy has been cured by Hunt's Remedy.

He went by the name of Hesekier Middleton. We all belonged to Mr. Ben Glover, and went by the name of Glover at the close of the war. I went by the of Edward Glover. I should be thankful to any one who will inform me of the whereabouts of any of these people to Medie Jeffreys or M. E. Johnson at Melvin, Choctaw county, Ala.

At Raymond, Miss., W. R Farr white, convicted of marrying Sarah Williams, colored, was sentenced to the penitentiary for nine years. The woman was also convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for three years.

A Remarkable Case.

Mrs. Henry Ellis, 500 Scott street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & CO., COLUMBUS, O.: I am induced by a sense of duty to the suffering to make a brief statement of your remarkable cure of myself. I was a most miserable sufferer from the various annoying and distressing diseases of delicate persons, which caused me to be confined to my bed for a long time, being too weak to even bear my weight upon my feet. I was treated by the most reputable physicians in our city, each and all saying they could do nothing for me. I had given up all hopes of ever being well. In this condition I began to take your MANALIN and PERUNA, and I am most happy to say in three months I was perfectly well—entirely cured, without any appliances or support of any kind."

Mr. G. A. Proehl, New Portage, Summit County, Ohio, writes: "My wife has been sick for about five years. In the first place the doctor called it leucorrhœa, and treated it about one year, and she grew worse, and turned to ulceration of the womb, and was treated for that two years, but she grew worse and the doctor gave her up. Then I employed Dr. Underwood, one of the best doctors of Akron, but under his treatment she grew worse. She was paralyzed; she had lost all of the sense of feeling and her eyesight. She could not walk for nearly two years. About six months ago Underwood gave her up. She tried your PERUNA. She has taken three bottles, and it did more good than any other medicine. The paralysis has about left her; her eyesight is getting better. We will continue the use of PERUNA until she is well."

Mr. Isaac Nicodemus, Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pa., writes: "I am induced, by a sense of duty to the suffering, to make a brief statement of your remarkable help, as a sufferer of catarrh in my head and throat. I doctored with one of the best physicians in our place for that dreaded disease, catarrh, and found no relief. But in 1883 I lost my speech, and was not able to do any kind of work for near three months. I could neither eat nor sleep. PERUNA and MANALIN did wonders for me. I used three bottles of PERUNA and one of MANALIN, and now I am in better health than I have been for ten years, and I can heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering from that dread disease, catarrh."

Mr. I. W. Wood, Mt. Sterling, Ohio, says: "Your medicine gives good satisfaction. My customers speak highly of its curative properties."

PE-RU-NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. Sedgwick Steel Wire Fence.

Is the best general purpose wire fence in use. It is a strong net-work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry, as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire, as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial; it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and easiest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the neatest cheap iron fences now made. The Ross folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The best Wire Stretcher, Cutting Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

How did Jezebel feel when she heard what had been done? She was so angry that she swore by all her gods to kill Elijah.

Was Elijah bold when he heard of it? No, he was so afraid that he ran away to Beer-sheba.

Leaving his servant at Beer sheba, where did he go? A day's journey into the desert, and sat down under a little tree.

He was so sad, what did he ask God? To let him die.

As he lay and slept who touched him? An angel, who said, "Arise, and eat!"

What could Elijah find to eat in a desert? He looked and there was a cake baken on the coals and some water.

After he had eaten and drank what did he do? Laid down again under the tree, and again the angel touched him.

What did he say this time? "Arise and eat, for you have a a long journey to take.

In the strength of this food how long did he walk? Forty days until he came to Mount Horeb, and hid himself in a cave.

The neqt morning what did the voice of the Lord say to him? "What doest thou here, Elijah?"

After Elijah had told the Lord all his trouble, what did he tell him to do? "Go and stand upon the top of the mountain."

As Elijah stood there what did God send? A great strong wind that tore the mountains and broke the rocks.

After the wind, what? An earthquake, which shook the ground.

What after the earthquake? A fire.

Did Elijah hear God's voice in the whirlwind, the earthquake or the fire. Not in either. [Repeat GOLDEN TEXT.]

As Elijah hid his face in his robe and listened, what did he hear? "What doest thou hear Elijah."

What did God tell him to do. Go back to Damascus, anoint two kings, and Elisha to be a prophet.

How many did God say there were in Israel who loved and worshiped him. More than seven thousand.

Doctrinal Suggestion—Personal communion with God.

'Nip't in the Bud!"

Sad to say, many good thing attains to nothing more than a fair begining. On the other hand it is a matter for congratulation that the growth of some evil things may be also promply frustrated. A large proportion of the cases of the most wide spread and fatal of diseases—consumption have their inception in nasal catarrh. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is pleasant, soothing and effectual. Try it. It has cured thousands. All druggists.

Looks So Untidy.

Nothing looks more untidy than the presence of scurf and dandruff in the hair and on the clothing. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam will heal the scalp and free it from this nuisance. Stops falling of the hair, promotes new growth and makes it soft, glossy and silky. Best of dressing. Deliciously perfumed.

Obituary.

Bro. Austin Busby, one of the promising young members of St. James Chapel, Bremond, Texas, departed this life March 10, 1885, in full triumph of faith in Christ. Bro. Busby joined the church in Sept., 1884, and lived a faithful member. St. James has lost one of her brightest jewels. His last words were "meet me in heaven." Bro. Austin Busby was President of the Sunday-school Missionary society, and he was a faithful worker in the grand cause for missions. He leaves a father, mother, brother, sister and a host of friends to mourn his loss. Blessed are they that die in the Lord for their works follow them.

How to be Beautiful.

Ladies, you can be sure of this: that you cannot have rosy cheeks and a clear complexion unless you are in good health. Disease always spoils beauty. Parker's Tonic purifies the blood, invigorates the organs, drives all bad humors out of the system, and makes the palest face attractive. Tell your husbands.

By order of the Board of Bishops.

WM. L. HARRIS, Secretary.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18, 1885.

Notice.

The Navasota District, Texas Conference, Camp Meeting will be held on the Franklin Circuit Aug. 13-27, 1885. The camp is in the right place, just on the line of the two conferences. Persons attending camp meeting should come to Calvert and take wagons to camp ground. Persons seeking health-giving waters will find them at this place; the water is the same as that of the Wanlden's wells, and they are only 18 miles from the camp ground. Rev. A. Foster, of Calvert, has consented to be with us, also a number of preachers from the West Texas Conference. All denominations are invited, and the following pastors from the Navasota district: Rev. R J Campbell, Belleville circuit; Rev. Lymus Felder, Bryan circuit; Rev. F D Bookman, Iola circuit; Rev. Louis Horne, Prairie Plains circuit; Rev. W W Brown, Plantersville circuit; Rev. W H Jackson, Brenham circuit; Rev. Frank Gilmore, Patterson circuit; Rev. John A Tillory, Courtney circuit; Rev. Abner Thomas, Caldwell circuit, Rev. Mark Muldrew, Brazos circuit; Rev. Silas Bolden, San Fillipe circuit. All pastors of the West Texas Conference will be recognized as our own brothers, and will be provided for as other pastors. Rev. J S Whittaker and Rev. Aaron Alexander are requested to attend.

Shreveport District—Louisiana Conference.

I have succeeded in getting reduced rates on the Texas and Pacific Railroad, through the kindness of B. W. McCullough, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, who informs me that his road will sell tickets at all stations between Shreveport and Alexandria inclusive to Mansfield and return for session of the District Conference at rate of five cents per mile. Tickets will be on sale on Aug. 11th and 12th, good for return until the 17th. It will be well to cut this out and have it with you. When purchasing tickets state for what purpose. Remember the date to purchase your tickets, This I have done for those of our friends and members of the conference who wish to attend. Be prompt, dear friends and brethren. H. J. WRIGHT.

Natchitoches, La., Aug. 3, 1885.

Central Alabama Conference.

To the pastors and superintendents of the Marion District:

Dear Brethren—There will be held in the town of Marion, on Sept. 3-9, a Sunday-school Institute of the M. E. Church for the district. Each pastor is required to be present and have one delegate at least from each Sunday-school. Come, brethren, such a meeting is very much needed, therefore do not be negligent to the call. The services of Rev. A. H. Gillett, D. D., promises already grand success. Although this institute is in the Marion District yet every one interested in the cause of Sabbath-schools is invited to attend. Ample preparations will be made for all. The following programme will be carried out with some modifications:

At 9 a m, devotional exercises for 15 minutes, conducted by Prof M J Moore, of Marion.
At 9:20 a m, election of officers and reports of delegates.
At 10 a m. The Sunday-school as an institution, and its international union—Prof. W B Patterson, President of the Lincoln Normal University, Marion, Ala.
At 11 a m, the greatest needs of the Sunday schools on the district—S W Jackson, of Eutaw, Ala
Afternoon Session—2:30 p m, devotional exercises for 30 minutes
At 1 p m, the relation of the Sunday-school to the church—Rev. N H Speight of Clinton, Ala.
At 4 p m, when should a child begin to attend the Sabbath-school—Rev, J T Ellis, of Eutaw.
At 4:30 p m, Question drawer.
Night Exercises—8 p m, praise services, conducted by Prof. M J Moore.
At 8:30 p m, the best Sunday-school music—Hon. Chas W Lovelace.
Friday—9 a m, devotional exercises for 30 minutes, conducted by A C Nimrod.
9:30 a m, the duty of parents to the Sunday-school—Rev. A J Curtis, of Marion.
At 10 a m, the relation of the pastor to the Sunday-school—Rev. W. H Nelson.
At 10:30 a m, preparing the lessons to teach them—Prof. M J Moore, of Marion.
At 11 a m, the best methods for training the children to give—Rev A C Nimrod, of Mt Hebron, Ala.
At 11:30 a m, question drawer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 2:30 p m, devotional services conducted by the M E Church choir.
At 3 p m, the necessary qualifications of the Sunday-school teacher—Prof H A Kindal, of Marion, Ala.
At 4 p m, the aims and design of the Sunday-school—Rev Wm Leewood.
At 4:30 p m, question drawer.
At 8 p m, praise service and music by the choir.
At 8:30, lecture, Literature in the Sunday-school.

SATURDAY.

At 9 a m devotional exercises for thirty minutes, conducted by Rev E M Jones.
At 9:30 a m, the interest that the old should manifest in the Sunday school—Rev B D Lonis.
At 10 a m, singing in the Sunday-school; should there be choirs?—Rev E M Jones, Brush Creek.
At 11 a m, the best methods for studying the lessons—Mr J W Philen, of Lower Peachtree.
At 11:30 a m, question drawer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

SOMETHING NEW!

Dr. Scott's Electric Hair Curler & Tooth Brush,

Both sent to any part of the World on receipt of $1.00.

And if not perfectly satisfactory in every case, the money will be promptly returned.

Ladies & Gentlemen who wish to quickly bang, crimp or curl the hair, beard or moustache by a new method, or to possess sound, white teeth and rosy gums, are invited to read the brief but interesting description of these new inventions. Dr. Scott's Electric Appliances are now sold and well known in every part of the world, and are guaranteed by

THE PALL MALL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION OF LONDON, ENGLAND.

50 CENTS EACH, POSTPAID.

50 CENTS EACH, POSTPAID.

GREAT ANNOYANCE

has been caused to all people using tooth-brushes, by the bristles coming out in the mouth. The Pall Mall Electric Association of London now take pleasure in introducing to the American public a Tooth Brush which they guarantee free from this trouble some defect, common to all other Tooth Brushes. The bristles are inserted in the handle by a patent process, which renders it simply impossible for them to come out in use. In addition to this, the handle of the Brush is made of a newly invented material permanently charged with an electro-magnetic current, which acts without any shock immediately upon the nerves and tissues of the mouth & gums. The act of brushing causes this current to flow into the nerve-cells and roots of the teeth, and like water poured upon a plant, it invigorates and vitalizes every part, arresting decay, building up and restoring the natural whiteness of the enamel, and quickly producing a healthful rosy color in the gums.

LONDON, ENGLAND.

DR. SCOTT, New York. Your "Crimpar and Curler" works charmingly. Its effect causes universal admiration. They are most simple to use. I consider them worth a guinea apiece to those who devote much attention to the ever-changing arrangement of the hair. L. LANGTRY.

CARLTON CLUB, LONDON, W.

Dr. Scott's "Electric Curler" curls the Moustache and Beard most perfectly. My wifesees them in crimping her Hair, with pleasing results. COL. D. W. G.

The Royal Dental Society of London testify in the strongest terms as to the quick benefits following the use of Dr. Scott's Electric Tooth Brush, and many experts in dentistry declare it to be the greatest invention in dental appliances since the manufacture of artificial teeth.

The handles are strong, beautifully polished, not affected by acids, impervious to moisture, and forever free from that unpleasant, musty odor exuding from wet bone handles. These articles are sold by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers; but if you cannot get them conveniently, remit us the price by Draft, Check, Money, Post Office Order, or Stamps, at our risk, and they will be promptly sent to any address postpaid.

AGENTS! (Either Sex) Wanted for Dr. Scott's Beautiful Electric Corsets, Belts, Electric Hair Flesh and Teeth Brushes and Insoles. No Risk. Quick Sales. Satisfaction guaranteed

Mention this Paper. For terms address C. A. SCOTT, 842 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

THE LONDON ASSOCIATION

now offer to the American public their new Electric Hair, Beard and Moustache Curler. It is a handsome article, nickel-plated, with an ebonized handle, and it should occupy a place in the toilet of every lady and gentleman in America. By its aid the hair, beard or moustache can be curled in any desired style in from one to two minutes. For ladies it produces the "Langtry Style," the "Patti Bang," the "Montague Curl," and any other form desired by ladies wearing their hair in the fashionable "loose and fluffy" mode. Those who wear crimps or other forms of false hair will find this Electric Curler a very useful article. It does not break off and ruin the hair like the ordinary crimping process, and in wet or hot weather it works as quickly as in cold. For curling the Monstache or Beard in a moment it has no equal, while it is so simple in its operation that any one can use it properly the first time. Directions accompany each one.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; It produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

How did Jezebel feel when she heard what had been done? She was so angry that she swore by all her gods to kill Elijah.

Was Elijah bold when he heard of it? No, he was so afraid that he ran away to Beer-sheba.

Leaving his servant at Beer-sheba, where did he go? A day's journey into the desert, and sat down under a little tree.

He was so sad, what did he ask God? To let him die.

As he lay and slept who touched him? An angel, who said, "Arise, and eat!"

What could Elijah find to eat in a desert? He looked and there was a cake baken on the coals and some water.

After he had eaten and drank what did he do? Laid down again under the tree, and again the angel touched him.

What did he say this time? "Arise and eat, for you have a long journey to take.

In the strength of this food how long did he walk? Forty days until he came to Mount Horeb, and hid himself in a cave.

The next morning what did the voice of the Lord say to him? "What doest thou here, Elijah?"

After Elijah had told the Lord all his trouble, what did he tell him to do? "Go and stand upon the top of the mountain."

As Elijah stood there what did God send? A great strong wind that tore the mountains and broke the rocks.

After the wind, what? An earthquake, which shook the ground.

What after the earthquake? A fire.

Did Elijah hear God's voice in the wind, in the earthquake or the fire. Not in either. [Repeat GOLDEN TEXT.]

As Elijah hid his face in his robe and listened, what did he hear? [Repeat Golden Text.] What did God say to Elijah?

What did God say to him to do.

God say there were [illegible] who loved and worshiped him. More than seven [illegible]

Spiritual Regeneration—Persons [illegible] with God.

"Nip 'in the Bud!"

[illegible] good thing [illegible] than [illegible] hand [illegible] on [illegible] Try it. It has cured [illegible] all druggists.

Looks So Untidy.

Nothing looks more untidy than the presence of scurf and dandruff in the hair and on the clothing. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam will heal the scalp and free it from this nuisance. Stops falling of the hair, promotes new growth and makes it soft, glossy and silky. Best of dressing. Deliciously perfumed.

Obituary.

Bro. Austin Busby, one of the promising young members of St. James Chapel, Bremond, Texas, departed this life March 10, 1885, in full trinmph of faith in Christ. Bro. Busby joined the church in Sept., 1884, and lived a faithful member. St. James has lost one of her brightest jewels. His last words were "meet me in heaven." Bro. Austin Busby was President of the Sunday-school Missionary society, and he was a faithful worker in the grand cause for missions. He leaves a father, mother, brother, sister and a host of friends to monrn his loss. Blessed are they that die in the Lord for their works follow them.

How to be Beautiful.

Ladies, you can be sure of this: that you cannot have rosy cheeks and a clear complexion unless you are in good health. Disease always spoils beauty. Parker's Tonic purifies the blood; invigorates the organs, drives all bad humors out of the system, and makes the palest face attractive. Tell your husbands.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18, 1885.

Notice.

The Navasota District, Texas Conference, Camp Meeting will be held on the Franklin Circuit Aug. 13-27, 1885. The camp is in the right place, just on the line of the two conferences. Persons attending camp meeting should come to Calvert and take wagons to camp ground. Persons seeking health-giving waters will find them at this place; the water is the finest in that of the Waulden's wells, and they are only 18 miles from the camp ground. Rev. A. Foster, of Calvert, has promised to be with us, also a number of preachers from the West Texas Conference. All denominations are invited, and the following pastors from the Navasota District: Rev. R. J. Campbell, Bellville circuit; Rev. Hyman Hadick, Bryan circuit; Rev. F. D. Bostwick, Iola circuit; Rev. Louis Horne, Prairie Plain circuit; Rev. W. W. Brown, Plantersville circuit; Rev. R. Jackson, Brenham circuit; Rev. Frank Gilmore, Pattersons circuit; Rev. John A. Tillory, Courtney circuit; Rev. Abner Thomas, Caldwell circuit, Rev. Mark Maldrew, Brazos circuit; Rev. Silas Reddon, San Filipe circuit. All pastors of the West Texas Conference will be recognized as our own brothers, and will be provided for as other pastors. Rev. J. S. Whittaker and Rev. Aaron Alexander are requested to attend.

Shreveport District—Louisiona Conference.

I have succeeded in getting reduced rates on the Texas and Pacific Railroad, through the kindness of B. W. McCullough, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, who informs me that his road will sell tickets at all stations between Shreveport and Alexandria inclusive to Mansfield and return for session of the District Conference at rate of five cents per mile. Tickets will be on sale on Aug. 11th and 12th, good for return until the 17th. It will be well to out this out and have it with you. When purchasing tickets state for what purpose. Remember the date to purchase your tickets. This I have done for those of our friends and members of the conference who wish to attend. Be prompt, dear friends and brethren.

Central Alabama Conference.

To the pastors and superintendents of the Marion District:

Dear Brethren—There will be held in the town of Marion, on Sept. 3-9, a Sunday-school Institute of the M. E. Church for the district. Each pastor is required to be present and have one delegate at least from each Sunday-school. Come, brethren, such a meeting is very much needed, therefore do not be negligent to the call. The services of Rev. A. H. Gillett, D. D., promises already grand success. Although this institute is in the Marion District yet every one interested in the cause of Sabbath-schools is invited to attend. Ample preparations will be made for all. The following programme will be carried out with some modifications:

At 9 a m, devotional exercises for 15 minutes, conducted by Prof. M J Moore, of Marion.
At 9:20 a m, election of officers and reports of delegates.
At 10 a m. The Sunday-school as an institution, and its international union—Prof. W B Patterson, President of the Lincoln Normal University, Marion, Ala.
At 11 a m, the greatest needs of the Sunday schools on the district—S W Jackson, of Eutaw, Ala.
Afternoon Session—2:30 p m, devotional exercises for 30 minutes.
At 1 p m, the relation of the Sunday-school to the church—Rev. N H Speight of Clinton, Ala.
At 4 p m, when should a child begin to attend the Sabbath-school—Rev. J T Ellis, of Eutaw.
At 4:30 p m, Question drawer.
Night Exercises—8 p m, praise services, conducted by Prof. M J Moore.
At 8:30 p m, the best Sunday-school music—Hon. Chas W Lovelace.
Friday—9 a m, devotional exercises for 30 minutes, conducted by A C Nimrod.
9:30 a m, the duty of parents to the Sunday-school—Rev. A J Curtis, of Marion.
At 10 a m, the relation of the pastor to the Sunday-school—Rev W. H Nelson.
At 10:30 a m, preparing the lessons to teach them—Prof. M J Moore, of Marion.
At 11 a m, the best methods for training the children to give—Rev A C Nimrod, of Mt Hebron, Ala.
At 11:30 a m, question drawer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 2:30 p m, devotional services conducted by the M E Church choir.
At 3 p m, the necessary qualifications of the Sunday-school teacher—Prof H A Kindal, of Marion, Ala.
At 4 p m, the aims and design of the Sunday-school—Rev Wm Leewood.
At 4:30 p m, question drawer.
At 8 p m, praise service and music by the choir.
At 8:30, lecture, Literature in the Sunday-school.

SATURDAY.

At 9 a m devotional exercises for thirty minutes, conducted by Rev E M Jones.
At 9:30 a m, the interest that the old should manifest in the Sunday school—Rev B D Lonis.
At 10 a m, singing in the Sunday-school; should there be choirs?—Rev E M Jones, Brush Creek.
At 11 a m, the best methods for studying the lessons—Mr J W Philen, of Lower Peachtree.
At 11:30 a m, question drawer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 2:30, Song service by the choir.

SOMETHING NEW!

Dr. Scott's Electric Hair Curler & Tooth Brush,

Both sent to any part of the World on receipt of $1.00.

And if not perfectly satisfactory in every case, the money will be promptly returned.

Ladies & Gentlemen who wish to quickly bang, crimp or curl the hair, beard or moustache by a new method, or to possess sound, white teeth and rosy gums, are invited to read the brief but interesting description of these new inventions.

Dr. Scott's Electric Appliances are now sold and well known in every part of the world, and are guaranteed by

THE PALL MALL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION OF LONDON, ENGLAND.

50 CENTS EACH, POSTPAID.

50 CENTS EACH, POSTPAID.

GREAT ANNONYACE

has been caused to all people using tooth-brushes, by the bristles coming out in the mouth. The Pall Mall Electric Association of London now take pleasure in introducing to the American public a Tooth Brush which they guarantee free from this trouble some defect, common to all other Tooth Brushes. The bristles are inserted in the handle by a patent process, which renders it simply impossible for them to come out in use. In addition to this, the handle of the Brush is made of a newly invented material permanently charged with an electro-magnetic current, which acts without any shock immediately upon the nerves and tissues of the mouth & gums. The act of brushing causes this current to flow into the nerve-cells and roots of the teeth, and like water poured upon a plant, it invigorates and vitalizes every part, arresting decay, building up and restoring the natural whiteness of the enamel, and quickly producing a healthful rosy color to the gums.

THE LONDON ASSOCIATION

now offer to the American public their new Electric Hair, Beard and Moustache Curler. It is a handsome article, nickel-plated, with an ebonized handle, and it should occupy a place in the toilet of every lady and gentleman in America. By its aid the hair, beard or monstache can be curled in any desired style in from one to two minutes. For ladies it produces the "Langtry Style," the "Patti Bang," the "Montague Curl," and any other form desired by ladies wearing their hair in the fashionable "loose and fluffy" mode. Those who wear crimps or other forms of false hair will find this Electric Curler a very useful article. It does not break off and ruin the hair like the ordinary crimping process, and in wet or hot weather it works as quickly as in cold. For curling the Monstache or Beard in a moment it has no equal, while it is so simple in its operation that any one can use it properly the first time. Directions accompany each one.

Post Office Order, or Stamps, at our risk, and they will be promptly sent to any address postpaid.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Where'er the form of godliness was known,
The form without the power is cold as death,
'Twas thine to animate the heart of stone,
And breathe into the clay the living breath,
To teach the power of justifying faith,
Which works by love, and purifies the heart,
That this, and not the party shibboleth
Of orthodoxy, forms or priestly art,
Salvation could secure and grace divine impart,

There is a growing interest in prohibition among the Negroes of the State of Ohio.

Chattel slavery degraded the body, but rum slavery degrades both soul and body here and after.

Bro. Plato Tiller, class leader of our church in Terra Haute, Ind. informs us that his church is in a "grown condition." Amen.

Marelita or Wendell, daughter, or grandson, Bro. Landry can scarcely decide of the two which he loves the most.

Mr. McDongall's reply to Dr. Leonard's Urbana speech, is as good as Mr. Christian Moerlein, the famous brewer, could have made and quite as useful to the liquor interest.

The prohibition party of to day is the direct and logical successor of the abolition party of yesterday. One fought to free the bodies and the other is fighting to free the minds of men. The first was and the last will be successful.

Dr. A. H. Gillett, in fact hereafter, it was so in name all over the South before. Every white preacher in the South is called doctor by the Negro preachers and people generally. It seems that with them the word doctor is used as a substitute for the word master.

Some secular newspapers are happy in reporting it abroad that Dr. A. B. Leonard adroitly worded the prohibition clause of our new Discipline, looking to his present candidacy. It is not complimentary to the General Conference that any such report should obtain public credence. And nothing is further from the truth.

Thoughts on the Prophet Elijah.

REV. R. K. WHITING.

1 Kings, xviii, 19 29. We have beforo us the most important point in the history of Elijah, the grand climax of his wonderful career. We approach a scene only a little less sublime than the awful solemnities on Sinai. Among all the recorded acts of individnal heroism, which adorn the pages of sacred or profane history, none surpasses in true moral grandenr the conflict of Elijah with the prophets of Baal on Mt. Carmel. It was a day of judgment, when a solitary man stood np for God against an apostate nation, with all the royal patronage and malignant animosities of a powerful priesthood, and the popular prejudices of a demoralized people against him; yet he triumphed over all his enemies, themselves being judges, and gave idolatry a blow from which it never afterward recovered.

First—The Challenge. An honest proposition. Gather to me all Israel to or nnto Mt. Carmel. All Israel, that is, the tribal heads or representatives of the nation were gathered to witness the contest between Elijah and the prophets of Baal, four hnndred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves four hundred, who sat at Jezabel's table. "The prophets of the groves," all the critics say, should be translated prophets of Ashera or Ashtoreth, the female divinity of the Yidonians. Baal was the male and Ashtoreth the female deity of the Phoenicians. These "prophets of the groves" were the special pets of Jezebel. They were treated as members of the royal household, and with the 450 prophets of Baal constituted an army of 850 priests in all. From what we see it may be said that Baal was rich in Israel, while God was poor. While God had but 100 prophets hid closely in Obadiah's caves. Baal had 850—450 scattered over the villages and towns of Israel and 400 at the court. God's prophets are glad of bread and water, while 400 trencher prophets of Jezebel feed on dainties. They lurk in caves, while these lord it in the pleasantest groves.

Ahab sent. He conld not well refuse to do this, for it was nnquestionably a fair and reasonable proposition. Baal had not been able to deliver the land from famine, and now Elijah offers to give him a fair trial in his own line. He was professedly the God of Fire—Sun God—and could do anything. Neither Ahab nor the prophets of Baal could object, and, perhaps, the urgency of the present distress made him willing to try any means to remove it. Brethren, let us apply to the God of Elijah for help.

Sinners forsake Baal, and call npon the God of Elijan, who can and will hear, and answer yonr

The Justice of God.

A SERMON BY P. M. CARMICHAEL

Text—"Just and Right Is He." Dnteronomy, 32, 3. Justice among men is giving to every one his due; and the very importance of doing so is truly acknowledged by every honest man. It is easy to see that there conld be no safety nor happiness in society if there were no justice, and it were not regarded by men. If there are any persons who do not approve of the administration of jnstice it is probable that they themselves are not just. The character of a judge may not be very amiable in the eyes of a criminal prisoner, and he may not look forward to the approaching assizes with any degree of pleasure; he wonld, perhaps, be willing to dispense with the whole system of jnstice in onr laws, because he is exposed to the pnnishment which those laws reqnire; bnt honest and virtnous men highly approve of the execution of justice. They regulate their affairs in their dealing with men by a regard to justice, and they wish to be treated in the same manner by their neighbors. This general regard to justice, this tribute of mankind to its excellence, leads us naturally to concinde that it must have the sanction of Divine authority, and that it mnst be a perfection of the Divine nature; and we could as easily conceive of a God without power, or a God without goodness, as of a God without justice. We are not left, however, to the mere conjectnres or conclnsions of reason. We have the fullest authority from God's own word to assure ns that he is perfectly just. The assertion is made in the text, which is taken from the song of Moses, not that which was sung immediately after the passage of Israel throngh the Red Sea, but that which he uttered just before his death, and solemnly delivered to the people. He begins the sacred ode by ascribing glory to God first, the glory of his greatness, and here the glory of justice and righteousness. By the justice of God we nnderstand that universal rectitude of his natnre, whereby in his government of the world he does all things with perfect righteonsness, giving to every one his dne.

First—We are to consider God not only as the maker and preserver of men, bnt as governor also. He who made man and finished him with all his wonderful power, has an nndonbted right to prescribe laws for his condnct, and to enforce the law which he prescribes by sufficient sanctions and reward and punishments, as, in His infinite wisdom, He sees fit; and in so doing He consnlts the good of His creatnres as well as His own glory; for, as the peace and order of society cannot be maintained with hnman laws perfectly enforced, so we cannot conceive of the preservation of the Divine government without laws worthy of a wise, holy and jnst God. This right seems to have been exercised toward Adam at the creation. Besides the moral law, the substance of which is love to God and man, and which was written on his own heart, a positive law was given to him as the test of his obedience. One particular tree, though as pleasant to the taste, and to the eye as good for food as others, was forbidden, and that on pain of death; for this positive law was armed with a dreadful sanction—"in the day that thon eateth thereof, thon shalt surely die." In like manner God has given laws to all mankind, and for many ages they were handed down from father to son, and afterwards renewed to the Jews, and throngh them to a great part of the world, in an awful manner at Sinai. Where men have not this written law, they have, as St. Paul says, "a law in themselves, the work of the law written on their hearts and their conscience," more or less informed, accusing or excnsing them, according as they observe it or break it, as yon will read Rom. 1-2. Now the law that God has given to man is worthy of himself. It is said in Rom. 7-12, to be holy and jnst and good it reqnires nothing bnt what God may justly demand of man, nothing bnt what we ought to pay. Can anything be more reasonable than that we shonld love the snpreme God in a supreme manner? In loving Him we shonld abstain from what He forbids, and perform what He requires, especially when both would be for onr advantage, our safety and onr happiness, and when disobedience would terminate only in our everlasting dertrnction. Thns as the Apostle saith, the "commandments were ordained unto life," but the words that demand onr serious regard are: "I fonnd unto death." Rom. 7. Alas, man is a fallen creatnre; fallen in Adam, the first sinner, and no more able to render the required obedience to the law, God, however, has not lost his right to command. His law, like himself, is unchangeable, and if not obeyed, renders the sinner liable to his awful displeasure.

Second—We observe, then, in the next place that God is just in punishing disobedience to His holy law, as He sanctioned the law of Paradise with that dreadful threatening "in the day thou eateth thereof thou shalt snrely die," so He sanctions the moral law with a terrible curse. It is written (Gal. 3-10), "Cursed is every one that continneth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them." He who continues not to do all the things, without omitting, without a single failnre in thought, deed or word, and that this is the meaning of this passage appears from another text in St. James, chap. 2-10: "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, is gnilty of all." The law has not relaxed in its demands in consequence of the fall and frailty of man. Some have pretended that now sincere obedience is only reqnired instead of perfect obedience, bnt this notion has no foundation in the Scriptnre, and tends strongly to encourage sin, for most men, however sinful, flatter themselves that they are sincere, thongh they are imperfect. It is not by redncing the law that a sinner is entitled to entertain hope of salvation, bnt by looking to Him whom the Gospel sets before us as the end of the law of righteonsness, who has redeemed us from nnder the curse of a broken law, being a cnrse for ns (Gal. 3 13), but the law itself affords no relief. It may convince, it mnst condemn, and leaves every one who seeks salvation by obedience to it under its fearful cnrse. St. Paul, therefore, in verse 10 concludes that as many as are under the law are the curse, and that every month mnst be stopped, and all the world become guilty before God, for by the law is the knowledge of sin. It is by the Gospel and by the law that we obtain the knowledge of Christ, whom god hath given to be the propitiation for onr sins, that he might be just and the justifier of him which believe in Jesns. Rom. 4, 19, 20, 25.

If we consnlt the Scriptures we shall find that God has displayed His justice in many awful instances by the pnnishment of sinners.

The rebel angels were expelled from heaven. They are awful monnments of His jnstice already, and will be rendered visibly such in the judgment of the great day. What a dreadful revolntion sin caused in our world! See Adam cast out from Paradise; the earth cnrsed for his sake; man doomed to severe labor; woman to be mnltiplied in sorrows; creatures made snbject to vanity and tronble, sickness and death, like a mighty flood overwhelming all mankind. When men had multiplied on the earth sin seemed to have preserved a sad proportion to their numbers and wickedness, rose to a great and daring hight, so that jnstice could no longer forbear, bnt opened the windows of heaven and unbarred the gates of the great abyss, and ponred universal destrnction on a guilty world. At another time fire from heaven consumed the base inhabitants of Sodom; and the sword of Israel was the instrnment of Divine justice in the expiration of the wicked Canaanites. Israel herself highly favored as she was of God, conld not escape his chastening hand, bnt always suffered when she sinned. It was Divine jnstice that armed the Philistines, the Assyrians, the Babylonians, the Romans, and made them the severe scourges of an ungrateful and backsliding nation in their turn; having in like manner nation after nation in their turn, having filled up the several measures of their iniquity; having declined and perished, men ascribed their fall to the ambition of a neighboring conquest; bnt the real cause was predominant sin, pnnished by the sword of Divine justice. It is trne that God does not always execnte justice immediately on transgressors, but this is no impeachment of that perfection, althongh it be abused by some, because we know sentences against evil, though it be withheld, it is possible. At this very point believers better be carefnl for fear they stnmble themselves.

I will close, bnt not because my theme is exhausted, bnt for want of time to say more. With all that has been said establishes the fact beyond doubt that God is a God of jnstice, and that His justice gives Him a perfect right to prescribe laws for his creatnres which He has made; and if they obey not those laws his jnstice gives Him a perfect right to punish them for not obeying.

Ol may His Grace assist ns to obey all that is contained in His divine law, and make us perfect in all things pertaining to the work of our Creator and His dear church.

Dedication.

June 27 being a heavy day the people of Sherbnrne, Ky., were feeling still heavier. To morrow will be Dedication Day, and do yon think it will rain? Bro. Henry says trust in God; that did very well for the time. The evening mail arrived Elder Jones and Mr. Sissle not come. Great heavens! what heavy hearts. "Bro. Henry do you think they will be here?" "Yes." "Why?" "Because they told me they would." Just then Bro. Routt stepped np. "Bro Henry here is some mail for yon from Elder Jones and Sissle." Jones says we will leave on the noon train. "What, on the noon train and not here yet?" "Is it possible that he was blown away in the storm?" Bro. Henry, to allay the anxiety of the crowd said he supposed they would be here shortly. The next card was read and said. "Bro. Henry, I have made ready to come, but cannot; my wife is too ill to leave. Success to yon. G. Sissle." With hopes all dead, some one said, "postpone the dedication." "No," cries the pastor, "trust the Lord."

At 8 o'clock a white man orders the bridge pass opened, toll paid, and on he goes. The news spreads. Elder Jones has come; also his wife and danghter. The people are so glad. They all expressed great sorrow that Elder Sissle could not come. Elder Jones took qnarters at Bro. Frank Sanders. A hearty shake hands and a cordial welcome was tendered. After the usnal pros and cons of snch occasions, supper being ready, was enjoyed. A few miantes' chat and regrets passed because Bro. Sissle conld not be with us. Our sympathy is with Sister Sissle in her affliction. After retirement Elder Jones was taken sick, and suffered great agony from his stomach. I conld nnderstand how he stood the pain. When morning came he was no better. Elder Southgate end Ellett arrived. The pastor in consequence was revived. At 11 o'clock Elder Jones was nnable to walk, and a vehicle was ordered to take him to church. He was too sick to preach, bnt try he would, and did honor to the cause. From the depth of his soul came bubbling np the spirit with all its original power, and none could doubt bnt that he had recently been with God.

Elders Southgate and Ellett officiated. A collection was taken up, and $14 49 raised. Service was concluded by Elders Ellett and Southgate, as Bro. Jones got too sick to remain in the church, bnt after taking a little fresh air returned and gave the doxology benediction. It was rather nnfortnnate to be made sick by so much good grub. The next thing that met the eyes of our correspondent was eating, shaking of hands, interspiced with social conversation. At 3 p. m., Elder Southgate in our church, and Elder Ellett in the white church, we were determined to meet the devil half way, and batter down the walls of Satan. Three of his crew were overhauled and surendered to God's army. They exhibited signs of inward repentance, thank God. At the white church we got more money, bnt no one for the angels to rejoice over and make glad the city of onr God. The sermon of Bro. Ellett was enjoyed by every one, and has given the little man a great name in Shorbnrne.

At night, notwithstanding the joy during the day was grand, white as well as onr people, seemed to enjoy it; but the people turned out to see the last trace of a day long to be remembered by the people of Sherburne. After a short exhortation by the pastor, as Elder Jones was too sick to be out, and Elders Ellett and Southgate had gone home, $35 18 was announced collected on the table, besides the mission boxes.

Sherburn, Ky.

[Our correspondent tells all the haps and mishaps, the people, the money, the meeting, the preachers and the preaching, but what about the dedication? We snppose that went on also—ED.

Letters from the Pastors.

Rev. James Bowren, Hardensburg, Ky., writes: "Our first quarterly meeting came off June 13 and 14. Rev. A. Booker, presiding elder, preached three of his able sermons, which set the camp on fire. The result was seven converts. The Sunday School work is grand at this charge. There has been five children soundly converted to God from the class training in Sunday School."

Rev. G. W. Smith, Bay St. Louis, Miss., writes: "We are getting along very well at this place. This is my first year here, and when I first came I found our church at the Bay needed some repairs, and $75 on hand to begin with. To that amount we have added $25 more, and now we have in our church a new floor and a set of good benches. And we are working hard to get our church painted. At Pearlington, another one of my points, we have a fine little church in which is a beautiful organ, for which the young ladies of that place are working hard to pay. Since I came here we have been successful in gaining some souls for Christ. The Children's Day was observed, and we had a grand time. Collections, $5. Pray for us."

Rev. Thomas L. Ingraham, of Houston, Miss., writes: "The people here received their pastor with joy. After the first round I found that nothing short of the full performance of a pastor's duty would bring success. The loving advice of Bishop Mallalieu was ever with me. We have established two new preaching points, and one new church, and at that church we commenced with four borrowed members. We have added twenty souls to the circuit, and commenced to build two new churches on plan No 2. Rev. D. A. Williams was with us May 16 and 17, and his sermon was an awakening one. The elder says Houston is going out of the bottom upon the hill where she can be seen. We have not done much for the SOUTHWESTERN, but our bill will show $25, and we have arranged so that amount will be paid off Oct. 1, every cent, and the canvass does not stop here. Pray for our success."

C. W. Walton, Georgetown circuit, Tenn., writes: "Children's Day was celebrated the second Sunday in June, and it was a grand time, enjoyed by all of the five Sabbath Schools. At Cooper's Chapel the pastor was at his place, and the church was decorated with flowers. The scholars spoke well. Rev. Wm. Johnson followed, with an address at Jonel Sabbath School. Cato Gryan was the first speaker. Rev. M. Cox held forth at Smith's Chapel. There was a nice congregation. Rev. H. Barnell was with my people at White Oak Grove. He is a good worker. At Tiley's schoolhouse we had a fine time, conducted by Prof. Hill; also at Bunker's Hill. Sister Martha Gardner was very attentive. The Master was with all over the work."

Rev. Austin Logan, Libersville, Tex., writes: "This new work is doing well religiously. Times are hard, but the Lord has stood by us, and through him we will conquer the place. The people are willing to do all they can for the church. Some members have been taken in, and old men and women are coming to the front. The white people give credit to our church. The floods have kept us back this year to a great extent. I have two acres of ground for a church, and when the people lay by their crops they will help to build."

Rev. S Knight, Sparta, Tenn., writes. "I was told this circuit was dead. I have seven Sunday Schools, 236 scholars, thirty-five officers and teachers; have raised $98 in money, and lumber for the new church; have expended $25 on it, and all of the framing and part of the weatherboarding is paid for; $100 on subscription. Elder Bullington held our quarterly conference, preached five sermons, and we paid him $7.50. The church was greatly revived. I made during the quarter 285 pastoral visits, and visited the sick ninety-two times, preached thirty-six sermons to the children, received four into full membership, and baptized four, buried four, and married one. Raised $2 for benevolent causes. We have no respectable church on the entire circuit, and we contend with the A. M E. Church and false impressions created by them. The following persons each contributed 25 cents to missionary money: H. S. Gambel, S. M. Brayles, T. Clark, A. Maxfield, N. Watson, Alex. Price, F. Young, M. Moore, A. Gardenhy. Bettie Johnson, Rebecca Bounds, Alcie Jet, Jane England, Loethe Clark, Nannie Maxfield, Eva England, Margaret Stone, Hattie Young, Mintie Loughry, Nannie Young, Emma Murray, Elisa McKinney, Jane Brayles, Lizzie Pollard, Susanna Brayles.

Rev. J. D. Walden, Meridian, Miss., writes: "Elder J. Campbell held our second quarterly conference May 30, 1885. He addressed the Sunday School in the morning at 11 o'clock. We had a love feast, and the presence of the Lord was felt in our midst. At 3 o'clock the elder preached us a nice sermon, and administered the Lord's supper to 206 communicants; received into the church thirty five; paid pastor, $123; paid elder, $20.50 Our church and Sunday School is in good condition. We also collected the second Sunday in May for education $27.

Rev. A. Phillips, Nashville, Tenn., writes: "We observed Children's Day the second Sunday in June. We had grand exercises. The programme was attractive and full of wholesome instruction. After the exercises a collection was taken which resulted in $8 10. The children were delighted with the services."

Rev. A. Jackson, Denison, Tex., writes: "Rev. W. H. Davis was with us, and held the quarterly conference. Reports from pastors, class leaders and stewards show that we are holding our own. Sunday School superintendent report shows that we have a very good Sunday School, with six officers and teachers and thirty-six scholars of all ages. It is not what we should like it to be. We have a very small membership here, and most of them being old people, they care very little for Sabbath School. Service at 11 o'clock is generally postponed until 3 o'clock p. m., which is decidedly wrong. Eleven o'clock is the proper hour, according to the rules of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Wesley had a sermon to preach at the proper hour and he made his coachman drive him through the sea to be on time. We are asked to raise this year for benevolent claims $200. We want to come up with every mill of it. On the 21st of April our church was blown down by a cyclone, but we are building it up again.

Rev. J. L. Massey, Mason, Tenn., writes: "I boarded the train June 16 to visit Alamo, Tenn. Rev. J. W. Hall is pastor of the M. E. Church there. I preached for Bro. Hall two nights, and had one conversion, an old lady sixty-five years of age. When I left the pastor was happy. From this place I went to Friendship, where Rev. J. A. W. Moore is pastor. Bro. Moore and his good sisters made me wish I could stay with them longer. I preached for Bro. Moore one night, and had crowded house. At this place a committee of sisters was appointed to prepare a reception for the writer hereof Rev. J. W. Hall, of this committee, had everything on hand that would make one feel happy. The reception was given at the pastor's house. I find, Mr. Editor, that Bro. Moore, at this place, has won his way to the hearts of his people, and has the kindly regard of the white people."

Rev. A. A. Price, Greencastle, Ind., writes: "On the 6th and 7th instant, Rev. Charles Jones, presiding elder of the Indiana district, Lexington conference, held his first quarterly meeting for Greencastle to a crowded house of both white and colored. The church at Greencastle is greatly embarrassed financially. The present indebtedness is $920 41. It is a great pity for our work in this section that the church should be compelled to struggle for years to maintain a branch of our church here, and now to be threatened by the officers of the law with a foreclosure of the mortgages, which undoubtedly will be done unless there is immediate relief given from some source. The worst feature in this church's cause is the disposition of the membership not to give any more aid in the payment of these mortgages. An earnest appeal has been made to the white friends of this section, who, in other times, have come forward grandly to the rescue of our people, but, as yet, nothing has been accomplished. Our membership is small. The total of good and indifferent is only fifty-six, and not one out of this number is able to give any substantial aid to the church in her hour of need. Would it not be a burning shame for us to lose the only Methodist Episcopal Church for our people in Greencastle? Would it not be a shame to allow this property to be taken from us under the shadow of DePaw University? This church has had to struggle years to maintain her cause. We have been opposed on every inch of the ground; yet we have come thus far on our way, and now while our foes rejoice over our great financial burden, a few of us are willing to stay on the ship and work willingly and earnestly for the payment of this debt, and if we can't pay all, we are praying to be able to hold our property till "daylight brakes."

Letters From the Laity.

Wm. Duplessis, recording steward Wesley Chapel, Baton Rouge, La., writes: "The second quarterly conference of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, was held June 22, and presided over by our beloved presiding elder, Rev. Stephen Priestly, who was heartily received by all the members and friends. Bishop Mallalieu and the Louisiana Conference, through the providence of an almighty God, has acted wisely in the selection of the presiding elder for the Baton Rouge district. We feel that he is one of us, and a good old Wesleyan Methodist preacher, up to the requirements of the timest. Next we have as our dear pastor, Rev. Reese Thompson, who is always at his post of duty. We heartily concur with the Bishop and his cabinet in the appointment of Bro. Thompson. When his appointment was first made there was some dissatisfaction, and a little trouble followed, but Bro. Thompson did not attempt to war on his supposed enemies. He quietly took them by the hand, and continued to preach the Gospel of the Son of man; and we can safely say that at no time has their been a better feeling existing in Wesley Chapel than now. Perfect peace and love seems to be in every breast, and Bro. Thompson has gained the confidence of all the people. We are having a crowded church at nearly every service. The fact of the above statement will be shown from the following figures of money raised since March 18, 1885, up to June 22, 1885. The following amounts was raised by classes this quarter: Class No. 1, Green Woodard, leader, raised $26 25; class No. 2, Reuben Jordan, leader, raised $27 20; class No. 3, Thaddens Hayes, leader, raised $23 90; class No. 4, Manuel Taylor, leader, raised, $20 10; class No. 5, Joseph J. Williams, leader, raised $37 75; class No. 6, Martha Morris, leader. raised $25 50; class No. 7, Daniel Thomas, leader, raised $60 35; class No. 8, Alex Varise, leader, raised $18 45; class No. 9, Richard Williams, leader, raised, $15 45; class No. 10, R. Thompson, leader, raised $6 50. Whole amount raised by classes, $261 45. Amount raised on building fund, $154 90; amount raised on public collection, $163 10; grand total raised this quarter, $579 45. The following amounts will show the expenditures for the same time: General expenses for traveling account, $55 55; paid gas company, $43 35; paid on indebtedness, $201 15; paid Pastor R. Thompson, $192 30; paid rent, $33 25; paid sexton, $17 25; paid secretary, $13 85; paid miscellaneous expenses, $11; whole amount expended, $567 70; cash balance on hand, $1 75, Dear Mr. Editor pray for us, and may the good Lord bless you in your work, and give you more subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. The General Conference in the selection of yourself as editor has acted wise. At no time has the paper been more acceptable with our people than now."

L. Richardson, Sunday School superintendent, Milford, Tex., writes: "This was the third time Children's Day was observed at Milford and Chambers' Creek. A large concourse of our best people were in attendance. The children from their rural homes were jubilant, and performed their part of the service well. The singing was delightful. Several interesting essays were read by young gentlemen and ladies on Sunday School and church topics. We think the service was a great blessing to the church as well as the children. Our collection was $7 85, which will be sent up by the pastor. I am sorry that the collection is so small. I hope we will do better next time. Pray for our success.

H. Worthy, late a Baptist preacher, writes of our work at Evergreen, La; "We had the pleasure of receiving our presiding elder, A. E. P. Albert. He preached a sermon that brought about a great change in the minds of the people. Our worthy pastor, Rev. Stephen Green, is doing good work. We have a good Sunday School."

A Million for Missions

The Presiding Elders are still responding to the appeal of the Secretaries. There is to be a swift march to the front, where Methodism ought to stand.

W. H. Davis, Waco District West Texas Conference: "I think we can raise every cent of the apportionment. Will do all I can toward it.

R. T. Adams, Macon District, Savannah Conference: Our people are poor, but we are going to do our part. I have sent each pastor his apportionment, and unless the crops fail we will succeed in raising our share of the million."

E. B. M'Cauley, Marion District, Central Alabama Conference: "I shall push every effort to raise the amount on my district. Am sure we can do it."

Benjamin Brown, Washington District, Washington Conference: "We fully indorse your plan, and will do our best."

These responses are widely read. The cry for money for our onward march ought to be heard by every one of the three millions who have been brought to Christ by Methodist itinerants all over the land. We would like to have some encouraging reply from every district.

RESPONSES OF PRESIDING ELDERS.

More favorable replies concerning the million dollar plan:

J. H. Stoney, St. John's River District, Florida Conference: "I have presented your communication to the Quarterly conferences I have met, and all say, 'We must meet it, and will do our part.' So you may look for the St. John's River District to measure up to the required standard."

Jesse T. Price, West Tennessee District, Tennessee Conference: "I like the plan well, and I think we can raise the money easily. You may count on this district.

J. J. Manker, Chattanooga district, Holston Conference: "The call is certainly an inspiring one. We are under a heavy pressure financially, but we will make an extra effort and do our very best.

Joseph Campbell, Meridian District, Mississippi Conference: "I think the million dollars can easily be raised if all the lovers of Christ will say, 'we will!' I say this for the brethren of Meridian District."

T. B. Ford, Little Rock District, Arkansas Conference: "We believe we can do it, and will spare no effort to accomplish the end.'

"Moderate Drinking Makes Drunkards."—There are 25,000,000 of moderate and immoderate drinkers and drunkards in the United States, which may be classed as follows: 17,000,000 moderate drinkers; 7,000,000 immoderate drinkers, and 1,000,000 of drunkards, more than 3,000,000 of the moderate drinkers (be it said to their shame) belong to the professed church of Christ. Stop all moderate drinking and in five years there will be no drunkards and the 250,000 liquor saloons in the United States will be closed. Moderate drinking leads to immoderate, and immoderate drinking makes drunkards Every church that upholds moderate drinking upholds making drunkards, and sending souls to hell. "For the time is come that judgment begin at the house of God." 1st Peter, 4-17.—Horace Waters.

The Relation Between Buyer and Seller.

Merchants are a class of people that are often looked upon as a set of bandits, waging war against the pocket-books of the people, and therefore fit prey for the special police. If they can by any method be induced to sell at less than their regular rates, by brow-beating, by plausible speech, by an old cry, "it is naught, it is naught," it is considered a great feat of genius on the part of the part of the buyer. Buying at cash rates, the good nature of the merchant is often taxed by those ominous words, "please to charge it," and when payment is offered a year later, and the poor seller adds six per cent. interest, he is looked upon with holy horror as little better than a thief or assasin. Now we give a few rules, that, if heeded, will cause an era of good feeling:

1. Never try to "beat down." Go to honest men and pay what they ask With the competition now existing in all branches of business, there is no danger of paying more than an article is worth.

2. If you buy at cash rates and get trusted, do not complain because interest is charged on your bill. The merchant who buys for cash cannot afford to wait payment for goods without an equivalent.

3. Buy in your own town, so far as possible, and patronize those who help build your school-houses, make your roads, and who are expected to respond to all calls for charity, or for public improvements.—Hearthstone Farm and Nation.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.

Our school has for its principal, Professor L. F. G. Murray, who was raised and educated by Rev. H. R. Revels, who stands foremos in our conference. Prof. Murray has in every way, morally, mentally, the necessary qualifications for this place. He stands highly respected by both colored and white. Althongh he come here nnder dnfavorable assurances, he has lived to out live every diffienlty, furthermore he has even made his enemies, some of them, his best friends. While we confess he is young, he has a peculiar air that gathers many friends in his circle. All such young men as he shonld be encouroged to coutinue in this well begun work. Let ns all join in one accord and say, "Go forward young men, we will stand by you even in the fiercest conflict of life's battle.

Our situhtion, as yon know is in the extreme Northern part of Mississippi, therefore we have been chilled all the winter and the best portion of the spring, bnt onr hearts have been made warm and the blood course d more freely through our veins since the 27th nlt than ever before. We were entertained four nights successively by Prof. Murray and his pupils. The school was very large this year, and time very short, therefore we did not expect the teachers to do much. Monday night April, 27th, the juveniles entertained us with some of the sweet music and most interesting recitations, declamations, and dialogues that hnman beings could wish to be entertained with; everything was without a doubt instructive from the beginning to the end, and showed to both patrons and visitors that no idle time had been spent during the scolastic year by the corps of teachers. The white friends too exhibited such a mark of interest and respect that assured us that we are tending upward. Prof. Murray was much encouraged by the presence of all the citizens, but he spoke so highly of the interest on the part of the mayor of our city, that I would do injnstice to the occasion, the mayor, and patrons of the school without naming him. Everything passed off very nicely the first night with but few exceptions, and I am proud to say these exceptions were not on the side of the teachers nor scholars. Time will not allow me to do justice to this night, for I must pass on to the exercises of Tuesday night, which was most excellent, although having been disturbed a little, yet the skill and tact that Prof. Murray posesses were so displayed, we were agreeably surprised and entertained.

The exercises opened by an appropriate quartette by Miss. Laura Johnson, R. H. Henderson and Messrs A. D. Ivy and C. W. King, then prayer by myself, after which our ear's listened to recitations, declamations, dialogues, solos and duets, all played their parts so self possessed that they could go anywhere. Many of the young ladies deserve praise for their clear delivery and thoroughness in every respect, but brevity being our object we will omit their names. The dialogue, Hypocondriac, was very charming in all its parts, also "Here she goes and there she goes" received an extraordinary applause, but encored—the moonlight masquerade illustrated certain features which were indeed romantic, although the two most prominent actresses did not appear. Next our ears were amused by a duet, bringing pretty flowers to strow on mother earth, all that is necessary to say is that it was exquisite. The chorus songs were most pleasing to the ear, and proved that there was no lack of vocal training by the professor; no one would have believed that so much could be accomplished in so short a time, had they not been here during the exercises themselves, although here, was very much surprised by the progress made. We were entertained [illegible] after eight days [illegible] owing to circumstances manifested here. There were two dramas, the professor wishes to display his dramatic performances, bnt I am sorry to say he did not bnt promised to let us enjoy the frnits of his labor this summer, which we await, thongh impatiently. I do not stop describing this night to you by choice but of necessity for the one half has not been told. I can only say you ought to have been here. Now the proceedings of Wednesday night. I scarcely know how to relate them; the entertainment was something that neither white or colored has enjoyed; a thing that has exalted Prof. Murray about five degrees, if possible, in the estimation of both white and colored, yet wonders never cease. Every one here knows what obstacles prevailed on this and the preceeding night, therefore we are made to wonder the more at the success and the effect produced. This night's exercises were the "Oratorio of Queen Esther" which showed that nothing can be done without great labor, the different personations were elcellent, and seemed to have been made for the same. The dress of the Persians who were first before us was ancient and produced a two fold effect, that of pleasing the eye and impressing the mind with a deep reflection of the past. Next the Jews appeared, and they with their supplications and dress caused the whole house to be moved with seeming pity and sadness.

Esther in the person of Miss, M. A. Hodges was performed without fault while Mordecai in person of Mr. A. D. Ivy could not be excelled in his solo and earnestness to Esther. The part of Haeman belonged to Mr. L. H. Reinhardt, though acted by Mr. C. W. King, was almost the exact personation of Haeman when he sought the lives of the Jews. King Ahasueras personated by Mr. J. Long certainly was well performed, he has the grace and dignity of a king, if not that of King Ahasneras. The solos of Zerish by Miss R. H. Henderson charmed every one, they perfectly faultless, also the solos of Miss Lilly Long, and Lulu Maxwell the alto. Mordecai's sister, Miss A. Mitchell, acted well her part; the two maids of honor, Misses Laura and Augusta Johnson were very dignified in their parts. We cannot help noticing the two little pages of the queen, Misses Bettie Mitchell, and Minnie Martin who attracted the attention of both old and young. This musical entertainment, was perfectly grand. The instrument was managed by Miss M. J. Williams, one of Prof. Murray's brightest scholars. I cannot help troubling you bnt, we must give honor to whom honor is due. Prof. Murray will ever be thonght of with pleasure, for his very laborious undertaking, and the hearts of these people are always ready to welcome him, for they believe that the Lord sent him here.

The Cantata went on only two two nights, but we wished it the remainder of the week; still we live in hopes of having a like enjoyment, so his scholars say. I can say for my self that I never have been more highly entertained in my life, and these closing exercises have reflected great credit upon the students of the school No. 2, and decked Prof. Murray's brows with many honors. He is sufficient, intellectually, if not in bulk, and capable of giving all the instruction demanded. Prof. Murray enjoys the respect and confidence of all classes. He is doing good work for his people, and in every way shows his interest in the work, and determination to make the school a permanent and grand success. He has those rare qualifications which enable him to work in harmony with all classes. The whites respect and help him, and the colored people believe in him and rally about him. The people tell me it takes a brick to stand the thrnsts and scoffs of Corinth, bnt I think Prof. Murray must be a rock.

The outlook for this place is good under its present administration. Under L. F. G. Murray the school has won the support and confidence of the people of wealth and intelligence who live near the school and know about. While the present counsels prevail, the school will never lack for material resources. What it needs is more pupils, and continned instruction, and that it will have. Its future is assured. I do not intend any reflections, whatever, bnt I truly wish we had a L. F. G. Murray in every part of the State. We have some, bnt the cry is, more!. While Mr. Murray is doing justice to his day school, I would not do him justice unless I told you the good he has done by building a No. 1 Sunday School at this place. He is now at his home in Holly Springs bnt his good work still goes on, and our hearts yearn for his return. He made a flying trip to our town last week, bnt was on business, and we could not induce him to stay. We now have the lumber on the ground to make new seats for our church. We are also going to build a belfry, with its steeple towering toward the heavens.

At this writing our revival is going on. Seven accessions have been made to our church, and we have from fifty to sixty penitents at the mercy seat every night, and the good work is still going on. Ask the prayers of all. God bless the SOUTHWESTEN. I have not been able to do justice by it, bnt I will in the near future, God being my helper. Yours struggling for Christ, J. J. HARRIS.

Rate of Increase of Negro Population.

Such being the history of the Negroes in ante-bellum days, when they were property, and when every consideration of self-interest prompted their owners to watch over their health, to encourage child-bearing, and to protect and preserve the children, is it to be supposed for a moment that this careless, improvident, ignorant race, thrown suddenly upon its own resources, should at once, or within a genetation, take on a rate of increase more rapid than before emancipation? The wonder is, that in the past twenty years they have not fallen further behind.

Considering the colored race in this country as a whole, it is seen that it has not held its own, either in a state of slavery or thus far in freedom. It is but another illustration of the fact, that an inferior race can not thrive side by side with a superior one. It would seem, therefore, under the circumstances, more profitable to study ways and means for preserving and strengthening the mannal labor element of the South, rather than to debate the methods of getting rid of it.—From "Are we to become Africanized?" by Henry Gannett, in Popular Science Monthly for June.

Henry Clay's Family.

Inquiry is made as to the living descendants of Henry Clay. The presence of J. B. Clay, jr., of Lexington, Kentucky, in the city—at the National Hotel, where he was born while his father was a Representative in Congress, and where his immortal grandfather died—affords the opportunity to answer it authoritatively. There is but one son of the "Great Commoner' living, John M. Clay, who resides on a portion of the original Ashland estate, and is farmer and stock-raiser. Thomas H. Clay (deceased) left two sons and a daughter. Henry B., the elder of the sons, has a plantation on the Holston River, in Tennessee, which he successfully cultivates. The other son lives in Boston and is connected with a publishing house. The daughter is unmarried and lives with her mother near Lexington. The only child living of Colonel Henry Clay, jr., who fell during the battle of Buena Vista during the war with Mexico, is the wife of Henry C. McDowell, who owns the Ashland residence where they live. Colonel Clay left two sons; one served in the Union and the other in the Confederate army, and they lie side by side in the cemetery near Louisville. Of the family of James B. Clay, once Charge d' Affaires to Portugal, and a Representative to Congress as above mentioned, four sons and one daughter are living. His son Henry, a proming lawyer of Louisville, was killed in a rencounter in that city a few months ago, and his slayer has just been convicted of manslaughter. James B. jr., the eldest of the children, is a farmer and is engaged in raising thoroughbred horses in Fayette County, Kentucky. Thomas J. Clay, who is the fourth but the next living, is a First Lieutenant in the Sixteenth Infantry. U. S. A., and at present stationed at Fort Union, New Mexico. Charles D. Clay, the fifth son, is a Second Lieutenant in the Seventeenth Infantry, U. S. A., and at present stationed at Fort Custer, Montana Territory. George H., the sixth son, lives near Lexington with his mother and is a stock breeder. These six young men, the two sons of Thomas H. Clay and the four sons of James B. Clay, are the only living grandsons of Henry Clay.

Now, had the anti-slavery men continued to talk and pray against slavery from 1840 to 1860, and vote for slavery, through the parties allied to it, as they had done from 1800 to 1840, there would have been a slave-holder or a pro-slavery man elected President in 1860, and slavery would have been settled upon us for perhaps a century to come. But, thanks be to God, there was a third party, the members of which voted as they talked and prayed, and accomplished the abolition of slavery.—Horace Waters.

There were 2,616 new cases of cholera in the Spanish plague-stricken districts on the 30th, and 1,036 deaths from the disease for the same time. In 48 hours there were 69 new cases and 41 deaths in Madrid. Thirty-one of the victims were women. Seventy bodies remained unburied in a cemetery outside of town, the police cordon around the infected houses preventing the people from obtaining burial licenses. The lower classes manifest the greatest hostility to the official doctors and ambulance bearers. The epidemic is spreading to all the northern provinces.

Brazil is the only empire in South America, and has a population of about 12,000,000. There are about 2,000,000 of negroes and about 400,000 Indians.

The aboriginal Indians of the country have to a large extent became amalgamated with the settled population, especially in the eastern provinces; but in the vast interior they remain to a great extent in a savage condition. There are many creoles who call themselves Brazileiras, decendants of the Negroes and Portugnese. The slaves of the country are being gradually emancipated. In 1884 they numbered 1,233,195, besides 363,000 children of slave mothers.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, AUG. 27, 1885.

The native population of the Argentine Repnblic, in South America, are said to be a mixed race of Indians and Negroes; bnt in this amalgam race we have failed to find any of those high exploits in the arts of civilization which would justify North American Negroes in adopting amalgamation as a means to such an end.

The Rev. Daniel Ware, at Cape Palmas, Liberia, West Africa, is suffering from chronic dyspepsia. Will not some one, who has the money and the philanthrophy send him a case of "Brown's Iron Tonic Bitters," which, having affected a complete cure in our own case. We can safely recommend it to others who are suffering from like troubles.

When unable to refute his doctrines the malevolence of Christ's enemies in his earthly days as well as in ours, was manifested by their sarcastic references to his social status. "Is not this the carpenter's son," they said. But this sort of reference has failed in eighteen centuries to refute a single doctrine he proclaimed. Infidelity is a failure.

Dr. Braden writes from Nashville, Aug. 9, 1685, that sad tidings of the triumphant death of Rev. Ephram Manson, of the Tennessee Conference, reached from Brownsville where he was stationed. Just three weeks ago I sat beside him in the pulpit, heard him preach an excellent sermon, and earnestly invite seekers to Christ. He seemed full of vigor physically and spiritually. He was earnestly engaged in Sunday School work, and had just conducted an institute lasting three days. He entered the Central Tennessee College in 1871, and from the records he was in his thirty-second year when he died. He was a useful young minister, full of promise, and a genuine Christian man.

On Sunday, Aug. 16, Dr. Braden was in Lebanon, Tenn. He put in a full day's work. He taught a Bible class, and addressed the Sunday-School at 9:30 o'clock; preached again at 8 o'clock p. m. The congregations were good all day. The newly organized choir did their work well. The pastor, R. B. Wilson, is a student in the Central Tennessee College, and is spending his vacation, doing excellent work, filling up the vacancy occasioned by the transfer of L. M. Hagood to the Lexington conference. The Church Lyceum is interesting the young people in literary pursuits and is doing good. The class and prayer meetings are well attended, and an excellent Sunday School indicates the prosperity of the charge.

A Brooklyn clerwyman, Rev. Dr. Ludlow, who had been travelling in the Holy Land, had the bravery to venture a visit to the curious colony of Druses—the Mohammedan sect inhabiting the side of Mount Hermon, which a few years ago was guilty of the frightful massacre of the Christians thereabouts. He found them a strange people, bloodthirsty for backsheesh, however, rather than for gore, and turning their hatred for the time being against Turks instead of Christians. The curiosity of the Druses extended to the interior of their visitors pockets, and they even made off with the latters' boots, which they had politely taken off in calling upon the chief of the village. Dr. Ludlow will give an account of his stirring experiences in the August Harper's.

The estimated value of church property in Indianapolis, is $1,628,800; of which the Methodist own $425,—, the Presbyterians $325,000, the Episcopalians $250,000, and the Roman Catholics $243,000.

Dr. [illegible]'s Catarrh Remedy cures where every other so called remedy fails.

Miscarriages in Colored Journalism.

One by one, in close order and rapid succession, we have noticed of late the disappearance of some apparently well conducted and pretty solid visitors from the number of our weekly exchanges, edited by colored men. For example, the Indianapolis Leader, owned and edited by the Bagby brothers; the Louisville Bulletin, by the Adams brothers; the Springfield Review, by Dan Rudd and others; the Afro-American, by Herbert Clark, and the Kentucky Republican, by Scroggins & Johnson, not to speak of others less widely known, ably edited, and pretentious in character. All of these have suspended publication in the midst of terms for which their patrons had paid subscriptions and expected to receive them.

Though these failures were probably unavoidable, unintended, and unforeseen from the start, they have been attended with hardships and losses not alone to the owners and employes, but to the patrons as well. Why did they fail? For this there must be assigned one of two causes:

First—They were not organized upon a sound business basis, or Second—They were not properly encouraged by the patronage of the people whom they were designed to serve.

We do not undertake to say which or how far both of these causes have entered into the cases here cited, but we regret that for any cause they have defaulted, because they seem to exhibit an inability on the part of colored men to manage, or a very great degree of ability to mismanage such affairs. They tend to weaken the influence of more successful and capable enterprises by undermining the public confidence, and reinforcing the stock of arguments already too abundant and freely employed by those who look incredulously upon every effort of Negro literary and business scholarship to assert itself.

We believe that many of these enterprises were never intended to be more than representatives of the personal ambition of gentlemen who wished to make known their usefulness as political leaders, and their fitness for official positions in government employ. Indeed, we know that this was the case with the Afro American, as originally projected by Mr. E. J. Waring, at Columbus, Ohio. It is to be regretted that these suspensions so frequently occur, more because of the effect they have to hedge up the path of future enterprises than on account of the direct losses which they entail, though these latter are by no means inconsiderable. The Negroes of this country must organize for business, not as individuals catering to and bidding for the patronage of the other races about them, as is done for example by the more prosperous barbers and restaurantuers of the colored people; but as a race they must begin to make employment for their young men and women, by the employment of their united capital in business enterprises. We consume enough to make our presence, barring politics, desirable in any community, because of the increased retail trade consequent upon our presence there in such numbers as our people usually gather about most cities and large towns. The duty upon us at present is to so organize that our productive shall neutralize our consumptive characteristics. Our business men must be required to qualify themselves for their business, give the best possible guarantees against mercenary ventures or dishonest failures, and then they must be patronized in every way until they are made to succeed. This course will encourage the men of means among us to invest them. It will also induce white men with money and business experience to form partnerships with Negro business men. Throw social and philanthropic nonsense aside. Such partnerships will secure them a share of the patronage which these Negro business men control. One thing is certain the Negro business man cannot and ought not to try or be expected to do a credit business. He must begin small, sell quick, and always as low as anybody else can sell the same articles. He must buy his goods from a wholesale house, and see to it that he gets inside bottom figures, and then he will not be undersold. We hope the merely personal newspapers will all close up as soon as they can, and that those established for permanent use as conservators of the public good may be so strengthened that their usefulness may be increased, and their patrons encouraged to vote them a more profitable business. Among the newspapers of the latter character, and of those which cannot fail, we wish to call attention to the SOUTHWESTERN. Were it to suspend to-morrow every subscriber would receive a weekly paper of like character, excepting the special features, but more excellent in many other respects, for every moment of the time covered by the terms of their subscription. This paper is now twenty years old, never misses a week except by failure of the mails, it overspreads the widest and speaks with a more independent tone than any paper in the county with a colored editor. Send for specimen copies and try it.

The Causes of Skeleton Congregations at Church on Sabbath Morning.

The causes which lead to and produce the usually depleted congregations which attend our Sabbath morning hour of service, may be set down under the following eight heads, viz:

1. Keeping of late hours on Saturday night, which leads to.

2. Late sleeping, breakfast, and dressing on Sunday morning. Both of these are bad habits, and are sinful because they are direct violations of that clause of the Fourth Commandment which requires of us to "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it Holy." Whereas those who set up either to work or do worse, seem to "Remember the Sabbath day to sleep, as this will necessarily follow their wake of the previous night.

3. A wordly spirit. It evinces a formal wordly spirit. It is in reality walking with the world which causes people who belong to the church, profess religion and have taken its vows of consecration voluntarily upon themselves, to remain away from the forenoon Sabbath services when health and circumstances permit them to attend. Such absence being justified by reason of the smallness of morning congregations. It is worse when these who fail to attend their own church in the morning can be often at other churches at that hour, and carry not only their presence and influence, but their contributions away from it, while their own church and pastor stand in need of all these. The minister cannot fail to be encouraged by the assurance that the presence of his members at morning service gives, that they appreciate their church and his efforts to serve them. Persons who join the church are not free, they belong to the church, and it belongs to Jesus. They have agreed to surrender some little personal dislikes, preferences and prejudices for the peace, pleasure and prosperity of the common brotherhood, which is the church wherein we live under self imposed but God ordained covenants of good fellowship. These covenants they are bound to observe with all they imply, and require or give a reason for failing. Where no reason is given the delinquent is guilty of willful neglect of the means of grace, and this also involves a willful violation of these covenants and vows which they have taken. There may be such inefficiency and ministerial or official indifference as will permit these offences to go uninquired into, but they are booked on the immutable and eternal tablets of Jehovah's heart, and they will certainly be brought into judgment. These causes of small morning audiences spring from the laity, but there are others which take their rise from ministerial proceedure.

4. Formalism stiffness, coldness of manner, dryness of matter, and the reading of that from paper as if the preacher had either borrowed some one else's sermon or was not very well acquainted with his own. This all may be very erudite, fashionable and refined but the pulpit is not a modern institution, and somehow even refined and scholarly people find their way to these churches where the place is made sweet and awful because the ministers are as a flame of fire, and words a burning hear. We always get large audiences at these services when the people know of our presence. It is not because we preach learnedly, but because our sermons are hot and burn, because they, such as they are, belong to us, and have the kiss and seal of the holy spirit brought upon them by much earnest prayer, faith and many tears. Let these things come in with others and our morning audiences will grow.

5. Indifferentism; want of fixed and deep interest or what seems to be so on the part of the ministers concerning this honor of sevice, from the fact that they are apt to swap off preaching for a prayer, praise, Bible or some sort of a modern invention, instead of the glorious old time service.

6. Novices in the pulpit. Where this indifference does not appear as above stated, it may and does in the shape of some tramp preacher, or some inexperienced and impressible brother, who seeks either a place to practice on to get a collection. We know of some places where this class have very frequent, almost exclusive control of the pulpits on Sunday morning, and in these churches there are very small congregations at the services. A church like a man will die if the food given is inutritious. The only preventative of atrophy and death is a change of diet, and the search for this depletes the congregation.

7. Protracted services. Running the morning services past the noon hour hinders people who live at service from giving due service to their employers, and also attending their church in the morning. They are bound to either work, beg or steal, and so when the minister knows that his congregation is composed as most colored congregations are of this class of people it is his duty to so arrange his hours to suit their condition. Where he fails to recognize and perform this duty, he will want a congregation in the morning.

8 Scolding rather than visiting those who are habitually absent. This is in some places quite a common practice, but it does not take many recurrences of it to reduce the minister's hearers and swell the rank of absentees. In fact a minister who uses his pulpit to scold his audience will soon have as he deserves to have, no audience to scold. It may be that reproof is at times needed and if properly administrated is very wholesome and helpful to a church, but that there ever was a dose of it administered publicly from the pulpit that failed to magnify the disease rather than cure the case, we do not believe.

The minister will find ample chance to do this in the most appropriate and effectual way in his visits from house to house. There should never be more than one person besides the pastor present when reproof is given. And a pastor should never reprove any one for doing what they have seen him do or done with him.

Rev. G. W. Leach Again.

Bro. Leach appeals to us as an old friend to say in the SOUTHWESTERN the best words we possibly can for him. That we are glad and ready to do. He is, to the best of our personal knowledge, an excellent gentleman and a very good preacher. When he was presiding elder it afforded us great pleasure to visit him. Our receptions were always cordial, and our entertainment brotherly. The people always spoke well of both him and his preaching. We should not hesitate to say that kind counsel will accomplish much with him, for he is willing to hear and accept reproof.

The South for the Negroes.

We have heard it said that "The Negro can live whereever the grass grows," but we are not thoroughly convinced of the truth of that saying, if it is to be applied in an unqualified sense. If the Negro is indigenous to a warm climate, he can only thrive in a cold one by acclimatization, by transfer of the torrid into the frigid, or by emigrating with the sun.

The Negro enjoys a degree of physical prosperity to be sure, but it is not in proof that he reaches his best physical conditions where the winters are long and bleak. For every one that prospers under such winters, there is a good many who take some sort of lung disease, and after a decline, more or less rapid, die.

It may be set down as a rule that of colored people coming from the South to the North to live, only those of superb health and faultless physique will be able to follow outdoor pursuits, and even these will generally not stand it long. The truth of these postulations may be easily demonstrated by the ravages of consumption upon this class of the population in some of the Western States in the mind of the writer. This climatic question must enter into all sensible calculations made by the colored people who propose to change their location in the future.

He Roars and Whimpers.

The old English lion fairly roared, so to speak, when Mr. Gladstone made his speech before Parliament the other day, by which he secured, as it were, a vote of confidence, all the money needed for active war measures, and was vociferously applauded by the people and favorably criticised by the press of the greater part of Europe; but it now looks as if the great speech was quiet bluster, and that it was part of a splendid piece of strategic diplomacy, which does not promise additional glory to England as a fighting nation, nor any well defined limit to Russian aggressiveness toward India. India is itself becoming restive of foreign control, and the star of British empire would seem just now to be slightly on the wane. As the SOUTHWESTERN intimated, however, this new menace for Russia has furnished an opportunity for England to release herself from the difficulties by which she was confronted in the Soudan. And the slave trade, of which we have heard so much, will probaby not be heard of until it is wanted as a pretext for another invasion of that country for which nations have been contending since the times of Moses in Egypt. The roar has turned to a whimper.

Personal.

The school picnic at Anderson, Texas, under Prof. A. White, was an agreeable affair.

All is quiet at Hempstead, Texas, and Rev. E. Jefferson is having a prosperous year there.

Mrs. Rev. J. M. Nuby is quite sick and confined to bed at her residence near Obannon, Ky.

Methodist preachers find an asylum in the hospitable home of Bro. Robert Ward and wife at Anderson, Texas.

Mrs. Rev. Frederick White has just reached and received a hearty welcome to the parsonage in Terra Haute, Ind.

Harry A. Garfield, son of the late President, has accepted a position as teacher in St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

Rev. W. C. Dickerson, of the Delaware conference, has renewed his claims upon our gratitude by recent kindnesses.

Rev. E. Williams has changed his residence. Correspondents will please address him at 11 Laurent street, New Orleans.

Rev. W. B. Pullam, presiding elder of Navasota district, Texas conference, was recently taken with fever at Anderson, Texas.

Rev. W. H. Logan, of Houston, Tex., was in Louisville, Ky., recently, as delegate to the annual meeting of the Knights of Pythias.

Rev. A. Alexander has been holding camp meeting seven miles from Anderson, in Grimes county, Tex., Rev. B. M. Taylor, assisting him.

After a somewhat extended and pleasant visit away, Dr. R. F. Boyd, our versatile correspondent, is back in Nashville again, greatly improved and ready for work.

Rev. D. W. Heston, of Newcastle circuit, Indiana, lost a baby by death, June 22. The death occurred at his residence in Anderson. Bro. Hester is an honored member of the Lexington conference, and will have the sympathy of all his brethren.

Rev. W. W. Locke, of Louisville district, Lexington conference, has been holding a protracted quarterly conference at Jackson Street Church, Louisville, Ky., the past two weeks.

Rev. A. J. Tilloy, of the Navasota district, Texas conference, is a young man of good attainments. He is on his first year in the conference, and is pastor at Courtney, where he has built a church, and is doing a good work.

We are under obligations to Rev. Henry Cardozo for important documents. The minutes of the South Carolina conference show that he is a leader, and this will be grateful news to his numerous friends in Ohio and the West.

That stannchest of friends and most genial of ministers, Marcus Dale, of Wesley Chapel, has the continued evidences of prosperity abundant in the pastorate of his vast parish, the greatest of ours in New Orleans. He is deservedly popular and will prosper anywhere.

Jonathan Willis, Esq., has just completed all payments on a fine three acre tract of land eight miles from the city of Louisville, on the Middleton Pike, in Jefferson county, Ky. He is an upright and worthy man, an officer of long and exemplary standing in the Methodist Episcopal Church. We sincerely wish him many years of happiness in his new home.

Church Polity.

MR. EDITOR—How long after a person joins the church before he should be called on to pray in public.—Subscriber.

Answer.—We suppose that you refer only to such persons as are full members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Probationers in our church being not members, but only on trial in order that all concerned may decide upon the desirability of their becoming members, they may be advised and exhorted, but no legal process can be resorted to in securing of them the performance of any church duty.

The extent of the law is their continuance or discontinuance after they have been at least six months on trial.

Should a probationer remain on trial twenty years without conversion, a pastor who called upon him to pray in public would be a very indiscreet one. The fact that in all that time conversion had not taken place, would be proof that the person concerned had no soul-fixed desire to "flee the wrath to come" and to be saved from his sins, and was hence unfit to invoke the favor of God upon any person other than himself. But you refer to full members and touching them the the Discipline, 1884, page 114, paragraph 184, sec, 12, directs that the preacher who has the charge of a circuit or station, shall appoint prayer meetings wherever advisable in his charge," and in paragraph 234, page 134, attendance upon these services so appointed is required.

This law applies to all members in full connection and not under charges. Hence the moment a person is admitted to full connection therein he is before the law of the Methodist Episcopal Church as completely a member thereof, as it is possible for him ever to be. Since he is a member, and since the law requiring attendance at the regular appointed prayer meeting is equally mandatory upon a new as upon an old member, or rather since in the eyes of the law members, are neither new nor old, but equal; and as the object is to cause the offering of public prayer up to God, which our church holds to be a means of grace, and the performance of this duty a condition of membership, and since young members certainly stand as much in need of the use of all the means of grace as older ones do, it is therefore our opinion that they should be called upon to pray in public just as other members are, that is, whenever the pastor esteems it advisable to do so.

There are persons so constituted that for mental and physical reasons they cannot perform this duty, The pastor should in his visitation find out these persons, and be careful not to call upon them in public. The effect of their refusal is at to embarrass both him and them, and demoralize the audiance.

Schools and Colleges.

A Screw Loose Somewhere.

Here are the extracts from a letter written by students, who last year attended one of our universities. It is pretty easy to see that they do not like the order of things there. We were not requested to publish these letters, and therefore withold the names of the writers with other irrelevant matter.

They are are specimens of the feeling among the students and patrons of at least one of our universities.

The feeling is neither capricious or unjustifiable, as we have reason to believe. Neither are these isolated cases. Let it be understood that these pupils are not raising a clamor against schools for white people, nor for admission into such schools.

That is not at all the question. These pupils and their parents and a good many others, are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They prefer its schools and have tried to attend them. But they want nothing short of just such treatment as colored people in a colored school, as they would re- if they were white pupils in a white school. THE SOUTHWESTERN has urged and advised its pastors to take no steps toward pushing themselves into our white schools. And our readers have followed this advice. Not an instance has occurred where they have given our Freedmens' Aid managers one minute's trouble on this line. But the SOUTHWESTERN would not deserve the respect of the Negroes if it even intimated that they ought to submit to fraud, insult, and various other forms of indignity from teachers whose sole interest in the Negro is to get as much salary as they can for teaching them.

These young ladies have in our judgment acted about right.

Our own schools should have the preference of our people only when they are managed in the interest of our people.

The school in question might as well be turned into an Episcopal [illegible] or an Industrial Home, the days of its usefulness are over without a radical change.

Here is what the young ladies have to say.

"Dear ——: I fear no good will [illegible] Prof. ——. Let me tell [illegible] did to me. I told him of [illegible] he smoothed it over. He [illegible] for me to come back, but my [illegible] he must be foolish, he [illegible] a servant long enough. [illegible] going back any more. I am really sorry for ——. Did they send him away. I trust there will be some change made there next year. Mrs. —— said her sister would take charge of the cooking next year. I know it will be tough times. Your true friend.

Another student says: "I am not at the university now, and dont expect to go there again, as long as the people are there who treated me so mean during my recent stay there.

We have all given up the hope of having a change at the school. However, as you know, if there is not a change there are other schools, and I have no doubt as to whether we we will be admitted into them.

I remain yours truly,

These are not extracts from anonymous, but letters properly written and signed, the originals of which are now in our possession.

We need schools from our young gentlemen and ladies wherein their parents, and all prominent Negroes can feel an interest, take pride and make themselves properly at home with faculty. Short of this they must fail of their purpose, and the money spent upon them will be spent in vain. We are not calling for mixed, but we cannot afford to permit distinctions and discriminations against Negroes in Negro schools.

The Death of General Grant.

REV. L. M. HAGOOD.

It is said of Cicero that he died like a philosopher.

"We say of our own hero he died like a Christian soldier."

"General Grant was a cosmopolitan." What better or more can be said of him than that he died as he had lived, a devout Christian Soldier. Raised from the cabin of his birth to the heart of the civilization of the 19th century, he despised ostentation and affectation when well, he spurned it when sick, and he did not covet it at death. He died as he had lived, a man of the people and for people—loved by those he conquered and mourned by millions who never saw but loved him."

Extract from speach at the Grant Memorial Service in Union Chapel, Cincinnati, Ohio, July 29, 1885.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

To Henderson County.

J. BRADEN, D. D.

The train starts at 7:15 a. m. The hack is fifteen minutes earlier than expected. A hasty good-bye and we are off for the depot. So we began Saturday July, 25th. Our company consists of Mrs. A. Moore, her daughter Mrs. Laura A. Westbrooks and her daughter Miss Westbrooks, about two years old, and Vera Lee Moore, one of the Central Tennessee College singers, on a furlough of a few weeks; Mrs. Westbrooks is a gradnate of the college course of the Central Tennessee College, and wife of the Rev. C. P. Westbrooks, of Waco, Texas. Vera is in the junior class of the college, and a fine musician. She volunteered to go with the singers hoping to aid the college as the result of their songs. She and her associates have been faithful workers, and deserve well of our friends everywhere. Like the old Roman matron, Mrs. Moore has her jewels; and she is going down to see her old "Marsters" folks in West Tennessee, and she takes her jewels with her, for that is old Mar's command. Vera will play the piano and sing to the delight of the white folks, in the parlor which her mother often cleaned as a slave. Laura can give them an interesting and intelligent account of her years of experience as teacher, and itinerant wife in Texas, and Mrs. Moore will be happy, that after years of toil at the wash-tub, she has two such jewels. Dickson is just 40 miles west of Nashville, We have a neat little white church here, and the brick kiln waiting for the workmen to put it into the walls of a church for our colored people. This is a stirring little village, and has some enterprise, and plenty of room to grow. Huntingdon, the train stops and the writer leaves his company in the ladies coach, where they have rode comfortably. No one has seemed hurt or annoyed. This rail road, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, deserves the thanks and patronage of the friends of colored education, as it is the only road coming into Nashville, that makes any reduction in rates to colored students attending school in this city. It gives them a reduction of one third the regular rates. Rev. G. W. Marsh smiles as he gives the Methodist grip, and after a brief call on Hon. A. Hawkins, who is one of the trustees of our college, takes us in a buggy, and Huntingdon is soon behind us. We have preaching in Huntingdon, in the church South. Nine miles South-east of Huntingdon, we pass through Clarksburg, a neat church stands by the road-side. Bro. Marsh says: "That is our church, Bro. Shingler preaches there." Clarksburg is a cross roads village with a string of buildings at irregular intervals, on two roads crossing at right angles. It is a very easy place to see, and a very easy place to be seen. Six mile farther and we stop at Bro T. Drake's. Sister Crake had provided an excellent dinner, which, as it was several hours after mid-day was heartily enjoyed, the writer found himself Henderson county, and in a sort of African colony, as on inquiry he found farms actually owned and paid for, or in process of being paid for by colored persons, as follows:

Thaddeus Drake	156 acres
John Douglass	300 "
Henry Elim	200 "
Shade Douglas	300 "
Lewis Pearson	500 "
Green Williams	80 "
James Smith	68 "

Susan Corbet	50 "
Mary McVeay	150 "

One or two of these have cotton gins on their farms. No better cotton or corn is to be found in West Tennesse than can be seen on some of these newly opened fields. "I can ride seven miles in one direction said Bro. Marsh, from this place, through the land owned by colored people, and not touch on a spot owned by a white." What is land worth. From three to five or six dollars an acre. This land is on the southern part of Carroll and northern part of Henderson counties. It is generally wooded, considerable good timber, but it is from fifteen to twenty five miles from a railroad.

The writer spoke in a log church at night, hot as it was, and crowded to discomfort, the people listened attentively, and the other part of the congregation outside was as quiet and attentive as the within. The occasion was a Sunday-school Institute of Bro. Marsh and Bro. Swift's adjoining circuits. Bro. E. M. Manson from Brownsville was present and managed the Institute which had attracted attention for three days and nights. Bro. Manson was ably assisted in the work of the Institute. Sunday morning the Institute closed with a Sunday-school conducted by Bro. Manson. The writer preached at 11 o'clock and at night. Bro. Manson preached at 2 o'clock, which was followed by a prayer meeting with a dozen or more forward for prayer. At night one professed to be saved. The brethren here intend to have a new church, and they are abundantly able to build it. Bro. Douglass who took the writer back to Huntingdon on Monday, said the church will be up before cold weather.

The mule which Bro. Douglas drove took the whip very kindly. Several places were tried but the skin seemed to be about the same thickness and showed equal insensibility to the whip. "Kit takes good care of herself," was the remark of Bro, Douglass as the mules went off in a little dog-trot after a half dozen rousing blows with the whip: "She is never in a hurry," It was well the writer was not. We made the eighteen miles in a little over six hours, and had only a few minutes to wait till the train came. The white people, I was told by the brethren treat the colored people generally with as much respect, in this neighborhood, as if they were equally American citizens with themselves. The colored people are in favor of temperance, schools and churches, they are industrious and exhibit care and neatness in their homes. The writer slept well in their cabins, and fared sumptonsly at every meal It is to be hoped that the whole South will soon be dotted with plantations owned by Negroes. No better plan exists to make him a good citizen, than to let him posess his own farm and cultivate it for himself.

Grant Memorial Services in Baton Rouge La,

THE PARADE.

SATURDAY, Aug. 8, 1885.

Exercises commenced at 2 p. m. by the assembling of the various benevolent associations, headed by the National Cornet and Field Bands of East Baton Rouge, on Boulevard street, where they were formed into a procession, and paraded the principal streets of the city, under the auspices of the grand marshal, Hon. A. Tanner, and his aids, namely; J. W. Washington, S. W. Campbell, C. Dncket, M. Hillner, M. Winfield, P. Martin, J. Thomas, D. Hudly, and C. Keller.

The procession certainly was grand. About four hundred horsemen followed in line, two by two; the footmen numbered about six hundred. all clad in uniforms according to the custom of the society to which they belong.

After parading the principal streets they then marched to the State House, and proceeded to House of Representatives, where the following exercises took place: President Wm Duplessis called the house to order and the services were opened by the Chaplain, Rev R. Thompson, reading the 90th Psalm, then music by Prof. Levy's Choir, "Nearer My God to Thee," after which prayer was offered by the Chaplain.

On a motion by Mr. M. Winfield, Messrs. Jos. W. Wahington and Oliver P. McKittrick, by acclamation, were elected secretaries to note the proceedings. Then President Duplessis introdnced the principal speakers who delivered an appropriate address.

THE ADDRESS.

Ladies, Gentlemen and Friends —God has seen fit, in his all-wise providence, to take away a beloved chieftain. We feel as though it is our undivided duty to suspend business, and hold religious and devotional exercises, in respect to one of the greatest generals that ever gave a command in the American army.

To day the American flag waves unfurled in the gentle breezes in morning for one of America's bravest heroes.

The fifty million of people that inhabit this vast continent from the Pacific in the far west, eastward to the Atlantic Ocean, and from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, hold in reverence this day, as a day of memorial, to the death of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

Nearly four years have passed since these enlightened races have put on the garb of mourning. in unanimous sympathy for one of the chief heads of this grand Republic.

To-day Gen. Grant's mortal body ceases to exist, but his gracious works remain to exist forever.

The invaluable services that were rendered by this great General, in the late civil war are unimagined by her good people, and the ascending steps of military fame, and many battles won by him, show that he is one the greatest generals that ever fought a battle in the annals of the American history. To him is due a part of the credit for the victory of the Union soldiers in the late civil war.

Gen. Grant being a man of great integrity, resolute in spirit, and with a tender sypathizing heart, was beloved by all who knew him for his noble heart, and his charitable acts of kindness; never was he known to commit a disgraceful act, nor to take advantage of an individual within his power.

At the expiration of President Johnson's term in office he was the chosen candidate of the Republican party to fill that exalted position, chief of the nation, and on the 4th day of March, in 1869, he became the eighteenth President of the United States.

It should well be remembered by the colored race that it was under Gen. Grant's administration that the bill known as the 15th Amendment passed Congress, and became a part of the Constitution, providing the colored man with his privilege to vote, and that the rights of citizenship should not be denied him on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Many other important acts passed under his administration, among which was a provision for the celebration of the first one hundred years of the independence of the United States, by a grand International Exposition, held at Philadelphia, in 1876, showing the great progress in civilization, and causing the friendly ties to be bound stronger and closer between the United States and other civilized nations of this green and productive earth.

In Gen. Grant's travels, when at Jacksonville Fla., a question of civil rights arose between the colored and white inhabitants of that place, the colored people being denied the privilege of stopping at the leading hotels. Gen. Grant's soft and penetrating words were: "Where I go, there you shall come." Like Washington, he was first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

President Duplessis also introdnced Messrs. J. J. Williams, P. Martin, Rev. R. Thompson and Capt. Jno. S. Chapman each of whom delivered addresses.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received:

BATON ROUGE, Aug 8, 1885.

To Chairman Grant Memorial Committee—Dear Sir: Please convey to your comrades and the citizens assembled my sincere regret at being unable to fill my engagement to address them at the memorial services to day. Illness in my family will prevent my performing a duty which I should have considered a high honor.

The death of General Grant is one of the most memorable events in American chronology, and the distinction achieved by him in scarcely a score of years has no parallel in the annals of history. His life and character form the highest tribute of American institutions and government. To-day his death is mourned not only by fifty millions of our people, but by the people of all the civilized world.

His mind and soul must, indeed, be embittered by the remembrance of our civil strife, and blinded by the bonds of prejudice, who can fail to discover in General Grant the highest elements of civil and military genius, or fail to recognize him as one of earth's greatest heroes. Again, regretting my inability to be with you, I remain, very respectfully,

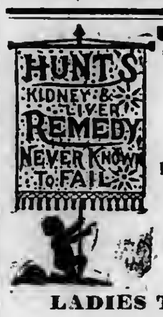
T. SAMBOLA JONES.

BATON ROUGE Aug. 8, 1885.

Messrs. Wm. Duplessis, Tanner and Windfield.—Gentlemen: I regret that personal illness will prevent my addressing the public this evening. Permit me to say that your meeting is a laudable one, and if I could co operate with you in extolling the virtues and memorializing our lately deceased ex-President, it would afford me unalloyed pleasure. Very respectfully, gentleman,

H. F. BRUNOT.

RESOLUTIONS.



The following resolution of condolence was offered by President Duplessis, and was received and adopted by a unanimous vote of the entire assembly:

WHEREAS. It has pleased God, in His all-wise Providence, to remove from our midst our distinguished and honored chieftain, U. S. Grant, by the monster hand of death; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the citizens of East Baton Rouge, do heartily tender our heartfelt sympathies to the family of our beloved and honored deceased friend, Gen. U S. Grant

Rev. R. Thompson, of the M. E. Church, then pronounced the benediction.

The House of Representatives was crowded from pit to dome About 1500 people are supposed to have been in attendance. Among the many of note we noticed Mrs. and Mrs. Turnbull, Miss Perkins, Mr. Lyons and family, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Burch and family, Mr. Barrow and family, Mr. Taylor and family, Mr. Wall. Mr. Barnes, Mr. Cotton, Mr. Martin and family.

Difficulty of Pleasing.

Ah, me, our chapel critics seldom find,
So fine their taste, a pastor to their mind.
'Tis neither doctrine, liturgy, nor psalm,
Fine speaking only bears away the palm.
No soul can please them but the gifted few.
Send Bunting—lo! they want a Newton, too.
Were Paul to visit our degenerate land,
And preach as infancy might understand,
Our virtuous hearers would complain,
And wish him back to paradise again.
Ask them to hear an honest worthy man,
Like Nelson, wedded to the Gospel plan.
Plain, simple, unadorn'd or rude in speech.
He preach the Gospel! No; he cannot preach!
So vulgar, coarse, inelegant and rough,
Who, but a blockhead would go hear such stuff?
Watson may hope to please them now and then,
Mr. Clarke, who preaches noblest with his pen,
But finest viands soon their palate sate,
Unless served up on porcelain or plate.
Others, also, with judgment not so just,
For far-fetched fustian feel the keenest gust.
What plain, good men, can never understand,
"In excellent, is exquisitely grand!"
Some rare, or old conceit, no matter which,
So Gerund thought, make every subject rich;
Howe'er inflated, pompous and untrue,
They care not, so 'tis curious and new;
Antipodes of plainness, truth and sense,
And volunteers for rank extravagence!
Who probes the heart with duties unperformed?
Who storms a lying creed that should be stormed?
Who weighs the merits of an airy hope?
They love as well as Addison loved Pope!
The purest, simplest doctrines fail to please,
Not deck'd with flowers nor gemm'd with similes;
Plain truth must robes of gossamer put on,
And Tully's classic toga fit St. John,
To their false taste and wild luxuriant wit,
The book Divine, by inspiration writ,
Of wisdom full, with eloquence replete,
May seem too common, coarse and obsolete,
And Wesley's style, though beautifully chaste,
Be much too simple for their flashy taste.

Domestic Hygiene.

Should People Drink Much Water?

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

Water is the world's most common form of liquid. It is sometimes a great enemy of man, but generally a blessing. Its very abundance has often caused people to overlook its real value as a refreshment, as a remedial agent, and as a menstruum for conveying remedies to the system. Under these three characters we will consider water, and answer the question as to the amount of water we may drink during any twenty-four hours.

1. Water possesses the power to refresh, invigorate and enliven the system when it is wearied or depressed by exercise or burning up with fever. While we are exercising there is going on a continuous, sensible perspiration, which may be seen in beads of sweat standing on the forehead and other parts of the body. At sometimes this perspiration becomes very great in amount, and when united with the insensible perspiration going on all the time, when sleeping as well as when awake, becomes a matter of great moment. All of this comes from the blood. It is the liquid or watery portion of the blood eliminated by the glands lying just below the skin, and in close contact with the arterioles and capillary vessels. As the water is eliminated the blood becomes thick and sluggish, moving with slow rate through the blood vessels. There will follow a sensation of languor, oppression, and in some cases of real fainting. A draft of water, not ice water, is quickly absorbed by the vessels of the stomach, and soon a stream of water is poured into the blood, which liquifies it, and sends it on its way with quickened pace. Immediately the sensation of faintness and languor pass away, and the whole being is refreshed. In short, cold water to drink is an absolute necessity to life.

We have seen four drymen working in a temperature intolerable to most people, sweating profusely, who were required to drink often large draughts of cool water in order to endure the exhausting labor, and great loss of water from the blood. It would have been absolutely impossible for them to endure such heat and labor without water.

2. Water as a remedial agent is valuable, but is often overlooked. The day was when a fever patient must not touch a drop of water lest he die. Now cooling drinks are prescribed, and used with the most satisfactory results. The temperature may be quite rapidly reduced by drinking water.

In many other cases of disease water is invaluable. In the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal appears a valuable article, from which the following is quoted:

"Water is, perhaps, the most powerful diuretic which we possess. The diuretic action of water drunk by a healthy man is very marked, and it appears impossible to explain its elimination by a mere increase in blood pressure, whether general or local. It has the power of increasing tissue change, and thus multiplying the products of tissue waste which result from it, but it removes those waste products as fast as they are formed, and thus, by giving rise to increased appetite, provides fresh nutriment for the tissues, and thus acts as a true tonic.

"In persons who are accustomed to take too little water the product of tissue waste may be formed faster than they are removed, and thus accumulating, may give rise to disease. If water be freely drank by such persons the product of water will be removed, and health maintained or restored. Thus many gouty persons are accustomed to take little or no water, except in the form of a small cup of tea or coffee daily, besides what they get in the form of wine or beer. In such people a large tumbler of water drank every morning, and especially with the addition of some nitrate or carbonate of potassium, will prevent a gouty paroxysm. Still more numerous, possibly, is the class of people who rise in the morning feeling weak and languid, more tired, indeed, than when they went to bed. Now, fatigue may be regarded as the imperfect response of muscles and nerves to stimuli, and such an imperfection in their action may be due either to their imperfect nutrition or to the imperfect removal of the products of their waste. Many such people are well fed, sleep soundly, and it seems almost impossible to believe that the fatigue which they feel in the morning can result from imperfect nutrition, more especially as one finds that after moving about the languor appears in a great measure to pass off. It seems to me that the languor must depend upon imperfect removal of the waste product from the body. I am, therefore, in the habit of advising such persons to drink a tumbler of water before going to bed."

3. Water is, in general, the best vehicle for conveying medicines into the system that can be found. While it will not always disguise the taste of medicines, it washes them down so rapidly that the taste is soon gone. Its solvent power is beyond calculation, and readily carries the remedial agents to the proper organs in a condition for perfect absorption.

It is possible for one to drink too much water for comfort; but when there is a real desire for a drink of water it does not harm the system to drink. Ice water is not healthy. An occasional draft may not particularly harm the stomach, but the continuous use of ice water does engender dyspepsia, gastritis, and various disorders of the digestive organs. Cool water, that is, water somewhat below the temperature of the surrounding air does no harm, but beware of much ice water.

Wonderful Healing Properties of

DARBYS PROPHYLACTIC FLUID

HEALING, CLEANSING, DISINFECTING. IN CASE -OF- Accidents.

For Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Wounds, Bruises, etc., it is invaluable and gives instant and permanent relief. It immediately allays pain. Nothing is necessary but to apply it directly to the parts affected. It will keep down Inflammation, Gangrene or Proud Flesh, and in a short time will heal without applying anything else. This was fully proved in the military hospitals during the late war. It has performed astonishing cures both in the case of men and animals afflicted with chronic sores. It cleanses and heals obstinate Ulcers, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas and running sores of every kind. It destroys the disagreeable effluvia, arising from Cancers, Abscesses, Ulcers and every kind of purulent discharge.

FOR THE TOILET AND NURSERY.

In the water used in bathing add a small quantity of Darbys Prophylactic Fluid. It is a cleansing lotion for the skin—healing, purifying and refreshing. Removes all taint of Perspiration from the body and whitens and softens the skin. Cures eruptions, Blotches, Prickly Heat, etc. Used as a dentifrice it purifies the breath, preserves the teeth and cures toothache, sore gums, canker, and deodorizes bad breath. Sore or Inflamed Eyes are speedily cured. Perfectly harmless, used internally or externally.

FOR ANIMALS—HORSES, DOGS, ETC.

Scratches, Sores, Galls, Bruises, Cuts or Wounds of any kind quickly and permanently healed by washing with the Fluid. Dr. J. Lost Friends.

We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for the whereabouts of my father's people. He was born in the town of Salisborough, Roan county, North Carolina, in 1824. He was a blacksmith by trade. He came down to Lonisiana with his owner, and was sold. I don't know any of his people by name. He was raised by his grandmother. His name is Mumford McCoy. I am his son. He is now dead. Address C. V. McCoy, Pearlington Postoffice, Miss.

In 1852 there were 156,149 votes cast for John P. Hale, Senator from New Hampshire, which gave the Liberty Party the balance of power between the Whig and Democratic parties. In 1854 or 1855, Horace Greeley, of the Tribune, I think, stated that the Whig Party was dead, and the only practical thing to be done was for its adherents to unite with the Liberty Party. A conference was held, which resulted in giving up the names of Whig and Liberty, and calling the new party "Republican," taking the Liberty Party's platform—"No farther extension of Slavery into free territory." About two-thirds of the Whig Party at the North, and one-quarter of the Democratic Party united with the Liberty Party, and in 1856 1,341,164 votes were cast for J. C. Fremont. In 1860, 1,866,352 votes were cast for Abraham Lincoln, who was elected President, and within five years after that the Lord destroyed slavery.

In 1872 there were only 5,608 third party Prohibition votes cast in all the United States; in 1876, 9,522; in 1880, 10,302; in 1881, about 30,000, and in 1882 nearly 100,000. If all the temperance people in the land will work and vote as they talk and pray, we will have one million votes in 1884, three millions in 1888, and in 1892 we will elect a President on the Prohibition platform, and a Prohibitatory Amendment will be in practical operation in every State in the Union.

She Had Confidence.

Mrs. H. C. Harshbarger, Manor Hill, Huntingdon County, Pa., writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O.: I have been afflicted for three years, caused by over-work too soon after confinement. My kidneys became seriously affected; could not retain my urine day nor night. It was high colored, thick and bloody. My monthlies had left altogether for fourteen months, during which time I was confined to my bed with a beating in right ovarie. The discharge from the womb was so offensive no one could stay in the room. The urine continued bloody, with pain in voiding it, and when in bed would pass from me in my sleep. I have had three doctors attending me regularly, one for four months, one of the others one whole summer, and the third all winter. We had two others in consultation with them, and used twenty bottles of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no good. I then got a bottle of PERUNA, and before I had three-fourths of the bottle taken I quit wetting the bed and could retain the urine sufficient to attend church, which I had not done for three years, and my monthlies came back as natural as ever; indeed, I considered myself a well woman again. Since that time I have had pneumonia. My confidence in PERUNA was so great that I did not send for a doctor. I followed the directions in your "Ills of Life" and am over it, as well as can be expected of one so delicate as I have been. Others in my neighborhood had the same disease, and among them were strong men, and had the best physicians, and yet died, while I sailed through in safety on PERUNA and MANALIN. I sincerely believe, and would say to all the afflicted in the wide world, that PERUNA and MANALIN are the only two medicines that any one needs in any disease, if used as directed in your book entitled "The Ills of Life."

J. E. Fleming, publisher of the New Dominion, Morgantown, W. Va., writes: "Some months since, I received some of your medicine in exchange for advertising. My wife has taken five bottles of it, and has derived great benefit from it."

Mr. M. C. Pershing, Bradenville, Pa., writes: "My wife has been using PERUNA for some time for weak lungs and liver and kidney complaint, and thinks it is doing her great good. Has used only one bottle as yet. Please send your book on the 'Ills of Life,' as we can't get any from our druggist."

Mr. John Denny, Mt. Vernon, O., writes: "We have a large sale in PERUNA. It gives satisfaction."

PERUNA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price. We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he do not be persuaded to try PERUNA also, but order from us at once. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O.

FOR $4.20.

Either Weekly alone is worth more than the price asked for both, as they contain reviews of the news of the world, a vast amount of select literary matter, exhaustive commercial reports, in fact everything is embraced that tends to make a

First-class Family Newspaper.

The subscription price to Weekly Times-Democrat alone is $1.50 for 12 months; 75 cents for 6 months, or 50 cents for 3 months.

Every family in New Orleans not taking the Daily TIMES-DEMOCRAT should keep posted in the

by taking these Weeklies, and as an inducement we offer a good serviceable watch for the small addition mentioned above.

The WATERBURY WATCH is a stemwinder, and will run twenty-eight hours. The case is NICKLE-SILVER and will always remain as bright as a new silver dollar. The Watch has a heavy beveled edge and a crystal face. The works of the Watch are made with the finest automatic machinery. Every watch is tested in varying positions, and is perfect before leaving the factory. Each Watch is put up in a handsome new improved SATIN-LINED CASE, for safe transportation through the mails.

AN ADVERTISING AGENCY.

Newspapers.

Catalogue.

Advertisement.

Our Lists.

Estimates.

Printing Office.

Our System.

Payment.

We receive and keep on file over 12,000 Newspapers published in every State and Province in America. Over 1000 Daily papers alone arrive every morning. Each paper is examined by careful clerks and the insertions entered in record books. Under our system an advertiser is sure to receive the full value for his money.

We publish the "American Newspaper Catalogue," a volume of 900 pages elegantly bound in cloth, and containing a complete list of the publications of every character in the United States and Canada. On one line we give place of publication, name of paper, class or denomination, age and circulation. In it are catalogued 14,000 periodicals. Sent free on receipt of $1.50.

We can secure the prompt insertion of any advertisement in any publication at the lowest attainable prices. We keep constantly invested over $200,000 "in space" in the best lines of newspapers. Our special lists of Papers will be found especially useful in making up lists for pushing any special lines.

We have, for the convenience of advertisers, made up our Religious List containing the names of all the leading denominational papers with prices. Our Agricultural List containing the names of all the prominent agricultural papers with prices. Our Local List of 1,300 County and City Weeklies and Dailies, arranged by States with publishers' prices and the prices at which we can insert advertisements. These Lists are mailed free on application.

We will furnish to any reputable advertiser who will apply, an estimate showing exact cost of any proposed line of advertising, and when desired, will make up lists and write advertisements, provided the amount desired to be expended is named. We have had a wide experience, and can suggest lines of papers best adapted to the wants of an advertiser.

We keep constantly supplied with the newest styles of type best adapted to the display of advertisements. Send us your copy and we will return with estimate & proof from type without extra charge.

Our organization for correctly following an advertisement in the newspapers is perfect, and our patrons can be assured that correct work from every publisher will be exacted.

To any advertiser entitled to credit, or any one who can furnish us proper references, we will extend any reasonable line of credit. Publishers pay us a commission for all the business we send them, and any advertiser can be assured of obtaining through us lower prices than can be obtained from publishers direct. In no instance do we charge advertisers any addition to publishers' rates.

Golden Text—Thou hast sold thyself to work evil in the sight of the Lord. 1 Kings 21. 20.

LESSON HYMN. C. M.

Hymual, No. 784.

Try us, O God, and search the ground.
Of every sinful heart;
Whate'er of sin in us is found,
O bid it all depart.

If to the right or left we stray,
Leave us not comfortless;
But guide our feet into the way
Of everlasting peace.

Up into thee, our living Head,
Let us in all things grow,
Till thou hast made us free indeed,
And spotless here below.

OUTLINE.

1 Ahab's Greed—v, 4 6.
2 Jezebel's Guilt—v. 7 16.
3 God's Justice—v. 17 19.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

What was there near King Ahab's place that he wanted very much for his own? A vineyard belonging to Naboth.

Why didn't he buy it if he was a rich king? He did try to, but Naboth would not sell it.

What did he do because he could not get it? He went to bed and cried, and would not eat his supper.

What did Jezebel tell him when she knew it? That she would give it to him.

How did she manage to get it? She wrote to the rulers of the city.

What did the letter say? Take Naboth and get some men to swear they heard him curse God and the king.

What were they to do next? Take him out and stone him to death.

Could she find any one wicked enough to do such a thing? Yes; they did just as she said.

As soon as Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned, what did she tell Ahab? "Arise, and take Naboth's vinyard; for he is dead!"

As Ahab was walking up and down the vinyard who appeared to him? Elijah.

What did Elijah say to Ahab? "The dogs shall lick your blood in the same place they did Naboth's."

How did Naboth die? He was killed in battle.

When the servants washed his chariot, what happened? The wild dogs licked up his blood.

WORDS WITH LITTLE PEOPLE.

God teaches us by bad examples as by good ones. Just over that fence, or the other side that store window, is something you want almost as much as Naboth wanted the vineyard. This side the fence and the window you are safe; on the other side, you have sold yourself to work evil in the sight of the Lord. Surely as Ahab and Jezebel had. [Repeat the Golden Text.] Remember, no one gets sold to sin all at once; they creep along to it by degrees. Watch and guard against the least step toward it. Remember who is waiting to help.

Doctrinal Suggestion—Human Depravity.

D. D. Goodwin, Yazoo City, Miss., officiating.

Rev. J. C. Clarke, local preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was joined in matrimony to Miss Mary Jackson, of Monroe, La., June 20, 1885. The bride is a polished young lady, and has many friends who wish the young couple a long and happy life. Both are teachers and benefactors of their race. Rev. J. C. Jones officiated.

Obituary.

Great is the loss of the West Tennessee District, caused by the death of Rev. E. M. Manson, the preacher in charge at Brownsville, Tenn. On Friday, the 14th, Bro. Manson fell asleep in the arms of the One that has promised to go with us through the Valley of the Shadow of Death. His death is strongly felt by Elder Price, for in Bro. Manson he found a preacher, a friend true and tried, and a Christian. To his family he was a loving husband and father. Though his spirit is absent from the body, he yet lives in the hearts of all that came in contact with him. His body was brought to the church of the writer, three miles north of Murfreesboro, accompanied by his family and Elder J. P. Price. Not being ready for the funeral, Bros. Price, James and the writer spent several minutes in eulogizing. After which his body was taken to the grave for interment. The church has lost a true Christian, a worker, and a scholar; Elder Price a confidential and true friend; his wife an affectionate husband, and his child a kind father. Elder Manson was a young man just entering into the seemingly most useful part of his life, when the Father of Spirits told him he had done enough, to come up higher. Two of our promising young men have been carried away by the ruthless hand of death; but, oh, how sweet to the soul when it can say at that trying hour, "I am crossing; angels are around me, I'll soon be at home," as were the words of Bro. E. M. Manson.

H. W. SIMMONS.

Murfreesboro, August 19.

Sister Effie Scott, a member of Kateland M. E. Church, Rev. A. McGlocklin, pastor, died in May, 1885. She was prepared to meet her Lord.

Sister Eliza Woods, departed this life, June 11, 1885, in Orange, Texas. She left four daughters, one son, and five grandchildren to mourn her loss. She was a good and faithful member of the church, Aged 78 years.

G. B. DONNELLY, P. E.

Shreveport District—Louisiana Conference.

I have succeeded in getting reduced rates on the Texas and Pacific Railroad, through the kindness of B. W. McCullough, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, who informs me that his road will sell tickets at all stations between Shreveport and Alexandria inclusive to Mansfield and return for session of the District Conference at rate of five cents per mile. Tickets will be on sale on Aug. 11th and 12th, good for return until the 17th. It will be well to cut this out and have it with you. When purchasing tickets state for what purpose. Remember the date to purchase your tickets. This I have done for those of our friends and members of the conference who wish to attend. Be prompt, dear friends and brethren. H. J. WRIGHT.

Central Alabama Conference.

To the pastors and superintendents of the Marion District:

Dear Brethren—There will be held in the town of Marion, on Sept. 3-9, a Sunday-school Institute of the M. E. Church for the district. Each pastor is required to be present and have one delegate at least from each Sunday-school. Come, brethren, such a meeting is very much needed, therefore do not be negligent to the call. The services of Rev. A. H. Gillett, D. D., promises already grand success. Although this institute is in the Marion District yet every one interested in the cause of Sabbath-schools is invited to attend. Ample preparations will be made for all. The following programme will be carried out with some modifications:

At 9 a m, devotional exercises for 15 minutes, conducted by Prof M J Moore, of Marion.
At 9:20 a m, election of officers and reports of delegates.
At 10 a m The Sunday-school as an institution, and its international union—Prof. W B Patterson, President of the Lincoln Normal University, Marion, Ala.

How to be Beautiful.

Ladies, you can be sure of this: that you cannot have rosy cheeks and a clear complexion unless you are in good health. Disease always spoils beauty. Parker's Tonic purifies the blood, invigorates the organs, drives all bad humors out of the system, and makes the palest face attractive. Tell your husbands.

Looks So Untidy.

Nothing looks more untidy than the presence of scurf and dandruff in the hair and on the clothing. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam will heal the scalp and free it from this nuisance. Stops falling of the hair, promotes new growth and makes it soft, glossy and silky. Best of dressing. Deliciously perfumed.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Federal Goverment receives $80,000,000 revenue annually from the manufacture of all kinds of liquors, and the States receive $20,000,000 more for licenses, making a total revenue of $100,000,000 a year, so the Goverment receives $1,000 on every man who dies a drunkard. The debit side is startling in its immensity, statistics showing that $900,000,000 are annually spent for intoxicating drinks, while to this vast sum must be added the proportionate criminal and pauper expenses, jails, reformatories, prisons, insane and other asylums and poor houses; also the expenditures of public and private charitable organizations, of extra legislation, courts, police and other officials; and finally the loss of time and injury to health and life. All this is estimated at $600,000,000; making an awful total, a billion and a half annually. This awful waste, and the infamous crimes accompanying the soul and body-destroying traffic, is largely to be charged to those Christian voters who have permitted the Goverment to become its principal partner and all-powerful supporter.

Editorial Notes.

"We are living, we are dwelling
In a grand and awful time!
In an age on ages telling:
To be living is sublime!
Hark! the waking up of nations—
Gog and Magog to the fray;
Hark! What soundeth? Tis our nation
Groaning for a better day."

No sin of to morrow will be forgiven to day's.

Yesterday's repentance is ineffectual for to day's offenses.

Evil speaking is always sinful, and sin is always unjustifiable.

If you do not find Christ where wealth and splendor abounds look for him where poverty and want are supreme.

Holiness is an end to which Methodism is a means. Organizations in Methodism for the promotion of holiness are therefore superfluous.

As to every good there is a blessing, so to every bad character there is a curse, and we affect the one or the other by substituting the former for the latter charactor or not.

Whatever is found in a search for holiness is a means to it. Methodism was found by Mr. Wesley in his search for holiness; therefore Methodism is the means to holiness.

We fruitlessly toil all the night long because we toil along the shore. At the Master's word we must push out into the deep if we would take the net breaking draughts.

"What reason ye in your hearts whether it is easier to say thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say arise and walk! He who could and did say both with the power of execution is the Lord of both soul and body, and the all powerful savior of men in heaven and on earth.

The Saviour acted as if he thought the way to save publicans and sinners was to go and eat and drink among them. Let his ministers go and do likewise, avoiding all intemperance as he did. The servant is not greater; it is sufficient that he be as his Lord in these things.

"It is a good thing to wait upon the Lord," because by so doing we [illegible] assurance that in our ex[illegible] we can, without disappointment, wait for him. Waiting [illegible] upon which we [illegible] to wait for the Lord.

Reflections of Missionary Life.

BY BISHOP BURNS' COMPANION, REV. JAMES A. REESE.

An old proverb, "It is better late than never," living under its influence for fifty years, and proclaiming it to others through the Gospel; have just consented to publish, through your valuable paper, my heartfelt experience in the religion of Jesus Christ. Born July 2, 1810, at 3:30 p. m., converted when fourteen years old, I went with the first missionary band to Liberia in 1832. I sailed from Baltimore with many who went there to live. While there I never suffered from sickness, and was known as John Bull. On going to that dark land I was stimulated by having read John Stackhouse's history of the Bible, and would have went had I been certain of death. Put your faith in God was the rock on which I stood. Wherever the sun shone I believed I could live, and would live. The seasiekness purified my blood and prepared my system for the coming of old John. But the old gentleman never made his appearance at my house; hence my experience was only with Tom Small, who learned me all I know; but I put my faith in God. Having taken hold of God's strength, and made peace with him, I enjoy it now. He has not forsaken me in my old age, when I am bowed and gray headed. I want the views and feelings of my heart in my past life left in the hearts of some one in the church, of which I am and have been a member for 61 years. He will do for them what He has done for me.

I propose to send to your valuable paper a few pages on the great grace of God. Your church or churches are the directors of your paper, and with their and your help and with the assistance of the Lord, you can go forth conquering or helping to conquer the world for Christ. To your readers and to all Christians of every name and creed the subject matter intended to be discussed is of vital importance to every professed Christian of every name, and one which all orthodox Protestant denominations profess to believe, and is a part of their creed and constant theme of their public and private ministration and prayer; hence holiness of heart is believed professedly by all to be the privilege of every follower of our crucified Savior, for without holiness no man shall or can see the Lord. This is on the banner of the Methodists. By it they have grown from a corporal's guard to an army of millions. Many now occupying positions in other denominations, that on the cooling of the flame that burnt off the shackles of sin in the M. E. Church became formal, and joined the Baptist, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, etc; and while His assumptions are freely made, there is no reason why the whole truth should not be told. These denominations harmoniously agree in the imperative obligations upon all. To possess it is an indispensible qualification to an enterance into heaven; but do not all agree as to the time, when or where, the work of entire holiness is to be accomplished.

The Methodists, as a body, profess to believe and distinctly teach that it is the privilege and duty of every child of God to look for, to obtain, and to live in the possession and enjoyment of entire sanctification as expressed by the Apostle Paul in his memorable prayer for his Ephesian brethren, who were then believers in Christ, and whom he had previously addressed as Saints. I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of the whole family in heaven and earth, that He may grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his spirit in the inner man, that Christ may dwell in your heart by faith, that ye being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth and length, depth and height, and to know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God. Bow unto Him, said Paul, for He is abundantly able to do for us according to the power that worketh within us. Unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

To present, then, a clear, concise and vigorous view of this subject. It is necessary, then, to have recourse to the different standard writers as to evidences upon which the author founds his belief on the ontward in unison with his inward testimony in the possibility or belief of obtaining Christian perfection or entire sanctification in this life. In the language of one of the poets, is "To live when sin is all destroyed, and then my spotless soul receive and take me home to God."

My principal motive for laying these views before the church is that it may be strong in the Lord of hosts, and with His might and power go forth and be more successful in helping to conquer the world for Christ. It is the author's sincere and deliberate opinion that the dissenters from and opposers of the doctrine have not impartially, and with minds opened to conviction, examined the views already published by some of the ablest writers on the subject in Europe and America; and in consequence have formed vague and erroneous opinions from this cause, and have been in a prejudiced state of mind against a doctrine fully believed by thousands of their fellow Christians; believed upon a Scripture warrant, and with the concurrent testimony of numbers who have most blessedly realized it in their own, to them, undoubted heartfelt experience, through days and months and years, that the "blood of Jesus Christ cleanses from all unrighteousness," having been made holy in life and witnessed before thousands a good confession, and have gloriously triumphed in death. If it be true, then why should not Christians of every name be ready to examine with care and impartiality the arguments and proofs furnished in its support. If it be true, is it not a most invaluable privilege to know that it is so? Is there one among all [illegible] or members of the fa[illegible] Redeemer on earth who [illegible] willingly receive its truth and be benefitted by it? If true, is there one who would not rejoice with joy unspeakable to be admitted into a state of grace that would enable him to cry out continually with the Psalmist, "My heart is fixed, O! God! my heart is fixed." Finding it no longer necessary to hang his "harp on the willows, no longer," we must adopt the language of one of the poets as the expression of his daily experience:

"Now I repent, and sin again;
Now I repent, and now am slain—
Slain with the same unhappy dart,
Which O! so often wounds my heart."

He is cleansed from all sin; saved from all inbred corruptions; not that he may not sin, but that he can possess what the Apostle Paul desired most ardently for the Thessalonian Christians, saying in his prayer, "And may the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." And he adds, "Faithful is he that calleth you." What is there in the condition of a professor of religion who doubts the possibility of his being sanctified before the moment of his departure from this life into the spirit world. Why, then, contend so vehemently for it? Is not the opposite condition much to be preferred? Why was it misunderstood. Those who believe that they have found the King's highway of holiness, who dare not hide their glorious discovery and be guiltless, the love of Christ constraining them to declare, we speak that we know and testify what we have felt and seen; and ye receive not our witness.

Our Ministerial Institute.

REV. A. M. MASON.

A Ministerial meeting was held in Victoria, Texas., March 19th. The meeting met in Webster's Chapel, at 9 o'clock, Rev. J. R. Carnes, in the chair. Prayer by Rev. D. Harper, the following brethren were present: D. Harper, M. H. Robinson, A. M. Mason, Wm. Ellis, S. Scrugs, and I. Graham. After the roll was called, the president addressed the meeting. The after noon session was opened by singing and prayer, by Rev. S. Scruggs, after which the subject of the Sunday School was taken up, and discussed. Each brother spoke freely on the work of the Sunday School and said the church could not do anything if she had no Sunday Schools. The subject next discussed and which seemed to create a lively interest all around was the pulpit, its work and, how to do it. During the discussion Rev. P. M. Carmichael P. E. of the Columbus District, was present and introduced to the meeting. He gave us a fine address on the importance of the meeting; which will not be forgotten soon. The chairman followed with a stirring talk, full of good thought. Rev. P. M. Carmichael, was made an honorary member. Then Rev. Dr. G R. Townsend was introduced and gave an address, full of good judgement. It was agreed that Rev. G. R. Townsend, and Rev. P. M. Carmichael presiding elder of the Columbus District, preach a sermon on the subject of the pulpit, and its work, and how to do it, and they preached it with power; the Doctor said in his sermon, that the pulpit work reached far and wide. He said it did not stop in the pulpit alone. Subject third was then taken up. What kind of preaching do the people need in this matter was discussed with great care, it was a very important one. Rev. S Scruggs being the first to speak on this matter said, we, as Methodist Preachers, must preach a whole Bible to the people. Subject fourth was taken up. Is the Methodist Episcopal Church, the church for the people! If so why! This just suited the brethren and it was a hard one. We give many reasons because there are many to give. The writer will refer the many readers of the SOUTHWESTERN to "A Hundred years of Methodism," by Matthew Simpson, D D. L L D Now if any man, woman or child will read this noble book he will say the Methodist Episcopal Church is the church for the people; and this is not the only book; the "Illustrated History of Methodism," by Daniels, will tell you the whole truth. A preacher is one who addresses a public assembly and imparts instruction respecting the Divine will. From earliest associations, for the worship of God, religious truth has been imparted to mankind through the instrumentality of preachers. Noah was a preacher of righteousness, 2 Peter, 11 5 v. Moses was a most eminent prophet and preacher, raised up by the authority of God, and by whom it was said came the law John 1st chapter, 17th verse. This great man had much at heart. In the promulgation of his doctrine, he directed it to be inscribed. We that were in this meeting will be glad to see the next session come. Our hearts were made glad. We had visitors to attend. They enjoyed it. After reading the minutes we adjourned by singing, and the benediction. After all was over we commenced a protracted meeting which lasted two weeks. The result was 45 converts, and three additions. We were assisted by Rev. J. R. Carnes, Rev. P. M. Carmichael, Rev. S. Scruggs, Rev. G. W. Townsend, and Rev. Dr. G. Ball. Victoria is a nice little city. The pastor and people are alive and at work. I can say the people here love me. I am doing all I can for the SOUTHWESTERN.

What Has Come of Making a Negro Editor.

REV. J. R. CARNES.

We present the following as a sample of a great many letters coming to us, In general we dont print them. But this one comes from such a source as to command especial attention. Brother Carnes is one of the manliest men in West Texas. What he relates can be relied upon as true, to the best of knowledge and belief. He is a true type of the high caste Negro. —ED.

I hope this will not disturb you in your great work, as editor of that grand old paper, that is now bringing light to thousands informationally. Such as have not been heretofore. The paper has been so wonderfully informed that even those who heretofore have been heard to speak in slanderous terms, with reference to the Negro's ability to hold office of the highest importance, in the gift of the church and people; to lay their hand upon their mouth, and watch with astonishment the rapid progress that he is making toward manhood, and intelligence. It was asked the other day, is that paper edited by a Negro? It can't be so! I said it is so! And his name is Marshall Taylor too, well said he, that is about as well as a white man could have done it. I said further, this is but a specimen among the many gentlemen of color, and our aim is to make this capacity general. A gentleman the other day whose name I withhold, desired to know what the Negroes were going to do, when they all become educated, I replied, we will make honorable and intelligent citizens of ourselves, and will be felt as well as heard, on the great question restricting the rights, and privileges of citizens of this great commonwealth. The paper is growing into popularity among our people, and it shall, and must be paid for. You shall have every dollar I owe you and that soon. The canvass is being pushed and collections taken, I will forward money as fast as collected.

Interest Woman Has in the Cause of Temperance.

REV. ANDREW BRANCH.

The necessity for the work of temperance exists almost exclusively among men. But this is not a reason why women should not be engaged in it. They, in reality, are the greatest sufferers from intemperance; they suffer through others whose heart bears the burden of sorrow and suffering when the intoxicated husband enters his home, who bears the heaviest burden of the poverty and toil which his drinking often brings on the family! Who suffers the keenest anguish of the mortification and disgrace which is felt in consequence of it.

Ah, what a wretched home does the intoxicating cup often make for woman; it poisons every spring of domestic bliss, and makes that home, which should be the center of every attraction, a scene of wild disorder, madness and cruelty. It often happens that the intoxicated husband is inoffensive and kind until he reaches his own habitation; here the reign of the demon that has crazed his brain commences. His amiable nature is then transformed by alcoholic poison into one of fury; children flee from their father's frenzy. Instances have occurred where the whole family have been turned out of doors in the night, and women have been dragged by the hair. It is a mistake that such things occur only among poor, vulgar people; they are in families of respectability and in fine mansions, as well as in dirty hovels. Alcoholic drink is no respecter of persons; it produces the same violent temporary derangement, if there is a susceptibility to this kind of action on the brain, whether the person is naturally amiable or not. All know that it is a common thing for intoxicated men to be abusive, violent and disorderly. A woman has a fearful lot with a drunken husband. It is true some are quiet and sensible of their conduct; but this, though not so bad, makes a sad home for a woman, and then think of her anxiety; her waiting and watching for his return; those long, silent hours of the night, while her children are asleep; her domestic duties are done, she is occupied with her needle, and expects and fears his coming. Oh, how sad it is to think of these lonely hours and of the fearful forebodings that fill her mind! Has woman no interest in the cause of temperance? Every wife, mother, and daughter, every woman of every age and condition has a right to demand, and should demand, that the sale of intoxicating drinks should cease; I pray God's blessings may ever follow Mother Hester, who has organized the Women's Home Missionary Society at this place, and Sister Lucy Green styled as president, and also organised the Look Up Legion Society. Miss Lelia Flateau is President. So Methodism is being established here through the children.

First Round. I commenced holding my first Quarterly conference at Locksburg circuit, March, 21-22 1885. The conference was largely attended, business done by dispatch. I preached Sunday at 11 o'clock, a m, the church was well filled and a powerful manifestation of the spirit. One received in church, Bro. M. Lockman pastor, was acceptable to the people.

My next work was at Centre Point. Rev. B. J. Donnel. pastor, was at his post, but not getting on so well, however, conference went on at the appointed time, and all the duties belonging thereto. The writer thought it best for preacher and members to remove this brother, which I did by his consent to Texarkana. The next point was Washington circuit. April, 4-8. The conference business commenced at 3 o'clock, p, m, with full attendence, business performed as at other places, only the presiding elder was requested to attend the funeral sermon of one Isiah Fountain at another place on the work. There also the spirit of power was upon us. The next conference was due at Fulton, April 11 12, but having no pastor, I give Bro. Donnell charge, and as his family was at a distance and ill, give him all the money raised, and, first installment for this charge; also $40 Church Extentention money, of which he receipted me; balance in my hands $1,50; paid the former pastor last fall $1 to pay for deed, $1 50 to pay for lumber.

My next call was in Little River County, where I sent Bro. E. D. Spencer, former pastor was appointed to Red Fork, but unable to reach it was excused by the Bishop W. F. Mallalieu. This brother did not expect me so no place was prepared for preaching, however we preached with other denominations. On changing Bro. Donnell from Centre Point, I supplied it with with Bro. E. D. Spencer, and filled his place with Wm. Lee, a local preacher, on Bro. Lockman's, work. Texarkana 1st and 2d churches, April, 18 19. The conference commenced at the first church, at 3:30 p, m, and at the second church at 5,30 p, m. Matters went on very well considering all things.

I met the Bishop at this place and was requested to go with him to Washington which I did, and we had a nice time. The Bishop's remarks were well accepted by all who heard him.

April 26 and 27 was spent with Bro. M. Fuller, pastor of the Texarkana circuit—the right man in the right place. The duties of the Presiding Elder was performed at each place and I never saw a greater appearance of a break out of a revival in my life as was in the Texarkana Second Church. The Bishop thought the same. I am sorry to say that nothing was done. If I can get amount asked for, for Bro. Fuller, this brother will do a work second to none in the conference. I have also given him charge of the Fulton work. May God help us to do the work of Methodist preachers.

Louisville Circuit—I was due at this place, May 2 and 3, but on account of a wash up on the narrow gage rail road, from Texarkana to Louisville, I could not meet the appointment, and to be engaged I returned to Washington, where the Bishop left a revival going on.

Red Fork was next—May 9 and 10, but the high waters prevented it. Bro. Witherspoon pastor, could not get to his work at this time. I recalled an appointment at Pine Bluff, Bro A. L. Ricardson, pastor. He is doing good work in paying the old indebtedness of the church, and was highly appreciated by the people. We lost the success of our revival at this place, but are not discouraged. We intend if we fail to try again.

MOay 7 and 18 I visited Bro. G. C. Brook's Pine Bluff circuit. This brother was appointed by the Bishop in another district. I found that the brother had sent in his report to the conference, which was lawful, on laying the matter before the Bishop he was excused; I appointed him to this work. As Bro. E. Pinkett did not go, however, the business of the conference went on, and the future looked bright. One mistake I regret, and that is the appropriation to this work was sent up to Little River Mission.

May 23 and 24 I met Bro. A. Hardeman, a hard worker and a good brother, at New Edingburg. This brother was trying to build a church almost of his own strength. May God help him. The conference work was done as at other places. Expressions of a good year's work was seen in every eye.

From this place I called to see Bro. J. G. Thompson at Monticello. This was my first visit to this place. It seems to be a place of not less than 3000 inhabitants, and must be looked after. A great work can be done here. We need most of all a church. We ought to be the men to fear no voice, and when we look around us and see 2,000,000 people making prayers for us, and the greatest of all, King Jesus, in the lead, saying, follow me; brother, you have only to go; rise, take up your beds and walk.

May 30 and 31, finding it possible, I returned to Lonisville, where I met Bro. G. W. Baber, pastor, battling away with sin and Satan; had six conversions, fifteen accessions. He is well beloved by his people. On account of the damage of the spring high waters the conference could not meet at Walnut Hill. In consequence the business was done at Louisville. This finished my first round. I commenced my second round June 20 and 21, 1885.

Marshall District, Texas Conference.

H. WEBB, P. E.

I have made some changes in my fourth round since my last notice. I am at home, laid up a few days, from the effects of heat. My district is prospering. We are on the last half of 1000 souls we claimed at the beginning of the year. Revivals are great in the district. I hope to out again in a few days, assisting in the battle.

Denton, Texas.

Van Buren Dist. Little Rock Conference.

W. R. R. DUNCAN, P. E.

Argenta Circuit. Bro. H. C. Dunlap is pastor, and has done quiet well. It was very disagreable while on this circuit to hold the first Quarterly on account of rain, but we succeeded in holding the conference, and preached to a good congregation, at 3 p, m, administered the Lords Supper to some few, and God came down in showers of blessings. This Bro. is trying to keep up this, with very meager support, but we hope times may get better soon. God bless Bro. D. Little Rock Circuit was our next place, but our appointments somehow became tangled up, but I hope God is blessing him. Bro. J. D. Johnson is pastor.

Sweet Home Circuit. Rev. E. Roberts has charge of this work, and is trying to live by the hardest; there is some little trouble on this work, but I hope things will move off nicely soon. Pray for Bro. Roberts, for he will surely have a hard time. Our quarterly conference and meeting was a success. On this charge we hope to be able to build a new church soon, if we can succeed in getting the $50 donated to this place by the Church Extention Society. The money is still in the hands of our Dear Bro. Sams. From this place we took leave for Alma, Bro. F. Wallace is pastor. He is having a hard time, though struggling to build a house of worship, with twelve members; on this our Bro. is not getting scarcely anything to live on; has only $45 of Missionary appropriation which ought to have been $100. Pray for him, church and conference; for God only knows how he can make it through.

Van Buren is next on this charge. Rev. W. H. Crawford is pastor, and is doing quite well; times are hard, but he is having some success. There were some four or five conversions and as many accessions. Some time before I was able to reach this place one beloved brother lost his dear wife, and a wife she was indeed, and in truth; she departed this life willingly to join God. Among her words last spoken was "Mr. Crawford preach," the wife said. "Bro. Crawford, have I not been preaching." Sister Crawford, "Yes; but preach more." Again she said: "Pa get down on your knees, you and the children and let me hear you pray once more. I want you to preach, for I will be looking down on you." Thanks to God for such words from a dying wife. Brethren, all who know Sister Crawford will mourn her loss, but our loss is her gain. Once more, dear Bro. Crawford, you have my most earnest prayers. God bless you and your remaining family. Fort Smith next. Bro. C. G. Brooks was appointed to this important post, but from some cause he failed to attend. I at once appointed Rev. D. Gamble to this point, he at once consented to attend and soon he was on his work, out among the people. Up to date fifteen have been converted, and more than twenty have been added to the church. We have bought one of the finest lots in town, on which to build a Methodist church. This is an important place. We must build this year. We have made an application for $500, and a $1000 loan, with which to build. If we can get this amount we can build a church in Fort Smith second to none when completed. Any one of our members coming to this country can find us by writing to W. R. R. Duncan, box 70, Van Buren. I am very anxious for this to be known all over our Methodist connection for two reasons, first, our members want a home when they come to this State, and must have one.

Second, our good brothers of the other churches tell them there is no such church in the State. What do you call this; or such statements. These are facts fresh from one long white mulatto presiding elder; if it is not true, your members said they were looking in your mouth when you said it; don't say so any more, brother, when you meet some one of us every day of your life. The places where you made these statements, are Conway, Morrilton and Fort Smith, Arkansas. Look well brethren to such untrue statements. Pray God such will never occur again along the Fort Smith and Little Rock Railroad.

Letters from the Pastors.

H. Swann, Austin, Texas, writes: "I desire again to inform the public that we still continue to work in the Master's vineyard for the advancement of his cause, both spiritually and temporally. At the beginning of our revival effort our worthy Bishop, W. F. Mallalieu, came to Austin in the interest of Sunday School work. After lecturing on the importance of Sunday School work he invited penitents forward for prayers, and a number responded to the call, all of whom were shortly after converted. The fire continued to burn until 140 souls were converted to God, 128 of whom united with our church. The total number which have been added to the church this year is 180. The fourth Sunday in May we made a financial rally for the purpose of aiding our church building enterprise. The writer preached a sermon on the text, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," after which the collection was taken by classes, which resulted as follows: Thos. King's class, $34; Henry Thomas, $15 75; George Giles, 26 25; Geo. Bauton, $17 75; W. Studemeyer. $7; Robert Jones, $27 80; J. W. Alexander, $19 70; M. W. Alexander, $7 50; R. Dukes, $27 50; Irvin Harris, $14 70; A. Jenkins, $13 20; A. Brown, 19 75; C. Baker, $32 30; Richard Adamson, $6 75; P, Dickerson, $13; John Johnson, $14; M. Henderson, $16 50; W. Blackson, $13 75; from the public, $16 20; total, $343 40. Our third quarterly conference convened on Saturday, June 13. Rev. C. L. Madison, presiding elder, conducted it, and a good degree of interest was manifested in the proceedings. The quarterly meeting occurring on Children's Day the presiding elder took part in the exercises, and we had a pleasant and profitable meeting. At 3 o'clock the elder preached an able sacramental sermon, and 300 persons partook of the communion. On the occasion of the Lord's feast 330 testimonies were given for Christ. The collection for Children's Day was $21; for the West Texas Conference Seminary, $12 90; total collection during the day $33 90. So you can see that we are still moving forward. Pray that our success may continue.

Rev. P. H. Hill, of Lexington, Miss., writes: "Children's Day service was held on the second Sunday of June. Bro. A. J. Howard and W. W. Truhart conducted morning exercises. The opening address was by Miss Sarah A. Hill, my seven-year old daughter. The welcoming address was delivered by B. F. Horner. W. H. Lee and Miss Mary King lead the school in singing. Then came responsive readings. The collection was $2 95. An able address was delivered by Rev. Isaac Crawford, pastor of the of the First Baptist Church of Lexington. In the afternoon service I explained the grand missionary field. A. J. Howard also delivered an able address. We were much gratified to see the daughter of Dr. H. Revels, Miss Dora Revels, find a place as one of the teachers in our public schools."

Rev. H. Robinson, of Spring Hill, Tenn., writes: "We had the second Sunday in June set apart to preach to the children. There was only one house on the Lewisburg charge when I went to it, and our preachers had to preach wherever they could get a chance. I gave the children an educational talk at the public school house, and took up 35 cents. The third Sunday was appointed for Farmington, where we are putting up a new house. The people were much pleased with the meeting. Two little boys, Luck Young and Elijah Schumley, acted as stewards, and the collection was $1.

Rev. S. Smith, of Austin, Texas, writes: "My work is in a growing condition. We have just closed a protracted meeting, which resulted in 30 conversions, 50 of whom joined the church. Elder C. L. Madison held our third quarter, and we had a grand time, 75 partaking of the sacrament. The collection for the Elder was $16 65. The times are very hard."

S. M. Bolden, of San Felipe, Texas, writes: "Our third quarter was held June 6 and 7. Elder M. Reddick was with us, and preached a noble sermon on Sunday. He delivered a lecture to the Sunday School, demonstrating the benefits of attending Sunday School, and showing the members why they should attend regularly. He also gave us a fine lecture on duty, and preached on Sunday. The brethren were all present with encouraging reports. We had a grand time on Sunday; baptised 1 and administered sacrament to 38. Also had dinner on the ground. Collected $5 40 for the Presiding Elder. Five joined the church. Pray for us, that the Lord may speed the work."

Rev. R. Duke, Morales, Texas, writes: "My work includes Morales and Edna ville, the latter being the county seat of Jackson county, the only town in it. My work is not doing much, but we hope to improve. We are largely in the majority of church goers. The climate is not very good for our white brethren. Lands are cheap and can be bought for from $1 to $5 per acre, producing from one half to three-fourths of a bale of cotton or 25 to 40 barrels of corn per acre. They are well watered by the Navida and Lavaca rivers. Only a few of the colored people have acquired homes, and they are behind the times in this respect, but I think they are beginning to look up. This is one of the best counties in the State for public schools, which are open from eight to ten months of the year. The State appropriated for children between eight and sixteen years, and the county extended it from sixteen to twenty years, and levied an extra tax for their support. It is a good field for teachers, and we want our teachers to rank with the rest, just as Dr. Boyd, of Nashville, puts it. The school at Morales is taught by Prof. J. Johnson, of Columbus, and is in fine condition. Bro. Johnson fills the bill every inch of his charge, and is a benefit to the people in and out of the school. We hope to keep him with us until we can look up a little higher. On Sunday he gives all his time to our Sabbath School, and never forgets the little ones. Many of the older ones have attended since he came. Children's Day was conducted by him, and we took the collection by classes. Infant class, Prof. Johnson teacher, $4; young ladies, by Miss M. S. Thomas, $2 35; class of B. F. Chase, $1 60; Superintendent H. Brown, from the older people, $1 30. Total, $9 25."

Rev. W. Duncan, Brentwood, Tenn., writes: "My third quarterly conference was held Saturday, June 19. Rev. James Pickett, the presiding elder, not being present, Elder Prim presided. The various reports were promptly made in the usual manner, and we believe, to say the least, that some good was accomplished during the quarter which is now past. On Sunday morning the inclement weather prevented our having 11 o'clock services, but at 3 o'clock in the afternoon the funeral of Sister Sally Meritt was preached by your humble servant. Sister Meritt died in the full triumph of faith, and as I write she is standing in the awful presence of God. In the evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the Lord's supper was administered, Elder Prim officiating.

Rev. H. Primm, Franklin, Tenn., writes: "Our third quarterly meeting was held May 30 and 31. Our loving presiding elder, James Pickett, was with us; four class leaders and one local preacher were present, and one sent in his report with 25 cents in it. The elder said they had the best reports he had ever heard in the district. The following are the reports of the of the classes: No. 1, $8 05; No. 2, $3 75; No. 3, $3 25; No. 4, $14 35; total, $29 40. I have had fifteen to join the church this year. We are doing all we can for the benevolent collections. Pray for us."

Rev. E. Jefferson, of Hempstead, Texas, writes: "Our third quarterly conference was held June 13 and 14, presiding elder, Rev. W. B. Pullam and a majority of the conference were present: He preached to the children at 11 o'clock a. m., and also preached at 3 o'clock p. m. to a crowded house. Four children were baptized, and the sacrament administered to eighty-six persons. Collections, $10."

Letters From the Laity.

Jacob H. George, Singleton, Miss., writes: "Children's Day was observed at Pleasant Grove Church June 14. Rev. Wm. Gatewood addressed the Sabbath School in a very interesting manner, and afterwards there were exercises by the school. Rev. J. H. Marshall, of the Baptist Church, also addressed the school, after which $1 90 was taken up. The programme for children was highly interesting. M. A. Edmond, the superintendent of the Sunday School, delivered an address. We are making improvements in the church."

D. S. Walker, of Brownstown, Ark., writes: "Our Sunday School has heard a grand lecture from Mr. Lockman, our pastor. Children's Day was observed, and a large number of Baptist friends were with us. Miss Peggie Brown was queen for the day service. The collection was $2. There was a grand march, an adjournment for dinner, and in the evening there were able lectures by T. A. Carr, of Howard county, T. J. Smith, of Little River county, and J. Booth, of Sevier county."

J. F. Thomas, of Anderson, Texas, writes: "We had a booming time here on June 19. There were five speakers, and all of them argued the advance of the colored man and proved it to be rapid. I am thankful for the privilege of freedom enjoyed."

C. R. Hamilton, of Eylan, Texas, writes: "We enjoyed a good time on June 19. Rev. G. W. Gill, of Texarkana, delivered an address on the subject of education and improving our time. Last Sunday was the appointed Children's Day. We started for a good time, but the rain cut off, and so we had a time on Sunday night."

Lost Friends.

We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my relatives—my mother, sisters and brothers. My mother's name was Annie Straan; she belonged to Billie Straan. We were first brought from Butt's county, Georgia, and from there to Alabama; from there to Mississippi, and from there to East Texas, Jasper county. Our owner, Billie Straan, got in debt in Alabama, and run away with us to Texas, because his property was to be levied on. The sheriff came to Texas for us, and took my mother and five children back, but Martha and Maria remained out here with our old owner, Billie Straan. The sheriff was Billie Straan's brother, Sam Straan. My brothers are named Columbus and Richard; sisters are Hannah, Betsy, Matilda, Amanda and Martha Maria. Sister Hannah is the oldest and Amanda next. Hannah was left in Alabama. When last heard from they were all still in Alabama. Sister Martha Maria is dead. I heard indirectly from them a few years ago, but nothing definite enough to give satisfaction. Sam Straan, my owner's brother, that carried my mother and five children back to Alabama, I heard, got shipwrecked while on his way back to Texas after Martha Maria and myself. I am alone here in Texas, with no relative except two of my deceased sister's children. Aunt Mary is dead; also old Billie Straan. My name was formerly Amanda Straan, but is now Amanda Whitfield. I wish to know if any are yet living in Alabama, Louisiana or Georgia, for I am very anxious to hear from some of my people. This is the second letter I have written, but have never had an answer. Aunt Mary Straan's two daughters, Caroline and Harriett, are still living and anxious to hear from any of our people. Aunt Mary Straan is a fellow servant of my mother, Annie Straan. Address in care of the M. E. Church, Amanda Whitfield, Columbus, Texas."

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my brother who was sold from us before I could recollect, or was old enough to remember him. His name was George. We belonged to the Widow Tindol. At that time we lived in Roberson county, Texas. His mother was Maria Tendol; my name is Ned; had another brother named Mallory, who also belonged to Widow Tendol. My brother was sold to Jesse Brown, who lived at Wheelock, Texas. Brown sold him to a Mr. Roberson, I think, who lived near Huntsville, Texas, and I have not heard from him since. He left us in 1857 or 1858—mother does not know exactly when. Address J. E. Carrington, Boggy, Leon county, Texas.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to find my brother. He left West Point, Tenn., about the year 1886; he was about twenty years old; he had two fingers cut off his left hand; his little finger and the second. His mother's name was Caroline Kelly, his father William Noland. Address David Kelly, Martin's Mills, Tenn.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to find the whereabouts of my mother, sisters and brothers, whom I left in Roan county, North Carolina. My mother's name was Hannah Hilliard; sisters, Jinsy, Flora and Lucy; brothers, John, Benjamin and Miles Calvin. My father, Jack Hilliard, died when I was quite an infant. I was sold from the Hilliard estate to a speculator by the name of Bill Hadin, who brought me to Texas, whom I have been living with ever since. Address Diana Johnson, Goliad, Texas.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to inquire for the whereabouts of my father's people. He was born in Salisborough, Roan county, North Carolina. He came from there a slave thirty-five years ago, but he is dead now; his name was Mumford McCoy, a blacksmith by trade. Address C. V. McCoy, Pearlington, Miss.

Why He Likes It.

MR. CLEMONT KINGSBURG.

For the first time since I have subscribed for your paper, which I have carefully read ever since August, 1884, I take pleasure, (being one of little worth recognizing by the better class of people) in trying to tell you in this note how well I love, and appreciate your paper. Sir I can safely say to you without any doubt, and with much credit to others, the paper and myself, that your paper does me more good in reading its contents, than any other paper that I ever did read.

It furnishes me matter from one week to the end of the other, all the time, appearing all the time new and interesting. Brother Taylor. My circumstances have been such a hindering cause to my progress that I have failed, so far, to pay you for the SOUTHWESTERN; but sir, I intend to pay you for the full time in the course of four months time from writing. If you are and will be kind, (which I know you are) enough to send me the paper that long you will be sure of your money, if I live and you do, as if you had it now. Brother Taylor, I see many things and subjects in your paper that are recognised and published from the pens of other men, which, I suppose, to be intelligent, and possessing wise thoughts, expressed before the community at large. And as a teacher, having a will and desire to do some good among our people, I want to ask you if I may not write on some short and interesting subjects for the columns of the SOUTHWESTERN. The reason I ask you this privilege is because I have not been raised in high colleges: but plain English. I have a broad and enthusiastic mind in regard to the good of our people, and take an interest in the rising generation. I once heard you say that you would publish anything of interest that any one would send to the paper, no difference how badly written. I sent you or two letters to the paper, and the last one I sent was not published. I could never tell why. I hope God will forever bless, take care of, and give you an eternal reward in his kingdom, for publishing such a paper as the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

La Teche District Conference.

S. E. H. MORANT.

MR. EDITOR—On the morning of the 12th instant we boarded Morgan's cars, and pulled out by his iron horse, headed for New Iberia, the seat of the Teche district conference, to convene the next day, the 13th instant. On the train we met the delegation above us, and picked up many below, on their way to the same point. All appeared as if just from the tents in the camps of the living God, and doubtless felt like conquering heroes from the smoky fields of battle, on their way to headquarters to give in an account of how the plan of battle had been conducted the past several months; because all along the line of our front the enemy had been vigorously attacked and driven out of his entrenchments at the point of God's holy word; his outpost swept away and guns spiked; his lines pierced, flanked and broken; nay, routed; and hundreds killed, wounded and taken prisoners. The latest news, however, is, the enemy was reorganizing his scattered force to attempt a new front. We have no fears, as our rear is well guarded both center and flanks by the artillery and battalions of heaven.

We arrived without accident at our destined point. At the depot we met our worthy division general, Dr. A. E. P. Albert, in company with quartermaster general A. J. Picket, and a host of orderlies; and in less time than it takes me to pen this letter, we were on our way to our quarters. The next train up brought in representatives from the left of our front. At night Rev. William Smith bombarded the enemy's works in our front here. His fire was well directed and terrific. The shouts within our lines, and the cries of the enemy commingling, all heard amid the bombardment, was something pleasant to listen to. Every night during the session the enemy's works were bombarded in turn by Revs. Smith, Hilton, Morant, Hoyt, Bolden, Abbott and Dr. Albert. The hours of the day were occupied in drilling under the able management of Drs. Albert, Godman, Prof. Hoyt and Revs. Marshall, Mason, Lyons and others. Dr. Albert reviewed his campaign. The exhibit was quite gratifying, showing quite an advance beyond the line of his former front, and nearly 400 souls of the enemy had been killed dead in sin and made alive in Christ Jesus, the great general of the Lord's host. His brethren presented him for merit and service to his church, race and country, a nice solid gold, hunting case Waltham $75 watch, stem-winder and setter. It was the occasion for rejoicing both to the donors and receiver. Sister Cora L. Armstead, of Alexandria, was elected lady superintendent of the Women's Home Mission Work of the district. Resolutions were adopted thanking Bishop Mallalieu and Sunday School Union for over 3000 school books, etc.; Dr. Godman and Prof. Hoyt for their able addresses, etc., and esteem of the brethren on his district, and the able manner in which he has conducted and managed the interests of the church; to Morgan's Railroad for reduced fare to and from the seat of conference; to the press for special notices; to the citizens of New Iberia for kind treatment; to pastor, officers, sexton and members of St. James M. E. Church—seat of conference—for entertainment; also to Dr. M. W. Taylor for the able manner in which he is conducting the interests of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, pledging ourselves to renewed efforts toward securing more cash subscribers, and do all we can to enlarge the borders of its circulation among our church members and congregations; also resolutions asking the continuance of Dr. Albert in the presiding eldership, and asking Dr. Godman to put in print the sermon delivered before the district conference, entitled, "God's Providenc Toward Africa;" also asking Dr. Albert to put in print his sermon, "From Egypt to Canaan," he delivered before the district conference; also the committee for the efficient manner in which they managed the business of the conference.

Glencoe was selected as the next place, at which to pitch headquarters, and concentrate the forces of the churches on the district. Mrs. Dr. Albert, Susan Barksdale, and Miss Mary A. E. Thomas were present, participating in the deliberations of the conference, making sorties on the enemy's works. Sunday was field day; not a man remained in his tent; the works of the enemy were stormed on all sides from early morning until 11 o'clock p. m. There was a great number of wounded and several souls captured. Quite an amount of pocket blood was shed throughout the day. Conference adjourned sine die.

Washington, La., Aug. 19.

The license law is a great curse to all this nation. The Government has no more moral right to license men to make drunkards than it would have to license men to break the Ten Commandments. The enormity of the evil of intemperance is almost inconceivable. There are nearly 1,000,000 drunkards in the United States, and 3,000,000 women and children are suffering disgrace and poverty on account of their drunkenness. Nearly 100,000 men die drunkards every year, and go to a drunkard's grave, and I fear to a drunkard's hell, as we read in God's book that "No drunkards shall inherit the kingdom of God." 1st Cor., 6 10. Statistics show, also, that 84 per cent, of all crime committed in this country is the result of intemperance. How long shall we tamely and quietly tolerate a slavery that not only debases the body but destroys the soul.—Horace Waters.

503 N. 20th St., Philadelphia, Nov. 21, 1881.—Darbys Prophylactic Fluid has proven to be a potent remedy for Inflammatory Rheumatism in a case which came under my observation. HAY-FEVER.

How it may be Contracted.

Some interesting experiments, etc., given by Dr. Walker of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hay-Fever is a catarrhal affection of the mucous membrane or lining of the eyes, nose, mouth pharynx, larynx and bronchi, attended with more or less dyspnoea, coughing, sneezing, etc. It is induced by the action of the pollen of various plants, chiefly of the graminance, and severity varies according to the amount of pollen in the air and certain atmospheric conditions. This pollen has been applied to the mucous membrane of the (1) nares, (2) larynx, trachea and bronchial tubes (by inhalation), (3) conjunctiva, (4) tongue, lips and fances, and in all of these cases sy nptoms of Hay-Fever were produced. Some persons are not susceptible of its effects, while others are very sensitive to the influence.

Mr. C. H. Blackley, one of the best European authorities, collected 880 pollen grains on a square centimeter (Thirty nine Hundredths of an inch) of glass in one day. These grains are inhaled in breathing, thus reaching all the parts permeated by air in the act of inspiration. Their action seems to depend on the pollen-sac absorbing moisture from the contiguous mucous membrane and bursting; the minute granules it contains are thrust out and produce irritation.

The general plan of treatment is to give tone and allay irritability. It is reasonable, that if a remedy can be found which will destroy the vitality of the pollen grain without injury to the mucous membrane, and at the same time give tone to the weakened parts and relief to the irritation, speedy and permanent benefit would be secured. Fortunately such remedies exist, which will be readily recognized by every well read physician. The difficulty has been to reach all parts involved. The spray and the inhaler have been used with good results as far as available but the application can be only partial, as every anatomist knows.

The Air Medicator and Injector a simple, inexpensive instrement, manufactured by The Medicated Air Remedy Co., 36 Arcade, Cincinnati, Ohio., meets this great necessity, as by its use the air is medicated and pumped or forced into contact with every diseased point. Medicated Air only, is carried into the head.

By this method, not only are the distressing symptoms relieved, but the poison itself is neutralized and destroyed, thus restoring the diseased membranes to their normal healthy condition. This instrument judiciously used with proper medicines, allows the business man to continue his business at home, with less expense, less discomfort and less anxiety than on long uncomfortable journeys to mountainous regions.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 3, 1885.

Pastoral visits made only to favorites in a church is as the administration of physic only where there is no disease.

"Woe unto you when all men shall speak well of you, for in the same manner did their fathers to the false prophets."

The spirit of George Whitefield seems still to brood over some Georgia Methodists to the detriment of their Christian ethics touching the Negroes.

A preacher who cannot succeed in getting himself abused for righteousness sake is on better terms with the Devil and bad people than he may be aware of.

"Dr. Taylor is magnifying the name of his race."—Bishop R. S. Foster.

Such a testimonial from such a man is worth living for.

The word Negro designates a black or the descendant of a black person in Africa or elsewhere, but Nigger signifies a mean, degraded, low flung one of any hue, clime or time.

Bishop Bowman is again at his home in St. Louis; and is in firm health. The Lord spare his life a great many years yet. Let prayers be frequently made for the beloved and lovable senior Bishop.

Mrs. Taylor was wearied this morning. Catechising our remaining little boy, she said: "Who made you, Roscoe?" "Papa," was the prompt response. It was not a good time to smile audibly, so the writer promptly retired.

"H. M.," Atkins, Pope county, Ark., write to Rev. J. W. Hughes, care of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington street, St. Louis, Mo., for instructions how to organize the Methodist Men and Women's Mutual Aid and Beneficiary Association.

Barrenness, whether in the church or in women, is an abnormality and a disease, caused by either hereditary or personal sin. If the married will or cannot, and the unmarried dare not bare children, who shall "multiply, be fruitful, and replenis the earth?"

Though a perfect and an upright man the Devil knew, slandered and assailed, but was not permitted to destroy Job. So it has been, and will be, with all good men in all time, but "ye shall not be tempted above that ye are able." My grace is sufficient for you, saith the Lord.

The true faith acknowledges Jesus Christ as the Son of the living God. In this it is distinguished from all forms of unitarian belief, infidelity, and every phase of idolatrous wrong faith. Upon this true faith the Lord has built His church, and the gates of hell assailing shall not prevail against it.

The Negroes of Spring Hill, Tenn., have a reading association in a flourishing condition. John W. Stephenson lately read before it a paper of high merit. His theme was "Onward and Upward." We have been favored with the paper, and copious extracts are at the command of readers, who we know will be delighted with it.

Persons who send us articles which they know they have copied from books, should bear in mind that others, as well as they, know that such articles are stolen. It does not affect us injuriously to print them when the doctrine is correct, but it does so effect those who pretend to have written, when, in fact, they only copied them without credit to the authors. It is no more dishonest to steal a horse or a cow than it is to steal a printed document and call it one's own; and the moral character of those who do the one is about the same.

Scatter Flowers Over Their Graves.

There are thousands of Negroes all over the country who draw their pension and enjoy the bounty thereof which was purchased for them by the blood and suffering of Negro heroes and patriots who fell for the National cause and for freedom; who stood upon the field of glory facing their country's foe, and fell bleeding beneath their country's flag.

These lie buried in many an unmarked grave, and their names have almost passed from the memory of those upon whom have fallen the golden bequest of their valorous achievements.

But it is not meet that it should be thus. Those brave and gallant soldiers who went forth at the call of the country and fought its battles so nobly by the rivers and lakes, and bays, and in the swamps of all the South, should be held in everlasting remembrance by all its citizens and especially by the Negroes of this nation.

The colored troops who fought in the late war fought the battle of freedom. Of freedom for themselves and for those who of their race should come after them. For this are they especially worthy of reverent remembrance by all of the race who survive them and gather in freedom and citizenship, the abundant and imperishable fruit of their planting. Whatever as a race we now enjoy in the privileges and immunities afforded by this country, whatever protection is afforded us by its flag. It is all the consequent of their high manhood and valor.

Therefore on the 30th of May when the loyal people of the Nation go forth with loving hands to scatter flowers over the graves of their fallen soldiers, let not the Negro citizens of the Republic be absent, nor the graves of the Negro defenders of its precious institutions, be forgotten or neglected while those of their fairer comrades are beautifully decorated by tender, loving and patriotic hands. It is to be presumed that the graves of colored soldiers will not be overlooked by those who go forth with garlands of May flowers to bedeck the graves of the others; but it must be left to neither chance or philanthropic impulses. The Negroes must do this work of love themselves. They must rise up as with one accord, and hie them away to every mound beneath which sleeps in death the mortal remains of a Negro soldier, and some tender token of their loving memory, be it ever so small and valueless. Only a green leaf laid on in love will do.

A Worthy Example.

Sister Eton a lady of wealth and also a devout member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at New Iberia, La., we are informed has donated land and built at her own expense a neat little Methodist Episcopal Church. She superintended the work herself. Since its completion a prosperous revival has been held there, and a good prospect is ahead. Brother A. J. Pickett, pastor there claims that she is the model colored Methodist Episcopal lady, and we are not prepared to deny it. Mrs. John Norcam of New Haven, has been a very liberal giver, Anut Fanny Canada of Louisville, Ky., was very rich, and give liberally while she lived, besides bringing her husband, and a good many other people to keep them from being sold South. Mrs. Col. Robert Hayden, left $500 to Union Chapel Cincinnati, where her husband was for a long time—until his death, an honored member, and Mrs. Washington Spradling is quite well circumstaced in Louisville, though the extent of her is not known. Indeed we can say, with the preacher "Many daughters have done well." But of Sister Eton it must be said, for "She excells them all."

With such demand for help coming from every side, we marvel that our wealthy colored men and women do not leap to the front and do something worthy of the occasion of their station. Who will be the first to do it? We are waiting to write who? Must our white friends do it all? And do it all, all the time?

Among the Preachers and People.

We have lately looked in on Bro. Ezra Miller, at Litchfield; Marcus McCoomer, Jeffersonville; W. L. Muir, Jackson street; A. Posey, Coke Chapel; Bro. Phillips, Clark Chapel, Nashville; Bro. Tate at Wiley; Leonard and Marly at Central and High street; Bro. Heston, at Troy; Carr, at Falmouth; Hammond, at Covington; Evans and Thomas, at Lexington; Vaughn, at Versailles; Hagood at Union Chapel, Cincinnati, and Bro. Sisle, at Paris, and have rejoiced in the association of all these brethren and their people, except in one case where the pastor was absent. Only in this way can one be positively informed as to the real condition of the Negroes.

Let those Whom God has Blessed with Means and Grace to Help the Needy Read This.

Below we print a letter written to us by a young lady at school. We have known her from almost her infancy. She has no parents, or colored relatives that she is aware of. She has a few stains of Negro blood but they are enough to prevent her receiving the benefit of vast provisions made for the benefit of such as she. Out of our limited means we have already applied $2000, to her use. We know as her letter shows that it has been judicially expended. It is not sufficient to meet the case. She does not like to ask a loan, not clearly seeing her way to repay it.

She is a pure and saintly girl, ample testimony could if needed be produced as to that. Now could not some one undertake this case? Has our vast audience of readers one who would like to answer to God for sending out into the ranks of humanity, one fully prepared and devoted colored woman. Whoever desires to do this, can have full particulars from us, if they will write. Two years more will finish her course $200 will more than meet the expense. We will undertake the application of it. We know there are many calls. But think and pray over this one. Imagine that it is your own child, and that you are not. Then act as the Lord directs.

Dearest Friend: As I know your time is limited, I cannot say I have much expected a reply, but as you have not written in a good while, I would like very much to have an early answer. I am so grateful to you for your kindness towards me already. I got me a very neat brown suit for commence. ment, it will be very agreeable for the summer of course, as it is heavy material. We had a very pleasant time at the close of school, the subject of my reading at the undergraduates exercise was the "Maiden's Martyr." I was very highly commended.

You have no Idea how tired I was when school closed. I felt proud though when my standings were read, my average was eighty-five, yet I thought it ought to have been better. I know where my weakness lies, in my arithmetic. My class finishes the book next year, and if I don't pass it will nearly kill me.

Doctor there is going to be a business school here this summer and I would like so much to attend? I am now engaged in wrapping and and backing catalogues, then I have to go over the books and get them all straight, when this is done I will be at leisure for the vacation I think.

Now I have a special request of you, that is to please allow me something for the vacation, so I can have three or four hours to practice and go to school in vacation. I am perfectly willing to live off of any allowances; I am willing to live on bread and milk, just to get a start in an education. Make the lowest estimate you can, I am willing. I ask this with my whole heart, please answer this letter immediately, and tell me what to do. Much love to all the family. I am now cleaning the carpenter's room and doing his washing; he allows me two dollars a month, will pay for my schooling or help pay for my music, that is what I took it for. I need every bit of time though, for I cannot have it during school time. Remember me in your prayers at all times and in all places.

Yours, SCHOOL GIRL.

Rather Human After All.

If our Christian or Campbellite brethren insist that they use the Bible only without human creed or comment, we shall urge them to make these professions true by the discontinuance of weekly sermons to their people. Sermons are only comments upon the Scriptures, which contain the opinions that preachers form after such investigation as their scholarly attainments enable them to make. As the preacher is human his view of the Scriptures, formulated into a sermon, can only be a human opinion or comment upon the Scriptures; this and nothing more. Consistency with their profession requires, therefore, that Campbellite ministers, without comment, read the Scriptures only, or to desist from adverse criticism upon others, who, like themselves, after reading, formulate and promulgate opinions of the meaning of the word of God.

As to creeds there is a rather stilted one in the hymn book of the Christian or Campbellite Church; and their hymns are not merely a collection of Bible poetry which can lay claim to Divine inspiration, either.

Dirty Churches.

To keep a dirty church may not be an unpardonable sin, but it certainly is an inexcusable neglect. We do not advocate extravagance in either church buildings or furniture, but we insist upon well swept and dusted churches, no matter of what furniture. Let janitors be dismissed, officers be removed, parties be changed, and even presiding elders be deprived of their position who will not so earnestly press as to carry this matter of clean churches successfully into every congregation. Where there are clean churches, as a general thing, a better class of people attend church. The homes are also influenced more or less by the church.

House Cleaning.

This is time for cleaning house. Take up carpets, scrub and whiten everywhere. There is no hope for the permanent prevention of disease where these precautionary and necessary preliminary measures are neglected or overlooked. Hang out the bedclothes where the sun can shine on them; let the sun into every part of the house some part of every day. Have plenty of lime everywhere, especially about the fences, trees, outbuildings and stables. It kills insects, dries and purifies the air, and is in every way conducive to health. Where there are no carpets use plenty of soap and water, and frequently do these things, and read our Domestic Hygiene, and you will have very small doctors' bills to pay.

What Did You Say?

Rev. William Davis, of Magnolia Church, Jackson, La., is happy because Sister Amanda Capital, of his charge, donated him a large pound cake with other presents, and with other good brothers and sisters propose to present him a nice new suit of clothes. All we have to say in reference to it is, that we know a good many preachers who would be willing to get a little happy under similar circumstances. Go thou in all the churches and do likewise.

A New Rule.

To find the truth about the Negroes when reading of them in the generality of newspapers, if the report is in their favor, multiply it by ten. If against them substract 50 per cent for the reporter's ignorance of the subject upon which he writes; cancel his misstatements and his prejudiced statements together, and the result will be approximately the correct statement of the case. Try this rule at least mentally, and your opinion of the Negro race will undergo a speedy change in their favor.

MR. EDITOR—I highly appreciate the paper, first because its editor is a colored man; second, because it treats upon subjects that should be interesting to people of my color, and third, because it shows that the Methodist Episcopal Church, to which I belong does not ignore the Negro because of color; and fourth, because through it I can learn what my people are doing for their God and advancement.—G. A. Shanklin, Moffat, Bell county, Texas.

You hit the nail on the head at every blow. Now send us a good list of names. A good thing is always better when shared with friends whom we love.

"Allow me to congratulate you as our editor. Your paper is an honor to Methodism, an honor to our race, and an honor to you."—W. Charles Dickerson, Delaware Conference.

This gentlemanly minister is, himself, in many things, an honor to our race, and his opinions, so freely expressed, confer an unmerited honor upon us; but for Methodism and the SOUTHWESTERN'S sake we submit.

Personal.

—Bishop Walden is busily at work in the Far West.

—Mrs. Hon. Rev. H. H. Garnett gets her living by school teaching.

—Rev. Aaron Jones has gone on a visit to Atlanta, partly of a business nature.

—Bishop Foss delivered an eloquent address at the Grant memorial in Minneapolis.

—Rev. C. T. Jones, of Wesley Chapel, Jeffersonville, Ind., is gaining his health, and succeeding grandly in the pastorate of that charge.

—Rev. J. D. Evans and wife, of Taylor Chapel, Marshall, Mo., like the SOUTHWESTERN, they are pleasant people, and are passing a pleasant year.

—A recent letter with many kind expressions from Rev. A. J. Fletcher, of Big Springs, East Tennessee conference, assures us of his continued health and prosperity.

—"You can find anything in the Bible if you look for it," says the Independent. "See this about Grant, from 1 Samuel xvi,, 18: 'Behold I have seen a son of Jesse, * * * that is a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in matters, and a comely person, and the Lord is with him.'"

—The following are the committee of the Grant Memorial services held in Baton Rouge: President, Wm. Duplessis, chairman; Wm. Van Buskirk, secretary; Thomas Washington, treasurer; A. Tannar, Paul Martin, O. P. McKitrick, A. Martin, W. H. Harrison, M. Winfield, W. T. Taylor and A. Tillman.

—Rev. Geo. W. Wells, eminently fitted for any position as teacher or preacher, gifted and scholarly, tarries in his country asylum, while the masses of our people in the cities grow cold and drop out of our churches for the want of ability, such as his, to hold and lead them. Without adequate compensation he is preaching the Gospel for the Gospel sake.

—Geo. W. Hays, Esq., and Wm. Copeland, Esq., have been invited to allow the use of their names before the Hamilton county Ohio Republican Convention as candidates for the State Legislature. Col. Robert Harlan, Charles W. Bell, Thomas Johnson, Ferd. Stith, and a number of others, all Negroes, are willing to be invited to do the same thing.

Church Polity.

Mr. Editor.—Is a pastor in charge allowed to expel a member from the Methodist Episcopal Church without a trial?—Subscriber.

Answer. No.

It is the duty of every Methodist Episcopal Preacher in charge "To recieve, try and expel members according to the form of Discipline." See Discipline, 1884, page 108, par., 183, sec. 3.

It would require three-fourths of the members of all annual conferences, and two-thirds of the General Conference to "do away with the privliges of our members of trial before the Society that is the church, or by a committee and of an appeal." See Dis., 1884, pp. 48, 9, par. 71, sec 5. and par., 72.

To understand the form of discipline for trying an accused member read Dis., 1884, pp. 132, 138, par., 230,-246; also page 143, par., 258.

It is quite a common thing for ministers in some sections of our work to conduct church trials with a great deal of laxity or extra judicial severity. We have known them use official members as a committee to try offenders. Sometimes they have been known to proceed in a more original manner, and just pronounce certain persons expelled. All such conduct is in flagrant and outragous violation of "the form of Discipline." These high handed and offensive measures occur more among colored than white churches, because the white people being generally better posted as to their rights, resist them.

The sooner colored members learn their disciplinary privliges, as well as their duties, the better it will be for them and the preachers also. A member said to be expelled without a disciplinary trial before a committee after due notice is not expelled at all. But the minister who attempts such a thing ought to be.

Schools and Colleges.

An Indianola School.

REV. A. M. MASON.

Mr. J. D. Sharber's school closed on the 19th inst., with a celebration in honor of the emancipation of the slaves. He addressed a large congregation at night on the emancipation and freedom of the slaves, which was philosophically discussed. He spends the summer in Galveston, Texas, visiting his aunt, Mrs. Dr. Wilkins. He expects to teach again in Indianola.

The Mansfield Lyceum.

The Methodist Episcopal Church Lyceum at Mansfield, La., has in its management some of the best and most thorough-going young people of the place as members and managers. Among them are Miss. Florence A. Simkins, Miss. Sarah Camine, Miss. Maggie E. Gilbert, Miss. Pearl A. Mayo, Miss. Sopreny Camine and Rev. F. Harvey, President.

Morristown Seminary.

The Methodist Episcopal Seminary and Normal Institute at Morristown East Tennessee, had its annual commencement May 17 20. Rev. R. J. Cook, A.M., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal charge, at Knoxville Tennessee, presided Sunday morning and evening, the former being the Baccalaureate, and both were very satisfactory sermons.

On Monday night the Rev. Dr. L. B. Caldwell lectured on "Soul Food."

On Tuesday evening Dr. Cook lectured. The singing by Miss. Lizzie and Miss Evie Brown of Altoona, Pa., was done in fine and pleasing style. The latter of the two is teacher in the seminary.

On Wednesday at 2 o'clock p. m. the closing exercises were had.

The programme consisted of recitations, declamations, dialogues, and singing, in all of which the pupils acquitted themselves very creditably. We are told that there was not a single mistake occurred. The music was excellent. William M. Wolf, and Jeremiah H. Bowers were the graduates.

Rev. W. C. Graves president presented them their diplomas in behalf of the trustees. Prizes are allowed in this seminary for scholarship, penmanship and deportments. Several such prizes were distributed at this closing exercise.

This school is giving good satisfaction to the citizens generally. It is especially intended for colored people. They are particularly pleased with the good manners and professional ability of the president, Prof. J. S. Hill.

Their appreciation of the faithfulness and fitness of the faculty was received by the attendance of more than 250 students last term, and the prospect of a still larger number in the coming term.

Rev. D. W. Hays commends this seminary quite highly. The Hon. William M. Farland of Tennessee has been elected one of the trustees. Carpentry and shoe making will be added to the course of study for the coming term.

The College of Liberia,

The newly elected professors, members of the faculty of the College of Liberia, Rev. T. McCant Stewart and Rev. Hugh M. Brown have returned to this country, having, as is clamed, never entered upon their duties in the college. This is certainly very discouraging to the friends of education. The youth of the Republic must be educated to fit them for active service in the affairs of the nation. The great need of Liberia to-day is competent school-teachers, and yet with the offer open to young men of this country to do good in Africa, most of those who go out exhibit a desire to return to this country. New professors must be elected in November, and Dr. Blyden is expected to return in the interest of the college.

Pittsburg Female College.

The stringent times has made its impression on the colleges as well as other interests, but through the persistant efforts of President Pershing the enrollment for the year reached 208 pupils, representing eleven States. The institution still maintains its national fame, and the same tests of thoroughness are in force to maintain its standard of excellence.

Commencement week opened Thursday, June 18, with the examination of the class in Latin for the Holmes gold medal prize. In the evening the piano contest came off for the McKee prize, a superb gold medal, cast at the United States mint, Philadelphia. Friday afternoon, the examination of the class on Butler's Analogy took place in contest for the Vice-President's gold medal. The contest was so close that the committee divided the honor between two contestants. At night the reading contest took place for the Mrs. Margaret Davidson silver cup.

The baccalaureate sermon was delivered on Sunday evening in Christ Church by Rev. Dr. Lupton Clark, from the text, "Sirs, We would See Jesus. It was much appreciated.

Most of Monday was occupied by the examination of the Junior class in mathematics in contest for the Bishop Simpson's gold medal. In the evening the vocal contest for the Hamilton gold medal occurred, part of the day, as were portions of several previous days, the examination of undergraduates was concluded. At the Ordinary contest took place for the Vice-President, Mrs. [illegible] daughter of Dr. Pershing, the dean of the school of music, through her efforts [illegible] of great excellence. [illegible] a pupil of Ta[illegible] a rich teacher.

Portions of Wednesday and Thursday the Art School was open to the public.

The great contest feature was the graduating exercises Thursday evening, the 18th. The essays and music were superb. Graduates—Miss Birdie Pinnell of Buckhannon, W. Va.; Misses Garnet Robison, Laura Hamann and Alice Siemens, Allegheny City; Miss Lizzie Miller, of Arnold's Park; Miss Effie H. Brown, of Parkersburgh, W. Va.; Miss Alice Spriggs, Woodfield, Ohio; Miss Cora Atchison, Weston, W. Va.

Books and Current Literature

LEADERS IN MODERN PHILANTHROPY. By William Gardner Blaike, D.D., L.L.D. Edinburg, Scotland. Published by the American Tract Society, 150 Nassau street, New York Price, $1 25.

This is a 12 mo, bright amber colored cloth and gold gilt volume 279 pages, with fifteen engravings, that of John Howard being the first. It is a very readable book, as any must be who undertakes to tell of the life of such men who devote their lives and fortunes to helping others. It fails, or rather does not attempt, to give publicity to men of our own country who have made philanthropy a living reality to us. In this it probrbly does well, as there is enough of their doings to fill a volume by itself; and so the writer and publishers probably thought.

LUCK OF A WANDERING DANE. Price 25 cents.

Is an anonymous work. "It is dedicated to nobody, for the use of everybody." It has 37 chapters in 129 pages, with paper fanny illustrations, and a great deal of humor. It claims and does illustrate life. It is rather an admonition than an example. Its chief value is perhaps in its ability to expell tears and provoke a laugh.

"Shall We Meet." A beautiful hymn by H. L. Hastings, of Boston with a complete catalogue of his other publications has been recieved. The author's address is 47 Cornhill st, Boston. The song was composed in memory of his deceased brother.

We are under obligations to George Munroe publisher, for a copy of the New York Fashion Bazar for August. It is amply illustrated by plates and patterns, together with miscellany. Price single copies 25 cents, yearly subscription $2,50.

The International News Co, 31 Bleekman, st, New York, regularly favors us with The Season, a handsome ladies illustrated magazine. The number for September contains three colored fashion plates and a sheet of patterns. Price 30 cents. Inquire at news stands.

Many of our Southern exchanges, religious and secular, have reproduced from The Christian Advocate the paragraph announcing Dr. Howard Henderson's forthcoming volume on the Literature of the South, accompanying the notice with pleasant words as to the peculiar fitness of the author for his work. Dr. Henderson, who is now pastor of Simpson Church, Jersey City, is a Kentuckian by birth, and has been diligent with his pen from his youth. For years associated with the choicest spirits in the Southern "demesne of letters," few can be found more familliar with their works than he, and perhaps none more able to make a presentation of them at once critical and popular.—The Christian Advocate, New York, May 1, 1884.

Gail Hamilton's slashing article in the June number of the North American Review, on "Prohibition in Politics," is to be followed in the July number of the same periodical by one of similar character from her on "Prohibition in Practice."

General Grant's article on "Vicksburg" is to appear in the September Century.

The August Century will have a paper on "Hotel-Keeping—Present and Future." It will contain chapters on the proper construction of hotels, plumbing, ventilation, appointments, staff, the table, advantages of the American and European plans, etc., etc.

A writer in the "Open Letters" department of the August Century discusses the question, "What shall be Done with our Ex-Presidents?"

The numbers of The Living Age for August 1st and 8th contain Sir William Napier, National; Mr. J. R. Lowell, and Local Government and Ireland, Fortnightly; Modern Catholics and Scientific Freedom, Nineteenth Century; From Montevideo to Paraguay, and A Walking Tour in the Laudes, Macmillan; An Afghan Jailor, Leisure Hour; A Paris Suburb, All The Year Round; The March of the White Man, The Biblical Brotherhood, The Musical Pitch Question, and Leo XIII. as Ultramontane, Spectator; The Measure of Fidget, and the International Sanitary Conference at Rome, Nature; with Instalments of "A House Divided Against Itself," "Mrs. Dymond" and Fortune's Wheel" and poetry. Littell & Co., Boston are the publishers.

THE DANCING MANIA. By J. F. C. Hecker, M. D. No 72 of the "Humboldt Library of Science." J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., New York. Price 15 cents.

The Dancing Mania of the Middle Ages is one of the most curious episodes in the history of mankind, whole villages, towns, and communities being seized with an irresistible impulse to dance and leap about, and to wander up and down the whole of Europe, communicating their frenzy to the people wherever they wandered. The symptoms of this strange disorder, and the mad antics of its victims are vividly portrayed by the author from contemporary annals. For sale by Ellis, opposite Post office.

An Appeal for Aid.

O. H. SMITH, P. E.

On arriving home to-day from a three weeks trip on my district I found the enclosed letter from Brother Jackson. I endorse it and hope it will do some good. These two places are promising and in need of a little help. I trust the appeal will not be unheeded, though, I know the people everywhere, have their hands full. At each of my quarterly conferences under the question. "Is there any other business?" I always bring up the SOUTHWESTERN, and urge the official members to take it, and the pastor to make a thorough canvass for it:

Bro. J. W. Jackson, of Carlisle, Ark., writes; "At the last session of the Little Rock conference I was appointed by our beloved Bishop, N. F. Mallalieu, D.D., to the Carlisle circuit. This is a new circuit, being only organized last year without a member, and now we have a membership on the circuit of twenty-five, with two Sunday Schools with sixty scholars, officers and teachers, and two points for public services, Hazen and McCreanors'. At neither place have we a house of our own to worship in. At the town of Hazen, situated on the railroad, we manage to get one Sunday in a month in the Baptist Church—a log church—to worship in, and at McCreanor's we use the school house. At Hazen we have a lot, and have managed to raise a subscription of about $25, provided that we start the building. Our membership is small and poor, but zealous and determined Methodist. The field is a fine one, and if we had a house at Hazen our church would outstrip them all. We need a house badly, so that the old Methodist Episcopal Church can take the field for Christ and his church, and to lift up humanity. Bro. J N. Dunlap, a true Methodist from God's country, donated us the lot, and also fifty cedtends for seats. We need $200 to build the two churches. Will not some Christian sisters and brothers help us by giving us a dollar or five dollars a piece. I believe that if they knew the situation, as I do, we would get it without a word. We are anxious to commence building at Hazen the first Monday after the second Sunday in July, 1885. Friends, please help us, for God loveth a cheerful giver. Send money to either Rev. O. H. Smith, presiding elder Little Rock, Ark., Rev. J. W. Jackson, P. C., Carlisle, Ark., postoffice box 312. Friends, again I ask, please help these poor people to get a house to worship in, "where none dare molest or even make us afraid," and the Gospel of our blessed Lord and Savior will not be cramped."

Notes By the Way.

J. BRADEN D. D.

"The people want to see you down here." So wrote one of the brethren, and a ride of a hundred and fifty miles bring us to Bell's. Stepping off the train and looking around we step up to a solid looking gentleman, appearing very inch, a farmer, who says. Is this Dr. ——; "yes." We ride twenty miles through a rich farming region, the corn and cotton crops are good. With this solid farmer, behind a well mated team of iron grays, of his own raising in the dust, such as West Tennesseed woods can supply, in profusion, after a six weeks drowth. At 9 o'clock at night we addressed a good audience in Price's Chapel, Friendship, Crocket County, on the subject of physical, mental and moral culture The people listened well. Sunday morning Aug, 23. Bro. McGeary came and took us Brther J. A. W Moore P. C. of the Friendship circuit, and the writer, to a neat well built frame church, St Peters, not in Rome,—but in Dyer County, Tennessee. The large and flourishing Sunday school was in progress, W. Sherrill superintendent, and A. F. Stephen Bible class teacher, both students from the Central Tennessee College, and engaged in teaching school in the neighborhood were managing the school admirably. The writer addressed the school, and after love feast began to preach at 12 o'clock p. m.; after the sermon sacrament of the Lords supper, and then the lunch baskets were brought out and emptied. The large congregation enjoyed an hour's social intercourse and dispersed. The presiding elder J. P. Price was present and conducted the exercises. He preached in Friendship at night, and at midnight started for his home, at Brownsville in his buggy where he arrived safe at 9 o'clock, a. m. The writer rode home with Brother Davis, to Brother May's, near whose residence is a church for the whites. He has stood by the M. E. church amid great opposition, both for being a union man and a member of the "Nigger Equality Church," as our church is called by the neighbors who were on the side of the lost cause. The writer preached to a congregation of about fifty whites mostly young people. Twenty miles from the rail road the spirit of fraternity has not leavened the community as it has in the large centers. The remnant of the old bitterness is still felt in the treatment of our ministry and members by our Southern brethren. The opposition to the recognition of the rights of the Negro is also more active. There is more unwillingness to let the Negro have his rights, and there is still a strong disposition to call the M. E. Church the "Nigger Church." The division of the conference did not free the whites from the odium of belonging to the church that held on to the Negro. The brethren who favored the division of the conference, have largely gone to the church South, and those who remain think the division has not done the good anticipated. The colored work in this region under the pastorate of Brother Moore is developing strength. He has been successful in paying debts and in bringing up the finances of the charge, as well as elevating the standard of church discipline. The work among the whites should be fostered. Much has been done. Much more will be accomplished if the church is true to her trust.

COMPARATIVE WORTH OF BAKING POWDERS.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum, or phosphates, or other injurious substances.

E. G. LOVE, Ph.D.

It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportion of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.

HENRY A. MOTT, PH.D.

I have examined packages of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the open market, and have found it entirely free from adulteration and injurious substances of all kinds, skillfully compounded and composed of the purest materials.

WALTER S. HAINES, M. D.,
Prof. Chemistry Rush Medical College, Chicago.

The Royal Baking Powder is composed of pure and wholesome materials in correct porportion. It contains no injurious subetance. The purity of the cream of tartar employed in this powder is worthy of special mention, since it does not contain the tartrate of lime usually present in baking powders in which cream of tarter of inferior quality is used.

H. D. GARRISON, M. D.,
Prof. Materia Medica, College of Pharmacy, Chicago.

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE.—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders as shown by the chemical analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, besides affording the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair minded person of these facts.

* While the Diagram shows some of the Alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

Pleasant Events.

W. N. BABBINGTON, ESQ.

After Elder Cushman had stated the needs of the people at Franklinton, La., the above named gentleman, who is a lumber merchant at that place, promptly proposed to donate us an acre of well located land and otherwise aid us in the erection of such a church as Bro. Cushman had indicated in a statement then concluded on that subject. Another like it is that of Mr. Richard Reeves, of Washington parish, La., who gives three acres near Franklinton for the same purpose. Now the pleasant phase of this matter is that Mr. Babbington is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and Mr. Reeves is a Baptist. It tends to show the possibilities which lie in the way of a straightforward, upright but courageous discharge of ministerial functions in this country. Bro. Cushman is really doing a good work here, and constantly gaining in the wealth and power of his influence for good.

A Wonderful Sermon.

REV. I. N. WILLIAMS.

MR. EDITOR—On Sunday, April 26, 1885, at the M. E. Church in Thibodeaux, La., of which Rev. G. W. Lacey is in charge, we were permitted to listen to a wonderful funeral sermon of three members of our church delivered by Rev. F. T. Chinn, of Donaldsonville. I have heard many a funeral sermon but this one caps all that I ever heard in all the days of my life; it was so plain and so striking that all the hearers were spell bound for about half an hour. I imagine that I can hear his tuneful voice now and see him darting about the pulpit almost as limber as a rag. I must say that Mr. Chinn is a wonderful preacher of the Gospel, and he is a wonderful workman on board the Gospel train. He is little but he is loud; he is rawboney, but he is fat. May God bless the Church with Chinns like him.

Justice Demands a Kind Word.

On last Friday it was our good pleasure to be at the examination of Prof. John G. Lewis, private school. In the forenoon making preparation for a funeral services we could not be present any until afternoon. We were made glad at the rapid steps of the children, in shewing a marked improvment in their studies in reading, writing, geography, arithmetic, history and grammar. Our daughter Jane Wright showed a proficiency in all of the foregoing studies; she is only 12 years of age, and with care, scrutiny, and close observation of our feeble knowledge, we must admit and that with a good degree of pleasure that Mr. John G. Lewis is a teacher which any community would be blessed to have in connection with their school. He is leader of a brass band of some of the young men of the town which he has selected, they practice three nights in the week, and are making a good headway, they have good instrements, twelve in number. In his school the same as in his band they have good order, all in time; rules and regulations to go by, any deviation without a good reason for it causes a little friction. Mr. Lewis will leave this coming week with his son Johnny to spend a couple of months as vacation in your city. Our friend jolly John as he is sometimes called owing to his liveliness. He is a widower.

What Christ is to Those Who Know Him

What the breast is at the birth,
What the soil is to to the earth,
What the gem is to the mine,
What the grape is to the vine,
What the bloom is to the tree,—
That is Jesus Christ to me.

What the string is to the lute,
What the breath is to the flute,
What the spring is to the watch,
What the nerve is to the touch,
What the breeze is to the sea,—
That is Jesus Christ to me.

What is the estate to the heir,
What is autumn to the year,
What the seed is to the farm,
What the sunbeam to the corn,
What the flower is to the bee,—
That is Jesus Christ to me.

What the light is to the eye,
What the sun is to the sky,
What the sea is to the river,
What the hand is to the giver,
What a friend is to the plea,—
That is Jesus Christ to me.

What culture is unto the waste,
What honey is unto the taste,
What fragrance is unto the smell,
Or springs of water to the well,
What beauty is in all I see,—
All this and more Christ is to me."

Domestic Hygiene.

Muskmelon.

Although in Europe the melon is generally eaten with salt and pepper after the soup, in this country, on account of its sweetness and fragrance, it is preferred between the cheese and dessert. Wash and bury the melon in broken ice until serving time; divide in thick cuts, remove the seeds, reconstruct the melons, and serve surrounded with ice on a folded napkin.

THE USEFUL LEMON.

Bear in mind that lemons are the most useful fruit in domestic economy. The juice of half a lemon in a teacup of strong black coffee, without sugar, will often cure a sick headache. Lemon juice and salt will remove ordinary iron rust. If the hands are stained there is nothing that will remove the stains so well as lemon. Cut a lemon in half and apply the cut surface as if it were soap. Lemon juice is also a remedy for rheumatism and for the so-called biliousness of spring. In the latter case, take the juice of a lemon before breakfast, the pulp may also be eaten, avoiding every particle of skin. Lemon juice with sugar mixed very thick and taken at intervals relieves coughs. It must be very acid as well as sweet.

MINCED PORK.

Try it. Mince two pounds of cold roast pork, freeing it from any fat or skin, and seasoning it with peper and a little dry mustard. Cut up six or eight large tart apples, mincing them very finely, first removing the skins and core. Put the minced apples into a saucepan with a quarter of a pound of good butter, and four medium sized onions, also minced. Set the saucepan over a moderate fire and cook the contents until tender, stiring them to prevent burning. When tender add a half cup full of the roast pork gravy (or the same quantity of good stock), two tablespoonsfuls of good vinegar and a little brown thickening. When the sauce has boiled for five minutes, stir in the minced pork, and when it becomes thoroughly hot squeeze in a little lemon juice and serve at once.

STRAWBERRY TART.

Butter and line a ten inch wide pastry circle with puff paste; put it in a baking sheet and line the circle with buttered paper, and fill it with dry corn or cherry pits and bake. Remove the pits and paper and baste the paste with thick syrup and dry in the oven. Cool and fill with large, ripe strawberries. Steep a pint of strawberries in a thick syrup for two hours; strain, and cover the tart over with this syrup and serve. Blackberries may be served in the same manner.

A LEMON SANDWICH

Is among the novelties for the breakfast table. Peel a lemon, removing carefully all the white part of the skin, which is bitter. Slice very thin with a sharp knife, removing all the seeds. Make very thin toast, brown, butter, keep hot, and lay between two slices of this the rings of lemon, dusted over with powdered sugar. Serve quickly.

WATER CRESS SALAD.

Water cress requires no other seasoning than salt and vinegar. The best way to season it is to immerse it at the last moment in salted water acidulated with vinegar.

Sunday School Work in the Louisiana Conference.

CONDUCTED BY REV'S. M. C. B. MASON and E. LYON.

Our next appointment after Woodville was Baton Rouge and Clinton, on Tuesday and Wednesday morning, July 28 and 29. Leaving New Orleans on the 28th, via Mississippi Valley Route, we arrived at Baton Rouge at 12 m. We had intended to go to Clinton first, and then back to Baton Rouge, but failing to hear from the preacher in charge there, we stopped here to await an answer to a telegram, inquiring if he expected us. At 5 p. m. the reply came informing us that he was not prepared. Hence we concluded to spend the whole time in Baton Rouge. Brother R. Thompson, one of the strong men of our conference is the pastor here, and is indeed the Pastor not only of the sheep, but of the lambs as well, and is loved and admired by all the people within and without the Church. We had arranged for two meetings here, one in the morning mainly among the children, the other at night, when parents, children and the public in general would be expected. These were two of the grandest meetings we have held. In the morning by actual count there were 106 members of the school present, and a large number of visitors. Rev. Lyon spoke on the "necessity of early conversion," Rev. Mason on the "duties of Superintendents and teachers, and their relations to the pastor." The spirit of the Lord was with us and the meeting was of exceptional interest. Sister Hester Williams, the veteran worker of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, was present, and said good words for us and our work. At night we spoke to a crowded house of all ages. Brother Mason spoke on the "Sunday School, what it is, and what makes it a success." Brother Lyon on the "duty of parents to the church, to their children and to God." Nowhere was the power of the Lord made more manifest than here. Fifty three arose for prayer, among whom were some who were known as skeptics. Surely the Lord was with us, and we pray much good may come from this meeting. The pastor appointed the next day as a day of fasting and prayer, for the success of the revival to begin the following Sabbath. We left here Friday morning with glad hearts, and feeling ourselves much obligated to the pastor for his kindness, and to the people for their care and attention, especially to Mr. Richard Tanner, whose guests we were. From here we go to Terrebonne Thibodaux, Baldwin, Cypremort, and to New Iberia, the seat of the La. Teche District Conference. Will give an account of these meetings in your next issue.

Storm Signals.

As the coming of a great storm is heralded by the display of cautionary signals, so is the approach of that dread and fatal disease, Consumption of the Lungs, usually announced in advance by pimples, blotches, eruptions, ulcers, grandular swellings, and kindred outward manifestations of the internal blood poison, which, if not promptly expelled from the system, attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs, causing them to ulcerate and break down. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is the great remedy for this, as for all diseases having their origin in bad blood. It improves the appetite and digestion, increases nutrition and builds up the wasted system.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FOR THE CURE OF
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KEETA VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

Sedgwick STEEL WIRE Fence

Is the best general purpose wire fence in use. It is a strong net-work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry, as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School-lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial; it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and easiest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the neatest cheap iron fences now made. The Boss folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The best Wire Stretcher, Cutting Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

AN ADVERTISING AGENCY.

Newspapers.

Catalogue.

Advertisement.

Our Lists.

Estimates.

Printing Office.

Our System.

Payment.

We receive and keep on file over 12,000 Newspapers published in every State and Province in America. Over 1000 Daily papers alone arrive every morning. Each paper is examined by careful clerks and the insertions entered in record books. Under our system an advertiser is sure to receive the full value for his money.

We publish the "American Newspaper Catalogue," a volume of 900 pages elegantly bound in cloth, and containing a complete list of the publications of every character in the United States and Canada. On one line we give place of publication, name of paper, class or denomination, age and circulation. In it are catalogued 14,000 periodicals. Sent free on receipt of $1.50.

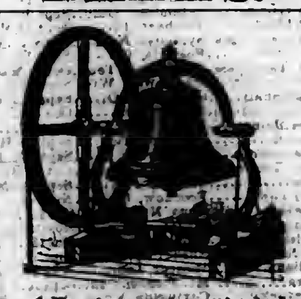
We can secure the prompt insertion of any advertisement in any publication at the lowest attainable prices. We keep constantly invested over $500,000 "in space" in the best lines of newspapers. Our special lists of Papers will be found especially useful in making up lists for pushing any special lines.

We have, for the convenience of advertisers, made up our Religious List containing the names of all the leading denominational papers with prices. Our Agricultural List containing the names of all the prominent agricultural papers with prices. Our Local List of 1,300 County and City Weeklies and Dailies, arranged by States with publishers' prices and the prices at which we can insert advertisements. These Lists are mailed free on application.

We will furnish to any reputable advertiser who will apply, an estimate showing exact cost of any proposed line of advertising, and when desired, will make up lists and write advertisements, provided the amount desired to be expended is named. We have had a wide experience, and can suggest lines of papers best adapted to the wants of an advertiser.

We keep constantly supplied with the newest styles of type best adapted to the display of advertisements. Send us your copy and we will return with estimate a proof from type without extra charge.

Our organization for correctly following an advertisement in the newspapers is perfect, and our patrons can be assured that correct work from every publisher will be exacted.



To any advertiser entitled to credit, or any one who can furnish us proper references, we will extend any reasonable line of credit. Publishers pay us a commission for all the business we send them, and any advertiser can be assured of obtaining through us lower prices than can be obtained from publishers direct. In no instance do we charge advertisers any addition to publishers' rates.

Golden Text—And Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him. Gen. 5. 24.

OUTLINE.

1. The Journey, v. 1 18.
2. The Request, v. 9, 10.
3. The Chariot, v. 11, 12.
4. The Mantle, v. 13 15.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

Who was with Elijah the last years of his life? Elisha, his servant and helper.

What was Elisha asked at Bethel and at Jericho by the sons of the prophets? Do you know the Lord will take away your master to-day?"

What did he answer? "Yes, I know; but hush! I do not want to talk about it.

See if you can find out how many times that day Elisha said, "I will not leave you."

When together they came to the river Jordan what did Elijah do? Took off his mantle, and with it struck the water.

What happened? The waters parted, and they two went over on dry ground.

What did Elijah ask Elisha? "What shall I do for you before I am taken away?"

What did Elisha say? "I ask that same spirit which has been in you."

What did Elijah answer? "If you see me when I am taken away, it shall be so."

While they walked and talked what happened? There came a chariot of fire, and horses of fire.

What then? Elijah was carried up into heaven as if in a whirlwind.

Did Elisha see him go up? He did.

What become of Elijah's mantle? Elisha caught it as it fell from Elijah.

How did Elisha get back over Jordan? He took the mantle and did as Elijah had done.

What did the followers of the prophets say when they saw Elisha? "The spirit of Elijah rests upon Elisha."

WORDS WITH LITTLE PEOPLE.

It will make no difference whether we are alive and asleep up when Jesus comes, if only we are ready to go. Only one thing need make you afraid, and that is, if you do not come now and let him wash away all your sins. He says he will keep so near to him that whether you live to hear the sound of his coming, or are called to die, you will step your little hands for joy.

Doctrinal Suggestion—Victory over death.

"Crossest Man in Alabama."

"De crossest man in Alabama lives dar," said the driver as we approached a wayside home, near Selma, Ala., to ask accommodations for the night. At supper, and after it, "mine host" scowled at every one, found fault with every thing earthly, and I was wondering if he would not growl if the heavenly halo didn't fit him, when incidental mention being made of the comet of 1882, he said: "I didnt like its form, its tail should have been fan shaped!"

But next morning, he appeared half offended at our offering pay for his hospitality! My companion however, made him accept as a present a sample from his case of goods.

Six weeks later, I drew up at the same house. The planter stepped lightly from the porch, and greeted me cordially. I could not scarcely believe this clear complexioned, bright eyed animated fellow, and the morose being of a few weeks back, were the same. He inquired after my companion of the former visit and regretted he was not with me. "Yes," said his wife, "we are both much indebted to him."

"How?" I asked, in surprise.

"For this wonderful change in my husband. Your friend while shaving, handed him a bottle of Warner's safe cure. He took it, and two other bottles, and now—" "Madam, he broke in, I from an illfeeling, growling old bear, I am healthy and so cheerful my wife declares she has fallen in love with me again!"

It has made over again a thousand love matches, and keeps sweet the tempers of the family circle everywhere.—Copyrighted. Used by permission of American Rural Home.

Notice.

Rev. Geo. W. Smith, presiding elder of the Palestine district, is very low with brain fever and is suffering both night and day, so, brethren of the Palestine district, if there be any change in your appointment this will be the cause. To the pastors of San Augustine and Shelby your fourth quarter will be held on the 31st of October. Brethren, I am in hope that each one of us will engage in prayer in behalf of the elder for he is low.

No temptation is sinful to you unless you yield to it.

How many parsonages have you built since you entered the ministry?

When a man is clothed in his right mind look for him, and you will find him sitting at the feet of Jesus.

It is all right to meet the devil, but all wrong to accompany him. Smite him whenever you meet him, and pass on.

In the midst of storms, headaches, cross providences, adversities, sickness and death, feel for your faith, find it, and be calm.

How work did not pay you well last year. Has your labor upon it made it so that it will pay you or your successor better next year?

The man out of whom Jesus cast a legion of devils wanted to go with him, but the Master wanted that he should go for him. Go for him now, and with him when he comes without sin unto salvation.

Dr. Leonard as Governor.

REV. H. W. WHITE, P. E. LEXINGTON DISTRICT, LEXINGTON M. E. CONFERENCE.

It may be strange, but it is Providence, that Rev. Dr. Leonard was nominated for Governor of Ohio by the Prohibition party. In the opinion of the common politician it is not only strange, but decidedly immoral to leave the pulpit or share labor with it and a purely secular office. We agree that every political office is infinitely beneath the ministry. Yet it is every man's right, his duty, which, at times cannot, nay, must not, be avoided. The deeper the corruption of politics the more obligatory is it upon the incorruptible men, whether from the pulpit or pew, to throw themselves forward. Pure men have no desire to be governed by the votaries of vice; they feel it a greater sin to let bad men and bad laws rule without an earnest effort to purify the State.

Ohio is becoming one vast beer garden; her youth an army of drunkards. God demands the reform preached in the politics of Dr. Leonard. The Doctor is the political salvation of the State. I am no politician myself, but I would vote for a temperance man always regardless of party. Republicanism in Ohio is quite different from that in Kentucky. As for Democracy there is but little difference anywhere. It trims its sail for the political in all the States; but the laws of liberty and pure government are the same every where, and it does not lie in the power of any party to ultimately destroy them. I noticed that the Republicans very poorly supported the Rev. John Asberry in Kentucky. They treated him as a certain captain did his company. He said: "Boys, don't retreat until you have to; then retreat in good order; but as I am lame, I will start now." The Republicans abandoned the Negro Asberry as soon as he was nominated. Whenever a black man in this State is out for office the Republicans retreat. They seem to have forgotten that by the grace of God the Negro's arm saved the Republic, and he bled for what he got. The Republicans, as well as Democrats, always rush to the rear on the temperance question. God forbid that I should remain in a party that does not and will not believe in temperance.

Thousands of Christians will not vote for Dr. Leonard; but only those who think more of party than of principles. It is their privilege to vote for whom they please; but it is a privilege in the hands of party slaves. It is a sad commentary upon Christianity that Christians will often support an evil advocated by their party rather than good advocated by a weaker party.

They of all men should support the reform; it is base not to labor where virtue calls, simply because it has not power alone to battle down vice and corruption.

Let Ohio make the canvass a matter of prayer. What you wish to know ask God. Now is the time. Lay aside your party prejudice, and listen to the pleadings of conscience.

My conviction is Dr. Leonard ought to be Governor. If we are defeated in this canvass, I doubt not God will give us victory in his own good time, for all things work together for good to them that love and fear the Lord.

This is an important canvass, and if Dr. Leonard be elected it will be a great victory over rumsellers and whisky drinkers. Some think Dr. Leonard ought not to leave the pulpit for politics. In any conflict between virtue and vice, it is the eminent duty of the pulpit, in any and every way, to battle for virtue. Dr. Leonard is fighting rum in the best possible manner. There is not a better man in the State for the occasion.

If it be a crime to leave the Republican party, it is damnation to support intemperance. Were I in Ohio I should vote for Dr. Leonard, the man God has given the State to fight beneath the banner of Prohibition. Let Ohio lead and make a thorough reform. Kentucky, probably, will follow. The homes of many will be made happy.

It is hoped that Dr. Leonard will resign the pulpit for the present, and give himself fully to the service of God in this great prohibition movement.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—It is hopeful for reform when so ardent a partizan as Bro. White has been, can speak in the interest of prohibition with such emphasis.—ED

Pittsburg Correspondence.

The writer has just returned from a visit to the Forest City; otherwise and more familiarly known as Cleveland. It was a delightful visit. We have some taste for contrasts, and it was fully gratified while away. There could be no greater contrast than there is between Pittsburg and Cleveland. Here the streets are narrow, and lined on both sides with rows of towering business blocks. In the busy season pandemonium reigns, and to hear yourself talk were an impossibility. But in the city by the lake everything is different. Broad avenues, lined with rows of great trees extend for miles, and, except in the very heart of the city, are built up with magnificent mansions of more or less grandeur. Between the pavements and the streets, or drive-ways, are broad grass plots, some of them forty or fifty feet in width. The pavements are all flagstones, a great improvement on brick. But with all its beauty and magnificence Cleveland has its woes and mishaps. It was our misfortune (to a slight degree) to get in the center of an infant riot the next day after we reached the city. A large number of Poles and Bohemians, of the worst class, many of them thoroughly impregnated with anarchist doctrines, were on a strike. They of course went to extremes and marched some fifteen hundred strong to the screw works, and, after breaking down the door and almost murdering the superintendent, compelled three hundred satisfied workmen to quit their places. The latter, however, armed themselves, and returned to work next day, and had a second visit been made, there would have been a few scores less strikers.

A more vicious set of men than those rioters it would be hard to find. They numbered about three thousand, and had it not been for a very determined police force, backed up by a regiment of infantry, a troop of cavalry, and a very dangerous Gatling gun battery, all of which were at their various armories ready for action on a minute's notice, human life would have been a very uncertain possession for a short time at least.

While in Cleveland we made a trip to the famous Put-in Bay, a name so inseparably connected with that of the brave young Commodore Perry. The scenery thereabout is grand, but we have not the command over words requisite to do sufficient justice to it, so each reader must imagine the scenes as best he can.

As our visit came to an end, so perhaps had our notes concerning it better do likewise. It is now but a short time till the next annual meeting of the conference, and the brethren who look out for good appointments are doing so, while those who allow their merits and the judgment of the Bishops to settle the question are training their souls to receive whatever they can get as from the hands of the Lord. So be it, their reward shall be greater at the day of reckoning.

Our various colleges and other institutions of learning have finished the scholastic year, (with one exception,) and have been very cautious and sparring in grinding out their honorary degrees. Allegheny college, at Meadville, Pennsylvania, gave a "D. D," to one of our presiding elders, and elected Rev. N. Luccock, one of the most prominent of the younger men in the Pittsburg conference, to the chair of mathematics. CELES.

Incidents Immediately Preceding and Succeeding the Death of Rev. I. B. Griffin.

MRS. E. S. SPRIGGS.

I was with Brother Griffin from the time he went to the Cooper Wells, and thence to Starkville, his old charge, because he was unable to take the water.

But he rapidly became worse. He suffered continually, and talked but little; but at times he expressed a desire to live, that he might complete the erection and payment for the new church at Vicksburg, of which he was pastor. He would say, "I wonder what my people are doing; I think I shall be able to go back to them shortly." His mind seemed to be engrossed with the determination to finish that work. He suffered severely, but was never heard to complain. About 10 o'clock p. m., July 6, he called for Brother Pratt and said to him, "If any one asks about me, tell them I am ready, willing, and waiting to go; I have nothing against any one."

About 3 o'clock a. m., he asked me, the writer, "where is Brother Pratt." Being called to the bedside, Brother Griffin said to him, "Never mind, I will tell you in the future." After that he spoke to me only of his suffering. Twice he called for his mother. He then prayed to be taken out of his suffering, and died about 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning July, 27. He was beloved by all who knew him. The people of Vicksburg were sincerely attached to him. They stood by him with great constancy during his last illness there.

At Starkville where he died, the same manifestations of esteem were apparent in every act and word as at Vicksburg. He was pastor at Starkville the preceding year, and the people said that the Lord had sent him there that they might care for him in his last sickness and death.

Bellaire Views.

REV. ELIJAH HENDERSON.

MR. EDITOR—I don't wish to be considered tedious, but being a true and tried member of the M. E. Church, and a patron of the SOUTHWESTERN, a paper that so well adapts itself to the interest and history of the M. E. Church and our brethren, allow me to say it does this work as no other paper can do. It is admitted by all that it perpetuates Methodism among every people. We hope it may continue to do as it has done in the past—work strenuously with the help of God in bringing souls to His kingdom. We must educate and discipline the people, and the speediest way this can be done the better. Let the people feel that they have a recognition in the editorial department of the paper. The church will look after the interest of her people, and I think it is fully believed that the grand old M. E. Church has struck the key note. All the old members may not get the full system, but they can continue on as they have done the remaining days of their lives. There is one thought that will illuminate the otherwise dark Valley of Death, that our sons and daughters, while their fathers may, as it were, view from Pisgah summit, the promised land. Thank God our children may enter the land by the key of knowledge through just such fitting instrumentalities as Dr. M. W. Taylor will use to our advantage with our Advocate. Go on Dr. Taylor, in this grand and good work.

A Lost Letter.

REV. A. BOOKER.

While sitting on a veranda, a few days ago, with a member and his wife, I discovered an old letter lying near us in the yard. It was beautifully written and this attracted my attention. I picked it up and read it, and it ran thus:

"Brother—I call my children my family. I don't consider that I have any wife; she is here and that is all. You know that I don't fool with every woman like that."

I think we ministers ought to keep family matters at home, and not expose our family matters to our brother ministers, and their lives with them. As I am acquainted with the writer and receiver either can come in possession of the lost letter by addressing me at Jeffersonville, Ind., lock box 56.

More Parsonages Needed.

REV. J. C. HOUSTON.

The journal of our last annual conference in [illegible]te shows that we have [illegible]nd stations and only [illegible] parsonages, leaving sixty-eight charges without a house for the preacher and his dear family. In my humble opinion there has been too little attention given by many of the ministers to this important part of their duty. In the consideration of this subject we hope to move the pastors and trustees to immediate thought and action. I am opposed to renting a house for the preacher. The amount paid for a year or two for rent will build a decent house. Although the preacher may not have the rent to pay he is often embarrassed or insulted about it. We are also opposed to the preacher with a family boarding out. He can support two families with what it will cost him to board one. Some preachers to avoid this cost eat from house to house; eating at one place to day and another to morrow is not the best way to live. A pleasant face is not always proof of a pleasant heart. The minister who thus acts will have time for little or no study. If he has books he is but seldom where they are. The full result is a total failure in the pulpit. A failure here means spiritual death to church and preacher.

There are ministers who do not move their families on their work at all, because there is not a decent place to put them. This most invariably proves a great hinderance to the church and preacher. He needs his wife with him to take hold of the little end of the heavy cross that he must carry. The people want her with him. They say that he holds her above them when he leaves her behind. His love for his family will often cause his absence at a time when he is greatly needed on his work, which will tend to lower him in the estimation of his congregation. He will spend nearly half of his salary in going to see them, and pay enough for his own board to keep up his whole family. In view of these, as well as many other important reasons that I will not use space here to mention, we cannot comprehend why ministers are so indifferent in the discharge of this part of their work. Many unmarried preachers think as they have no family they have no need to build. In my opinion he can build with most ease. Let the money that it would take for his family go into a parsonage. It is the property of the church; the next minister may need it. A man whose interest stops at himself will not do for the pulpit. There are others who think that a work of this sort will cause a deduction in their salary. This is a very grave mistake; one that has and is proving detrimental to the cause. Too many ministers seem to sleep all the week and awake only in time to whine out what they call a sermon; then hollow out I want my money. This done, all is done. They return home, sit down in their soft cradle of indolence and close their weak eyes in sweet repose for another week. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

Again, it is well to remember that the Bishop puts a minister in charge of a church, not a public school. This, I think, is doing the church great harm. It keeps him out of his place, and teaches the people not to support the ministry. If he teaches school they will expect him to get his money like other teachers—from the school. Let the work of the pastor be one, and the minds and hearts of his people will center upon him. Parsonages, churches, etc., will then go up to the honor of God himself and the people.

Winona, Miss.

The constituents of Sir Charles Dilke resolved to accept his denial of the charges brought against him, and to support him in the coming election.

Third District Conference—Shreveport District.

FIRST DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The third district conference, Shreveport district, convened according to previous notice, at Wesley M. E. Church, Mansfield, La., Aug. 13, 1885, at 9:30 o'clock.

Ninety-two members were present, with Presiding Elder Pierre Landry in the chair, assisted by the Revs. S. Davage, T. G. Montgomery, F. Harvey, W. R. Butler, and S. S. Wright. He conducted the devotional exercises.

On motion Rev. H. J. Wright, pastor of Mansfield M. E. Church at Natchitoches, La., was elected secretary, assisted by Rev. V. Chapman, of Monroe, and C. D. Shallowhorne, of Fairfield M. E. Church.

The organization being completed the disciplinary committees were appointed.

The bar of the conference was fixed at 11 o'clock a. m. The sacramental service was preached by the Rev. S. Clemens, of St. Paul M. E. Church, Shreveport. The sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered by the presiding elder, assisted by all the elders present, to over 200 communicants. This over, a short session of the conference was held, when, on motion, the ladies of the Home Missionary Society were admitted to seats within the bar of the conference, and the following took their seats. Mrs. Corr, Redman, district manager; Mrs. L. C. Shallowhorne, Mrs. M. L. Wilson, Mrs. Sinclair, Miss Ford, Mrs. Maggie Slaughter, Mrs. Elisa Williams, Mrs. Cynthia Coleman, Miss Florence A. Simpkins, Miss Pearl Hays, Miss Maggie E. Gilbert, Miss Sarah Canine and Miss Sophronia Canine.

The literary programme was taken up and referred to the committee on devotional exercises with instruction to fix the time for the several exercises.

On motion of Rev. A. Hilton it was agreed that the conference should be governed by so much of the rules of the General Conference of 1884 as are applicable to its working, and that so amended as to meet at 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. and an afternoon session from 3 to 6 p. m.

The conference and the large congregation present joined in singing the doxology.

Benediction by Rev. A. Hilton.

Evening Session.

The conference convened pursuant to adjournment, with the presiding elder in the chair.

On motion the reading of the minutes was postponed.

On motion a telegram of greetings to the La Teche district conference, in session at New Iberia, was unanimously agreed to.

Letters of greetings and encouragement were received from Rev. J. U. Hartzwell, D.D., assistant corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society at Cincinnati, and secretary Louisiana annual conference.

Rev. C. C. McCabe, D.D., of a million for mission fame, presented a most gratifying statement to the conference showing that up to June 25, $[illegible] 12 of the million has been received, also letters from Rev. A. [illegible] Gilbert, D.D., presiding elder La Teche district, Rev. J. F. Marshall and others.

Rev. S. Davage in the chair. The presiding elder reported the work on his district, which was full of interest to the conference and all present. The report in full will appear in the printed minutes.

A vote of thanks was tendered the presiding elder for his kindness and patience in his dealing with all over whom he has authority.

The presiding elder in the chair.

On motion the conference adjourned.

Benediction by Rev. F. Harvey.

SECOND DAY.

The conference convened pursuant to adjournment.

Bro. A. Hilton and C. W. Reeves conducted the religious exercises.

The minutes were read, approved and adopted.

On motion the committee on resolutions was instructed to report resolutions expressing the sense of this conference on that world-renowned hero, Gen. U. S. Grant.

A resolution was adopted calling upon each superintendent to record the attendance of that of the local preachers and exhorters to the Sunday School, and report the same at the next district conference.

On motion the lyceum of Mansfield M. E. Church was invited to participate or send in such paper or papers on any subject they might select, which would be read and made a part of the minutes.

Miss Sarah Canine, the secretary of the lyceum, was introduced to the conference.

A paper touching upon the mission of the church was introduced and read by Bro. A. G. Miller, and referred to the committee on resolutions.

The pastors who were ready made their report, when the following brothers read their essays: Rev. J. H. Pierre read an essay on "The Pharisees; Their Organization and Faith;" Rev. P. B. McDonald read a paper on "Temperance," which elicited the commendation of the conference.

A committee of twelve on temperance was appointed by the chair as follows: H. J. Wright, chairman; C. D. Shallowborne, S. Davage, P. B. McDonald, A. G. Miller, D. J. Price, Charles H. Ford, J. P. Calvin, Emmerson Hutchinson, D. K. Mickelberry, George Thomas and Morris Jennings.

Bro. A. McGlocklin handed in his essay, which was laid over.

Rev. S. Davage read an essay on "Christian Purity," which was well received by the conference and congregation.

Rev. S. S. Wright read an essay on "Is There a God," which was pointed and elicited the attention of all.

Rev. A. Venable read an essay on "Duties of Stewards."

The hour of 11 o'clock having arrived, according to the report of the committee on devotional exercises, Rev. A. Hilton preached a good sermon from the text, St. John, 3, 16, to the conference and a large congregation, after which the conference adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The elder called Bro. T. G. Montgomery to the chair.

The conference met pursuant to adjournment. Religious exercises by Rev. John Sparks and Bro. D. J. Price.

Rev. A. Venable finished his essay on "Duty of Stewards."

Rev. D. Shelby read an essay on "Qualifications of Sunday School Teachers."

Hon. J. C. Pugh, District Attorney, and his excellency, George E. Head, Mayor of Mansfield, was introduced to the conference, and took seats within the bar.

The elder in the chair.

Rev. S. R. Hason read an essay on the "Witness of the Holy Ghost," which was good.

The Hons. J. C. Pugh and Geo. E. Head were invited, and addressed the conference with words of silver mixed with gold. The large congregation listened to these gentlemen with the most profound appreciation. Their speeches of three-quarters of an hour made some lasting impression on the minds of all who heard them. A vote of thanks was tendered them.

Rev. V. Chapman read an essay, "Why a Million" for missions, which dealt with figures and facts, and made a splendid showing.

A committee was appointed to wait upon the parish and city authorities, and invite them to visit the conference.

Rev. T. G. Montgomery read an essay on the "Church Extension Society," which was well received.

Rev. John Fopp addressed the conference upon "Methodism in North Louisiana," which was full of life.

Rev. Charles Shelton, of the Zion Hill Baptist Church, was introduced.

The conference adjourned.

Benediction by Rev. S. Davage.

THIRD DAY.

The conference met pursuant to adjournment.

Rev. J. H. Pierre and John Fopp conducted the religious exercises.

After some correction the minutes were adopted.

A telegram from the La Teche district conference, now in session at New Iberia, was received and read and made a part of the minutes.

Prof. A. F. Hoyt, of New Orleans, acting president of the New Orleans University, was introduced, and read a communication from the La Teche district conference relative to the Annual Conference, which was laid on the table.

Rev. Dr. Hartfield, corresponding secretary of the Grand Cane Baptist Association, was introduced and invited to address the conference. He said he would do so when the temperance question came up or was presented.

The pastors who failed to report yesterday reported.

The committee on temperance reported through Bro. A. G. Miller, its secretary.

Dr. Hartfield addressed the conference in one of his most impressive styles, and said that he was fifty one years of age, and that he had never tasted a drop of liquor of any kind. His words brought tears to the eyes of nearly all present; himself bathed in sympathetic tears. A vote of thanks from the the entire congregation was given him.

Bro. Butler made his report as did Bros. Spears and Montgomery.

Rev. H. J. Wright read his essay on The Needs of an Educated Ministry. On motion a vote of thanks was extended.

Prof. Hoyt addressed the conference previous to Dr. Hartfield. His address was quite interesting, and was listened to by a large audience A vote of appreciation was shown him.

Bro. George Johnson, of Moonsingport, made his report.

Several committees reported.

On motion, 4 p. m. was set as the hour for the Women's Home Missionary Society.

Conference adjourned.

Benediction by Prof. Hoyt.

Afternoon Session.

Met at 4 p. m.

Rev. V. Chapman and Bro. H. Swanson conducted the service.

The ladies of the society took front seats, and addresses were made by all present.

The following societies represented: Natchitoches, Fairfield, Mansfield, Monroe, Marthaville and Resoir.

Prof. Hoyt addressed the meeting.

On motion the reports were received and adopted.

Rev. Robert J. Harp, pastor of the M. E. Church South, at Mansfield, was introduced.

Bro. Folford reported his work.

Bro. F. Harvey reported his work, also Bro. S. Davage, which concluded all the pastors.

The time of adjournment being near at hand, for want of time, on motion all local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, superintendents and district stewards were directed hand in their reports, and it be a part of the minutes.

On motion Bro: V. Chapman and D. J. Price were appointed statistical secretaries.

On motion the following were granted local preachers' licenses: George Thomas, Wilson Archie, Amos Wise, Ned Howell, William Alexander, Alphonse Harrison, Clipps Washington, Zack Carter, Bailey Nelson, Charles Adams, E. W. Gaskin, Alex. Hayes, David K. Mickelberry.

On motion the licenses of all local preachers present were ordered renewed.

The committee on periodicals and church literature reported:

The committee on devotional exercises reported as follows:

Sunday be observed as a district conference Union meeting, commencing in the morning with a love feast, conducted by Rev. Samuel Davage and John Fopp.

The following named brethren were appointed. [See Sunday's proceedings.]

The following resolutions were adopted:

MANSFIELD, La., Aug. 15.

As a conference we are grateful to God for the continued zeal with which He inspires His people in the divine work of enlightening the ignorant and uplifting the fallen. We rejoice in the light that arises in the darkness in the great enterprises that are undertaken by Christ's people in the same spirit that moved Him to leave His Father's heavenly courts for this blighted world. We have hope for the future, because our Lord reigns and the captain of Israel is a victorious commander. Love is mightier than hate, righteousness than iniquity. We believe the time approaches, and is not far distant when caste prejudices will have vanished, and God's people of every grade and color will go forward in solid phalanx to certain triumph.

We believe that this Southern country will yet rejoice in universal education, and the colored man will be the happy recipient of the highest culture with no one to question his right or to envy his privileges. We regard the Freedman's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church as one of the potent agencies for bringing forward the most glorious day which we anticipate, and to this end we pray it may come ever near to the people, have more access to the wealth of the country, and be increasingly successful in building up the strongholds of intelligence and godliness; therefore

Resolved, That we recognize in Drs. Rust and Hartzell, the secretaries of the Freedman's Aid Society, men of God, who are committed wholly to the work of lifting humanity, men who have waged many conflicts, and won many victories in the maintenance of sentiments that we have expressed. We bid them God speed in their good work.

Resolved, That we cordially and earnestly reaffirm our determination to make good our individual pledge to raise the amount to complete the New Orleans University.

Whereas. Our largest two charges are situated in the City of Shreveport, and a great many young people are connected with our churches and Sunday Schools; and whereas, the public school system of this State is very poor; whereas, we need schools taught by Christian teachers; therefore

Resolved, That we recommend that a seminary be erected in the City of Shreveport preparatory to the to the New Orleans University. Be it further

Resolved, That this be referred to the committee.

Benediction by T. G. Montgomery.

The afternoon service was attended by many white citizens of the city, among them Judge Hall and lady, who expressed much satisfaction at the proceedings, especially so of the closing sermon by Rev. Samuel Davage, who preached an excellent sermon from the text, 1 Peter, 1 chap., part 16 verse, "Be Ye Holy, for I am Holy."

Sunday night, after preaching, a short session was held, at which 110 members of the conference were in attendance.

The committee on resolutions reported the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, We have received reduced rates from the Texas Pacific Railroad Company and the T. P. and V. Railroad Company.

Resolved, That we extend to them our thanks for these favors.

Resolved, That as a conference our sincere thanks are hereby extended to the citizens of Mansfield, Rev. Frank Harvey, pastor, the members of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. J. M. Carter, and such other members of the Baptist Church, who so grandly entertained the members of this district conference during its session.

Resolved, That the thanks of this conference is hereby extended to the Rev. P. Landry, presiding elder, who so ably and impartially presided over this conference, and pray that the Lord will prosper him in the great work assigned to him.

Resolved, That we extend to Rev. H. J. Wright, secretary, our profound thanks for the able manner in which he executed the duties of his office, and his efficiency in the performance of all duties assigned to him, and to the assistant secretary, Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne and V. Chapman and D. J. Price.

Resolved further, That we extend to Mr. Foster, the proprietor of the livery stable, for general accommodation and special favors.

The business of the conference being concluded, the large congregation present joined the conference in singing. "Praise God from whom all blessing flow."

Benediction by presiding elder.

Ohio District, Lexington Conference.

JOSEPH COURTNEY, P. E.

The first round of quarterly visits in this conference year are closed. The charges, generally speaking, are progressing slowly. The spirituality of the work seems to be uppermost, while we are passing through an unprecedented crisis financially, which has reduced the members and congregations to straightened circumstances. In fact in some parts of the work they can hardly keep tongue and buckle together. The amount estimated by the twenty-four charges for ministerial support including the pastors bishops, presiding elders and conference claimants, are about $10,200. When the memberships few in number as they are in those charges, and their circumstances financially and domestic obligations are properly considered, the above estimate makes a pretty fair showing toward supporting the gospel. The charges and brethren with but few exceptions, are apparently pleased with the appointments. We could not expect satisfaction, as no conference appointments ever have given that. Pastors seem more determined now than heretofore to represent the benevolent causes and urge collections for the same. We have made it a specialty to counsel the pastors, officers, and committees to pursue the disciplinary course in taking the benevolent and all other collections. Our material interest in purchasing and paying off old church indebtedness, all things being properly accounted, are progressing well. We have four new pastors who are serving their first year in the district, viz; Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, ex-presiding elder of Indiana District, now at Covington, Ky. The congregations are increasing, quite a number have joined the church and a good work is being done; Rev. Lewis M. Haygood, who was transferred from the Tennessee Conference and stationed at Cincinnati, O. The standard is being raised at Union Chapel, signs of general increase are visible, he is all push and work. Rev. James Taylor, formerly of Indiana District, now on Richmond circuit, wears a sunshiny face and is doing well; Rev. Braxton Daniels from Lexington District, now on Mt. Pleasant circuit, stands fair; and is fully demonstrating his ability as master workman for the cause of Christ. Rev's. W. T. Franklin, Joseph Adkins, Theodore L. Wilson, E. A. White and Eben Jackson used as supplies, are manifesting qualities which are necessary in order to become regular ministers of our beloved Zion. Our district conference will meet at Oberlin, O., Oct, 1st 1885. On September 30th will be held at the same place a Sunday school convention which will occupy the whole day, morning, afternoon and evening. The convention will be conducted by Rev. E. W. S. Hammond. Each charge is expected to send a delegate to the convention, which will be composed of all the members of the district conference, and special delegates from the Sunday schools. All local preachers and exhorters are expected to be in attendance on the session of the conference, as the renewal of their licenses is to come up and be disposed of in it. The programme for the session will be published in the SOUTHWESTERN in a few weeks.

Covington, Ky.

Letters from the Pastors.

D. Brown, Huffman, Ala., writes: "The children met at Brownsville church, June 21st, at 10 o'clock, with singing and reading. Prayer by Rev. L. Williams, number of verses read by heart was 144; then recess and we met again, and were addressed by J. W. Clift, a Baptist preacher, on the subject of Sunday school. Then followed by Prof. W. M. McAdery. Collections $2.20. We had a good time on that day."

J. W. Jackson, of Carlisle, Ark, writes: "We celebrated Children's Day, at Hazen, June 16th. Hazen is the eastern point of Carlisle circuit. The day was rather warm, and, the air was sultry, notwithstanding, we had the lagest concourse of people that ever assembled in Hazen for religious worship. (I mean colored.) Having no house in this place, we celebrated in the Baptist church. Among persons of note, were Mrs. Olive Curtis, consort of Mr. Samuel Curtis, the leading merchant at this place. Rev. Mr. Hart, of the Arkansas Conference, and Miss Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, Prof. C. W. Rogers, student of Rust University, Prof. L. T. Thomas, Rev. Jonas Simpson, of Lonoke circuit, and Rev. George Berry and I. S. Rigney Esq., of McCreanors. The programme as edited by Dr. D. P. Kidder, ordered of you, was used in conjunction with our Jasper and Gold Songster. Mrs. Curtis, who is a teacher in our Sunday school here, has prepared a class of twenty boys and girls, who recited "Beautiful things" very nicely; by the way, Mr. Editor, Sister Curtis was formerly a teacher in the white Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Sunday school, also Secretary of the W. C. T. U., and after Mrs. Curtis consented to teach a class in the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, although the patrons of said school were colored, her class in the white school refused to have her as a teacher, and some withdrew from the temperance society, nevertheless Mrs. Curtis still teaches the Negro school. Mrs. Curtis addressed the audience on the origin of Children's Day, which was well recieved. Rev. Hart then gave us an old fashioned Methodist talk; after which we proceeded to take the children's collections which was $3,30, sale of medal $2,00, total; $5,30. Dinner was, after dismissal by Brther Hart served on the ground. After dinner addresses were delivered by Prof. L. L. Thomas, Prof. C. W. Ridges and W. L. Thomas; they were well delivered and recieved. This being the first Children's Day that ever was in Hazen, it was a jolly day for the Methodists. On the 31st day of June was Children's Day for McCreanors, the western point of Carlisle circuit. The day was ushered in with a thunder storm, and the rain came down in torrants, we began to dispair; when about 9:30 o'clock a. m., the rain ceased, sky cleared, and we began to prepare for the day. We use the school house at this place, and under the management of Mrs. Alice V. Jackson, our amiable better half, and the best portion of it too. The house was beautifully decorated with wild flowers and evergreens. Pictures adorned the walls and in rear of the platform, over the stand in gilded letters were "Children's Day, welcome." Persons of note were Prof. C. W. Rodgers, Misses. Ida and Emma Haley, daughters of our worthy Sunday school superintendent at Hazen, Brother J. J. Howlett, Messrs Morman and Spencer. The programme here was the same as at Hazen, addresses by Prof. C. W. Piggens and the undersigned. Dinner here was served on the ground. There were fully one hundred and fifty present. Collection from the children. $4, medals, $2; total, $6; other collections $5.30 grand total for the circuit $11.30. This was done under a treme idious opposition from the Babtist brethren at McCreanors and Carlisle. I long to see the day when these people will be able to have houses of their own for worship.

Rev. W. H. Gallion, of Macon, Miss., writes: "The church is still holding its own, and we are doing what we can to build up the blessed Redeemer's Kingdom in this place. Since I came to this charge about seventy-two souls have been added to our Zion, and our people have steadily increased in Christian piety. Our first quarterly for the year 1885 was held April 18 and 19, which showed that each member of the conference was fully prepared to represent his part of the work. Elder Campbell, our faithful presiding officer, was on time, and opened our conference in his usual style, full of [illegible] zeal and deep piety. The leaders presented their written reports, which showed that faithful work had been done during the year. The trustees' report showed that valuable and needful improvements had been made on our church property. They had [illegible] new doors, window [illegible] repaired the aisles and the [illegible] put a real neat sofa in the pulpit. The improvement cost more than $100. The sisters have taken an active part in making their church neat and tasteful [illegible] The church and Sabbath School have purchased [illegible] which has added much to the interest of the Sabbath School. The organ reached us in time to celebrate Children's Day, which was much enjoyed by our little folks. Mrs. [illegible] our accomplished music [illegible] and a number of our congregation performed on the organ this occasion. A collection of [illegible] dollars. She is a power [illegible] our community, and [illegible] for her assistance to the [illegible] is very acceptable. [illegible] church is doing [illegible] to take into consideration [illegible] active stewards which [illegible] William [illegible] We are not [illegible] church is [illegible] J. W. Longstreet, [illegible] and, performs his part well. We have just closed a protracted effort, though not so successful as others we have held since we came to this place; yet we rejoice to note that several souls were happily converted and added to the church. The following named brethren preached for us during our revival: Revs. P. Jemison, L. P. Brown, W. Jones, S. A. Cowan and O. W. Ivy. Bro. Cowan, who has been attending Gammon School of Theology, spent a week with us, and preached very acceptable sermons. Our members were highly pleased with his preaching, and did much to make Bro. C. happy by giving him many entertainments while in our midst. We hope to do much for the Master before the close of the conference year."

M. Adams, Okolona., Miss., writes: "We are glad to say that Children's Day was a grand high day with our school here in Okolona, June 14. The programme prescribed for the occasion was carried out promptly by the school and visitors. It was said that it was never better in any year previous. Sisters Fannie Carter and Harriet Green acted superintendents. The responsive reading for morning services and the exercises for the afternoon was well prepared. Collections, $7 05."

Rev. T. G. Montgomery, Shreveport, La., writes: "Children's Day was observed, and we had a grand time. A large number rehearsed chapters of the Bible by heart After the children had finished the superintendent and teachers spoke. A good collection was taken up. I told them their banner must be hoisted as the rallying point for scattered troops. We forwarded the collection to Dr. Kidder, New York."

Rev. D. Collier, Waynesboro, Tenn., writes: "The elder held my quarter on Indian Creek, and on Sunday he preached Bro. Charley Parker's funeral. A large number of people were out, and the elder's sermon will be long remembered."

Letters From the Laity.

J. C. Thompson, of Greenwood, Miss., writes. "We had a very nice time on Children's Day, June 14. At 11 a. m. Rev. J. W. Dunn preached to 200 or more. At 2 p. m. the programme of exercises was listened to by a very good attendance, Rev. J. W. Dunn speaking on education everybody was pleased. Scholars and teachers 41, old people 168, collections $8 50."

D. M. Eubanks, Forest, Miss., writes: "Our pastor on this circuit is gaining souls for the Lord, and is upbuilding for education and the Sabbath Schools. By the last of September he expects to have his third church built. I was converted under him in August, 1884, and am exhorting under the leader ship of Rev. J. I. Garrett; I feel moved by the Holy Ghost to preach."

The M. E. Church.

That Church Extension Society.

Rev. H. F. Pease, of Lamartine, Wis., writes the Church Extension Secretary as follows: "Enclosed find our annual collection for Church Extension—$20, plus $2 for the 100 song services sent us sometime since.

We used the "Service of Song" and found it very helpful. Our receipts are nearly double the apportionment, and nearly twice as much as has been raised here in the past eight years. For once I can give a hearty amen to the movement. The Song Service is just the thing. Give it a better notice through church papers, so that the brethren may not overlook it."

This gives that "better notice." Please brethren, do not overlook it. For the Song Service, address A. J. Kynett, 1026 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., enclosing $2,00 for each 100 copies desired, and restore the $2,00 so advanced from the collection when taken. The net results will be the collection reported at conference.

DR. JOHN BULL'S

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and ACUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed as laid out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

If the best general purpose wire fence is for you. It is a strong net-work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry, as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School-lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire, as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial; it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and neatest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the neatest cheap iron fences now made. The Rose folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The Best Wire Stretcher, Cutting Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 10, 1885.

The Grant memorial service at Baton Rouge, La., was held in the Capitol building, and rose to the dignity of a State affair.

It was getting close to the throne when Joanna, the wife of Herod's steward, was converted. Capture the women and babies for God and the next generation will be his.

I read with interest your paper referring to the chart or pictures by Rewell of Cleveland, Ohio, entitled Colored Chieftains, and endorse what you say.—Rev. C. K. Wright, Savannah, Ga.

The columns of the SOUTHWESTERN are well filled with readable matter. It is a paper that is an honor to your church, and should be patronized by colored people of whatever denomination.—Rev. E. P. Marrs, Baptist minister.

Careful examination into the subject justifies the assertion that in many localities of our common country, North and South, Christian white people would be more favorable and helpful to Negro professors and their church enterprises if the latter would be more consistent.

The Rev. D. Godman pleads for African as a substitute for both the words Negro and colored people. But not all Africans are neither black, nor decended from the blacks, the term African is too indefinite to [illegible] either in Africa or elsewhere. Negro does very well.

The term African includes all the natives of Africa and their descendants, but since it fails to describe any one particular class of Africans from another, it does not meet the demand for a short, comprehensive word to use when referring to the Afro Americans Negro fills the bill exactly.

Prominent Negroes on General [illegible]

"As long as human hearts shall feel or human [illegible] shall speak, these hearts will cherish the memory; and these tongues prolong the fame of Ulysses S. Grant."—Hon. Robert Harlan, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"As a child of the people, General Grant has proven himself equal to the greatest of the earth. He was not a politician, but he was a man of facts, and his simplicity was his strength. He was not a particularly religious man, but when he stands before the great white throne his record will be clear."—Prof. Peter H. Clark, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"General Grant's elements of success were perseverance and patience, [illegible] with [illegible] prudence."—Rev. Allen Allensworth, Cincinnati Ohio.

Why We Have Colored Conferences.

What the Negro can or can not do in the Methodist Episcopal Church must be demonstrated by the unmixed conferences. An example of this will be found in the perfect minutes of the Lexington Conference, which Secretary Tate has just sent out from his office at [illegible]. Secretary Tate was once a [illegible] slave, and had he not found his place in a conference purely colored would probably not now be able to demonstrate as he has the possibilities of this race of advancement by any North Carolina Negro. When with fair opportunities for success responsibilities are placed upon these, we would not retire white men in the white conferences, but we certainly would if we could advance Negroes to all leading places in the mixed conferences. If not [illegible] what reason and purpose [illegible] conferences are [illegible] to continue in existence [illegible] said to have been legislated out of existence a year ago? If any man judges us to be unfriendly to white men he is wrong. But our love for the white shall never extend to the point of injustice to the black race.

Inefficiency Rather Than Poverty.

Careful attention to the hundreds of letters written us by their pastors, who are, in reality, the only men capable of speaking from personal knowledge of the true every day life and condition of the Negroes will show two things:

1. That where our pastors are behind the times, or too inexperienced or too imitative, that there is a great deal of talk about the poverty of the people they serve and very little effective work done.

2. That where our pastors are strong, properly self asserting, original, and up with the times, the people find money to pay them, carry on church work and attend to benevolence as well.

Inefficiency, is probably more prevalent and promiscously influential than poverty in the South.

A Grand Ralley vs. a Steady Pull.

Is a grand rally favorable or the reverse to a steady pull forward in church work?

It is a law of physics that chills alternate fevers, a heat succeeds or precedes a cold, extreme precocity in children is often succeeded by idiocy in adults. Over exertion is followed by over inaction or paralysis. So these extremes never meet except to cancel each other. A normal state in either mental, physical or industrial matters is the surest of final good results. In all our church work there should be system. System will insure certainty as to quantity, quality and time of results. Our Church has in its book of Discipline the most far-reaching and comprehensive system of church work. Where these are closely followed we have no high and low tides which, in ecclesiastical parlance, means living and dead churches. The steady, strong moving carre. bears everything before it.

Light on the Doctrine.

The following resolutions were passed at the late session of the Indiana District, Lexington Conference, signed by Rev. Charles Jones, P. E., A. A. Price and G. W. Ziegler:

Whereas, We have listened with patience to the very interesting address of Rev. M. W. Taylor in regard to the "Status of the American Negro," therefore,

Resolved, That we heartily appreciate the kindness of Dr. Taylor's very interesting lecture, and earnestly request him to publish in pamphlet form his lecture on the subject of amalgamation and miscegenation, and we, as his co-workers for the success of the race, will promise our hearty support to him, and pledge ourselves to do all we can to bring them before the public.

She Found Her Brother.

Lecturing on the merits of this paper the other day in Shelbyville, Ky., we turned to our column of "Lost Friends," and began to read the first notice upon which our eyes fell. We had only read a few lines, when springing up, a lady said, "That is my brother." So it was, and so it is daily. The SOUTHWESTERN has opportunities for bringing together these families shattered and broken by the demon, slavery, enjoyed by no other paper in the world. No wonder so many love, take, and read it. It knows and looks after their wants.

Personal.

—Rev. S. A. Cowan is in charge of our church at Vicksburg, Miss., by appointment of Elder Shumpert.

—Rev. Robert R. Roberts, writes from Galveston, Aug. 29, 1885: "Dear Editor—I wish to notify the brethren of this conference, and the many friends of Rev. P. Morgan, of his illness. He has been ill for two months, and during this time he has not been able to preach. Bro. Morgan has been thinking of crossing to the other side and joining the churches in glory, but is a little better at present. Bro. M. is one of our best men. He is building his church, and has worked hard to show the friends that he meant business. The Lord has blessed him to see the work begin. The stewards love him, and are standing by him. The Tabernacle will be a beauty when completed. Let us have your prayers for him."

Church Polity.

If a class leaders wife fails to attend church on Sunday claiming to be sick, but gets well enough to go several miles to a frolic on Monday, and do her work besides, what course must the leader, her husband, pursue.—Subscriber.

Answer.—He should set a good example for her by faithful attendance upon all church services punctually, and by kind and gentle conduct at home. A wife may be a member of the church and yet either unconverted or a backslider. If he sees proper, and it is true, he can report her as he would any other member for wilful neglect of the means of grace. Sometimes class meetings being poorly led are insipid and dull. A Methodist class meeting is a farce if it is not brim full of snap, fire, and life. If your class lacks for fire, snap, and life, either put it into it or see that your wife is changed to a class which has it. That will probably prove to be a complete cure. Wives are close observers, and slow forgetters; what they see at home follows them to church, and sometimes unfits them for worship.

Schools and Colleges.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.

PROF. W. H. CROGMAN, M. A.

I was very much pleased to read in the SOUTHWESTERN, issue of July 30, the kind words spoken in behalf of our school by Rev. L. H. Welch, and certainly appreciate the complement which he pays to me in common with the other teachers. I desire, however, to throw some light on a statement in Dr. Welch's article, or rather to reconcile that statement with another seemingly contradictory one which the Doctor, in his address to our theological students last spring, said President Ware, of the Atlanta University had made to him. The statement in the Doctor's article to which I refer is the one in which he says that [illegible] President of the University, is the originator of the model home idea for the [illegible] training of the young ladies. Prof. Thayer informs me that he has the Doctor's authority for the statement. On the other hand, in addressing the theological students, Dr. Welch stated that he had visited Atlanta University, and that, among other things President Ware had told him that we have a model home in operation, but the idea originated with them. Now, doubtless, both of these statements are true to a limited extent. Without doubt the "model home idea," so far as it relates to the work of the Freedmen's Aid Society, originated at Clark, and the other schools of the Society have simply "followed suit." It is, however, but justice to President Ware and the authorities of his school to say that they also conceived the idea of the "model home" some years ago. As early as the fall of 1878, three years before President Thayer came to Atlanta, President Ware informed the writer that it was among the plans of that institution to erect, as soon as funds could be secured, a two, story brick building to accommodate about twenty girls who should be taught there how to sew, cut make, cook, and, in fine, do all the duties pertaining to a well regulated Christian home. In addition to this it was to be also a home to which young ladies who had graduated from that institution, and had spent a few years in teaching might return and take a post graduate course of reading under some person competent to direct. A year or two later without the desired building, they began to put the "model home idea" into practical operation by using two rooms in the ladies' dormitory, in which the young ladies in the last year of the "Higher Normal Course" were given instruction in cooking. Just one year before our "model home" at Clark was started, that of the Atlanta University was put in operation in a cottage rented from Prof. Chase, of that school.

These are the simple facts given by one who has had intimate acquaintance with both schools, having been formerly a student of Atlanta University for three years, and since then a teacher in Clark for nine years. We give these facts with no other desire than to do justice to all the parties concerned.

Bishop Mallalieu's Free Scholarship Offer for New Orleans University.

To all the Methodist Episcopal Sunday Schools in New Orleans, the following offer is made. Bishop Mallalieu will pay the monthly fee of one dollar for the year 1885 6, at New Orleans University, of one new scholar from each Sunday school, that is, one scholar who did not attend the University during the past year. Any number of scholars can be examined for it, and the one, for each Sunday school, who passes the best examination, will get the free scholarship.

All who wish to try for it should on hand at the University, 1428 St, Charles ave., at 9, a. m., Monday, Sept. 14. The examination will be in the lower English studies, like arithmetic, spelling, and geography. A. F. HOYT.

National Association of Local Preachers.

The following announcement by C. B. Stemen, President, and W. H. Kincaid, Secretary, speaks for itself: The twenty-eighth annual meeting of the National Association of Local Preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be held in Brooklyn, N. Y., commencing Saturday morning September 26th, 1885, and closing the following Tuesday night.

Delegates from all Conference, Districts, and City Local Preachers Association, will be received, and, where no regular organization exists, local preachers with letters from their presiding elders or pastors, will be accredited as delegates. Properly accredited local preachers of any branch of Methodism, will be received as corresponding or fraternal delegates.

The names of delegates should be sent as soon as possible to Rev. G. W. Mooney, Brooklyn, N. Y., E. D., and homes will be provided; and write to him about orders to buy railroad tickets. Also send duplicates of the names of all delegates to Rev. W. H. Kincaid, Secretary, Lock Box 367, Pittsburg, Pa., to prepare the roll.

A Presiding Elder in the Sunday School.

REV. E. D. SPENCER, LITTLE ROCK CONFERENCE.

Rev. G. B. Donnelly, presiding elder of the Pine Bluff district, called a meeting of Center Point, Locksburgh and Washington circuits Sunday schools, the object of which was to aronse an interest in our connectional work, especially the Sunday School, Freedman's Aid, Missionary and Educational societies. Besides many good things he told us about the progress of the Negro race.

The elder answered the twenty-seven following questions asked him by the pupils of the schools:

1. When was the first Sunday School organized in this country?

Answer—In 1784.

2. How many school age children are there in our government?

Answer—15,000,000.

3. How many of these children are in the public schools.

Answer—9,000,000.

4. How many children do not attend these schools?

Answer—4,500,000.

5. How many do not attend any schools?

Answer—4,000,000.

6. Do any children attend the private schools?

Answer—Yes; 500,000.

Sunday School—Mr. Speaker, can you tell us how many nominal Christians there are in this world.

Answer—388,250,000.

7. How many people are there in the world?

Answer—1,800,000,000, and they are thus divided: Christian believers, 388,250,000; Parsees, 1,000,000; Brahminical Hindoos, 120,000,000; Mohammedans, 122,400,000; Budhists, 482,600,000.

Mr. Speaker, you say there are 18,000,000 school age pupils in our government. Tell us how many are there in the different slave States.

Answer—In Alabama, 76,426; Arkansas, our own State, 25,452; Delaware, 2798; Florida, 20,713; Georgia, 104,560; Kentucky, 22,245; Louisiana, 22,850; Mississippi, 138,196; Missouri, 27,321; North Carolina, 97,059; South Carolina, 88,632; Tennessee, 62,343; Texas, 41,559; Virginia, 93,860; West Virginia, 4890; Maryland, 31,827; District of Columbia, 10,541. You can make the total yourselves.

I am sorry I have not before me the many important questions asked the presiding elder and answers given. Also, that out of about twenty five our white friends present not one, to my knowledge, would agree to help us. However, we realized the sum of $5. This being the first meeting of the kind ever held in this country I think it a splendid commencement. Pray, for we are coming. God bless our presiding elder.

Bro. J. D. Johnson took great interest in the meeting, teaching a public school at this place, and giving good satisfaction to all.

The $5 realized is not agreed upon, as the Sunday School did name it for any particular one of the agencies for missions.

Thoughts on the Beatitudes

MRS. LUCY P. TAYLOR.

We are blessed for obedience to God's commands. It is a blessing to live so consistently, that in our lives we shall illustrate the power of grace to save us.

Salt possesses great purifying power, and that of such a life is like it.

We know the value and use of light to our bodies; true Christianity is a light equally needful to our souls.

As true Christians we represent a city set on a hill. Our light will shine out and be seen from afar.

If we are poor our riches are "the kingdom of God," if we continue in His love.

We may have seasons of mourning, but our comforter is near, and we shall be comforted.

And by meekness we shall inherit the earth.

Though we hunger and thirst, if it be for righteousness sake we shall be filled.

And as like begets like so our mercy to men begets for us the mercy of our heavenly Father.

The evidence that we are children of God is that we are makers of peace.

God's blessing means something, nor should we, like Esau, sell our blessing for "a mess of potage."

The salvation of God is the blessing we may, by obedience or disobedience, gain or lose.

If we lose our soul how great will be that loss to us.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation."

Heaven is the blessing of God. If we expect to gain it, we must by meekness first become inheritors of the earth.

To do this we must keep God's commandments, and He will show us how to do this.

"Thou wilt show me the path of life; in Thy presence is fullness of joy, and at Thy right hand are pleasures forever more."

These are to be our blessing when we come to the right hand of God in heaven.

Jesus and angels will welcome us there, "with ten thousand blessings in their hands to satisfy the poor."

This is why we are told blessed are the poor for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. May God help us to so live that we may obtain that blessing.

May we all come to rejoice in the love of God.

"The dear ones are gathering home."

Sermon—The Advance of Faith and Truth.

REV. B. BALDEN.

Text, Rev. 6, 2: "And I saw and beheld a white horse, and he that sat upon him had a lance, and a crown was given unto him and he went forth conquering and to conquer."

The white horse in the spiritual world signified the understanding of truth. He that sat upon him had a bow, which signified the doctrine of truth by which they fight against the falsities and evils. By him that sat upon the white horse signifies the Lord; the seals signifies the exploration by the Lord of all upon whom the last judgment was about to come as to their understanding of the Word and states of their life. To open the book and to loose its seals was to know the states of life, that one that judge not after sight and hearing but with a righteous judgment. Truth is meant by the white horse; white is predicated of truth, hence by the divine revelation is meant a supernatural communication of truth from God to man. By supernatural is meant beyond the light of nature or reason. Then it is to all who believe in God of infinite wisdom and power and goodness must admit the possibility that is known of his revealing himself to man in the manner he pleases. Ezekiel 2, 9 10, "And I looked and behold a hand was sent unto me, and the roll of a book was therein, and he spread it open before me and it was writeen within and without; there was written therein lamentation and mourning and woe." Thus the states and standing of the church is made known. When he spoke to the prophets of old they told of his coming to redeem man: Isaiah 26, 11; Daniel 12, 4; Genesis 49, 9 10; Hebrews 7, 14; Isaiah 11, 1 10; Romans 15, 15; Isaiah 53, 7; John 1, 29 30; Peter 1, 19. The conquering Jesus is the Redeemer for God to save the world.

General Church News.

The statistics for the past year of the United Presbyterian Church in this country contain the following figures; Pastors and stated supplies, 510; congregations, 868; members, 88,871.

The eighty-sixth annual meeting of the Religions Tract Society was lately held in Exeter Hall, London. It has publications in 172 languages. Last year's business in trade and grants was over one million dollars. The expenditure in missionary work was over $230,000.

The Baptist Home Missionary Society loses $100,000 through John H. Deane, who failed last year. Mr. Deane was president of the Baptist Publication Society and a member of the finance committee of the Baptist Home Mission Society. He was counsel for the Mission Society and invested money for it at various times in real estate.

The ship British Statesman was foundered off Calcutta. Twenty-three lives were lost.

Everybody's Air Brake.

"Yes sah" said Uncle Zach "I'se watched it forty years an' its as I say; De fust of May an' Christmas day of de same year allers comes on de same week day."

Further conversation proved Uncle Zach an incredulous person. Chancing to mention Dr. Carver's feat of breaking glass balls with a rifle, he said:

"I heard 'bout dat shootin' and knowed right off it wasn't squar'; dat was a Yankee trick, boss' sho's you born."

"What was the trick?"

"Dar wuz loadstone put into de glass balls, an' likewise onto de bullets; so when de bullet fly outen de gun, it an' de balljes drawed together, which, in course, brokesde glass—dats de trick!"

Later, Uncle Zach observed a rope running along the side of the car.

"Boss, what's dat line fur?"

"To apply the air brake in case of an accident." Then we had further to explain how the force of the brake was obtained; to which Uncle Zach responded:

"Look a here boss, you sholy don't 'spect me to b'leeve dat foolishness? Why de biggest harricane whatever blowed couldn't stop dis train, runnin' forty mile a hour. An' you think I gwine to b'leeve a little pipe full of wind under the kyars can do it? No sah-ree!"

There are a great many Uncle Zachs who judge everything simply by appearances. The air-brake does not seem to be a very powerful thing, but power and efficiency are not necessarily equivalent to bigness and pretense.

Philip Hone, Esq., who resides at the United States Hotel, New York city, and is engaged in raising subscriptions for the New York World Bartholdi pedesral fund, was once upbraided by a distinguished relative who was a physician, for commending in such en thusiastic terms a remedy that cured him of bright's disease eight years ago. He said: Sir, has the medical profession with all its power and experience of thousands of years, anything that can cure this terrible disorder?" No, no, that is true, there is no mistake about it but that Warner's safe cure is really a wonderful effective preparation. That remedy is an "air brake" that every man can apply and this fact explains why it has saved so many hundreds of thousands of lives.—Copyrighted. Used by permission of American Rural Home.

Fraternity.

G. W. RICHARDSON.

A few pleasant incidents have occurred in my experience during the eight years I have been presiding elder in the West Texas Conference, which are not only very enjoyable in themselves but they increase my desire and hope that the Methodisms of America may, at no very distant day, become one. In the summer of 1883 I was traveling to the mountains with my family, principally to have [illegible] daughter, and camped near the banks of the Pedernales to remain over Sabbath. Rev. M. A. Dougherty, who was then presiding elder of the [illegible] district, was traveling in company with me, going to his quarterly meeting at Mason. A mile behind us Rev. Mr. Black, of the M. E. Church South, came up to camp and said he was hurriedly meeting a short distance away, and his presiding elder was with him. He invited Bro. [illegible] and myself to attend [illegible] and help in the public [illegible]. We both accepted the invitation to preach, and those [illegible] people in the mountains of Texas caused just as happy hearts as we had belonged to the Church of Methodism. [illegible] people would never feel [illegible] strangers, were to take [illegible] Three weeks ago I [illegible] meeting of the M. E. Church South, [illegible] Goliad, and accepted an invitation to preach for them at 11 o'clock Saturday. After preaching I had more invitations to visit them at their homes, to stay all night with them when I came to Goliad, than I could accept if I were to stay on San Antonio District two years more. I wish to say that I received these tokens of Christian fraternity after they had full knowledge of the fact that my work was entirely among the colored people. At that camp meeting I invited the pastor of the Church South at Goliad to preach for my congregation a week from the next Sabbath. He very promptly accepted my invitation, and gave us an excellent sermon. Two weeks ago yesterday I attended a district conference of the M. E. Church South at Victoria, received an introduction and was invited to a seat within the bar of the conference. Before I went away I requested the presiding elder, Dr. Gillett, to send me a man to fill my pulpit at Victoria at 3 o'clock the next Sabbath. The Doctor not only produred the supply but came with him. The people were wonderfully carried away with the sermon. Many of them supposed the preacher was one of my Northern friends who was on a visit to Texas. Methodism is just about the same thing whether the word South is attached to the preacher's name or not. After the sermon I asked Dr. Gillett to administer the sacrament to my people. His remarks in connection with that part of the service, on the wonderous love of Christ, who is the Savior of all men, and on the oneness of believers, and the great privilege of all believers to show that oneness at the Lord's table captivated all hearts. We felt very much like Peter on the mount of transfigration, "Lord, it is good for us to be here." I believe such fraternity pleases the Great Head of the church.

Some Peculiarities of Chinees Methodism

REV. F. OHLINGER.

Our circuits have from four to twelve preaching places each, most of them offer but little more than a Sabbath day journey, and some of the preaching places are only a mile apart. This feature of the work has its serious objections as well as its tangible causes. We will state both. In the first place it is a concession to the unchristian 'one side" spirit which ought to be silenced once for all. Not only do Christians of neighboring villages sometimes find it difficult to worship together once a quarter, but even object to being connected with the same circuit. If they are nevertheless put on the same circuit there is often much contention and wrangling as to where the pastor is to reside. Again, instead of preaching to an audience of one hundred or more the preacher has to divide this number between himself and two or three local preachers who themselves confess their need of receiving instruction. Finally the whole machinery of the church is to a large extent clogged by this undue individualism; church extension, education, and above all self-support are greatly retarded by it. It is harder for two small classes to build two small churches than for these two combined to build one good church. So, also, many classes are without schools, being financially too weak to support one, and yet failing to unite with an adjacent class in this important matter; and, furthermore, if we could induce our people to walk a mile or two to church on Sunday and have preaching now and then in the week instead of only on Sunday five of our best circuits could be readily made into three self-supporting circuits. But there is another side to the question. In the first place it is quite a common thing for whole families to belong to the church, and the plea is "our aged parents, our small footed women and little children can not walk far, and it costs too much to hire sedans for them." Again, "We can get our heathen friends and neighbors to attend services occasionally who would never go to such and such a village to hear preaching." Further, "our village is large enough to make a strong class if the Missionary Society will only have patience until we get a few more of our neighbors converted, we shall ere long reach self support and have a stronger, more intelligent and compact church than would otherwise be the case. We are going on to self support." This feature of our Hok Chiang Methodism deserves close scrutiny and, to say the least, firm-handed guidance on the part of the Foreign Missionary.

Worse Than Sneak Thieves.

Bands of confidence operators have been recently let loose in various sections of the West and South, to prey upon and annoy the housekeeper. They are generally composed of women, although employed and directed by agents of the other sex, and their method of procedure, as explained by several ladies who have been victimized, is as follows: Obtaining access to the kitchen, they introduce the subject of baking powders, inquiring the kind used in the family. Being shown the can, perhaps a fresh, full one, they volunteer to "test" it to ascertain its qualities. Their "test" consists in placing the can on a hot stove or over a lamp or gas jet, or in mixing the baking powder with water both hot and cold. If the bakig powder is good for any thing the heat will, of course, expel the gas, which, being ammoniacal or carbonic, is apparent to the sense of smell. The claim is then made that this odor, indicates something detrimetal, although as a matter of fact, a baking powder that would give off no gas when subjected to heat would be without leavening powder and valueless. They will also mix the baking powder offered them with water. If pure it effervesces quickly. The baking powder they peddle being similarly mixed foams up slowly. This they claim as evidence of superiority, whereas it is the exhibition of a trick only, as this effect is caused by the presence of flour in the baking powder they are peddling, and is sure evidence of adulteration. Of course the object of these fraudulent tricks is to destroy confidence in all other kinds of baking powder, and to sell the particular brand for which the women are traveling.

Were this the whole of the operation, housekeepers would not often be deceived. Every intelligent person knows that baking powder is not made to be used in this way but in cooking where its action is entirey different from that produced from dry heat or mixing with water alone. The chief object of jugglery is to destroy the baking powder given for testing; or by neating it to off its leavening gases, and so weaken it that when used it will fail to work. At the next baking there is heavy food of course, and the "tramp" probably gets the credit of having told the housekeeper a valuable fact, instead of having spoiled her baking powder, as was actually the case. The average "tramp" will, in this way, destroy from fifty to seventy-five pounds of baking powder a day.

A second method of spoiling for use the baking powder in a kitchen where they are not permitted to experiment with it, is by dexterously throwing in the can a small quantity of salt, soda or powdered line. Again, should there chance to be no baking powder in the house, the operators will produce of the kind used by the family, a sample that has been purposely adulterated or "doctored" to make such an exhibition as they desire under the so called test.

The only way to protect our food from being contaminated by tramps of this kind is to turn all persons who wish or attempt to tamper with it unceremoniously from the door, and to use those articles only which experience has proven satisfactory, or the official tests have established as pure and wholesome.

Books and Current Literature

Wide Awake for August opens with a fanciful frontispiece by H. F. Lungren, entitled "In the Sweet o' the Year;" the same artist also contributes a fine full page drawing of Burns' "Highland Mary," the eighth in the series "Heroines of the Poets" The number has some remarkably good short stories of which dogs and horses are the heroes; "The Gypsy's Prophecy," by a Virginian author, Miss Anna Leach, "Hunted by a Wild Stallion," a Canadian story by Edmund Collins, and "William Rufus," by Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont, being a dog once owned by Wade Hampton, and guilty of some astonishing behavior. Among the many poems Susan Coolidge has a fine illustrated ballad, "Edenhall," and Marion Douglass, "The Talking Crow." Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

B. F. Avery & Sons, publishers of "Home and Farm," have purchased of the Messrs, McDonald the Southern Bivouac, and the June number, much enlarged will be the first of the new series. The magazine will hereafter be under editorial charge of General Basil W. Duke and Richard W. Knott. As formerly, war papers will be the special feature of the magazine, each number will have literary articles illustrating all phases of Southern life, the purpose being to make it, in every sense, a representative literary magazine.

Dr. W. T. Barnard has the lead in the September "Popular Science Monthly," and opens an able and elaborate discusion on "The Relations of Railway Managers and Employes." This is an interesting branch of the great labor question, and presents many of its problems in a light especially favorable for critical study. Dr. W. G. Thomson considers "The Present Aspect of Medical Education," and gives many valuable suggestions upon the subject. The "Insect Fertilization of Flowers" is interesting and beautifully illustrated by the German botanist Behrens, and is full of nice points on this curious topic. No man in this country—perhaps no man of this age—is better qualified than Professor E. D. Cope to treat of the "Origin of Man and the Other Vetrebrates." As a statement of just how that subject stands to-day, his illustrated paper is valuable. A sketch and portrait of the celebrated African explorer, Dr Gustav Nachtigal. New York: D. Appleton & Company. Fifty cents a number $5 a year.

Artists and lovers of art find encouragement in the growing development of public taste in this country. Leading artists are content to acquire distinction as illustrators and designers, and few publications of books are barren of illustrative decoration. W. H. Gibson, whose delicate work is so familiar to us all, is equally successful in his interpretation of nature in color or in black or white. Exquisite winter scenes from his brush are among Prang's forthcoming publications. Tender in treatment and faithful in sentiment they are as valuable as studies for amateurs as for their legitimate intention as gift cards.

"Grant's Memorial: what shall it be!" is discussed in the September number of the North American Review, by Launt Thompson, Karl Gerhardt, O. L. Warner, and Wilson McDonald, sculptors; W. H. Beard, painter; Calvert Vaux and Henry Van Brunt architects; and Clarence Cook, art critic. This symposium is sure to attract wide attention at this time, when the desire is so general to erect a monument to Grant that shall be worthy of the man, the nation and American art. The same number of the Review contains a consideration of the question, "Shall our National Banking System be abolished?" by George S. Boutwell, F. J. Scott, S. Dana Horton, and Edward H. G. Clark. "Ouida" contributes an essay on "The Tendencies of English Fiction," and Elizabeth Stuart Phelps writes on "The Great Physical Opportunity." But the most readable article in the number is ex-Sergeant-at Arms French's "Reminiscenses of Famous Americans," which is a series of delightful anecdotes about the famous war senators. Mr. French is writing a book of these reminiscences. If it equals this forestallment in the Review, it will be one of the famous works of modern literature.

The September Pulpit Treasury furnishes its readers this month with a portrait of Principal MacVicar of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, a view of the College and of the Crescent St, Church. Dr. MacVicar's sermon and sketch of his life are admirable. Other sermons are by Prof. J. Packard; D. D., Dr. W. H. Anderson, Dr John Hall and Chancellor Sims. D. D. The discourses are worthy of the men. The Leading Thoughts of Sermons are by Prof. Marquis, Bishop Bowman, Bishop Beckwith, Dr. W. M. Taylor, Prof. F. L Patton, Rev. R McNicoll, Pres. G. Anderson, D. D, and Dr. Battle. Articles on Current Literature, Dr. Somerville The World Evangelist. The Superficialty of Radical Reformers and Securing Church Attendance are by Bishop W. F. Walsh, Dr. G. Draper, Rev. J. Chambers and Rev. H. M. Sydenstricker, espectively. Every preacher and Christian worker should read it. Yearly, $2.50. To Clergymen, $2,00. Single copies, 25 cents. E. B. Treat, publisher, 771 Broadway, New York.

"Nineteen Beautiful Years." Miss Frances E. Willard's first book—its new relation to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Willard's first book was written when she was twenty-two years old, and published by Harper & Brothers. It has had a fine sale, but as she relinquished the copyright in return for one hundred copies of the first edition, it has never been to her a source of income. She now buys the stereotype plates of her publishers, who, in view of her object, charge but $100, and present them to the Union Signal, because of her desire that every bit of her life work, so far as possible, should be somehow connected with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Especially tender and significant is this wish as related to the biography of that sweet companion of her youth, that "only and long-lost sister Mary," who gave her the "call" to Christian work in these lovely last words of her life, "Tell everybody to be good."

The poet Whittier, who writes the preface of this new edition, has always been fond of "Nineteen Beautiful Years," and has distributed many copies among his young friends. Gail Hamilton has written few sketches more full of her best characteristics than one with this book for a text and which this edition will contain. She says she looked it carefully through to see if Mary Willard had written an opinion of her own works, adding, "I would give more to know what effect I had on a fresh young soul like that than to know what twenty newspapers and magazines thought."

Bishop R. S. Foster, the early and helpful friend of Miss Willard in literary matters, has a fine introduction, and Luella Clark the poet, who was teacher of rhetoric and composition to Frances and her sister, contributes a beautiful poem. Miss Willard adds a chapter, "After Twenty Years," especially suited to interest young women in Christian work and the white ribbon movement. There will also be a picture of Miss Willard and her mother, taken in commemoration of the latter's eightieth birthday.

Our friends will send in their orders without delay. Will not the press help us to make these facts known? MATILDA B. CARSE, President Woman's Temperance Publication Association.

REV. S. B. DANLEY.

In the SOUTHWESTERN of the 7th of May I find these words, some old Baptist doctrine written by Rev. Willis H. Jackson: "Mr. Editor, I don' see any need of Bro. Jackson reflecting the Baptists in that way. His article on tobacco was good with this exception. I think the time is now that all men should respect one another. I do not believe that the Baptists holds that as their doctrine. It may be practiced by most people, but never, as I have learned, has such an article been in their manual as that ("Don't do as I do, but as I tell you). We belong to a church, Bro. Jackson, and some one may misrepresent our doctrine. "Whatsoever you would that men do to you do even so to them; for this is the law of love."

Dear Editor, your paper is winning the people, but there is not much to be hoped for it from Bro. Jackson's article. If one can not write without casting reflections on others uncalled for, it may be well for them not to write at all.

A celebrated physician declares that "Hunt's Remedy will cure any case of kidney disease that can be cured."

Best Goods are Put in Smallest Parcels

The old proverb is certainly true in the case of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are little sugar-wrapped parcels, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, containing as much cathartic power as is done up in the biggest, most repulsive looking pill. Unlike the big pills however, they are mild and pleasant in their operation—do not produce griping pains, nor render the bowels costive after using.

A Lesson to Learners.

When old Zachariah Fox, the great merchant of Liverpool, was asked by what means he contrived to realize so large a fortune as he possessed, his reply was, "Friends, by one article alone, and in which thou mayeth deal, too, if thou peaseth—it is civility."

Cold Senate, how thy spacious chambers ring!

But burlesque oft contending is thy king.
No more a Sumner strikes his sweet harp strung,
But thou hath wranglers, I am forced to say,
Who like vile adders by the pent pathway
Where children pass, hide 'neath the bush to sting.
Yea, men there love to stir up prejudice,
And soil a colored nation's smooth content,
And freeze the noble stream of civil rights.

But men, who shed on Justice polished lights.

BLUNDERS IN HOUSE BUILDING.

When one really knows what a house is for it is not difficult to arrange a plan that shall be entirely satisfactory. The common observation, that every man ought to build two houses, that he might in the second correct the mistakes of the first, is the outgrowth of the thoughtlessness with which most houses are designed; and while one might possibly avoid in a second experiment the particular faults embodied in the first, unless the larger lessons of carefully analyzing its merits had been learned he would commit [illegible] blunders just as gross as those in [illegible]

[illegible]

The weakest child of God is far better than the best child of the devil.

It is quite common with nursery men and market gardners to grow crops worth more than the salable value of the land they occupy. Farmers can do this occasionally with potatoes, onions, tobacco and hops. These all, however, require extra manure and labor, and the idea that a farmer can have his entire acreage in any of this class of crops generally ends in failure, unless he is exceptionally situated for getting manure easily and in large quantities.

On cold mornings a most acceptable breakfast for the biddies is a "hot mash," made of wheat bran and corn meal mixed scalded and well stirred. Mix in other things that you know to be palatable and useful, particularly bits of meat, but omit condiments, such as pepper, unless in very small quantities. Condiments are worth no more to fowls (probably) than to human beings.

Any body can catch a cold now. The trouble is to let go, like the man who caught the bear. We advise our readers to keep a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup handy.

The Pulpit and Politics.

REV. E. W. S. HAMMOND.

Read before the Indianapolis Preachers meeting.

Mr. Webster has defined politics to mean "the science of government; that part of ethics which has to do with the regulation and government of a nation or state, the preservation of its safety, peace and prosperity; the defense of its existence and rights, against foreign control or conquest, the augmentation of its strength and resources, and the protection of its citizens in their rights, with the preservation and improvement of their morals." The venerable Dr. Whedon, late editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review, has said that government is ordained by God, and that "Society is not formed by a fable social compact; but on the contrary, God has formed man for society; and government is the form into which he has obliged society to throw itself for its own peace and welfare. Hence, at all times every government that truly is a government, is ordained of God and entitled to our obedience." It is the proud boast of the American citizen that his is the best form of political government upon the face of the earth—a government of the people, and by the people, and for the people; recognizing as the secret of its great strength and underlying power, allegiance to God, and the perfect equality of all men before the law. It is easy to conclude, from the marvelous success that has charactorized this government during more than a hundred years of its history, in all of the circumstances by which it has been surrounded, and in every phase through which it has passed, that such a form ought to be perpetuated. The factors in this great governmental problem are the governor and governed, and the qualifications of each, necessary to perform their several functions, are questions of the greatest magnitude.

While our marvelous progress has challenged the admiration of the entire civilized world, it will be admitted that the results achieved have grown out of the intelligent discussion of the multifarious questions touching our great political economy, and a disposition on the part of the patriotic to engage in the work of government with renewed energy and zeal—that, in the successive steps of our national progress, this work has developed a large number of devotion to God, and the great principles of liberty, equality and justice has covered them with an earthly immortality. The rapid growth of this country in wealth; the great influx of foreign immigration; the assignment of the negro to his proper sphere in the body politic; the establishment of civil service reform; the suppression of the rum traffic; the adjustments of the relations between capital and labor; the protection of our great industries; the maintainence of national dignity, at home and abroad; and, in fact, the harmonious blending of the various social questions, by which each citizen is protected in the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness, are among the questions which present themselves for the consideration of every citizen, regardless of position or creed, or political affinity.

What, then, is the relationship which the minister of the gospel sustains to the discussion of these important questions? My answer is, that in every respect he has the same rights that any other citizen has. Morally, as well as politically, he is under solemn obligations as a faithful watchman to look after the interests of his fellow-citizens. As the representative of a distinctively moral phase of all these questions he is to take decidedly a leading part. Duties which he owes to God, to his family, and to his country, ought to suggest very strongly the propriety of the use of both voice and influence in securing to his fellow-men the blessings of good government. Eight years ago the great Fisher Ames said: "Our country is too big for union, too sordid for patriotism, too Democratic for liberty. Its vice will govern it by practicing upon its folly. This is ordained for democracies. The men who have the best principles, and those who act from the worst will talk alike, except only the latter will exceed the former in fervor. But the language of deceit, though stale and exposed to detection, will deceive as long as the multitude love flattery better than restraint." My observation leads to the conclusion that the sentiment just quoted is very highly applicable to our people and our times. Men, not principles, is too often the battle-cry of the great political parties.

One cannot fail to notice the evil influences which environ us, and which are a fruitful source of many of the perils that threaten our political happiness. The poular will is often thwarted by the use of the most corrupt means. It is not a very cheering reflection that the mammon of unrighteousness holds high carnival, and that we can hear the great wheels of the political Juggernaut crushing out every principle of patriotic virtue. Officers of the law too frequently wink at its many violations, in order to retain their positions and secure the suffrages of the baser elements. It has become a poular practice now to be able, in political parlance, to "manipulate the boys." The average voter inquires if the candidate will spend his money freely; if he will reward his political friends and punish his opponents.

The olibarchy of intemperance aspires to diccate the policy of the great political parties, and is preparing to flood our land with crimes. It is sometimes considered inexpedient to engraft into the platforms of political parties those great moral reforms so necessary to the perpetuity of good government. We have reached a crisis in which the minister is expected to take a conspicuous part. It is impossible to effect a reform in these matters until the better sentiments of the people are aroused, and for this great work his relationship to the people, his office and calling furnish him pre-eminent qualifications.

It is a matter of profound significance that, in every crisis through which we have passed, and in the arbitrament of every question involving the weal or woe of this great republic, ministers of the gospel have been equal to the exigency; and it is an undisputed fact that the counsels of these good men have in several instances saved the "old ship of State" from impending ruin. The name of the now sainted and great Bishop Simpson will go down into history with increasing luster as one of the greatest, purest and best that ever adorned its pages. His illustrious record would be incomplete without the additional fact that he was the tried and trusted counselor of the immortal Lincoln and Stanton during the dark days that tried men's souls. The brave Bishop was unmistakably on the side of the Union and the Constitution.

Publicly and privately—in the ecclesiastical council, or in the social assembly—he taught the people their duty in the crisis, and to him, as much as to any other influence, was the great church of which he was the honored representative indebted for that spirit of patriotism which made Mr. Lincoln feel that its prayers, and its masses, and its contributions of loyal men entitled it to the pre-eminence. It is an old but unreasonable objection that because of the very peculiar relationship existing between the minister and his flock, he must refrain from making any allusion to the great political questions of the day, except in a sort of a vague conservative way. He is allowed to vote, and sometimes to denounce from the pulpit prevalent evils, but must take no further part in bringing about the good results desired. This is a species of slavery which ought not to be tolerated. He is accepted as the spiritual guide, and is authority on all moral questions, and it is but in keeping with the spirit and teaching of his great Master that the people be taught to pay tribute to whom due, and to render unto Cæsar the things that belong to him. In other words, teach them how to weigh intelligently the great questions which are presented for discussion, and to so use their franchise that the desired results will be secured. If it be true that the "powers that be are ordained of God," then it becomes the imperative duty to teach the people the necessity of subjection to the higher powers, in an intelligent conception of the relationship which they sustain to the government and a willingness to sustain its polity and maintain its dignity. We are living in an age of wonders, when the changes of thinking and feeling are very sharply defined. These times are demanding a class of ministers who are not afraid to think, and to act, and to speak, and to come out boldly on the side of right and justice, and humanity, and he who refuses to do this, who fails to have the courage of his convictions, but who is continually oscillating bteween duty and popularity will sooner or later find himself supplanted by others more worthy of the leadership of the people.

I have great faith in the future of our common country. The evils which seems almost insuperable will be eliminated. The persistent efforts of demagogues and political adventurers to corrupt the ballot and prevent the free exercise of the sovereign rights of the people have called attention to these abuses, and the demand for radical reforms has become the imperative duty of the hour. To this end, all patriotic citizens, and especially all faithful ministers of the gospel, should labor patiently and hopefully. Let the trumpet give no uncertain sound. Let the forces be intelligently disiributed. Let it be distinctly understood that the minister is to take an active part in the preliminary work preparatory to the battle of the ballots. Let him pay some attention to the qualifications and character of the men who aspire to the various offices within the gift of the people. Let him invite the co-operation of the people who are immediately influenced by him, by virtue of his important office and calling. Let him urge upon them the necessity of attending the primaries, and that it is a criminal neglect of duty to relegate matters pertaining to their best interests as citizens into the hands of rings, and cliques, and party "bosses," and we will in the near future, have pure politics, a pure ballot, and purer men to represent us in all the offices of trust and emolument. Our country will then wheel into line as a mighty factor in the spread of righteousness throughout the world.

Woman's Face

"What furniture can give such finish to a room, as a tender woman's face," Ralph Waldo Emerson. Not any, we are happy to answer, provided the glow of health tempers the tender expression. The pale, anxious, bloodless face of the consumptive, or the evident sufferings of the dyspeptic, induce feelings of sorrow and grief on our part and compel us to tell them of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the sovereign remedy for consumption, and other diseases of the respiratory system as well as dyspepsia and digestive troubles. Sold everywhere.

The Vienna correspondent of the Times telegraphs to that paper that in Austrian official circles the opinion is generally entertained that as a result of the meeting at Varzin between Prince Bismark and Count Kalnoky, Austrian Minister for Foreign Affairs, a severe tariff war between Germany and Austria has been averted.

The Bishop of Qainhon, in Anam, the scene of the recent massacres of Christians, implores liberal assistance. He reports that 10,000 Christian refugees are starving.

A Mother's Love—A Practical Illustration of Its Power.

A mother's love! What a potent thing it is! It will melt the heart of the most hardened criminal, when no other influences would be effectual. No one but a mother knows its full meaning, but every one can appreciate it if they will. It is known, sometimes, to mean sleepless nights, care, inconvenience, and, if necessary, want, hardship and death. But the subject has been too frequently treated, by the sweetest poets and the ablest writers to furnish an essay for these columns. Too many practical illustrations occur in every day life for it to be dwelt upon, so that it is unnecessary to speak of the subject further in order to make the reader understand the full meaning of what is to follow.

Waterbury Watch and Chain

FOR $4.20.

Either Weekly alone is worth more than the price asked for both, as they contain reviews of the news of the world, a vast amount of select literary matter, exhaustive commercial reports, in fact everything is embraced that tends to make a

First-class Family Newspaper.

The subscription price to Weekly Times-Democrat alone is $1.50 for 12 months; 75 cents for 6 months, or 50 cents for 3 months.

Every family in New Orleans not taking the Daily TIMES-DEMOCRAT should keep posted in the

by taking these Weeklies, and as an inducement we offer a good serviceable watch for the small addition mentioned above.

The WATERBURY WATCH is a stemwinder, and will run twenty-eight hours. The case is NICKLE-SILVER, and will always remain as bright as a new silver dollar. The Watch has a heavy beveled edge and a crystal face. The works of the Watch are made with the finest automatic machinery. Every watch is tested in varying positions, and is perfect before leaving the factory. Each Watch is put up in a handsome new improved SATIN-LINED CASE, for safe transportation through the mails

july30

Is the best general purpose wire fence in use. It is a strong net-work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry, as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire, as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial; it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and easiest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the neatest cheap iron fences now made. The Rose folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The best Wire Stretcher, Cutting Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

Our System.

Payment.

We receive and keep on file over 12,000 Newspapers published in every State and Province in America. Over 1000 Daily papers alone arrive every morning. Each paper is examined by careful clerks and the insertions entered in record books. Under our system an advertiser is sure to receive the full value for his money.

We publish the "American Newspaper Catalogue," a volume of 900 pages elegantly bound in cloth, and containing a complete list of the publications of every character in the United States and Canada. On one line we give place of publication, name of paper, class of denomination, age and circulation. In it are catalogued 14,000 periodicals. Sent free on receipt of $1.50.

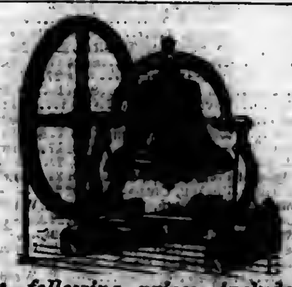
We can secure the prompt insertion of any advertisement in any publication at the lowest attainable prices. We keep constantly invested over $200,000 "in space" in the best lines of newspapers. Our special lists of Papers will be found especially useful in making up lists for pushing any special lines.

We have, for the convenience of advertisers, made up our Religious List containing the names of all the leading denominational papers with prices. Our Agricultural List containing the names of all the prominent agricultural papers with prices. Our Local List of 1,500 County and City Weeklies and Dailies, arranged by States with publishers' prices and the prices at which we can insert advertisements. These Lists are mailed free on application.

We will furnish to any reputable advertiser who will apply, an estimate showing exact cost of any proposed line of advertising, and when desired, will make up lists and write advertisements, provided the amount desired to be expended is named. We have had a wide experience, and can suggest lines of papers best adapted to the wants of an advertiser.

We keep constantly supplied with the newest styles of type best adapted to the display of advertisements. Send us your copy and we will return with estimate & proof from type without extra charge.

Our organization for correctly following an advertisement in the newspapers is perfect, and our patrons can be assured that correct work from every publisher will be exacted.



To any advertiser entitled to credit, or any one who can furnish us proper references, we will extend any reasonable line of credit. Publishers pay us a commission for all the business we send them, and any advertiser can be assured of obtaining through us lower prices than can be obtained from publishers direct. In no instance do we charge advertisers any addition to publishers' rates.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

When Elisha was in Shunem who was very kind to him? A good and rich woman who was called the Shunamite.

How did she show her kindness? By making him a little room.

What did God give her in return? All the little boy she ever had.

While he was in the harvest field one day what did he cry out? "My head! my head."

Where was he carried? Home to mother, and she held him until noon, when he died.

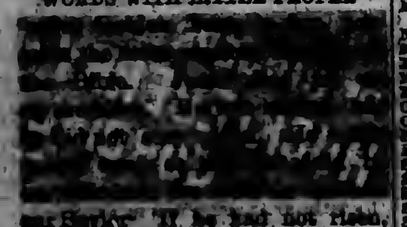
What did she do with his dear little body? Carried it up stairs and put it on Elisha's bed.

Did she tell his father he was dead? No; she only told him she wanted to go at once to the man of God.

When she came in sight of Elisha what did he know? That she was in trouble.

When he knew what the trouble was what did he do? Sent his servant in haste to lay his staff upon his face.

Was the mother contented with this? No; she said, "As the Lord lives, I will not leave you until you go too."



When they came to the door what did the servant girl say? "The child is not awaked."

What did Elisha do after he had shut the door and prayed? He put his hands and face upon the little boy's hands and face.

After he had [illegible] this time again, what [illegible] boy sneezed and opened [illegible].

What did that happy mother do when she saw her boy alive? She fell at Elisha's feet.

WORDS WITH LITTLE PEOPLE

our Savior. If he had not risen, then we, when we die, should never be alive again, but now we shall be, and when Jesus raises us, we shall never, never die again, but we shall live in a body that will never be sick or tired, in a beautiful, heavenly home, forever and forever.

Obituaries.

Sister Charlotte Parker died in the city of Natchez, Miss., July 14, 1885. She lived in the parish of St. Martin for many years. Sister Charlotte Parker lived a most devoted Christian life, always found in her place of worship when bodily ailment did not prevent.

She lived to the ripe age of eighty-eight years, and left behind her a well spent life. She was a pillar in Bryant's Chapel, of which she was one of the founders.

We will ever remember the kindness of the members of her church in tending the sick sister. The two sisters with whom she lived and died—Misses Lucy and Fanny Dutrneil—were indefatigable in administering to her every want. Bros. Travis Larkins and Henry Gant and I visited her before she became speechless, and in answer to the question, "How is it with you and your Redeemer," she replied that all was well; that she was "waiting on the Lord."

Thank God for those words, for by them we know that Sister Charlotte Parker has met her dear Savior beyond the river. Her toilsome journey is done, and she shines forth as the sun. Thus we leave her and cry amen.

EDWARD FIELDS, Pastor.

Bro. Albert Carter, one of my converts of last year, departed this life June 19. He was willing and ready to go. He joined the church in September last, and proved himself a child of God. He was about twenty-one years old.

Sister Alice Freeman died July 14, in full triumph of faith. She told her sister and friends she was going to die.

J. I. GARRETT.

Forest, Miss., July 14, 1885.

Sister Margaret Amos, a member of Martin Grove Church, near West Station, Miss., died June 21, 1885. She leaves a husband and two children to mourn her loss. A. G. HOUSTON.

Vaiden, Miss.

Sister Mary Gamson, a member of St. Morris M. E. Church, departed this life Aug. 10, 1885.

Sister Amarka Lexy, a member of New Hope M. E. Church, died Aug. 25, 1885. Both have gone home to live with Jesus. H. MAY.

Gulf District Camp Meeting

Will open on the 10th of September and close on the 21st, at Ocean Springs, Miss. I have a notice from Mr. G. P. Amore, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, promising that he will sell round trip tickets to Ocean Springs from Mobile, New Orleans and all intermediate points at four cents per mile. These tickets will be sold commencing September 10 and ending with morning trains of Sept. 21st, tickets good returning until the 22d inclusive. Those expecting to visit the camp meeting from New Orleans must come on the morning train, and those from Mobile must come on the evening train, the only two day trains that will stop at the camp ground.

Keep Looking Young

This is the age of young men. Other things being equal they are everywhere preferred. Save your young looks. It means position and money. Is your hair falling off—dry or lustreless? Preserve and beautify it by using Parker's Hair Balsam. Not an oil, not a dye, sure to work, clean, harmless. Restores color.

Letters from China and Japan report that there have been disastrous floods in those countries, which have spoiled the crops and caused great distress.

"It Will Cure Asthma."

"I had suffered with asthma for over forty years, and had a terrible attack in December and January, 1882. One day I took four doses of Parker's Tonic. The effect astonished me. I slept perfectly that night, and am now wholly well. Parker's Tonic will cure chronic asthma." E. C. Williams, Chapman, Pa.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Would it were now as in the olden date,
When o'er the soul of Israel's primal king,
An evil spirit of delirious hate,
Sat brooding mischief with his raven wing,
Then would the harper, loved in Zion, sing;
Though at his youthful breast, the Prince his dart,
With hell-engendered energy would fling,
Until the soothing spell of tuneful art
Stole, like the calm of heaven, upon the stony heart.

REV. J. T. GIBBONS, WEST TEXAS CONFERENCE.

Text 1 Cor. 11. 9. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard; neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them to love."

I want to impress upon your minds dear hearers, in the outset, taking the deep, and yet the sublime scope of the text, that there is nothing terrible to those who have lived right in the days of their health. In the first place God through his Son Jesus Christ has made ample provisions for all of those that love Him, and trust Him as their Savior.

I am glad to feel assured that all who were acquainted with this dear sister whom so many of us mourn the loss of this evening did truly love her Lord.

Taking her entire life into consideration, she was born of humble parentage in the year of 1855, brought up without the advantage of an education, grew up to womanhood possessing all of those virtuous and noble qualifications that are necessary to adorn the true woman.

After her marriage to this eminent minister, who sadly misses her presence to day, under his ministry she was converted to the Lord, in the year 1879. From that time, until her death which occured June 6th 1884, she truly loved the Lord; and O! think of the promise that awaited over yonder in the beautiful home of the pure and the good, "Eye hath not seen it, ear hath not heard it, neither hath it entered the heart of man to conceive, the blessings that yet await them that love Him." She loved him, 'yea' that love supported her when in affliction, inasmuch that when just before her demise, she could say that "I am willing and ready to go." Where was she going? What prompted her to say such consoling words to those weeping mourners around her dying couch! My dear brethren and sisters, it was the love of God and his Christ. White shining angels in spotless white, were waiting at the crossing for her soul to come forth from that prison house of day, and take passage on the golden chariot drawn by flaming cherubs to bear her spirit to a more congenial clime, in the land that God has promised to them that love Him. There, dear Christians no sickness comes, to cause the body to waste, or us to mourn on the account of depared friends. But eternal joys enumerable await those that love Him. O! think as this dear sister neared the golden shore, and looking through the mystic veil, and heard the sound of angels wings, as the sound floated on the onilly waves of death, they came nearer and nearer. See them as they stretch forth their wings, as they hover around her bedside to see that death shall nip the silver cord, and let her spirit fly. In the land of Switzerland there among the green mountains lives the Swiss fishermen and their wives. The men go out upon the placed lakes in the morning and there they toil all the day long in their little boats, while their careful wives remain at home, busily engaged with their domestic affairs, when the sun begins to sink in the far away horizon they go down from their homes to the lake, and as they go, they all in concert begin to chant a familiar Swiss song, as they see their husbands coming toward the shore, their voices reach the weary fisherman, but if all has went well all day they take up the chorous, and resound it back to those loved ones on shore. O! think when Rosey was nearing the Christian's home, as the angels which had their vigils been keeping, and as she heard them singing welcome daughter of Zion, and she joined in the chorus, saying 'I am coming home. Think when she met that concourse of angels. O! don't you hear her say is this heaven, and am I here, "No no, Rosey not yet, eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, nor hath entered into the heart of man to conceive the things that yet await you just over yonder. Then fly my soul says she, and let me be there to see the Lord that I love so dear. Think as she winged her way through the brightt blue either, beyond the starry decked heavens, she reaches the mansions prepared for them that love the Lord.

O! could mortal sense perceive the joys that met her gazing eye. No sir! no mortal tongue can tell. Then is it the whole of life to live, or all of death to die. Now the question is, shall we know each other, when we meet over there! O! yes; shall we be more ignorant there than here! No sir! Rosey and little Jimmy will know you all dear relatives, and you shall know them. Little Jimmy, though only spared on earth to see four bright summers, then God took him too, to be with mama. Dear Brother Carnes, your whole family of five, are over there waiting for you. Then may God in his tender mercies help each one of us all to love Him, and meet our dear loved ones there. Amen.

The Work of the Church Extension Society.

[Read before the Huntsville District Conference, convened at Decatur, Ala., April 16. Published by request of the conference.]

BY J. J. HOLLAND, D. D.

We cannot hope to do ample justice to the great work of the Church Extension Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the time allotted to us on this occasion.

No agency of the church when considerad per se is found to be of more importance, or to contribute more to the material benefit of the church than this society.

In determining the effectiveness these institutions under the auspices of the church, we must be satisfied to judge the same by the proportion they contribute to the aggressive work of the church.

This agency of the church, called into existence at an opportune time, when the emergency demanded it, has been for the last two decades vastly beneficial. Its object from the beginning was clear to all, and its operations have been consistent and firm. The spread of the gospel is its aim, by means of assisting societies in erecting suitable houses of worship, and otherwise canceling obligations which without such assistance could not be done.

We find this method of aiding in the spread of the gospel and the establishing of the Redeemer's kingdom among men, existing under different names and phases, and more or less imperfectly developed in both Romish and Protestant churches for more than a half a century.

We can readily observe the tendency in this direction, if we note the growth and effective work of protestantism for the past two centuries. But it is of the work on this line in the Methodist Episcopal Church we propose to treat. Twenty years ago the idea became deeply impressed upon the hearts and minds of some thoughtful men in the church, most prominent among them Dr. Kynett, the present secretary of the Board. He led the way to its organization. The memorable General Conference convened in Philadelphia, Penn., in the stormy days of 1864 directed the organization of the Church Extension Society under the anspices of the church. It was incorporated a legally organized body by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, March 13th 1865, and in July of the same year the board of Bishops appointed Rev. S. Y. Monroe, D. D. of New Jersey, the first corresponding secretary. Thus this institution, humane in its origin and wholly charitable in its efforts, started out upon its glorious mission. Time does not permit us to enter into the minutiæ or trace in detail the work of this society during the last two decades, suffice it for the occasion to present the general facts, called from the reports and records. There are three departments of the management of the Church Extension work. There are sixty four members elected, by by each General Conference, ministers and laymen equally divided. Then the several conferences have a conference board composed of a much less number. Thirdly, the general committee, composed of the bishops, the officers of the board, thirteen members from the thirteen general conference districts, elected by each General Conference, and thirteen members from the Board in Philadelphia chosen by them.

The general committee represents the whole church, and at the annual meetings in Philadelphia determines how much the several conferences shall be asked to collect, how much can be allowed to each, and how much can be appropriated to missions, without the conferences, the expenses.

The parent board is the legal incorporation and controls the entire work.

There is what is known as the loan fund, and the general fund, the one is let out by means of loans to needy churches who enter into a stipulated agreement to return the same by means of liberal installments and moderate interest.

Churches desiring such aid are required to make application through the trustees, said application to be approved by the pastor, presiding elder and by the conference board.

The general fund is used for donations to needy societies.

The work being done by this society cannot now be adequately estimated or appreciated; nor will it be by the generation that now is. The lasting endeavors being made challenge our personal sympathy and efforts. The untiring and self sacrificing exertions of the supervisors of this great agency in the aggressive work of the Methodist Episcopal Church, demands our highest encomiums. And though some of us may be divided in opinion as to its utility the calm reflections of the future, can be confidently awaited for its impartial judgment. This entire country, look where you will, gives here and there evidence of its work. Go with me to the great city of Chicago, ascend to the loftiest point therein, and look out across the great western country as far as human vision permits, and then summon to command telescope of imagination and thus continue our view until it is lost in the waves of the great ocean forming the western boundary of our magnificent country, and you will behold the country dotted with living monuments of this society's work.

Retrace our steps eastward to Nashville, and look out upon the great South, East, and West, and to either extreme the same grand spectacle presents itself to view. Wherever we turn the same is true. When the society was organized in 1864 there were in round numbers ten thousand churches valued at $24,000,000 and 2900 parsonages worth $3,000,000. The reports further show that in twenty years the Society has collected and disbursed $2,535,000, of which $515,000 is a permanent loan fund, and of this amount $337,000 have been returned and reloaned to other churches. In this way five thousand churches, more than half the number added since the work began, have received aid from this Society.

Marvelous work! May God continue it. Donations aggregating the sum of $1650,000 and loans to to the amount of $850,000 have been made since this society entered upon its mission of benevolence and love. And this year the reports show four hundred and eighty three churches have been erected by it in part or the whole. In view of these things I thank God for the Methodist Episcopal Church, and for all of of her benevolent institutions.

But her work is but fairly begun, she has only reached the margin of what God designs for her to do in this sphere. The field for usefulness is vast, and constantly widening. It calls out in no mistaken tones for help. This Society merits our confidence and hearty support, it is one of the strong links in the mighty chain binding our glorious Methodism together.

Its history is grand, and its achievments wonderful. But how much remains to be done. There are vast portions of our southern and western territory destitute of even an apology for a house of worship. Into this territory this society must enter to do its part nobly.

Upon us a duty devolves, the church requires us to perform it, and God commands us.

But the omens are propitious, the outlook encouraging, and the future brightening. Brethren, let us do our humble part, and having done all, "Learn to labor and to wait."

Decatur, Ala.

Sunday Work in Central Louisiana.

BY REVS. J. F. MARSHALL AND M. J. DYER.

Detailed by Bishop Mallalieu to visit the pastors in this portion of the State and assist them in stirring up a deeper interest in Sunday School work, we began at Pineville, Aug. 24. Bro. Travis Larkin, our pastor at this place, is a man of zeal and push, and God is rewarding his efforts to build up a good church at Pineville. At 4 o'clock p. m., accompanied by Sisters C. L. Armstead and M. A. E. Thomas, leading workers in the Alexandria Sunday School, we met a full house of old and young. The object of coming together was briefly stated by Bro. Marshall. Sister Armstead then spoke with feeling and effect on Sunday School in general. Sister Thomas followed with a very good paper; subject, "The Duty of Parents to the Sunday School." Bro. Dyer spoke of the duty of officers and teachers. After the pastor and others had given their views Bro. Marshall spoke of the benefits derived from the Sunday School, direct and indirect, and told of the great work our church is doing to assist in the salvation of the human race. At an invitation ten came forward for prayers. At night Bro. Dyer preached, and the altar was crowded with penitents, some twenty or more coming forward, three of whom professed to feel a change of heart and love for Jesus. Our next meeting was to have been at Bunkie, Aug. 26, but as the new church frame was being raised that day, and things were a little confused, it was postponed. Aug. 27 found us at Evergreen, some distance from the railroad, which we traveled by stage. Rev. Stephen Green is the pastor here, and is doing all he can under the circumstances. The great need here is a church building. We met a few people under some pecan trees on Mr. James Mackey's plantation, a colored man of means, and a friend to our church. Under these trees, 9 o'clock at night to begin, we talked up the interests of our church and Sunday School work. Mr. Mackey, our host, kindly entertained us that night, and the next morning, the 28th, took us in his hack to Lena, a distance of ten miles, for $1 each. Here we met Rev. Charles Monroe, the faithful pastor at this place. He is a man of deeds. The meeeting at night was well attended with all ages and sizes. Bro. Dyer was the first speaker and well did he do his part. He told the people first what to do in order to have and keep a good Sunday School. Bro. Marshall then spoke of the work as he saw its needs, and closed by saying it all meant a bringing of all, both old and young, to the feet of Christ. At the close thirty stood for prayers. Bro. and Sister Jase entertained us that night, and the next morning Bro. Wesley Coleman, the big-hearted steward at this church, hitched up his wagon and sent us up to Boonville, Bro. Dyer's charge. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29 and 30, were spent in holding a good meeting each day. The Sunday School at this place is exceptionally good. We talked Sunday School work and other church work and preached, and had a happy time. Dr. Albert, the presiding elder, was to have been with us here, but urgent business in New Orleans prevented it.

Through the kindness of Bros. Baham and Compton we were taken in their buggies on the evening of the 30th to Caeneyville, where we met Bro. B. Bolden, the pastor, and held another rousing meeting, at the close of which about twenty came forward for prayers. Next week we begin at Natchitoches.

On motion the 20th of October was fixed to pay over the money subscribed to pay Dr. Harris, of Alamo, for medical attention to Bro. William Dwoggins.

The following brethren paid: Dr. J. Braden, D.D., $1; J. P. Price, $1; C. L. Field, $1, and Sister Bettie Dokes 25 cents.

It being the hour of adjournment, on motion the time was extended.

Rev. J. Braden, D.D., president of the Central Tennessee College, gave an interesting talk on the duty of each minister and layman.

The conference adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock.

Benediction by Bro. S. B. Danley.

Evening Session.

Rev. J. P. Price in the chair.

Bro. Porter conducted the devotional exercises. He read a portion of the 5th chapter of St. Matthew, singing hymn 514, page 352.

Question tenth of the literary exercises was discussed by Bro. James Beaver.

Question thirteenth was discussed by Bro. J. L. Massey.

Dr. Braden was called upon to give us a plainer explanation of two subjects before the conference. The words of the doctor will ever remain in the hearts and minds of the conference.

Bro. J. S. Reed was excused on account of sickness.

On motion the conference adjourned.

Benediction by Bro. A. Burdett.

Night Session.

Elder J. P. Price presiding.

Bro. J. F. R. Summerhill conducted the devotional exercises. He read the 5th chapter of Proverbs, and sung hymn 426, page 151.

The minutes of the evening session were read and approved.

First business was the report of committees.

The committee on missions reported $152 raised this year; on education, $98; on Freedman's Aid, $69; on spiritual condition of the district, reported 406 conversions.

The conference adjourned to meet at 8:30 o'clock to hear Rev. J. Braden, D.D., president of the Central Tennessee College, lecture on education. His remarks were topical. First, education of the body; second, intellectual education; third, moral training. The church could not seat one half of those who were present. The color line was not thought of. Some of the best citizens of Mason were out to hear the lecture. The general sentiment is, come again, Doctor.

Invitation was extended to those who wanted to join the church to come forward. Collection taken up amounted to $2 60.

Benediction by Rev. J. Braden.

SECOND DAY.

Rev. J. P. Price in the chair.

Rev. C. L. Fields conducted the devotional exercises. He read the 107th Psalm, singing hymn 2.

Bros. T Tyers, W. C. T. Tyers and Bro. Philip Ruffin, of the C. M. E. Church, were introduced to the conference.

The elder made his report, which showed an increase in all of the departments of the church.

Elder J. B. Bradford asked the conference to join in singing praise to God from whom all blessings flow.

Father Blair, the senior member of the conference, led in prayer.

Rev. A. Burdett, of the Memphis circuit, read his report. Received and adopted.

Rev. C. C. Fields, of Memphis, made his report. Received and adopted.

H. Dunlap, of Pleasant Grove, made his report. Received and adopted.

J. L. Massy made his report. Received and adopted.

J. W. Hall made his report. Received and adopted.

J. A. W. Moore made his report. Received and adopted.

A. Porter made his report. Received and adopted.

G. W. Marsh made his report. Received and adopted.

S. B. Danley made his report. Received and adopted.

Elijah Blair made his report. Received and adopted.

A. Swift made his report. Received and adopted.

J. F. R. Summerhill made his report. Received and adopted.

W. L. Taylor made his report. Received and adopted.

Local preachers' reports were called for.

C. Sanders, James Beaver, A. T. Stephens, J. S. Reed, L. A. Parker, Joseph Harrison, Richard Rogers, John Booth, T. White, Sam Jones, Walker Lobbins, C. E. Alexander, J. A. Johnson, Soloman Blade and J. P. Granbery made their reports.

The regular business of the conference was dispensed with to hear a short sermon from C. Sanders, local deacon of the Memphis circuit. Text: 15th verse, 6th chapter of the 2d Corinthians. This was a happy meeting.

The conference adjourned to visit the preparatory school under the supervision of Prof. C. E. Alexander. This school has furnished Tipton county with her teachers. The professor has won the hearts of all whom he has met.

Night Session.

Rev. J. B. Bradford in the chair.

Bro. Joseph Harrison led the devotional exercises, singing hymn 316.

Exhorters made their reports. Joseph Harris, William Ragin, James Fielder, J. B. Edwards, S. L. Edwards, H. Davis, Ben Williams, Jim Brown, Bro. R. Palmer, of Paris circuit, Nelson Thomas, Bro. Lane, of Lawrenceburg circuit, J. B. Bradford, of Clifton circuit, made their reports, which were received and adopted.

On motion the Chair appointed a committee of three to inspect the recording secretary's book, The Chair appointed Fields, Bradford, Danly.

J. H. Boddie, Bro. E. F. Douglass, George Jones, P. H. Wade, D. McClarian, H. Corlee, M. Barrow, H. Hughes and J. Kirby made their reports.

On motion those who have not paid their quarters should forward the same to the treasurer.

Elder H. W. Key was introduced to the conference, and delivered an address. The elder spoke at some length upon the different benevolent enterprises. His words were encouraging.

The following named district stewards made their reports: H. Davis, James Beaver, Edward Fondrill. Every steward showed that their circuits were in good financial condition. See reports of other stewards.

For resolution offered by Bro. J. L. Massy see resolutions.

On motion each pastor pledged himself to send so much money to Brownsville to purchase a suit of clothes for the elder as a token of our esteem for him.

On motion a committee of three was appointed to take into consideration the life and labors of Bro. Ephraim M. Manson, and to publish a book of his life, the proceeds of the sale of said book to go to the widow. If the amount raised should exceed $500, all over that sum to be placed in bank to educate Foster M. Manson It was put in charge of Rev. Jesse P. Price.

The Chair appointed J. A. W. Moore, J. B. Bradford, S. B. Danley and A. Porter.

Class leaders and superintendents made their reports, which showed that the district was flourishing.

The following resolution was offered by J. A. W. Moore:

Thanking the good people of Mason for their hospitality toward the members and friends of the district conference.

A resolution thanking the presiding elder for the able manner in which he presided for the past four years over the conference, and that he should be continued as presiding elder.

A resolution indorsing the administration of Prof. C. E. Alexander, of the Mason preparatory school and his competent corps of teachers.

The chair appointed the following brothers visiting committee: Moore, Bradford, Fields and Hall.

The conference adjourned.

FIFTH DAY.

Sunday morning the sun rose behind a cloud. It soon passed away. At 9 o'clock the Sabbath School met, and the children sang as they never did before. Every face seemed to wear a smile. The news had spread far and near that Bro. Ephraim M. Manson's funeral was to be preached, and large crowds came to hear it. The church could not hold them, so the pastor secured a fine oak grove in front of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Depot. Both white and colored had gathered to hear the funeral oration, many of whom came as far as forty-five miles by rail to hear the last words of one whom they loved. He is gone, never to return to us again, but we can go to him. A large number of his members from Brownsville were in attendance. Their appearance showed that some one was dead. You could see tears in their eyes to even mention his name. When the congregation had gathered Bro. J. A. W. Moore read the 7th chapter of Job. Afterwards Bro. J. F. R. Summerhill sang the hymn, "Servants of God, Well Done." Bro. S. B. Danley read eight verses of II Timothy. Rev. Jesse P. Price then took his text: 20th chapter of Job, 7th verse—"They which have seen him shall say where is he." This was one of the elder's best sermons. The elder gave a sketch of Bro. Manson's life from 1869 until his death on the 14th of August, 1285. Never was there such a time among the ministers and laymen in the town of Mason.

Bro. A. Burdett, of the Memphis circuit, spoke of his acquaintance with Bro. Manson; also Bro. J. L. Massey and Bro. S. B. Danley. Sister S. A. Danley led in prayer.

The congregation was dismissed to meet at 3 o'clock.

They met promptly at 3 o'clock.

Rev. A. Burdett preached a feeling sermon from Ezekiel, 1st chapter, 16th verse. The latter clause of that verse, "And their appearance, and their work was, as it were, a wheel in the middle of a wheel."

At night we retired to the church to hear the missionary sermon by Rev. S. B. Danley, from John, 12th chapter, 7th verse. This sermon was carefully studied, and the brother handled the subject with credit. Yours, in Christ,

JESSE P. PRICE, P. E.

J. A. W. MOORE, Secretary.

Murfresboro District Conference.

H. W. SIMMONS.

This conference convened at Liberty, Tenn., Aug 25, 1885.

Monday morning, 24th inst., at 8 o'clock we started for the seat of the district Conference at Liberty, Tenn., which is 30 miles east of Murfreeborro. After a very hot day's ride over rough roads we reached it at 7 o'clock in the evening.

On Tuesday evening Rev. J. B. Marbry preached the introductory sermon, after which the presiding elder called the house to order, and H. W. Simmons was elected secretary, and J. B. Marbry assistant, and C. L. Seward Recording Secretary.

The roll was called and nearly all the traveling preachers responded to their names, with many other members of the conference.

The bar was fixed and on Wednesday the various committees were appointed.

The Presiding Elder read his report, which showed that since his appointment to the office of presiding eldership, he has labored incessently to build up his district. Many souls have been happily converted, and many have joined the church on every charge and circuit. All of the preachers under his charge have felt the growth under his administration.

Elder Bullington is a young man of about 33 summers, and is one that has shared the hardships of the Murfresburro district. He was a blacksmith by trade, and, somewhat like Peter, when the Master called he dropped his net and followed Him, notwitstanding, however, he has several times been compelled to follow his trade to make a support for his family. he has rallied through his trials and is now an active, energetic and good presiding elder, worthy of his calling. He is much loved, he has had a decided spiritual growth on his district and the financial part seems prosperous. We are trusting in the Lord, knowing that all things work together for the good of those that love God; to those who are called according to His purpose.

The preachers read their reports, which showed they have been earnestly at work.

During our session several were happily converted and several joined the church.

Two elders from the Missionary Baptist Church joined us and were reccommended to the Annual Conference for recognition of orders.

We were cordially recieved by both colored and whites, and our meeting gave strength to our cause there, for many of our people never before witnessed one.

Memorial services were held for Bishop Wiley, Rev. John Seay, S. P. Bell, E. M. Manson, Lewis Waters and General U. S. Grant. The speakers were Revs. J. B. Marbry, O. Green, T. E. Woods, and Elder Bullington. The services were very impressive. The religious and literary programmes were carried out during the session. The brethren, with the concurrence of the presiding elder, are talking more in regard to licensing candidates who are not acquainted with the required studies; we think that the time has arrived when great care should be taken in that direction; we have no use for the Central Tennessee College, if we don't use it. With its spires pointing toward the heaven and its doors open for nine months in each year, with its liberal terms offered to all, and then the idea of men knocking at the conference doors of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and we letting them in, would be a disgrace to our church; that is if we admit such, we think it is an insult to God and destructive to humanity to license men to preach the pure word of God who cannot read nor write, with such glorious opportunities around them. We desire to have them to understand that God wants a man to prepare to preach as well as to preach. So Christ showed it by taking his disciples into his theological school for three years before he sent them out on their general mission of blessing the world. We are determined to support our elder (presiding) and the church, Only a few of the local preacher's appointments were given, I am unable to give them here. Elder Bullington desires the brethren to push forward the benevolent claims, as we dont want to be behind.

Letters from the Pastors.

A. M. Mason, of Victoria, Texas, writes: "I came to this charge Dec 23d and entered upon my work at once. Our protracted meeting at this place continued for two weeks, which resulted in the conversion of 47 souls; 44 of these joined the M. E. Church. Our second quarterly conference was held on the 9th and 10th of May, by Elder Richardson. We are contemplating building a new church, as the present one is not sufficient to accomodate our congregation. We have already recieved the plan and specification from Dr. Kynett, and hope to begin the work soon. Such a church as we need at this place, cannot be erected for less than $2,500.

Mrs. B. Walker has been teaching school here for the last three months, and I wish to say she is the right person for this place. We need teachers who will teach more by example and not so much by precept—lead not drive. We have as our music teacher Prof. Cooper, who is doing a grand work in this direction. He took to himself Miss N. E. Gafford of Victoria as the better half. Dr. Townsend is now practicing medicine in our town and seems to be quite successful in getting plenty of work to do, and also is doing it well. Children's Day was observed here and the following persons took part in conducting the exercises; reading by Mrs. Baldridge, Mrs. Cooper and Miss N. E. Campbell. Addresses by Messrs Stames, Campbell, Prof. Cooper and Dr. Townsend.—Collection $4,45.

D. A. Bragg, Louisville, Miss., writes: "At Rock Hill the Hope well Sunday School joined in the celebration of Children's Day. Bro. Joe Kennedy lead the singing; Bro. Pett in prayer. Then came questions and scripture reading, Miss E. M. Turnipseed read a poem, Miss L. Miller delivered a recitation, Miss L. L. Warren read from the Bible; collection was taken and forwarded to the Freedmens Aid Society, $2,35. Parents and children enjoyed the day very much. We see our necessity, and pray to God that Rust University will send more and better men to carry on this well begun work. Officers and teachers 16, students and visitors 300.

B. Bolden, of Cheneyville, La, writes: "I left this place June 23, to hold two conferences. At Booneville Rev. S. Green joined me for Evergreen, one of his members was looking for us, and we enjoyed his hospitality. We found the brethren in good spirits. We preached at night and before day started for Burdlong. Our horse give out, and was led part of the time, and we took shelter in a house until day. We found a large congregation to preach to and had a glorious time."

D. A. Bragg of Louisville, Miss, writes: Our second quarterly conference was held at Maple Spring, Rev. H. R. Revels in the chair. The reports showed the work to be in good condition, paid pastor $50, elder $14 70. On Sunday the elder preached and was very feeble, collection $11,70. The circuit is in a prosperous condition. The pastor has been given a pony, and his salary is $265, elder $35. We believe that by earnest work our labor will be crowned with abundant success."

A. Branch, Dutch Town, La., writes: "Saturday the thirteenth second quarterly conference of Little Hope M. E. Church for 1885, was held by Presiding Elder S. Priestly. Sunday morning the 14th he visited our Sabbath school, and with words of encouragement he addressed us. I assure you that he said many interesting and instructive things to the school. At 11 o'clock Elder Priestly and Rev. A. Burnett preached an excellent sermon. We were made to feel glad and to rejoice in the salvation of our souls. Then the table of the Lord was prepared and thirty persons became participants in the glorious feast. The congregation left the church rejoicing, to return at 7 o'clock. Our church is rapidly increasing, received nine from the Baptist Church by certificates, and one on probation. The following committees were appointed, on missions, Lucy Green; on church extension, Rev. A. Green; on Sunday School, Robert Buckner; on church record, Dennis Orins; on church music, Moses Conish and Lucy Nelson; on temperence, Margant Johnson, Miller Jackson, James Weams, on Tracts, Henry Coninh, and A. Johnson. Collections during the day $7; paid the presiding elder his quarterage."

D. D. Goodwin, of Yazoo City Miss., writes: "Being busy trying to complete the belfry on our new church, I failed to write you concerning the church in this place. Our church will be worth $1000 when the work is completed. We have raised over $500. Since February last I have recieved fourteen into the church. The people promised Dr. Revels, our presiding elder, that they would make a better report and be in better condition on the second round than they were on the first, so they are coming right up to the mark. It is given up by the white people of this town that we have the finest and best church in this place. We have a grand day set apart either fourth Sunday in July or first in August for jubilee of the new Belfry and SOUTHWESTERN."

Rev. H. Dupre, of Auburn, Ky., writes: "I commenced work on the 11th day of April, and found it in a bad state. The church was standing out in the commons. I went to work, and now we have it under a good fence. We held our first quarterly meeting on June 27 and 28. Rev. A. Booker was with us. He preached a wonderful sermon at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, from Revelation, 2d chapter, 10th verse, "Be thou faithful unto death." At 3 o'clock p. m. the elder administered the Lord's supper to thirty two communicants. At 8 p. m. he preached again. Did not our hearts burn while he talked with us. One was received on probation. Money was taken up on the 28th, and $19 raised. We presented the pastor a $5 pair of pants, and his wife a $3 hat. We are preparing to build a new church. The Sunday School is in good condition."

At Gallatin Dr. Braden acted as presiding elder, while Rev. James Pickett was holding another quarterly meeting on his district on the Gallatin circuit on the 28th of June. The Sunday School service was directed by the pastor, Rev. M. Williams. A most spiritual love feast was held at 11 o'clock. At its close Dr. Braden baptized thirteen children. At night, after preaching, the sacrament was administered to 113 communicants and three young men joined on probation and one by letter. The collection for the day was about $22.

Letters From the Laity.

Mr. H. C. Kellum, of Eylau, Texas, writes: "Our church at this place is quite young. We settled here four years ago. This place then was a wilderness. We bought land and built a small church. Since that time our people have made grand progress in education, and some of them expect to go to the Wiley University at the next term of the school. We are preparing to build a new church and buy a bell. Our pastor, Rev. G. W. Norris, is a good worker, and is loved by all of his people. We have a very good every day school. The children are advancing rapidly. I am glad to say to the public that in a few more years we will be able to come to the front with our church and Sunday School."

J. D. Smith, of Midway, Texas, writes: "On Children's Day the South Bethel Sunday School met with the school of Midway Chapel. Prof. S. W. Green, W. C. McCloud, E. J. Greenge, W. H. Sperlock, Revs. Woodedge and W. M. Barley and Prof. Spratten, of Georgia, were present. We only have about seventy five scholars in the two schools. Collection, $515. Teachers of Sabbath School at Bethel: H. B. Brown, superintendent; Prof. E. J. Green, teacher; J. W. Tatron, secretary; Miss D. C. Green, librarian. Teachers of Midway Chapel, B. W. Wilkins, superintendent; Leonard Green, first teacher; Miss Sally Glaze, second teacher; Miss Beular Watkins, librarian; J. C. Smith, secretary."

C. T. Brown, DeKalb circuit, Miss., writes. "We had a grand time on Children's Day. Total collection, $9; at DeKalb, $5; Newport, $4."

J. T. Wills, of Davilla, Texas, writes: "In a protracted meeting of eight days we had nine converts. Last night the doors of the church were opened and five joined. The spirit of the Lord seemed to be with us."

Rev. W. Hopewell, of New Providence circuit, Ky., writes: "We held our first quarterly meeting on the 9th and 10th of June, 1885, Rev. H. W. White, presiding elder. We had a good time. The Lord was with us, and twenty five [illegible]. We are moving on nicely. The church is coming out of the wilderness, and our Sunday School is in a prosperous condition. Our next meeting will be held [illegible] 1885, and we hope and pray that the Lord will be with us, that we may have a good time. We are having a good class meeting, led by H. Wi[illegible] Jesse M. Fox, C. A. [illegible] the lead."

Rev. T. Price, of Allen, La., writes: "[illegible]s Day, at Allen, was ob[illegible] Hilson Chapel, June 17. [illegible] Up Legion Society para[illegible]de down with dignity, [illegible] Lodge No. [illegible]ting and [illegible] with David Joel Price and P. C. Cotton as managers. After discharging their duties the following speakers were awarded prizes, as follows: Miss Sarah Wiltz, prize No. 1; Miss Synda Chattman, No. 2; Miss Sallie Mack, No. 3; Miss Louisa Wiltz, No. 4; Miss Fanny Bonds, No. 5; Miss Mary Mobbley, No. 6; Master Marcellus Mack, No. 7; Miss Henrietta Price, No. 9; Miss Willie Griffin, No. 8 also; Miss Belle Chattman, No. 9; Master Major and H. Mack, No. 10; Miss Georgiana Chattman, Misses Missouri Mobbley and Cary Mobbley, prizes No. 9. Judges: J. C. Brown, Charles Mack, William Emmette, Goodwin Rollin and John Gannt. The following names closed: D. J. Price, P. C. Colton and Rev. J. H. Pierre. Subject, "The progress of the Negro," which awakened the minds of the people, followed by Mrs. D. J. Price and Mrs. Kneely Summage. Collections, $5."

David Kelly, Martin's Mills, Tenn., writes: "Our quarter was held June 13 and 14 by Elder Price. All were highly pleased with the fatherly care with which he presided over this conference, and his good talk. He preached one of his good sermons from James IV, 8, 9. Rev. D. Collier preached us a masterly sermon on "Faith, Hope and Charity." We had a good time; twenty-nine communicants partook of the Lord's supper, and many came forward for prayer. May our prayers ascend for them that they may find rest for their souls. Pray for us."

Novel Way of Raising Missionary Money.

Rev. J. P. Horswell, of Osecola, Iowa, writes of a novel way of raising Missionary money, which has been successfully tried in his Sabbath School. A money box, called "The Birthday Box," is brought out and placed on the table before the School. Any one who has had a birthday during the week past, walks up and deposits in the box as many pennies as he is years old. Of course, a little merriment is created, when the chink of the coin reveals the age of some old bachelor, or maid; but that does no harm. The older members may be a little afraid of it, but they can be brought up to face the music, after a while. It is all well when a little fot can run up and drop five pennies into the box, and it is not very embarrassing to drop in ten, fifteen, twenty, or even thirty; but when it comes to forty, fifty and sixty, it takes a long time to c unt into the treasury the pennies that represent the vanished years, and the little fellows look at the givers as they return to their seats, with an expression that translated, means. "Why! How old you are!"

The pastor writes: Our little family, though I am only 89, numbers 117 years. The box is not to be opened until Conference. It is an extra device and should not take the place of the regular penny a week collection."

To the Officers of Institutions Through Which Our Funds have been Disbursed.

The one thing to be regretted in the history of this Board is the fact that large amounts of its funds have been loaned to persons of whom we can hear nothing at the present time, notwithstanding repeated public calls for responses to their obligations. As a possible remedy, at least in part, for this condition of affairs, we feel called upon to make of you two specific requests:

1. That you will, if at all possible, ascertain and report to us the post office address of all your former students whose names are herewith sent to you, with information of their present character, engagemsuts, etc. In cases where your personal knowledge fails, perhaps present or former students or other persons can aid you efficiently. Please make the best report you can very soon, and at a later time another on cases now doubtful, meantime writing to all of these persons in our behalf, if you would think it well to do so.

2. Hereafter, whatever minor reasons may be urged, please recommend to us no candidates for aid who are not morally certain to be heard from in the future service of the Church. While there are so many students of this class actually needing more funds than we can at present control, it is wrong to draw upon the resources of the Church in behalf of persons who, when aided, will either lapse into obscurity, or in any other way evade their responsibility to a fund from which they have been helped in expectation that they would in due time make payments to be used for the help of others.

Respectfully yours,

Letter From Miss Sparks.

I have been permited to make the following extract from a letter from Miss Fannie Sparks, of Bareilly, India, to Dr. William Butler.

Only to day news came of the baptism of over 200 persons, most of them Brahmins, at the Ajudiga Mela, held last week. No American missionary was present. Abica Churan, Paul Chummnin Lal, and other native preachers, did the work. Whole families were baptized—men, women and children.

"The brethren speak of it as "Pentescostal power," and our native brethren and sisters are more than ever seeking "this power." God is continuing to bless us here. The native brethren spoke frequently of you at the Conference, and in a way that showed the hold that you had on their affections. God bless you for what you have done and are doing in India."

REMARKS.

1. The above came with statistics, which had been asked for for Dr. Butler's forthcoming book, Boston to Bareilly; and Miss Sparks took the opportunity of adding the most glorious news that ever came from India. No donbt it is God's answer to the proposition to bring that million "into the storehouse and prove him therewith."

2. Hitherto we have won them in India one by one, each having to give up family ties and earthly interests to become a follower of Jesus. Now, for the first time they have begun to come as families—whole families. Glory be to God!

3. Mark the fact that this has been vouchsafed to the labors of our native ministry, even when unaided by the presence and help of any American brother. These native brethren are able to stand alone at last, and have gotten power from heaven for the largest success. What a day! Glory to God! O for larger means to help them now, to gather in the thousands, and to instruct and save their children!

4. Ajudga is east of Lucknow, and is also called Fyzabad.

Singapore.—Dr. Thoburn reports the formal organization of the new Methodist church in Singapore Feb, 22., eight members and eleven probationers were publicly received. On the following Tuesday evening eight additional probationers were received, and the little organization will probably have a steady growth.

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Agus and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the dirsctions are strictly followed and carried ont. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

The programmes of colleges sent us this season, written in Latin, look well, and we expect they read nice.

Marriages void of mntnal confidence between the high contracting parties is a farce which is likely to end in a tragedy.

Brethren, the season is far advanced, and the conference comes apace. What about the last half of that million for missions?

Is it indicative of a preference for disgrace rather than black race association, that some people would rather be called colored than Negro?

"God bless you and the SOUTHWESTERN. My family love your paper better than they do any of the other advocates."—Rev. M. W. Jamison.

The Mother Hubbard is a very popular article of dress in Terra Haute, Indiana. If not ornamental it is certainly suggestive when used as street apparel.

The report that Rev. L. F. Lindsey, of Bowling Green, Kentucky, proposed to erect a new Methodist Episcopal Church there this year, emanated from himself.

It would be lively to see Bishop H. M. Turner stirring up things in the annual conferences of what is called the Fifth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

In Southwest, Central and North[west] Indiana there is a considerable Negro population, mostly from the South. About Greencastle a good number of Louisianians are located.

On the 23d of August, three out of four Negro churches in Terre Haute were closed, and the pastors away attending camp meeting. The latter preached there by request of the people that night to a large mixed audience, in the Bagdad Methodist Episcopal Church.

"United We Stand, Divided We Fall."

No sooner has El Mahdi become strong enough to repel invasion and protect his country and his people, than we hear of "a New Mahdi."

This means that the British failing to overcome this doughty chief by force of arms will now attempt and probably succeed in doing so by the force of strategy. The new Mahdi has probably been procnred by mercernary gold, the object is to prevent the nnifying of all Central African tribes under so powerful a warrior as Suleman has proven himself to be. These are old tricks. They were employed to defeat our Fathers in the struggle for American Independence when Benedict Arnold was the "New Mahdi," and when mercenary gold found its way into the Colonial ranks by Major Andre, it will not be doubted that the same forces who could fill up the fresh water wells in a sun-burnt, sun-heated desert, heedless of the thonsands of women and children whose lives depended upon the use of these wells, could be relied npon to arrange for division of El Mahdi's forces and furnish the price of the "New Mahdi."

Of course the fickle and unstable character of the Soudanese is an excuse for outside interference with their affairs, justified by the fact which is being given ont that the growing power of El Mahdi was not because of his representative character. And the proof of it is to be this new revolt and this mythical new Mahdi.

These methods have been employed here in this country to the great detriment of our Negro population. A great leader no sooner arises than he is bought off, or if he cannot be bought off, his character is blighted in one way or another, or he is murdered or when he cannot be got rid of in any of these methods then comes the bottom act of strategetic treachery. He is surrounded by hosts of men paid to oppose, hinder, and diminish his influence and power by their opposition until in despair, desperate and broken hearted. Like a Robert Elliot or King Catewazo he dies. And the Arnolds receive their pay while the race stretches for a tighter riveting of its chains. Some great mind must direct the thonhgts of the whole American Negro people. The leading idea must be race purity for perpetuity and fraternity in all things else than blood mingling with every other race. But it will not be fraternal if it is partial, so that all business, ecclesiastical, or society intercourse must depend npon an imperative recognition of the essential qualities of the higher manhood wherever these are found. There must be natural selection and survival of the fittest, in matters of church and state polity; then there will be as a consequence the best development and the realest fraternity. Here is our surety against any war of races, or political or ecclesiastical faction adverse to peace and good order. Let it be once understood that the intent, hope and purpose of the Negro is to overcome social ostracism by the foolish and unnatural force of blood-mixing, and then a most bitter and determined war of extermation known to man will begin. In this war the forces will be reduced to these two, simply whites against blacks. There will be no other divisions. For down in their hearts all white men stand against amalgamation. The conflict may not be that sharp, violent, and decisive one of the sword.

Other means will, with equal certainty, accomplish the desired end.

White men can do without Negro labor if they are bound to. Negro labor cannot do without the white employer if it wishes to. Let the whites but combine against the Negro at this point and his down is sure and certain, and his final in America will be speedily reached. It is no argument to say that for business reasons white men will not so combine. It is possible, and possibility may at any time become not only a probability but a certainty.

Nothing so spedily and surely tended to the downfall of Mr. Douglass as a public officer as his race relations. We must not argue the legality of a thing of this sort, but the result of it to the race we would benefit both now and forever. Public sentiment is the higher law, and when this law is founded in the purpose to preserve the distinctive features and purity of a race it may not with impunity be resisted. If it is so resisted the opposed will certainly find the might, and weight its power combating him. We must get money, education and charity. These right all wrongs, and the getting of them will not be helped, it will be hindered by this race intermixture. This is a critical period, and for that reason only veterans should be put on guard. If right counsels, harmonious action, and progressively conservative and loyally free class of men can be permitted to direct the progress of the Negroes then the happy future of this great people is assured. If not, then we have great cause for alarm. The gravity of the situation demands calmest and maturest judgment of the best Negroes and white men in the land, mutually given and taken for the prosperity of both races.

Only One Step to the End.

After the general conference of 1884 it seemed that so far as the Methodist Episcopal Church was concerned, a solution of the Negro problem had been found. Not a few of us went out from Philadelphia light hearted and happy because of this belief. Never was there a day or an hour that the Methodist Episcopal Church did not sincerely desire and labor for the best and most direct means of elevating by christianizing the people sent into freedom without an hour's preparation to receive or discharge its responsibilities. Evidences of her purposes are manifest in millions of money spent for education, church buildings and missionary efforts. Schools at every important center, churches built wherever the needs and numbers of the Negro population demanded them, and a thonsand colored ministers compensated in whole or in part by the missionary treasury, now attest the herculean proportion of the work already accomplished. Among those to initiate this work under most disheartening conditions were men and women who for the love of God and man gave up their homes and surronndings, as good as the best of any in the scene of their Christian toil. These missionaries were not made welcome to the extent that their Christian mission entitled them. They were called upon to endure manifold hardships, but like heroes they had a mission and staid to execute it. Odium was cast upon them, and upon the church which they represented. It was said they associated with Negroes, that the true way was to set the Negroes off to themselves, as the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and other churches in the South had practically done. Numbers of our white ministers became apprehensive of their safety or doubtful of their success unless some such course was taken as to our work in the South. Numbers of our colored men began also to believe that they would succeed better and acquire experience in the conduct of church affairs more rapidly if this course, or some thing giving its advantages without its disadvantages could be attained. The finale of this was the organization of colored and white conferences for the accommodation of such as mutually desired them. This arrangement was adopted with more or less unanimity in different places, until we have several purely white conferences, but only very few purely colored ones; several schools for whites, but no purely colored ones. This created friction, and to quiet the new trouble came the action of 1884, declaring all our schools and churches open to all our members. This was known by everybody living in the South to be a thing simply impossible to carry into successful practice. And to their everlasting praise, be it said, the colored people have not made any effort to do so by attempting to enter such schools as were known not to desire it. Indeed they concede the necessity for our church to work here among the white population of the South, and they are unwilling to be in any way the cause of embarrassing or impeding the progress of that work. They think it is not only possible but probable, that by working in the same church, under the same general government and rules, that time, and the ever deepening work of grace in all hearts will correct whatever needs correcting. Hence for the time being they are willing to be considered as the filth and off-scouring of the earth for the cause' sake, and to "become all things to all men, by all means to save some." But it would be unjust to the church, to its work, and to all concerned in either the church or its work, to say that we had not by this time prepared colored men to do fairly efficient work. If we have prepared them it would be but human for us to desire that they as far as prepared should be placed in charge of work that was made separate because it was not best calculated to succeed mixed. There is no antipathy toward white men laboring among us in these colored schools and as members of colored conferences, simply because they are white—they are greatly and deservedly honored and beloved by us. But the difficulty presents itself when we learn that the presence of a single white congregation upon any district will make the presence of a white elder and pastor a perpetual necessity there, although and notwithstanding the fact that colored men honored throughout the church, unexceptionable in morals, grace and culture, are upon the very spot, the only bar being their color. All law to the contrary notwithstanding in practice. No matter what the general law on this subject may be, for we have made no pretensions herein to speak as a representative, or to voice any sentiment other than our own. We regard this as a hardship. A hardship for which the Methodist Episcopal Church is of course not directly responsible, and which does not affect, except remotely here, the polity, because it is a hardship of administration rather than of law, and for which the responsibility is with the administration and remediable by the law of the church as it stands. We would be glad if it were possible to interchange, for the good results which would follow appointing white ministers to colored and colored ministers to white congregations, when both classes were in the same conference. But it is indeed humiliating to be made to feel that though we are in the same conferences only one class is really endowed with the full panoply of ecclesiastical freedom. If Brother Cardoza could be sent to Centenary, and Brother Lawrence to Old Bethel, in the South Carroline conference, we should feel that these two congregations were ecclesiastically equal, since these ministers are equal in morals and perhaps in culture, only slightly differing in color. For the life of us we do not see why such administration should not take place, unless the people object, nor why they object, except that the people do not desire a colored minister, and this in the case before us, would be drawing the color line among the Negroes themselves. Both of these congregations are colored. Take the New Orleans district of the Louisiana conference. It has one white and fourteen colored congregations in the city. These colored congregations have frequently had white presiding elders, but the white one has never had a colored presiding elder or pastor. Why? Now it seems to us that simple consistency would require a different sort of administration in this as in all similar cases. If without the difficulty of transferring a colored man, the mental, moral and Christian peer of the white elders who have been there is available. This involves no change in our polity, and leads to no unrest touching church relations. We would have simply equality in the distribution of bounties and talent without regard to color, in what is known as the colored conferences. If this is an impolitic expression we are sorry that it is possible for it to be so. If colored men deny us their indorsement in calling for this, then we must make the call and stand alone. If we are subjected to inconveniences for saying this here and now, we are acquainted with all that, having been so subjected before. If we are called upon in any way or by any means to pay the forfeit for these observations, it will not bankrupt us to pay the cost, and if it would we should pay it. If this defect in our administration could be remedied there would not be left a single reason why the Negro question should again come up in our counsels. Noble testimony is now being borne to the wise foresight of our church in holding the races together in continual unity. The South now sees that great good has been done, and perhaps great evils averted in this way. A better sun is dawning for our white brethren who preach to and teach the Negro. We do not want that they or any of them should be taken from this field and sphere of labor. Neither are we careful as to whether they spend their leisure in colored or white society, that is for them to determine for themselves. But when in the colored conferences we are mingled together, there we wish for the obliteration of every distinction except such as stand upon equality of character and fitness as their base. We believe colored or white religious denominations exclusively are not good for our country. We know the Negroes need the presence and help or the whites in many things. But nothing good can come of an order that crushes the spirit of the negro after by hard efforts and close copying of his white brother he has attained the spirit and character of a man.

Has the American Bible Society Decided Against the Employment of Negroes as Colporteurs.

This is the form of a question put to us by the Rev. Moses Adams, an esteemed minister in the Mississippi Conference, and a colored man residing at Okolona. Bro. Adams is getting old in years and not as effective as in former years, besides finding "several localities" he states where, he says, "there are fifteen hundred families of Negroes without the Bible." He concluded to seek an appointment as distributing agent for the society, aiming to work especially in those localities among these destitute Negroes, where, he says, "white men hardly ever go among them," and he thought the society would like to have a colored man talk them, these destitute families, into the purchase of a Bible. He says: "I wrote to Rev. G. W. Mitchell, the district superintendent for Mississippi, and he tells me that the appointment is not open to Negroes; that the society has made several such appointments, but in no instance was their service satisfactory. So he declined to employ colored people hereafter." We suppose the appointment of Bible agents by the society is purely a matter of business. There should be no rule to exclude any class of men from its employ, because some employed out of that class were not efficient; but the Bible, as any other association requiring service, must select wherever it can find them the most efficient servants. The one thing to be attained is a thorough distribution of Bibles among all people everywhere, on such terms as meet the condition either gratis or at a very low rate. If brethren know of any failure to do this we ask them to let us hear of it once.

Another Plumed Knight in the Field.

The June Century contains an article on the negro question of great value, from Bishop T. U. Dudley, of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Two prominent features of the article are, first, its opposition to amalgamation as a means of solving the problem; second, its complete vindication of the policy of the Methodist Episcopal Church in retaining its colored members in spite of the efforts of outsiders, black and white, to the contrary. Except the superior chasteness and culture of his language, and a few inconsequential points at which we would differ, the bishop exactly expresses our views of the question. We believe his is the true and equitable course to pursue. We never did believe it well to cumber the simple question of equity in this matter with those of a sociological nature. We have an abiding faith in the power of truth and righteousness in the character and on the side of a man ultimately to bear him to his place, either in church, state, business or society in the end. But it will require time; and we can spare all the time required.

The Plea of Innocence.

It is a rule of the courts to enter a plea of not guilty in every case where no plea is made. He who being accused neither evades trial or confesses guilt pleads not guilty under the practice of our own church. And since the days of our Saviour on earth the absence of strong pleas in self-defence has constituted no proof of wrong doing. On the contrary the most eloquent plea of outraged innocence is its silence. The prophet Isaiah long ago told us to expect this of our great examplar under false accusations and persecutions. "As a lamb is lead to the slaughter and a sheep is dumb before the shearers, so opened he not his mouth." It was no want of arguments or ability to use them, no fear of conviction and confusion in the presence of his traducers, neither ignorance of the guilt of his accusers or of his own innocence which caused this silence. What was it? He tells us "Many good works do I show you of my Father, for which of them do you stone me?" He had his time and place to meet and refute them. Therefore he said "my time is not yet come, your time is always ready." Not at that least but later Jesus made His defence fully appear with His Divinity also. His opposers finally said, "Surely this was the Son of God." But they had already rejected Him and shed His blood without a cause. Silence does not always mean guilt. Stop and think before you conclude in any case that it does.

A New Journalistic Adventure.

The first volume, No. 2, of the Shreveport Advocate, which takes to itself the high and honorable claim of being "the leading colored paper in the Southwest," which claim we do not dispute, but trust that it shall be so favored by patronage and editorial ability as to maintain and make it good. This, prospectively speaking, it seems able to do in the lines of work marked out for itself. It seems to have got on to the wrong end of a (miscegenation) miscegenation argument in the number before us. It thinks the only cure for this calamity lies in the "colonization of the Negroes by the whites who oppose it." But this is a mistake. The remedy for miscegenation is to obliterate all legal restrictions to the social freedom of man, and then place in the reach of all and require all to secure a good education in books and morals. This will inevitably appreciate race pride on the part of the Negro and his white brother will find, with an increase of this pride, the Negro's objection to the annihilation of his race will be equally as well developed as is that of the white people. Having reached this point the matter will settle itself in favor of the perpetuity of race purity, secured by the law of natural selection. Then they will easily blend for all useful purposes, and will do well in doing all of this. We welcome this new claimant to the tripod. Here's our hand.

An Item of Our Policy.

To those who would if editor of the SOUTHWESTERN keep out matter that we print, or print matter we do not print as soon as they and we too should like to print it, or who would have a finer literary tone and exercise that which did not bear a strong college scent, we would say, our people are not generally a writing people. Until they become such they will not care a great deal for reading. Until they become an interested reading people their scholars, authors and geniuses will have little in the way of encouragement to hope for from them. Indeed, their elevation in all that is good will be slow until they read with interest and discrimination. Now, our policy, seeing that so much depends upon it, is to encourage the people to write by printing what they write. Thus stimulating it to think, we hope to help the race, if the people and the few scholars among them make the race. The SOUTHWESTERN is an official Methodist Episcopal paper, especially adapted to meet the wants of the masses. It has more readers than any paper in the world with a Negro editor, if data consulted is correct. The people is what we are after.

What Is the Labor Problem, So-Called?

It is how to get as much work as possible for the least pay. When that little pay is gradually eked out, then the problem is how to get it [illegible] with least benefit to the laborer. Wage receivers want to enjoy their earnings, and want those earnings to equal their labors. If wage payers would be careful only to make a reasonable profit on the capital they employ by the business they drive, then would the labor problem find a quick and equitable solution. As long as the laborer [illegible] or his wages retained [illegible] so long will there [illegible] unsettled and menacing labor [illegible] before us.

[illegible] Provisions.

The Virginia conference has resolved to combine the Freedmen's Aid and Children's Day service, holding both on Children's Day. Their Freedmen's Aid collection is to be applied to the purpose of putting their conference seminary on foot. In a number of instances we have noticed the application of the Freedmen collection to local purposes, perhaps under the provision which allows the giver to indicate how his gift shall be applied. But we do not see how the managers can with certainty plan their work under the possibility of the great extension of this plan of special provision.

A Good Proportion.

[illegible] have been received in the Mission Rooms from the [illegible] elders to whom the circular letter "A Million for Missions" was sent. This is a very encouraging fact when we remember that our church numbers 437 [illegible] in all. But one [illegible] has been unfavorable to the plan.

—Rev. L. P. Cushman will be in New Orleans Sept. 25.

—Dr. Rust has returned from the East in good health and looks well.

—Bishop Harris is in Indiana holding conferences, and in good health.

—Dr. Cranston, of the Western Book House, has returned from Colorsdo looking stouter and rudier than before.

—Rev. Dr. A. C. George, an eminent minister, and late pastor in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Chicago, Illinois, is dead.

—Dr. J. H. Vincent has removed from New Haven, Conn., to Plainfield, N. J. His address will be "Lock Box 1075, Plainfield, N. J."

—We regret to hear that Rev. W. H. Thomas, pastor of Gunn Methodist Episcopal Church, Lexington, Kentucky, has recently lost a child.

—Mrs. Rev. E. H. Curry, of Louisville, is attending conference and visiting in Indianapolis, dressed, as usual, in the tip top of the fashion.

—Miss Annie, danghter of Louis and Marian Burgess, was married by Rev. Alex. McDade, in Coke Methodist Episcopal Church, Louisville, Kentucky, August 20.

—Rev. L. M. Hagood, of Union Chapel, Cincinnati, recently preached a very interesting sermon to Cincinnati Lodge 1883, G. U. O. of O. F. A large audience was present.

—Mrs. Julia Arthur, an old time friend, an elect lady in Zion, the chief woman in many useful societies, was among the most earnest and interested spectators at the conference at Indianapolis.

—J. M. Philips, Esq., of the New Yark Book house, has been visiting Cincinnati lately to see his daughter who resides there, look in on Dr. Cranston and shake hands with the Cincinnati coufereuce.

—Bishops Fowler and Foss each delivered Grant memorial addresses in his resident city, Minneapolis and San Francisco. The addresses, like all the utterances of these eloquent bishops, were truly simple and beautiful.

—Mrs. Nannie Demby, vice president of the Ladies' Home and Foreign Missionary Society of African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, is regarded as a member, and had seat within the bar of the Kentucky Conference of that church at its late session.

—Rev. J. W. Joyce, of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Cincinnati, obtained a much needed rest and vacation this summer, which he spent riding with Dr. Cranston over the Rocky Mountains. He is manifestly improved by his little respite from hard and continuous work.

—Mrs. Dr. Hartzell, always a handsome lady, is recovering her health and improving in physique, and above all and what will be hailed as best of all by them, is that in this improved condition of health she contemplates a visit to her thousands of friends in the Crescent City next winter. We know that she will receive a right royal welcome here.

Church Polity.

Question—Is it Methodistic for Methodist preachers to draw up petitions and get signers for their retention in office? Be it the presiding elder or pastorate.—Subscriber.

Answer—No; see appendix to Discipline, 1884, par. 548, pp. 336, 337, under the head of "Negotiations Between Preachers and People." See, also, General Conference Journal, 1884, p. 313. Such a course betrays a secular, worldly wise man. The term of the presiding elder and pastorate is fixed by law. The Bishop must make the appointments, aided by the presiding elders, and the less outside pressure there is brought to bear upon them in their efforts do ed, the more room there will be for God to work with them. Nevertheless, if the people without ministerial direction see proper to petion the Bishop to appoint or retain a man in a position, it is an honor to the man so petitioned for.

Schools and Colleges.

The enrollment during the present school year is 427 in all departments, and since the opening, over three thonsand. The need of enlarged bnildings is very pressing as well as other equipments for the Industrial Department.—Central Tennessee College Record.

The Board of Trustees of Lane Institute at Jackson, Tenn., an institutlon started and pushed forward by the earnest efforts of Bishop Lane, seconded by the ministry of his church, held their meeting recently, and found that they had finished the year without any debt that could not be met with the income which they expected to realize in the next thirty days.

Rev. C. Pickett, has secured from Photius Fisk of Boston, Mass., a snbscription of one hundred dollars for Meharry Medical Department; also a valuable collectiou of medical books from Lea Brothers, & Co., of Philadelphia.

The Roman Catholic prelates at a meeting in Baltimore selected Washington for the location of their new University, and have purchased 65 acres near the city for it.

Our National Cause.

REV. J. I. GARRETT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

It has been said that the end and the test of good government is the greatest happiness of the greatest number. If this be true it must be owned that no government extant is satisfactorily conducted, for observation shows that, as a rule, political energy is expended upon secondary concerns. While politicians employ all their dexterity to avoid action upon the great problems which most deeply involve the destinies of the masses, there is to day in the English speaking countries no such tremendous, far-reaching, vital question as that of drunkenness. In its implications and effects it overshadows all else. It is impossible to examine any subject connected with the progress, the civilization, the physical well being, the religious condition of the masses without encountering the monstrous evil. It lies at the bottom of all social and political mischief; it paralyzes energy in every direction; it neutralizes educational agencies; it silences the voice of religion; it baffles penal reform; it rears aloft a mass of evilly-inspired power, which at every salient point threatens social and national advance, which gives to ignorance and vice a greater potency than intelligence and virtue can command; which deprives the poor of the advantages of modern progress; which debauches and degrades millions, brutalizing and saddening them below the plane of healthy savagery, and filling the centres of population with creatures whose condition almost excuses the immorality which renders them dangerous to their generation. All these evils, all this mischief, all this destruction of human souls and intellects go on among us daily and hourly. There are none so ignorant and inattentive as not to have personal experience of them—some heart darkened, some family scattered, some loving heart broken, some promising career ruined, some deed of shame done, yet how hard it is to get this gigantic evil attacked seriously. Temperance organizations have indeed been fighting it for years, yet popular inertia has resisted their utmost efforts, but has all been done that might and should have been done by the organized agencies that represent the higher life. What are doctrinal points, for example, compared to ever present, ever active, insidious influence? What are sectarian differences by the side of this National curse? Can the churches fold their hands and flatter themselves that their duties are fulfilled while the masses prefer the saloon to the pulpit, and while rum rules in politics and society? Are the higher educational men doing all in their power to advance civilization while they ignore this obstacle to progress? Can any political organization be said to represent the best aspirations and the strongest needs of the people while this abiding source of misery and crime and poverty is allowed to spread and flourish? There is needed something of that sacred fire which kindled into inextinguishable heat of the Abolitionists which compelled the abandoment of human slavery, to rouse the National indignation and abhorence against this very much greater evil. Nothing shorter than this, it is to be feared, will impel time-serving politicians to approach in a spirit of earnestness a subject which is so distasteful to them, mainly because they think they can not afford to do without the help and support of the class who derive from the degradation of the foolish and ignorant the means whereby they continue to rule and plunder those whose sagacity is proof against their snares.

If all of Mississippi's sons were like Rev. C. B. Galloway and D. A. Williams, this great evil would soon be stopped. Dr. Galloway is one of the strongest temperance men in Mississippi with the whites, and Rev. D. A. Williams is the leader of the Negroes. I was a delegate to the July convention, and there I saw how some of the would be temperance men worked hard to defeat Dr. Galloway's resolutions; not his only, but Christian and honest people.

Temperance has a foothold in this place. Mr. Gambrell lectured here several times. He said once, all who sign for liquor would have to give an account at God's bar. Since then not many have signed. All who sign don't remain in my church.

"Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me."

REV. H. H. LANIER.

Dear Fathers and Mothers: I direct your attention to the scriptures, St Mark, 10th chapter and 14 verse: "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." Jesus loves little children. When He was here upon earth He was preaching one day to a company of grown people. There were some who loved Him, and who desired that their children should know and love Him. So they thought it would be a great thing if Jesus would notice and put His hand on them. So they brought them to Him. He was then very busy in holding an important discussion with some learned Paarisees. His disciples were greatly interested in His discourse, and thought He would not like to be interrupted. They thought He had something more important to do than to notice little children who would scarcely understand what He might say to them. They said to those who brought them, "Take these children away from here. Why do you trouble Him about these little ones?" Jesus saw and heard it all, and was much displeased. He said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Christian fathers and mothers, what are you going to answer when God shall ask you for the children he gave you to train for Him and heaven, and which you have suffered to grow up for sin and Satan? When sinking down to endless death you hear him call back to you from the jaws of death! O, that cry of anguish, that shriek of horror, as the invisible world begins to open to his vision! Does it not reproach you with unutterable bitterness. "But for your neglect," says the child, "I should not be here; Jesus invited me to come: Jesus died upon the cross that I might come; He prepared a glorious heaven to which He bade me welcome; He put me in your charge, and bade you to lead me to Him and His heaven, but you would not heed His charge. You did not pray for me; you did not consecrate me; you did not teach me; you suffered me to spend God's holy day in idleness and play when you should have taken me to Sunday School. Now I am lost, lost, lost, forever, and you, my father, and you, my mother, who professed to love me, you are guilty of the blood of my poor soul." Oh, Christian fathers and mothers, will it not at that hour seem as though you had taken the soul of your poor child, and with your own hands dragged it down from heaven and, thrust it into hell? Oh, merciful God, have pity on such parents as these. Can they be Thy children? Can it be that they love Jesus? Have they the spirit of the loving Savior who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me?" Oh, will not the angels wonder? Will not the very devils themselves cry out with horror and amazement when they see the children of Christian parents come to their place of torment, and are told that neither father nor mother ever tried to bring them to the Savior so long as he was with them. But, my dear friends, there is one who should be more precious to us than a child, against whom we sin in this wanton neglect. It is a grievous offense against your Savior. Jesus calls the children, and He is greatly displeased if you do not help them to come. He pleads with outstretched hands, "Suffer little children to come unto me. I left my throne in heaven for their sakes; for them I came to this sinful world; for them I lived a life of sorrow; for them I groaned, agonized and sweat great drops of blood in the garden of Gethsemane; for them I hung upon the cross; for them I bore the anguish of the nails in my hands and feet." It was to make atonement for their sins; the price is paid for their salvation. Let them come to the Sabbath School, that they might learn the Ten Commandments in full. Then the Sixth Commandment says, "Thou shalt not kill." Now, dear friends, you know the trouble we have with our sons and daughters is about these commandments. The eighth says, "Thou shalt not steal." Now just look at the jails and penitentiaries to-day; you can see our poor colored race in chains for breaking the above mentioned laws. Now, my friends the Sabbath School will teach them charges in breaking them.

A MARVEL OF PURITY.

Royal a Perfect Baking Powder—Absolutely Free from Lime.

The Royal Baking Powder is considered by all chemists and food analysts to be a marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. Furthermore, it is now the only baking powder before the public free from lime and absolutely pure.

This is due largely to the improved method by the use of which it has been made possible to produce a perfectly pure cream of tartar, from which all the lime has been eliminated.

This chemically pure cream of tartar is exclusively employed in the manufacture of the Royal Baking Powder, so that its absolute freedom from lime and all other extraneous substances is guaranteed.

Professor McMurtrie, late chemist in chief to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, after analyzing many samples of cream of tartar of the market, testified to the absolute purity of that used in the Royal Baking Powder as follows:

"I have examined the cream of tartar manufactured by the New York Tartar Company and used by the Royal Baking Powder Company in the manufacture of their baking powder, and find it to be perfectly pure, and free from lime in any form.

"All chemical tests to which I have submitted it have proved the Royal Baking Powder perfectly healthful, of uniform, excellent quality, and free from any deleterious substance. WM. McMURTRIE, E.M., Ph.D.,

The Re-Election of President Johnson.

Letters received announce the re-election of Hon. Hilary R. W. Johnson as President of Liberia at the biennial election; held on the 5th of May. Mr. Johnson was born and educated at Monrovia, and has had a large experience in educational and public concerns. His opponent was Rev. Edward W. Blyden, D. D., than whom the African race has no man superior in literary power or in intellectual force. He has long been active in the civil, scholastic and religious affairs of Liberia.

The bark Monrovia is reported to have arrived ont April 3rd, after a pleasant passage of thirty-four days, with emigrants from Alabama and Texas, sent by the Americsn Colonization Society. They are to settle at Brewerville, a growing town some ten miles up the St. Paul's river.—The African Repository.

Our Hebrew friends seem to be disturbed on acconnt of what they deem a waning Judaic influence npon the younger Hebrews. But they need not be so. This falling away is prophetic, and it presages the final gathering of Isreal to the Messiah. Just as the young Israelites ouce before broke away from the melancholy teachers in Israel and followed after Caleb Joshua, so is young Israel to-day surely breaking away from the dogmatic fetters of Judaism, and will, by embracing the Christ, ultimately enter into spiritual Canaan beyond the Jordan of death.

After a topographical examination the Russians have concluded to abandon all claims to Zulficar Pass, and this determination will doubtless end the present trouble with England.

By inviting Hon. Roscoe Conkling to deliver an eulogy to Gen. Grant before them at their next session Congress would gratify a large number of the Negro population of this country, and do a most fitting and appropriate thing.

TO MRS. FREDERICK DOUGLASS.

J. T BOWMAN.

I seek no chance to flatter with my pen,
Thy union's made, and may it happy prove;
O, lean with calm and sweet affection then,
Upon that mate and nestle in his love.

For, who be she soever, that bestows,
From thy good ranks upon this colored race,
A favor least, the least of us who knows,
Ten thousand blessings sweet would glad replace.

We love our Father Fred'rick, and in thee
We pray to find a mother. Those who talk
Most 'gainst thy mild selection, hate to see
Thee trip o'er hallow'd ground where they can't walk.

Vile people ever slander try to raise;
But thou hast won a nation's praise.

[As a lady of virtue and refinement Mrs. Douglas is entitled to the respect of all people. Our poet to this extent expresses a true and manly sentiment which we indorse. But among patriotic Negroes there can be no division of sentiment touching continuous and progressive miscegenation. It is race suicide.]

The Sad Effect of a Fright.

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

There are thoughtless persons who have no care as to the sad results that follow frightening another. It seems as though their delight over the present agony outweighed all the disastrous results following a serous fright. Some have doubtless died from fright. It was my privilege to recently examine a young man who is dying from fright, and no human power can reach his case, or relieve his sufferings, or restore him to health. He is a doomed man, a martyr to fun and thoughtlessness.

The case is as follows: When this young was seventeen years of age, he was naturally timid and fearful. Some young men formed a plot to scare him in the night, "for the fun of it," so as to hear him scream and to see him run. One night he had to go from the village across the fields about three fourths of a mile to his house. Two young men offered to accompany him, and see him safely home. When about half way, in the loneliest place of the path, two or three other youngsters wrapped around with white sheets, and looking fearfully ghost-like, rose suddenly out of the briars beside the path, and made wild and frightful gestures. The two who went with him, understanding the plot, screamed at the top of their voices, and called to him to run for his life. Frightened almost to death, he ran toward the house at the top of his speed, and three spectres after him. There were three high rail fences for him to climb. How he scaled them in his awful fright he cannot tell. While running, he said it seemed to him his heart was coming out of his side, and he was in dreadful pain. At last he reached his father's door and fell in perfect helplessness. It was some time before he recovered from the fright so as to be in any sense comfortable. From that day to this, ten years, he has not seen a well day. His condition at present is deplorable, with the sure prospect that he will never in this life see any better time.

The condition as now observed is this: The heart is greatly enlarged, especially on the left side, but the wall of muscle of the left ventricle is thin. At or near the apex of the heart it is very sore, tender to the touch, and almost constantly painful. The heart sometimes palpitates, accompanied with great pain, of a sharp darting character. There have recently developed marked nervous conditions. The whole respiratory system is breaking down. The muscle of the heart was strained and some of the fibres broken by the unnatural and excessive exertion in the fright. The tissues of the heart may be broken down. The fibres of any other muscle may be broken by unusual exertion. At the same time his nerves were put to a great strain in the fright, for as he ran the lungs took in large quantities of air to arrest the increased amount of blood thrown there. The lung tissue was unduly strained in its sudden hard labor. The brain was also suffused with blood which was sent to it during the fright, almost to apoplexy. The brain in some portion was partially paralyzed, which now is shown in the papalysis of the left side, especially from the hips to the foot. The nerves of sensation are nearly dead, you can pinch the flesh, burn it, or affect it in any way and he is just barely conscious of a hurt. Also the nerves of motions are partially paralized. His whole appearance is that of a dying man. At the age of 27 he is dying of a fright by foolish boys. There is no help for his case. Take warning.

African Colonization.

E. P. CALOWAY ESQ.,

My dear friends and brethren: I have been waiting to see if we all would get in the notion of settling a colony of our own and leave America. The Negro race will be forced to make some change. I think two hundred and sixty five years is long enough for two nations to live together. When that Dutch vessel came to these shores with the first Africans I think God saw we needed the instruction of this nation in laws, commerce and manufactures, and He brought us here, to fit and prepare ourselves to be an independent nation at some future time, when we could know as other nations know, make laws as other nations, establish government, build railroads and telegraphs, ships, boats, and all other things that we might need. Look around and you will see that ourselves and our children are working other people's land, and supporting another nation, when we might work our own lands, and support our own government. You must not say we do not know how to govern ourselves and live as an independent nation. The question is will we do as well as we know. Some want to farm, that's all right. Africa is in part the most fertile part of the world. Is there enough land for us all in Africa. It looks as if 11,556,650 square miles of territory would supply us all. "What is your notion for wanting to go to Africa." I am not particular about Africa, but where shall we go. "To Kansas." No, it is one of the United States. "How about Mexico." Could we go where there is another and be first and have everything our own way?

"How is Central America." They are doing very well without us. The great question is we have no business to bother any other nation about their rights. "You could say, other nations are getting our rights," that is true. We are taught in the Bible not to give stone for stone, but to do good for evil. Thinking seniors of America, has the thought ever crossed your mind about the way our nation is doing. Yes, you have thought of it but you have made no move to change it in any way. The white people use us all day and all night, in many instances they do not provide us with lodging at night, and many a good family has been greatly imposed on by worthless men and women who have sought shelter at a friendly neighbor's fireside after the days labor was ended; and our society is not good, our boys and our girls are not raised as they ought to be, and we cannot raise them right as long as we are dependant on another nation for our daily bread. My dear friends: I have thought it all over and I do think the Negro race should make up their minds to move to some country and colonize themselves. What are we waiting for. We can farm, build houses, mills, engines, ships, railroads, and do everything that other nations can do. You may think we have not been here long enough, but I repeat 265 years is time enough for us here, we have done nothing for ourselves here yet and we never will as long as we stay here.

Maryland In Africa.

At the regular March meeting of the Maryland Historcal Society, Hon. John H. B. Latrobe President, in the chair, a paper written by Mr. Latrobe, was read, entitled: "An Omitted Espidode in the History of Maryland." The paper was an interesting account of the Maryland State Colonization Society, which was incorporated in 1831. The Society established a colony at Cape Palmas, on the west Coast of Africa in 1831. Land was purchased from the Kings, having a water front of 60 miles. The name of this settlement was Maryland in Africa. The colony was sent out with constitution and bill of rights ready framed. After twenty years the colony had grown so large that it was thought it ought to be free and independent. In 1853 the people of Maryland at Cape Palmas, met and appointed commissioners to come to Maryland, in the United States, and consult as to launching as a free nation the colony. The colony was made one of the nations of the earth, and in a few years became a part of Liberia, and was known as Maryland county. In 1837 Mr. John H. B Latrobe was elected president of the Society, which position he filled until elected president of the National Society.—Baltimore Sun.

Miss Nellie Kent,

Wellington, Lorain county, O., writes: "Dr. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O., Gentlemen: I have been a great sufferer from chronic catarrh, bronchitis and neuralgia of the face. I have been taking your PERUNA for one month. The neuralgia and catarrh is almost well, and the cough is much better. I like your PERUNA very much."

C. E. Dupler, aged thirty-four years, of Equality, Illinois, had been affected with a chronic catarrh which he first discovered six years ago. In succession he lost his smell, taste and hearing. The disease was so malignant that it not only attacked the softer parts, but destroyed the bony partition of the nose and seriously affected the external parts. He could only hear a watch ticking by holding it close to his ear. He suffered intense paln in the nose, from which green, dry clots of offensive odor fell. In this condition he presented himself to Dr. Hartman several months ago. He can now hear a watch eight inches from his right and six inches from his left ear. His taste and smell are again returning, and the external part of the nose is quite well. Few more grateful patients ever left a physician's office than Mr. Dupler. He said, "Why in the world was PERUNA not prescribed for me long ago?"

Cramps of the Stomach.

We have the priviiege of reporting the following case. Those similarly affected can get the name and address of Dr. Hartman. The lady does not want her name in the papers. For a year, or years, (the writer does not remember the length of time,) this lady had cramps, the most fearful, of the stomach, every day and night, "which would be followed by that terrible weakness, which was something wonderful." The suffering and distress of this lady was indescribable and almost unendurable. After all the physicians and medicines had failed, and all hope had almost fled, Dr. Hartman was consulted, and from the first day of taking his PERUNA, the cramps and all bad feeling left her, and now for over a month has been entirely free from every symptom. A more thankful patient no doctor ever had.

Mr. Boggs, druggist, Charlestown, Kanawha Co., W.Va., writes: "PERUNA sells well here and gives good satisfaction. Customers speak well of it."

Dr. J. Anderson, Coshocton, Ohio, writes: "Your PERUNA sells well and gives good satisfaction. I consider it a splendid medicine."

PE-RU-NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price. We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O.

"O, Lor' Hit 'Im Again!"

In the early days of Methodism in Scotland, a certain congregation, where there was but one rich man, desired to build a new chapel. A church meeting was held. The old rich Scotchman rose and said: "Brethren, we dinna need a new chapel: I'll give £5 for repairs."

Just then a bit of plaster falling from the ceiling hit him on the head.

Looking up and seeing how bad it was, he said: "Brethren' its worse thon I thoucht; I'll make it 50 pun'."

"Oh, Lord," exclained a devoted brother on a back seat "hit 'im again!"

There are a great many human tabernacles which are in sore need of radical building over, but we flutter and fuss and repair in spots without satisfactory results. It is only when we are personally alarmed at the real danger that we act independently, and do the right thing. Then it is that we most keenly regret because we did not sooner use our own judgment, follow the advice born of the experience of others and jump away from our perils.

Thousands of persons who read this paragraph are in abject misery to day where they might be in a satisfactory condition. They are weak, lifeless, full of odd aches and pains, and every year they know they are getting worse, even though the best doctors are patching them in spots. The origin of these aches and pains is the kidneys and liver, and if they would build these all over new with Warners safe cure as millions have done, and cease investing their money in miserably unsuccessful patchwork, they would be well and happy and would bless the day when the Lord "hit 'em" and indicated the common course for them to pursue.—London Press.

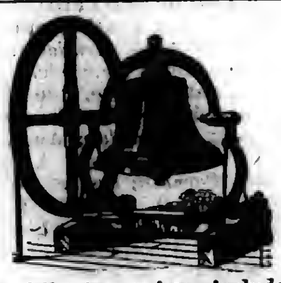
MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my people. I left them in Hempstead county, Ark., 1854; my mother's name was Rose Ann; she belonged to a man by the name of Ben Akers; she married a man by the name of Riley Martin. When I left mother she had six children, three boys and three girls; my eldest sister's name was Frances, and mine Lucinda. We were brought to Texas; old man Bell brought Sister Frances and Arch Bel brought Lucinda to Texas in 1884; Brother Paillips, whom we called Taney for short; George Hillard and Anderson, and the baby named Louisa. My grandmother's name was Nancy; she belonged to a man by the name of Tidwell Anut Elvira Tidwell and Aunt Eliza belonged to Ben Akers. Uncles John and Joseph belonged to Peter Tidwell. Address Lucinda McHenry, Hallettsville, Lavaca county, Texas.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brother and sister; my father's name was Moses Taylor; my mother's name Eliza Taylor. We were born in Prince George county, Maryland. Father and mother left us these—four boys and one girl—and went off I don't know where. My brothers' names are Reverda Taylor, Noble Taylor and William Taylor; my name is Edward Taylor and my sister's name is Charlotte Taylor. Address me in care of Rev. C. A. Taylor, Musson post office, Iberville parish, La.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for folks whom I left in Richmond, Va. My mother was named Mary; her husband John; mother had four children; brothers were Henry and Johnnie; sisters were Pollie and Mattie. I was so small I do not remember; Johnnie was the baby, and Henry came with me. Dr. Wm. Bonner bought brother Henry and me, and brought us to Tennessee. My name was Lucy Hubanks, but is now Lucy White. Address care of George W. White, Scottsborough, Ala."



MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire by the help of your paper for some of my people. I got a letter from Brother Stephen Toliver, in Texas stating that our Brother Frank and Sister Mary Toliver have never been seen nor heard from since they were sold, and I wish to inquire for them. He states that they were sold in New Orleans, and the man that bought them took them up the Mississippi river, but he did not know his name. Names as follows: Our first owner, who raised us, was Mr. Louis Toliver, who lived in Mississippi. I have got one sister I left in Alabama in 1860, but I don't think that Brother Frank and Sister Mary can recollect her; as she was taken from them when they were small, and I have never heard from her nor any of the children yet. Her name is Pininie Green. Her husband was Robin Green. Her sons Stephen and one Richard. She had a large family but I cannot recollect all of the children's names. They belonged to Joe Green, who lives near Montgomery, Ala. Address Valentine Toliver, Shreveport, La.

3. Naaman's Rage, v. 11 13.
4. Naaman's Cure, v. 14 16.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

Who was Naaman? A general in the Syrian army.

This made him a very happy man, did it not? No; because he was a leper.

Who lived in Naaman's house? A little slave girl who had been stolen ont of the land of Israel.

What did she say to Naaman's wife one day? "The prophet of Samaria could cure my master's leprosy."

As soon as the king of Syria heard of it what did he do? Sent Naaman with a letter and many presents to the king of Israel.

How did the king feel when he read the letter? He was in great fear, and said, "Am I God, to kill and to make alive?"

What did he think? That the king of Syria was trying to pick a quarrel with him.

What word did Elisha send to the king? Let him come to me."

What did Naaman do? He came with all his horses and chariots to Elisha's door.

What message did Elisha send by his servant? "Go and wash in Jordan seven times."

How did Naaman feel because Elisha did not go out to see him in all his glory? Very angry.

As he was going home in great rage what did his servants say to him? "My father, if the prophet had asked you to do some great thing you would have done it; why not this?"

Did Naaman change his mind? He did as the man of God bade him and was made pure and clean.

Where did he go? Back to Elisha's home a changed man.

What did he say? "Now I know that the God in Israel is the only God in all the earth."

Would Elisha take those splendid presents? No! he said, as God lives I will receive none."

WORDS WITH LITTLE PEOPLE.

There is a sickness now, darlings, like unto leprosy. It comes in dreadful spots all over little human souls; its name is sin. But there is a Jordan, too, so that—

"Though your sins are red in crimson, deep in scarlet glow,
Jesus' precious blood can make them
whiter than the snow."

Precious, precious blood of Jesus, let it make you whole,
Let it flow in mighty cleansing o'er your little soul."

DOCTRINAL SUGGESTION—Cleansing from sin.

Marriages.

On the evening of April 30, at the house of Mrs. Jane [illegible], Mr. Sydney Oliver and Miss Willie [illegible], both of this county.

In Ashley Chapel, on the evening of May 14, Mr. Allen Avery and Miss Ella Lewis, were united in holy matrimony. Miss Ella is a worthy member of our church. Our best wishes attend them.

Editorial Notes.

Hallelujah! life or death,
Powers above, nor powers beneath,
Monarch's might, nor tyrant's doom,
Things that are, nor things to come,
Men nor angels, e'er shall part
Christ's own church from Christ's own heart.

The presiding elders of the Lexington conference held their fall meeting in Louisville Sept. 2.

Some preachers, and especially some traveling evangelists, talk as if they supposed there are no sinners except persons who belong to the church and profess to be Christians.

As Jordan parted only at the touch of the priest's feet, so, too, many difficulties vanish not when shun, but rather when we cut the shore lines and launch out upon them, trusting God.

The will of the late Moro Phillips, of Philadelphia, bequeaths $25,000 to the Church of St. James the Less, $10,000 to St. Mark's Church, and $1000 to the Old Men's Home, of that city.

On a recent Sabbath above $100 was collected in Maysville, and over $400 in Covington, Ky., for the main debt on our churches in these cities. Bro. J. W. Moreland and R. W. S. Hammond, of Lexington conference, are the happy pastors.

Certain evangelists going about the country think they have a mission to denounce churches and church members who do not conform to their notion of religion, because the Scriptures tell us judgment begins at the house of God.

Dear Editor—I am glad that the [illegible] is not a novelty, [illegible] preacher. It is to [illegible] what the Polar star is to the traveler—a guide, a companion and a true companion to the thousands. May God help you more in the future than in the past. [illegible] Davis.

A Good Reputation.

REV. W. W. JAMISON, LEXINGTON CONFERENCE.

"Laying up in store for themselves, a good foundation against the time to come."

In this language St. Paul sets forth a principle of action which should commend itself to the ripe consideration of every young lady and gentleman's mind, if they would secure for themselves an honorable and prosperous career.

They must prepare for it early in life by laying up a good foundation against the time to come.

The harvest must follow the sowing in quantity and kind.

No matter what desires and and hopes you entertain, the reaping of manhood will be governed by the sowing of childhood and youth.

The great question then is how shall old age when it comes, bring with for you a good reputation?

The first thing to be aimed at by a young man or lady should be the establishment of a good character.

Whatever may be their anticipations and prospects for future years, this should be their grand starting point the chief corner stone. It should be the foundation of every hope and thought of prosperity and happiness in days to come. It is the basis on which such a hope can mature to full fruition. A good character established in the season of youth because of rich and productive moral soil it possesses when planted therein, the tree of life will spring forth in a vigorous growth. Its roots will strike deep and strong in such a soil, and draw therefrom the utmost vigor and fruitfulness. Its trunk will grow up in majestic proportion. Its wide spreading branches will be clothed with a green, luxuriant foliage, goodly to look upon. The most beautiful of blossoms will, in due time, blush on every twig, and at length each limb and bough will bend beneath the rich golden fruit, ready to drop into the hand. Beneath its grateful shade you can find rest and repose when the heat and burden of life come upon you, and of its delicious fruit you can pluck and eat, and obtain refreshment and strength when the soul becomes wearied with labor and care or weight of years. Remember this tree grows alone on the soil of a good reputation.

Young man, young lady, prepare such a soil. Believe not, young people, that God has made the path of virtue and religion hard and thorny. Believe not he has overhung it with dark clouds, and made it barren of fruit and beauty. Believe not that rugged rocks and briars choke the way and lacerate the limbs of those who walk therein. Oh, no; not at all. He has made it a smooth and peaceful path, and an easy and pleasant way.

The young people who overlook these considerations, who sow their plants and cherish their expectations in reference to their future career without any regard to the importance of a good character, who in marking out their course lose sight of the necessity of laboring to establish a worthy reputation to commence with, are building their hope of success and happiness upon a poor foundation. They must be convinced that a good name is the only foundation upon which such hope can legitimately rest. Having commenced wrong they make a radical and lamentable mistake at the onset—a mistake which, unless speedily corrected, will prove most disastrous in all its influences, and be keenly felt and deplored through out life. Those who fall into errors and view a good reputation as a matter of no moment, and who would, if they could, secure a good reputation without trouble and perseverance, are willing to do it. But not so. They place themselves in a most critical position. They are like a ship in the midst of the ocean without chart, compass or rudder, liable to be turned hither or thither by every fickle wind that blows, and dashed upon dangerous reefs by the heaving billows. Failing to see the importance of establishing a good character, they fall easy victims to sinful temptations. They find, at length, every fond hope and prospect blasted. A good character is the best capital any young man can start in life with. Without it success is impossible. The want of it will undermine the best advantages.

History of Ancient Greece.

J. H. STANLY.

Mr. chairman and friends; Having been assigned by the district conference held at Lexington, Ky., March 30, 1885, to this subject namely the history of Greece.

Greece is a country of which I have no personal acquaintance. So whatever I say on this subject must be gathered from other sources. Greece is the southeastern portion of Europe, her shores are washed by the waters of two seas, the Great Sea on the South, and the Ægean Sea on the East. Greece was bounded on the North by Illyrioum and Macedonia, from which a range of mountains separated it. There were numerous islands of the coasts inhabited by the Greek race who had also established colonies elsewhere. In after times the word was applied in a larger sense, and under the Roman dominion Greece was considered as comprehending the province of Macedonia, Achaia, so they are mentioned together in the New Testiment, read Acts chapter 18, verse 12; chapter 20, verse 2. Romans chapter 15, verse 26. Sometimes the noun Greece or Grecia is used to designate the Macedonian kingdom of Alexander. The term means the Græco Syrian kingdom, which arose after Alexander's death.

Greece was less than half the size of the State of New York. It was divided into separate states, smaller than some single counties, to be found in the State of Texas, and some as small as our common townships. Two hundred and fifty miles by 180 gives you the utmost area of Greece.

Look at the map. You there see that four degrees of latitudes include the whole of Greece. It is about the same latitude as the State of Virginia. Greece was cut up into seperate districts by mountain ranges intersecting each other. The political map was due to the geographical map. The natural scenery is beautiful, exceedingly full of perpetual feast to the eye, and through the eye to the imagination. High were the hills and sweet the flowers, but still richer the valleys in yields of wheat, barley, oil, and wine. The mountain ranges in the upper northern part of the country guard the whole Peninsula below from access by land on the part of enemies. The famous pass of Thermopylea, on the eastern coast, between the mountains and the sea, bring the only practical path of approach, and that being barely wide enough for a single wagon. Ancient history gives account of three great nations,—the Jews, the Greek, and Romans. It is noteworthy of them all alike that their seats of residence were territorially very small. Rome, in fact, was just a city; though Rome came to have all Italy for a suburb. We may learn here that the extent of territory is not chiefly what makes the greatness of a great people. Of this England is a signal example in the modern world, but of this Greece is still more a signal example in the ancient.

Who were the first people to inhabit and till this ground remains a question. Some think however, it was the decendants of Japheth in the time of Javan that people'd Greece. The name Javan may be traced in Ionia, the western region of Asia Minor, but the fact is of the origin of the Greeks we have no authentic account. There is tradition in great plenty, but for sound historical guesses on this point we mainly dismiss tradition to rely on hints supplied in archæology; that is the study of ancient remains, and in comparative philology, that is the study of one language in comparison with others. Putting together this and that, those learned and sagacious in such matters come to the conclusion that the ancient Greeks were Aryan or Indo European, or Indo-Germanic in race who sprung from ancestors called Pelasgians. The Romans, or rather the aboriginal Italians, had the same ancestry, but the Greeks were, no doubt, a composite race, and to make them up the Pelagians, the earliest tenants of Greek soil, were mixed with an element of population probably from Asia Minor. The Phœnicians at least taught the Greeks letters, and gave them their own alphabet. Their occupation was commerce. They maintained commercial stations on the shores of the Red Sea and all along the coast of the Mediteranean. They worked the silver mines of Spain, and the lead mines of Cornwall, and their sailors brought amber from the Baltic. Through their commerce they became the bearers of civilization, and from them both Greek and Romans learned the use of letters, and of coins, of the compass and of astronomy in navigation, of glass purple, etc. There was a little communication or connection in early times, between Palestine and Greece. The Greeks and Hebrews met first in the slave market of Joel chapter 3, verse 6.

The Greeks by the way, did not call themselves Greeks, nor was Greece the name by which they called their country. These are names we take from the language of the Romans. Hellenes was the name by which the Greeks spoke of themselves, and Helas was their name for the land in which they lived. The Greeks came to be great colonizers, and wherever they went they carried with them the name of the parent country. Helas was thus an elastic and movable appellation advancing or retreating step by step, with the advance or retreat of Hellenic emigration. The case was somewhat like that of the fiction by which we call a ship sailing under the American flag a part of the soil of America, in whatever waters of the world the ship may at the moment be floating. When trustworthy history began several tribes or families of Greeks found themselves occupying certain distinctive names. There were three chief divisions of the Hellenic stock—the Darians, Aeolians and the Ionians. The Darians were a hearty and warlike race, who in process of time overran nearly all the lower part of Greece called Peloponesus Arcadia, the Switzeland of Greece, always enjoyed exemption from Dorian sway. Sparta was the great representative of the Dorian family, as Athens was of the Janian. The Aeolian occupied Thessaly and Bœtia, with Thebes for their representative city. The small size of the states made patriotism, in many instances, a very intense passion, but on the other hand it is to be acknowledged that Greek history furnishes examples as illustrions as ever existed of self-seeking, adventurous and mercenary traitorhood.

Sparta was not a city of savages, for Spartans cultivated poetry and music of a certain severe type, but for anything that the Spartans did beyond this in the way of attention to the arts of civilization, we might call them savages. They made a pride of despising not only luxury, but refinement. Century after century Sparta was little else than a permanent military camp. It had no art, no architecture, no letters, no homes; infants not deemed sound and strong were put to death, at the age of seven. The boys were taken from their parents to be brought up in public by the state. Spartan women grew up to be men in spirit, rather than women.

Athens was the eye of Greece, and the mother of arts. These two states, Athens and Sparta—one or the other generally led in Greek affairs. The last took her turn at headship in Greece. Corinth was by felicity of her situation the leading city or commercial city of Greece. Ephesus, in Asia Minor, was as much a Grecian city as Athens in Attica. So was Miletus. Helas contained them all, with many more cities that we have not time to mention. It was in Asia Minor that the first hostile collision took place between Persia and Helas. Persia subjected the Greek cities there to her Empire, and some of them revolted. The Persian invasion of Greece followed, and was magnificently repulsed, first by the Athenians, under Miltiades, at Marathon, and afterward, on renewal, was stayed for a moment, by the immortal resistance of Leonidas, with his Spartan three hundred, at Thermopylea, to be turned back in irretrievable disaster to the invaders at Salamis. When, at last, the Persians were discisively driven from their purpose of subjugating Greece. Athens entered upon the period of her culmination, under Pericles, in splendor and power. The age of Pericles is a proverb of prosperity and glory, but of all the Greeks in the world did, nothing remains to us recognizable in the form given by their conning brain and hand, save, perhaps, a few coins, a few noble architectural ruins, a few inimitable, though mutilated, antique pieces of soulpture, and last and chief, some master pieces of literary composition. Good literature is, perhaps, on the whole the most enduring of all the products of human activity. But what a testimony it is to the genius of the people that, though what we have now said is true, the names of Homer, of Hesiod, of Pindar, of Saffo, of Aesohylus, of Saphocles, of Euripides, and of sweet flowing Theocratus, have yet such charms to our imagination that we cannot wholly escape their thrall. In history we find less to check our admiration of the Greeks, than we do in their poetry. Herodotus fascinates us with his artfully artless, simple, fluent and wonder loving, yet truth telling narratives. Thucydides puts us as willing pupils, to school to learn from him how philosophical history, should be written. Xenophon contents and delights us with picturesque journals of march and fight.

Plato was broadly contrasted with Diogenes. As in his philosophy, also in his habits and character, Diogenes lived barefooted and in a tub, while Plato loved sumptuous clothing and fare. Plato having defined man to be a biped without feathers, and he being in great repute as a philosopher, Diogenes plucked a rooster and carried him to Plato's school with the remark, "here is Plato's man."

Zeno, flogging a share for stealing. "It was foreordained that I should steal," whimpered the slave, and "that your hide should be taken off you for it," added the philosopher

The golden age of Greek literature, as of Greek art and of Greek arms, was the age of Pericles. The literature of Greece is remarkable, equally, for its matter and for its form. The Greek mind was curious, bold, enterprising, sagacious, acute, and subtle. It was extremely hospitable and penetrable to ideas. It was gay, agile, open, graceful and passionately fond of beauty. No other nation has ever existed that could turn its hand to so many different things, and succeed in them all so well as could the Greeks. There were never any better soldiers, never any better sailors, never any better colonizers and traders, never any better sculptors, painters and architects, never any better orators, poets, historians, critics, rhetoricians, philosophers and mathematicians, never any better leaders, statesmen, diplomatists, never any better gymnasts, any better gentlemen, any better with than you will find among the ancient Greeks. The New Testament was written in the Greek language, because the Greek language was chiefly in use when Christ came into the world, and when the apostles wrote the New Testiment the Greek language was known almost in all parts of the earth. Ancient Greece was never conquered. It was Greece and Alexander that rolled back for ages from Europe the threatning inundation of Asia, and Greece triumphed over Rome after Rome had annexed Greece to her empire. Greece triumphs yet in a dominion and still maintains genius and taste over realms of letters and art. Such imperfectly described was the country and people of ancient Greece.

Letters From the Laity.

W. W. Bouldin, Hondo, Tex., writes: "Hondo is a beautiful little colony of only about twenty families, and has two denominations, Methodist and Baptist, who preach and teach in the same house, and with few exceptions all seem to be pulling for the same shore. Nearly all have paid for their homes, and have as much land as they wish to cultivate and no more. We have a sober and industrious people, and room enough for a few more of the same kind. Come and see. The people are not as well situated as some, but it must be remembered that they have had only a few years in which to recover the damages inflicted upon them by the wild Indians and outlaws. We have a reading people, and the economical way in which they are conducting their business shows very plainly that they are on the slow but sure march to wealth and refinement. Some of the brethren take the SOUTHWESTERN, and they, as well as myself, are greatly benefited by so doing. Come on, old ADVOCATE, we are happy to meet you. Bro Browley, our worthy pastor, and also his affectionate wife, are much liked and highly esteemed by all. Most of our people are religious, and are always willing to do the best they can for their pastor. They are especially so when they find him to be a man zealous of good works. Hondo can boast for the first time of having an industrious minister, and one who is sure to win souls for Christ. We have a lively Sabbath School, and are doing what we can to make it better and more instructive. Mr. Franklin Pierce, our pleasant and agreeable superintendent, is a man of God, and does what he can to encourage us, and to make the school interesting and attractive. Nearly all of our young people have joined the temperance cause, and cigarettes and snuff brushes are getting to be a thing of the past with us. Some of our mothers and fathers have joined also, and instead of spending their money for whisky and tobacco are spending it for something to read. We have completed our parsonage, which, though only a substitute, it shows a willingness on the part of the people to take care of their pastor. Children's Day was strictly observed and highly appreciated by all. The young ladies, aided by our pastor, set to work in earnest, and our neat little church was highly perfumed with a large variety of nature's best flowers. Several very appropriate lectures were delivered, and a great many who were present were led to see the necessity of helping those who are trying to help them. Our collection, though nothing to boast of, was the best we ever did for Children's Day. Hondo alone gave $4 Fredericksburg, $4 28, and [illegible] $1 51, making a handsome little total of $9 85 for the object. Every little helps, and so the good work still goes on. Rev. [illegible], with his Christian army, will strike camp on the 16th of [illegible] for the purpose of rounding up Dilda and his host. A warm time is anticipated, and more laborers wanted in the vineyard. Come and help us."

Grant's Memorial Service At Sixth Street Methodist Episcopal Church

REV. E LYONS, PASTOR.

This evening found an eager and intelligent audience assembled to celebrate a memorial service in memory of our departed Grant The audience was composed mostly of young people. A number of societies were in attendence in their regalia Good Templars, Zion Travelers Benevolent Association, Love and Charity Society, Sunlight Tabernacle, Young Men's Lafayette Benevolent Association, Loaders and Teamsters Association; all appearing to good advantage. The church was appropriately draped for the occasion, and ornamented with a picture of the great hero, and one of his family. The services were opened by the reading of the LXXII Psalm followed by singing of the National hymn, then by prayer. The anthem sung by the choir was beautiful, sweet and inspiring. The pastor introduced the subject of the meeting by a few earnest, appropriate words. The first speaker was Prof. C. T. Simpson, of the New Orleans University, he said: We meet as Americans to remember the great American departed. We are a free and united people to day because such a man as Grant was found to come as a soldier and commander to the salvation of the nation in the hour of need. This land was destined by God to be the home of a free people. Let us not forget the value of our inheritance and do homage to the hero to whom in great part the entire country owes its salvation. And having now the opportunity to realize all that lies within the attainment of the human soul, it becomes us as Americans and free men to attain that elevation of individual character and life for which we were destined by God, and of which we find so remarkable an example in the typical American our departed Grant.

After the singing of an anthem by the choir, Dr. Thadeus Walker graduate from the Meharry Medical College at Nashville, was presented, and made a stirring address. He spoke of Grant as a man and a soldier. Grant was a true man distinguished by industry, morality and magnanimity. By virtue of work done, he made himself the most distinguished son of America. His home and school education made him an unselfish man, a gentlemen of the highest type, one who was to win success by speech and perseverance, especially his magnanimity was a trait that made him great. He was not so contracted in his sympathies as not to recognize the black man as friend and neighbor. Certainly above all others, the colored people should be foremost in remembering our Grant. The Negro has not known a greater friend. As a soldier he was noted for fixedness of purpose and self reliance. He knew first the thing to do, and was always calm and decided. He never considered it impossible for him to achieve victory.

The chief is gone! At the last he proved himself death's victor; he was not conquered, for he simply slept away. He was not born great nor thrust into greatness, but he won greatness. Let us emulate his worthy example; let us cherish the freedom he has given us as a soldier and President. These are a few points of the excellent address, after which a solo was sung by Miss Maggie Gallagher, who was loudly applauded. Acting President A. F. Hoyt, of New Orleans University, being introduced, dwelt at considerable length on the practical lesson to be learned from the life and character of Grant. The speaker elicited the enthusiasm of the meeting. He admired many traits in Grant's character, his sincerity in that he spoke openly any opinion he had to utter; the ability to stand still and let the little imps say everything evil against him. If there has been any man who has been assailed and misrepresented, Grant was one. Some one went to President Lincoln and accused Grant of being a drunkard, Lincoln said: "If he drinks whiskey, I'd like to get some of it for the rest of the generals!"

Grant hated sham battles at West Point, and hated shams of every kind all his life. Again, he had wonderful perseverance, which is a greater lack with many people than their lack of brains. When down at Vicsburg, he was there to stay until they surrendered. Another thing, when an achievment of his was over, it was done with. Grant did not go through the country telling about it.

We have a lesson of warning also. Why did Grant die between sixty and seventy with his strong constitution? All the young men who are using tobacco illustrate why. But then let us remember that in his words and life, Grant was pure. Much more might be said of his character and deeds. At the very last he outconquered death; no longer commander, he knew how to obey, and accepting the leadership of the Lord Jesus Christ, he obeyed the supreme command, and passed triumphantly over into the life beyond. After the speaker was seated, the pastor of the church, Rev. E. Lyons, dwelt for a few moments with intense earnestness on Grant's religous life and principles, seeking to impress on every individual of the audience the necessity of a genuine Christian life and character.

Resolutions were passed by the audience as found below, after which an enthusiastic and profitable meeting was concluded by a hearty singing of the doxology and by the benediction.

RESOLUTIONS,

Memorial Service., held at Sixth Street, M. E. Church, Aug. 26th, at 8 o'clock p m., in honor of Gen. U. S. Grant, the following resolutions were adopted.

Whereas, in the providence of Almighty God, there has been taken from our midst by the arch enemy death, a distingnished man in the person of Gen. U. S Grant. Therefore be it resolved,

1. That the nation has lost its noblest hero, and the Negro his best friend.

2. Resolved that the Negro will ever perpetuate the memory of our hero.

3 Resolved that the colored people of New Orleans will subscribe to the monumental fund.

4. Resolved, that a vote of thanks be tendered to the following speakers. Prof. Simpson, Dr. T. Addison Walker, Rev. A. F. Hoyt, and Rev. E. Lyons.

5. Resolved, that the address of Dr. T. Addison Walker will be published in the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and also the Baptist Advocate.

6. Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions will be forwarded to the bereaved wife and family.

6. Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be published in the various papers of this city.

Respectfully submitted.

Address delivered at the Grant memorial meeting, held at the Sixth Street M. E. Church, Wednesday, Aug. 26, 1885, Rev. Ernest Lyon, pastor, on "Grant, the Man and Soldier," by Thaddeus A. Walker, A. B., M. D.:

When asked, not long since, to prepare some thoughts in memoriam to our honored ex-President and renowned soldier the man whose body is now confined to its last resting place, and whose soul has, no doubt, reached the abode of bliss, I found my mind's eye immediately looking over the many qualities of the subject of my talk, and I concluded to present to you U. S. Grant, the man and soldier.

At this day there is not a family in the United States, not a nation that inhabits this mundane sphere, whose hearts have not mourned the loss of that President, philanthropist and soldier, Ulysses S. Grant, the hero of Appomattox, and the honored son of Ohio. The subject of my sketch emanated from a father of Scotch descent, at Point Pleasant, Clermont county, Ohio, April 27, 1822. In that town was born the man whose fame is not only known in America, but is known to the whole world. The fame which he has achieved is not that fame born of self-pride; not that fame characterized by petty wrangling and frivolities, but that fame which is ascribed to none but one who is a man in the broadest and truest sense of the word. U. S. Grant was a true man; a man as to his heart, his head and hand; a man who possessed pre eminently the qualities of industry, morality, and magnanimity.

Like the mighty father of waters, starting at its infant source, Lake Itasca, slowly but surely making a passage for that great expanse of water which we see before us, so started U. S. Grant from a small source; but finally made a passage for himself through the all important avocations of life, and by virtue of work done justly assumed the title of the most distingnished son of America.

This world is inhabited by a great many men—men as to age; but not men possessing the qualities which give them the name and prestige of true men. It was in 1854, after Gen. Grant resigned the captaincy of the army, that he had to prove what of industry there was about him. He, like many a son of poverty, returned to Missouri poor and disheartened, and with no prospects before him. Though educated to wield the sword; though clothed in the regalia of a warrior, we find him on a farm, in Missouri, fighting against poverty by wielding the plow and ax instead of the sword. From the farm he goes into the office of a real estate agent, and from thence he goes into the tannery business at Galena, Illinois at a salary of $600 per annum. Although his salary was meager, and poverty almost stared him in the face, yet he saw no other way out of his difficulties than to be industrious both as to his head and hand. What a worthy example for the almost poverty stricken youths of our land.

Then, too, Gen. Grant was a man of high intellectual stamina. He had not only the appearance of an educated man, but truly possessed that education necessary to make him a success in this life, in so far as his relations with other men were concerned. The training which was needed to make him a success in this life was given to him by those upon whose knees he dangled, and by those who helped to mould the high character of that wonderful man. His education made him an unselfish man, a gentleman of a high type, and one who alone succeeded by pluck and energy. It is said of Grant that when he was received into West Point Academy, he met with as is customary, a set of rough class mates. They on becoming acquainted with the young soldier from Ohio saw that by previous education he had imbibed the true principles of manly modesty and go aheaditiveness, and instead of trespassing upon his rights they became as harmless as doves. It was in 1839 that the great man, whose body has been consigned to the tomb, began his career as the soldier; started to gain that education which has given him the name of a hero; that education which has made him the pride of the known world; that education which gave him a chance to show his love for the Negro. He graduated twenty-first in a class of thirty-nine, leaving his Alma Mater to achieve success hardly expected by his most sanguine friends.

His magnanimity was a trait e. the man which deserves high praise He lost sight, at times of self interests, and watched carefully the interests of his fellow-men. Thank God, that among those whom he considered his fellow men his mind was not so contracted, nor his heart so tinged with blackness that he failed to discover that the black man was his friend and brother. His every act showed that he was in favor of life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness being extended to the Negro. Said he on one occasion of the colored men of Florida: "Wherever I am they may come also." Then, if any race should do honor to the dead hero; if any people should assemble together, and express their sorrow at the death of such a chieftain, the colored people should be foremost in their expressions of sympathy for the lamented dead. Friends, to night we sit here enjoying the grand privileges of religions, intellectual, social and moral education. Each one of us should ask ourselves the question: Who was instrumental in giving us this freedom. Some say God, through Abraham Lincoln, but I say had not Grant been victorious at Fort Donaldson and Appomattox, all the emancipation proclamations issued by President Lincoln would have been useless, and and we would still be chattels. Had not Grant, as President of the United States, enrobed us with the garb of American citizenship, the few privileges which we now have would never have been accorded us. Grant was a man of integrity. Whatever, in itself, presented to him the appearance of dishonesty and lawlessness, he denounced, and always showed himself anxious to walk the paths of right and justice. Calumniating tongues could not injure him; villification could not affect the man of pure character, for his name, fame and deeds had taken too great a hold upon the [illegible] nation. Grant was a man as President of the United States; the country has not known a greater President, nor has the Negro had a greater friend acting in the capacity of chief magistrate of this nation.

Leaving Grant, the man, we shall endeavor to scrutinize him from the standpoint of a soldier. Profane history, with its account of warriors, has not recorded a name the peer of Gen. Grant as a soldier. When Grant undertook to advance upon Richmond, he understood that all the national armies that had advanced against Lee, had been repulsed by him. But Grant was courageous, persistent and decided. Lee soon discovered that in Grant he had an irresistible foe, a stubborn opponent and one determined to win or die. After Grant had thrown his army across the James river and had fought stubbornly for months, Lee's stronghold fell, and with it fell the ultimate hope of the Confederacy. Lee surrendered to Gen. Grant on the 9th of April 1865, at Appomattox, and since that wonderful victory Grant has been called the hero of Appomattox. As a soldier, the man of whom we speak had fixedness of purpose; was clear and certain as to his judgment and exhibited self reliance and an unchangeable determination. When Grant, in July 1862, succeeded to the command of the department of Tennessee, he immediately began to arrange his plans for an attack against Vicksburg. Here he showed his daring qualities, and what of natural resources there was about him. In January 1863, Gen. Grant having enlarged his army, gathered his forces and advanced against Vicksburg. But in vain did he there attempt to capture this stronghold. But as Mrs. Grant said of him, when asked by a friend concerning his success at Richmond, that he was stubborn and would certainly capture Richmond, so he proved himself to be in this instance. He did not give up at the first, but fruitless attempt; but between April 30, 1863, and May 18th of the same year, he routed the Confederates in six consecutively hard fought battles, forced them behind his defence, and added another well earned victory to the many which he had achieved as a soldier. It is said of Grant that on the night of the battle of the Wilderness, when the right of his army had been broken and turned after he had given his orders for new dispositions, he went to his tent and slept calm till morning. The characteristic which he exibited in this instance as a soldier was this: He felt and knew that he had done his best and could do no better, and therefore awaited results, giving himself no anxiety concerning the judgment or decision. Grant, as a soldier always knew just the thing to do, just the point to strike, and was always calm and decided in terrible emergencies. He was a soldier of an invincible determination, and it was such a determination that won for him the victories at Belmount and Donelson as well at Shiloh. Grant never considered it impossible for him to achieve victory; never doubted his ability to win, and always considered that there was no such word as fail, and can't had never been written for him on the pages of any lexicon. When told at Belmont that he was surrounded, he calmly and lightly answered, "Well we must cut our way out." As a warrior we place him by the side of Napoleon, Alexander and Cæsar. Great as they were as warriors, yet in magnanimity, greatness of character, unselfishness and innate modesty, he was their peer, and his name will go rumbling through the ages on account of these high humane qualities. He possessed a great deal of courage as a soldier, always took the initiative; always advanced, always was the aggressor and always forced his plans upon the enemy. If Grant's troops were driven to the right, he always made an assault on the left. These facts plainly show his shrewdness as a soldier. Friends I have attempted to present to you Grant's career and acts as man and soldier. His victories achieved while living are familiar to all the people of this land. The chieftain is gone; the man victorious in peace as well as war, proved himself to be death's victor at Mt McGregor, for he did not die but slept himself away. The man who deserved a chaplet for well earned victories gained while living, wears a crown bedecked with stars. He is gone; but his deeds still live in the minds of the people, requies cat in pace. Born great, he certainly acheived greatness, but greatness thrust upon him and last, but not least, he died great. Our friend brother, President deliverer and soldier is gone. Let all hearts mourn his loss; over his tomb was pronounced on the 8th, of August, "Earth to earth, dust to dust and ashes to ashes," and upon his tombstone should be written in golden letters, Oh, rare U. S. Grant. Let us emulate his worthy example, and let us cherish well the freedom which he has given us as a President and soldier.

Is It Possible to Attain the Highest Success in Sunday School Work Without Instrumental Music?

MISS HETTIE G. TAYLOR.

Since the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy over the birth of Creation, since the birds trilled in Eden, since David's harp melodies sent the Evil Spirit from King Saul, since a choir of angels heralded the Messiah's coming, the civilized world has acknowledged the power of music. Then, knowing these facts, is it possible to attain the highest success in Sunday School work without instrumental music?

Can we attain the highest success in any work without aiming to reach ambition's highest point?

Is it possible for us to keep pace with this enlightened age, without acquiring the knowledge of those things which seek to charm and uplift the little children whose lives are so full of promise?

The Sabbath School is the nursery and life of the church, and we should endeavor to make it pleasant and interesting to the youth of the land; and in order to accomplish our aim, instrumental music becomes one of the most essential elements in attaining the highest success in this work.

What is more pleasant in a Sabbath School than to hear the youthful voices of the little children mingle with the deep and melodious tones of an instrument, singing praises to God?

Instrumental music is one of the most delightful and inspiring acts of sacred devotion, and it would have a most happy tendency could it be more generally introduced into our Sabbath Schools, and executed with propriety as it might be by the scholars.

It is an employment which, if engaged in with proper motives and feelings, seems more than any other exercise on earth, to place us by the side of those who have tuned their harps on high, and are now singing the song of Moses and the lamb, then why may not infant voices here in the Sabbath School be made to catch the strain, and praise as the Redeemed will praise in heaven the Lamb, their Redeemer?

In teaching little children we must always try to find something that will amuse them and keep their undivided attention. You will hardly find any child who is not willing to throw his whole soul in singing some song accompanied by an instrument. He thinks it is a grand thing to pour out his young voice in song to the accompaniment of the rich tones of an instrument.

If a child is sitting quietly in school, trying to receive the instruction of his teacher, and suddenly a band of music passes the building, it makes no difference how interesting the subject may be, or how difficult it may be for the instructor to impart to his class, every one ceases to give attention to his instructor, and their minds and hearts are enraptured in the voluptuous swell and enchanting strains of music.

Then, when we see that instrumental music has such a charming effect upon the youthful minds, should we not perform our duty in the Sabbath School in singing praises to God with the sound of the trumpet, to praise Him with the psaltry and harp?

Is there a heart among you that music cannot soothe?

Even the poor savage, who is almost like a weed unnourished, when the sounds of music are sent melodiously through his soul, he seems to show in his feeble and uncultured manner that he, too, is a lover of that great inspiring art of music.

The mystic power of music has many influences. It is not impressive to the gay and light hearted alone, but it has power to calm the troubled waters, soothe the weary and oppressed, cheer the last moments of the dying, and bring the wandering footsteps nearer to the fold.

Could the Kintergarten Plan Be Successfully Used in Infant Sunday School Classes?

BY MISS TINNY SANDERS.

The kindergarten is a child's world, corresponding point by point with the adult world: and yet does not deprive [illegible] of their beautiful and harmonious infancy, but lengthens its [illegible]. The play of it rehearses all the serious occupations and beautiful morality which ought to characterize society, combining the soul of the saint and the sage with artless address of the child.

Nothing is more complicated than proper appreciation of child [illegible] and development; the life of a child, the days of susceptibility of any and all impressions, commencing with that of angelic purity; its [illegible]ons, scenes, enjoyments and [illegible]ations come as a rule from [illegible]ndings.

We are all creatures of circumstances; just about what our train[illegible]r by domestic paternity, [illegible] wisdom, pedagogic [illegible], or that gained by the [illegible] we have, we are. We could in some instances wish it different, but it remains so.

Whoever, therefore, undertakes the task of laying down rules, or executing those already established for children, undertakes an arduous task. It is such you have seen fit to assign me.

The importance of a correct solution of the problem given me demands, since we believe it can be profitably used in the Sabbath School work, thorough analysis that we may be able to fully comprehend its availability.

1. Those who would successfully teach children must present knowledge as nature does, by delightful experience gradually reach the truth sought.

2. Must combine pleasure and work.

3. Must lead up from the concrete to the abstract, but seldom, if ever, vice versa.

As to our first proposition we know that nature only allows us lungs, heart and the senses in a measured degree. So the kindergarten idea. Now, whatever of man's arrangements coincide with God's is right and applicable to the proper indoctrination in intellectual as well as spiritual truths. The Book of Books teach us that as to religious growth there comes first the blade then the stalk, then the ear, and then the full corn in the ear. That as babes in Christ we should desire the sincere milk of the word, and afterward the strong meat. Thus allowing man's desires for spiritual and intellectual training of children to coincide with the word of God.

And now we come to speak of our second proposition combining pleasure and work.

There is no more erroneous idea, it seems to me, in the world than this one, which is entirely too prevalent, that children must learn to do hard work without play, taking pleasure therein. This is inconsistent to nature, God and the affairs of this world.

For notwithstanding the fact that God gave His first created, Adam, charge to keep the garden of Eden, it was, when he opened his eyes to receive his charge from his Maker a garden of pleasure. Here we have the idea of work and pleasure combined for all manner of fruits for his enjoyment, were already there. Notwithstanding the fact that man sinned and thus brought upon him the frown of God and the penalty, of in the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread all the days of thy life. Cessation from labor for pleasure is mapped carefully in the, "thou shalt keep the Sabbath day holy." The reason assigned strikes the cord we now touch in that, "The Lord rested on the seventh day, from all his work. Outside of such high authority as we have been quoting we hear the voice of common sense declaring that most labor can be satisfactorily performed when combined with pleasure.

We can only teach children by showing them something. No child or man can obtain any idea of six or one until the object in the concrete is presented. No one can understand the meaning of an equation until the signs representing them shall have been given.

Just so in the proper training of children. In the kindergarten plan these facts are demonstrated.

It is true the information gotten appears superficial, but so does the alphabet and multiplication table.

We must take the same plan into the Sunday School and then we shall be able to see its fruits in many ways.

1. The larger pupils will remain because an interest will have been awakened by their former systematic training.

2. The smaller pupils will be glad to attend and will forget the the ardnous tasks because transcended by the pleasurable profits derivable.

As great benefits may be derived why not insist that the kindergarten plan be part of the curriculum of the Sabbath School.

Let Us Say African.

REV. W. D. GODMAN, D. D. LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

I notice in your columns the expression of diverse views about the use of the word Negro as an appellative of the dark race. Will you allow me as a friend, to make a suggestion.

There are five so-called races of men named respectively as follows: The Caucasian, or white race; the Mongolian, or yellow race; the Malayan, or Brown race; the African or black race; the American, or red race. These are the scientific terms employed; that is, they are employed by scientists: though they may not be very scientific in the sense of really true.

Now it will be observed that in common speech, we employ the territorial designation, not the word expressing color in all cases, but one, that is the African. In speaking of the races we say, Caucasian, Mongolian etc., etc. But in the one exceptional case, we say Negro. Why is this? I think, in a good degree, because the colored brethren have themselves objected to the name of African.

Why do they object? Because, forsooth, they say we were born in America, and we are as much Americans as the whites. True, but with parity of reasoning, the whites might say; "We are not Caucasians; we were born in America, and know nothing of Caucasia." And this would also be true.

Now the names of the races given by ethnologists, were intended so far as one knowledge warrants, to signify the origin of each race, the place of its first emerging into historic reality. With this in view, the only appropriate title of the black or dark race is African. I am sure there is no other one half so euphonious, nor can any be found so richly associate with history, mystery, and romance. Let me beseech my brethren to discard the word "Negro," let that be relegated to the books, and to adopt the beautiful name of African.

May they also espouse the cause of the father-land, and aspire to the crown of martyrdom in behalf of her salvation. The next five hundred years of historic progress belongs to Africa. Dont be left behind, brethren, by the onward march of providence.

DR. JOHN BULL'S

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24, 1885.

Special Notice to Agents

The conduct of this paper through an extraordinary season of business depression is a heavy burden. We ask you to comply faithfully with the agreement binding upon all indebted to this office, to pay something on account every quarter. Send the subscription money you have collected to this office at once. Do not allow people to receive papers who do not pay. It is not keeping the faith with us to postpone the settlement of accounts until Annual Conference. The money is needed now, and should be put into our hands as soon as possible after collection. Pastors are expected to pay for all papers ordered to their account, and should look sharply after delinquent subscribers, and keep out of debt. Small payments are thankfully received. Forward the money you have, and do not forget the old debts.

Germany and Spain are now in a quarrel, but they are not apt to fight.

The proposed emancipation celebration at Little Rock, Ark., for Sept. 22, has been abandoned.

London, not content with exploits of dynamite, has invented a more destructive explosive called hellofite, after Mr. Hellhoff, its originator.

Natives up the Congo have given them a warm reception by roasting European settlers, and the Boers have taken another slice of Zuln land territory.

When the way is plain, and the sky clear, march with hope and charity, but if clouds o'ercast the heavens, and the path to glory is graced with thorns stand still with faith.

The La Teche district, La., and Pine Bluff quarterly conference, passed resolutions upon the death of Gen. Grant. An unusually impressive memorial service was held in Frankfort, Ky.

The plan for the New Orleans University building has been drawn and accepted, and its erection will be at once begun. The building is to be an ornament to the locality where it will be situated.

The wife of this editor and children have been taking a trip through Kentucky alone recently by the L. and N. and K. C. Railways, and she desires to say that traveling as a lady she received by all train officials the treatment due to such. Behavior has much to do with it.

We believe the short route to prohibition of the manufacture of liquor is to destroy the value of it. Local option tends to this. Therefore we favor and urge local option legislation in every State. It is in line with a good conscience, and is in reality the first attainable means to ultimate universal prohibition as an end.

The Free Thinkers have been in convention in New York lately revolving in favor of free thought. We do not see that anybody's thoughts are enslaved in this country. That convention, for example, said its thoughts with perfect impunity, and there doesn't seem to be any danger impending for them [illegible] it be from self inflicted harikari. Why don't they just sing whatever they wish to say. Our country of ours is so large and powerful that it can stand and withstand a dozen or so cyclones every summer. Hence, we presume that there is no direct and awful danger to be anticipated from a pretty full and continuous expression of their innermost notions.

A Festival and a Fight.

"I am done with festivals after this," said Elder Vaughn to the writer on a recent Sunday morning. He got through with the work of one about 2 o'clock a.m. which had been in progress from the hour of candle light Saturday.

It resulted in the usual battle, and, in this case, the use of a pistol, the wounding of a little boy, and the imprisonment of the offender who was a man of family, and who should have been at home instead of the festeval. Only a short time since, a similar occurence, at a Saturday night church festival, resulted in the instant killing of one man, the wounding of two, and the imprisonment of another. The time has certainly come to have an end of these Saturday night church festivals. At least no circumstances can be plead in extenuation of such outrages on morals, religion and civil society. They must be prohibited, if it results in the loss of half the property now owned by the church. As a matter of fact what is made by them seldom does much it the way of paying anything on church debts. An examination will show that these, when paid at all by the people who owe them, are paid by disciplinary methods. Let the festivals go.

Adoptive Masonary.

Rev. H. W. White, P. E. Lexington district, Lexington Methodist Episcopal conference, is also Deputy Worthy Venerable Patriarch of the Kentucky jurisdiction of the Grand Eastern Star Court of the West. The next, which is the 20th session of this court, is to be held in Toledo Ohio, the 4th of August ensuing. The jurisdiction includes the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Michigan.

The Eastern Star is a secret society, imitating Free Masonry, for the admission of ladies. These ladies are said to be adopted into the Masonic communion.

The theory of the "Eastern Star" is founded upon the Holy Scriptures. Five prominent female characters, illustrating as many moral virtues, have been selected and adopted. They are:

First—JEPHTHAH'S DAUGHTER, illustrating respect to the binding force of a vow.

Second—RUTH, illustrating devotion to religious principles.

Third — ESTHER, illustrating fidelity to kindred and friends.

Fourth — MARTHA, illustrating undeviating faith in the hour of trial and submission under wrongs.

Five—ELECTA (?) illustrating patience.

This form of female association was originated in France about 1730. Every lodge is compelled to be adopted by, and under the guardianship of some regular Masonic lodge.

It was introduced into this country in 1850, and is the only adoptive Masonic rite which has succeeded here, says Robert Macoy.

Not less than five ladies are entitled to receive the degree to constitute a lodge.

Only master masons, their wives, widows, sisters, daughters, and mothers, all in good standing, and the widows caused by the death of their husbands are eligible to the degree.

This institution looks more to the development of right habits in life than to the burial of bodies in death, and is hence a very useful one for the patronage of the colored people at this particular time.

Its especial value is that it undertakes to better, by classifying and leading women into habits and associations of virtue and usefulness. It is becoming extensively known and numerously attended in the west.

From Sept. 1 to 12 there had been 2344 cases of cholera in Spain, of whom 9,379 died.

A New Duty.

The Illinois Central R. R. seems to make no discrimination against people holding first class tickets. In a twelve hours ride we have seen seven colored men without coats on, three drunken ones, and one man and woman with a bottle of whiskey which they used vigorously, in the ladies car. All the whites in this car at this time were decently dressed and well behaved. Heretofore the ministers who are the only real leaders of the Negroes, with the assistance of many humane white people, have earnestly called for the removal of all hindrance to the entrance of colored people into first class cars. The duty now before us is to prevent the abuse of these new immunities by teaching the colored people how to correctly use them. It is right that every one should have his rights, but they must not so use them as to encroach upon and destroy the rights of others. The Negroes must themselves put an end to this kind of thing, or an end will be put to it by others for them. And in one way or the other it should be promptly terminated.

Genius and Ingenius.

Mr. James Burley, of Georgetown, Ky., who had on exhibition at the Cotton Exposition, the model of a steam engine of his own make, is quite a man of genius. Besides a jewelry store, which he keeps, he is a teacher of phonography and telegraphy. He erected a wire between his own and the house of a neighbor, by which means he gave a young gentleman lessons in telegraphy. He is of fine physique, of dark brown color, and apt to do something in this world before he dies. His model, sent to New Orleans, has not yet been returned to him. We heard of quite a good deal of tardiness in returning these exhibits, and in one case that of Rev. Thomas Jones, who sent in the care of Prof. Simmons, a hemp brake of his own invention, there has been down right carelessness, to speak of it mildly. It was never put in place at the Exposition, and has never been returned. Indeed, they say it cannot be found. These commissioners may not be men liable to prosecution for such inexcusable carelessness, but they can and will be held to a moral responsibility before the people whose confidence they obtained and seemed to esteem so lightly.

A Piece of Bad Business.

Rev. J. W. Russell, of Anchorage and Dorsey's charge, Kentucky, is pushing things vigorously on his work. He is about to build a parsonage at Dorsey. He knows that we have no better claim to the ground there than any other body of religious colored people would have, such being the terms of the conveyence made by Mr. Dorsey of a lot of ground to W. L. Muir and W. H. Lawrence, Methodist Episcopal, and Philip Alexander, Baptist. Bros. Muir and Lawrence plead ignorance as their justification for building a Methodist Episcopal meeting-house on ground thus deeded. Perhaps, Bro. Russell will plead indifference for so building a parsonage, as he is, and cannot be, ignorant of the defects in that title. Certainly he knows of it now at least.

The Divinity of Logic.

Logic is the art of systematic and correct reasoning. It is an exact science. It is in this respect the twin of arithmetic and music. Logic is infallible when the premises are right. It is, in its conclusions, the ascertainment of truth, and truth is divine. "God is truth." Eloquence is a good thing; rhetoric is no less so; scholarship is excellent, but logic is the best. Put the test of logic to every sermon, lecture, conversation, or be sure that you may be wrong. Let all our preachers study the Bible, logic and arithmetic first, music, grammar and languages comes later.

Personal.

—The SOUTHWESTERN is a preacher in my congregation.—Rev. J. H. Stanley, Newton, Ky.

—Mrs. Dr. Bayliss has recently been quite sick, and confined to bed in her home on Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio.

—Rev. N. L. Carr, of Falmouth, Ky., sent an obitnary notice, but neglected to give the name of the deceased. Please write again.

—Rev. I. L. Pratt had a large congregation present at the dedication of the new Methodist Episcopal Church at Starkville, Miss., Aug. 30.

—The name of J. F. K. Moreland was unintentionally omitted from the list of gradnates in the Central Tennessee College catalogue for 1883.

—Mrs. Letha Pearl and Mrs. Emily Boyd, worthy members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, have died recently in their homes at Maysville, Ky.

—Mrs. Rogers, of Gosport, Indiana, the ladylike proprietress of the Rogers' House in that village, declares she always has been, and cannot see how any one can be otherwise than a Methodist and a Republican.

—Rev. Andrew J. DeHart, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was married Sept. 10 in that city to Miss Jennie Jackson. He left his profession of school teacher, and entered the ministry of the Congregational Church. He afterwards joined the African Methodist Episcopal Church. He has now left the itinerancy ministry and returned to his old profession of school teaching.

—Bishop Harris in Texas among the Negroes, and in Ohio at the Cincinnati conference, crowded with refined and far-famed ministers, was characterized by the same amiable brusqueness and simple directness of manner. It is refreshing to meet any one of such freeness of manner, and we trust for many years to come we may see Bishop Harris' face periodically among us in the discharge of his official duties.

—The preachers of the La Teche district Louisiana conference at their recent district conference presented Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D, who is closing his fourth year as presiding elder on that district, with a $75 gold watch. The watch is beautifully monogrammed, and bears the following inscription: "Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., presiding elder for the Teche district for faithful and meritorious services to his church, his country, and race Aug. 15, 1885."

Church Polity.

MR. EDITOR—What is the duty of a commissary committee in a camp meeting? When there is such a committee has a minister the right to take anything out of the commissary without their consent? —Subscriber.

Answer—There is no such thing as commissary committe known to Methodist law or general usage. A commissary department is one of the features of an army. Its business is to furnish supplies for the soldiers, and those placed in charge of it are responsible for the supplies delivered to them. Hence it would be improper to take anything from it without their consent.

The usual way of running camp meetings is to sell the right to some one who runs a hotel upon the grounds, charging a reasonable price for what he furnishes. If they are run otherwise then those concerned must decide how it shall be. But when a plan has been agreed upon, it should be carried out by all, else disorder and confusion would ensue. Now, if in your camp meeting it has been agreed that all supplies for the table and tents should pass through the hands of a commissary committee, then it is disorderly and unministerial for any minister or other person to interfere with the elder or break the rule.

Schools and Colleges.

Wesley Chapel Mission School.

B. L. HALE.

There was an exhibition given under the direction of Mr. C. W. Dale, June 29th. The programme was composed of dialogues, declamations, choruses, solos, and a debate; the subject of which was "Woman's rights." The programme was rendered with perfect satisfaction. Those who took part were scholars belonging to the Mission School. The following named persons took part in the debate; Joseph Anderson, judge, Dora Johnson clerk, Mr. M. Craig, Miss Rudolph, Mr. M. A. Craig, Miss E. Dale were empanneled as jurors. They were not members of the school. Misses Lilly Bello and Laura Garnett spoke in favor of woman's rights. Master Esau Scott and A. Vincent, were the opponents. The audience was struck with surprise at the great tact and power of speech shown in these pupils. We feel that we have a Moses as principal of this school. The school opened September 7th, with a large attendance. Last year there were 114 pupils in attendance.

New Orleans, La.

The New Professor at the Gammon School of Theology.

W. P. THIRKIELD.

The rapid growth of the Gammon School Theology, of Clark University, has made it necessary to enlarge its faculty. In accordance with the broad and generous plans of its founders, an additional chair has been filled by the appointment of the Rev. J. C Murray B D., to the professorship of Exegetical and Historical Theology. Mr. Murray is a gradnate of Drew Theological Seminary, and has had an experience of over fourteen years in teaching and in the active work of the ministry. The character, scholarship, and general ability of this new professor may be judged from this letter written by the venerable Dr. James Strong, another of the great encyclopedia, and the oldest professor at Drew Seminary. He writes: "I have intimately known Rev. J. C. Murray, both as a student in our seminary, and as my private assistant on the Cyclopedia, and I have found him an excellent scholar and a careful, judicious and dilligent worker and writer. I think him pre eminently qualified for the position of teacher of exegetical and historical theology in your institution, no less by his literary tastes and attainments, than by his experience and habits. I give him my cordial and unqualified recommendation." Brother Murray has been released from his charge in the North Indiana Conference, on the recommendation of Bishop Harris and the request of Dr. Rust. Though in the midst of building a beautiful new church edifice, he has heard the voice of the church, and comes to give his best years and talents to the great work of training ministers for most effective service in preaching Christ and saving souls. He will arrive at the school before the opening, on Oct. 7.

Thus the plan and promise of the founders of this institution are being fulfilled in the gradual enlargement of the faculty, and in the furnishing of such superior facilities as to make this school rank among the foremost of our theological seminaries. The institution was founded on the conviction that the ministers whose work is to be largly in the South, should be trained with some reference to the needs of this particular field; that they should be kept in close sympathy with the people; that they should have practical ideas of the work to be done, and training in the special methods calculated to bring about the largest and best results from their labors. This is the only school established in the South by the Methodist Episcopal Church, for the sole purpose of training young men for the ministry. This fact, and its central location, commends it to the patronage of all our schools and conferences.

The Bethlehem School.

B. F. POWE.

DEAR EDITOR:—Allow me to make a few brief remarks to the public of the closing exercises relative to Bethlehem public and private school. We had four months public and four months independent, which is equal to eight months. On the morning of August 28th, we closed with an enrollment of 97 students, all of whom passed a creditable examination before several officers of the county and 386 people of both colors were present; also we had a fine exhibition which was pronounced by those who heard it, that it exceeded any they have ever seen in this community; and in many others. The patrons of the school gave a nice dinner and were all well pleased with the progress of their children.

The Central Tennessee College opened on the 7th of September, there are already over one hundred students in attendance in the literary deparment. The medical and law departments open Oct 5th. The prospect is good for a large attendance. The new building for the model kitchen is nearly completed.

Rev. Braxton James one of the oldest members of the Tennessee Conference, died at his home in Murfresborro on the 6th inst., in triumph of faith.

The pastor of Clark Chapel, A. Phillips, in this city is engaged in a series of meetings with good prospects of success.

The schools of Nashville are opening with a good attendance, although the drowth and financial pressure will reduce the numbers in attendance as compared with last year.

The trade in school books has been very active here for the past few weeks, indicating a healthy growth of the educational interest in the entire South.

J. BRADEN.

General Church News.

During the sessions of the Chautauqua Assembly nearly ninety thousand people visited the grounds. The gate receipts were $30,000, and the receipts from other sources $60,000. The totals are larger than any of the eleven preceding assemblies. Twelve thousand dollars were expended for the programme this year.

The statistics presented at the General Assembly of the Calvinistic Methodist Church in Wales show 1211 churches and 128,376 communicants, and contributions for all purposes $869,000. The increase of church members last year was 10,655. These figures show the strength and prosperity of the Church, and indicate its future progress. In this country, chiefly in the Northern and Western States, we have one hundred and forty Calvinistic Methodist churches, and one hundred and fifty ministers united in a general assembly. In all of these churches the Welsh language is used in divine service.

The Moravians, who are one of the smallest religious pnemonations, maintain 323 missionaries in various parts of the earth, and 1165 native assistants, and now have about 1000 adherents in missionfields.

The African Methodist Episcopal Zion church within eighteen years has built about five hundred churches in the southern counties of Virginia, the northern counties of South Carolina and in the State of North Carolina.

Dr. Roberts, of the Vermont St. Methodist Episcopal church, Indianapolis, with Bishop Hood and General Chester, as reporter, was a member of the joint commission from "Bethel and Zion" church to arrange a basis of organic union. The Doctor is a fluent and graceful speaker and creates a fine impression by his personal bearing.

Baking Powder Tramps.

The danger to the public health from the indiscriminate use of the many lime and alum baking powders of commerce has been so fully exposed that every body desires to avoid them. As "forewarned is forearmed," housekeepers will thank us for apprising them of the special efforts at present being made to dispose of such powders in this vicinity.

The proprietors of some of the worst of these powders are now going from house to house, trying by means of a trick, or so called test, with heat and water, to show that their article is as good as the Royal Baking Powder, making the comparision with this brand because everybody recognizes it to be absolntely pure and wholesome, the object of course, being to snpply their own goods in place of the Royal, which housekeepers for so many years relied upon to puff up the morning biscuit, and to make the light, palatable, and wholesome roll, cake, and pastry for which it is famous.

The housekeeper will do well to be on her guard against these baking powder tramps. Every intelligent person knows that any goods peddled from house to house in this manner, or that are given away in samples, or sought to be introduced by secretly traducing the character of other goods well known to be pure and reliable, have no merits of their own, and have failed to find purchases through legitimate means.

We are informed, as a matter of fact, that one of these tramps is trying to introduce a powder that has been found by the Government chemist to be 11.85 per cent lime while the other peddles a powder that is 20 per cent alnm—one a powerful caustic, the other a corrosive poison.

No such tricks or jugglery will be apt to deceive any intelligent person. The housekeeper who has used her Royal Baking Powder ever since she discarded cream of tartar and soda, knows more about its qualities than all the tramps in the country can teach her. The crucial test to which she put the Royal Baking Powder—the test of actual and successful work in the preparation of pure and wholsome food, under which it has never failed—is entirely satisfactory to her. She has always had "good luck" with it in making light, sweet and delicious bread, biscuit, and cake, and has placed it, to stay, at the head of her housekeeping favorites. She knows that it has been officially approved by the Government chemists as the best, and we imagine that the baking powder tramp who attempts to supplant its place in her confidence will find this a bad year for his business.

The Lowell, Mass., Citizen says General Butler, whose yacht so long held the cup which the Genesta is now trying to carry home, has visited the English craft several times and has presented her with "an American ensign sixteen feet long." The Genesta would better look sharp when such a Greek comes with gifts. Bonny Ben is "as honest a man as ever scuttled a ship."

We accidently overheard the following dialogue on the street yesterday.

Jones. Smith, Why don't you stop that disgusting hawking and spitting?

Smith. How can I? You know I am a martyr to catarrh.

J. Do as I did. I had the disease in its worst form but I am well now.

S. What did you do for it?

J. I used Dr. Sages' Catarrh Remedy. It cured me and it will cure you.

S. I've heard of it, and by Jove I'll try it.

J. Do so. You'll find it at all the drug stores in town.

was he
Without whose life I had not been.

V.

I knew your brother; his mute dust
I honor; and his living worth.
A man more pure, and bold, and just,
Was never borne into the earth.

VI.

I have not looked upon you nigh
Since that dear soul hath fallen asleep.
Great nature is more wise than I—
I will not tell you not to weep.

VII.

His memory long will live alone
In all our hearts, as mournful light
That broods above the fallen sun,
And dwells in heaven half the night.

VIII.

For he, too, was a friend to me.
Both are my friends, and my true breast
Bleedeth for both; yet it may be
That only silence suiteth best.

IX.

Sleep sweetly, tender heart, in peace!
Sleep holy spirit, blessed soul,
While the stars burn, the moon in recess
And the great ages onward roll.

X.

Sleep till the end.
Nothing comes to thee new or strange!
Sleep full of rest from day to day.
Sleep blessed soul that blessed sleep,
Until thou shall hear the trumpet sweet.

Books and Current Literature

R. H. Edmonds concludes, in The Current of September 5, his informing articles on "Southern Progress," treating in the last paper on the development of the iron industry in the South within the the last ten years.

The present high standard of The Current will be maintained, and every effort will be made to improve from issue to issue.

Wide Awake for September will be sought for and treasured for its fine albertype portrait of General Grant, which is accompanied by some personal reminiscences of him when President, from the pen of Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont. The number opens with a Frontispiece drawing of a morning scene on Nantucket Beach, by Hassam. This is followed by "The Little Blackamoor and the Gold Princess" a good story "with a moral," from the German of Richard Leander with a charming illustration by Lungren who also has a fine drawing of Tennyson's "Enid," in his series, "Heroines of the Poets." Lieutenant Schwatka contributes an interesting story of Arctic adventure, "Little Ahmow's Fight with the Wolves," with a spirited drawing by Sandham. The Chautauqua Readings treat of History, Art, Science, Literature and Hygiene in an interesting fashion; in her "Souvenir" Mrs. Fremont gives some very readable reminiscences of early life in California and of Bret Harte. The new series of Chantauqua Readings begin in the October number. Only $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co. Boston.

Dora's Device, a new romance by George R. Cather, editor of "The Southern Aegis," Ashville Ala., bama, in press and shortly to be published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia is a remarkably fresh, original and ingenious American novel of intense interest and unusual power. The strong plot deals with a commercial crash, a strange murder, a mysterious secret with ghostly surroundings, true love that does not run smoothly, a mad infatuation inspired by a beautiful and reckless woman, and shrewd detective work in which a deaf and dumb lad figures prominently. Hosts of thrilling and dramatic incidents are presented, while the characters are drawn with graphic and natural touches. This book should be read by everybody and is sure of phenomenal popularity. It will be published in one large duodecimo volume, at the low price of seventy five cents a copy, and will be found for sale by all booksellers, by all news agents and on all railroad trains everywhere, • copies of it will be sent to any one, at once, post paid, on remitting seventy five cents in a letter to the publishers, T. B. Peterson & Brothers Philadelphia, Pa. We predict for it a very large sale. Local agents are wanted in every county. Large wages can be made selling it. Address the Publishers for special terms to Agents.

Appleton's National Railway and Steam Navigation Guide has been purchased from D. Appleton & Co. by the Knickbocker Guide Company, and consolidated with the Knickerbocker Ready Reference Guide. The consolidated publication, the first number of which is the issue for July, 1885, is called the Travelers' Ready Reference Guide. It will be slightly larger than Appleton's Guide, but will be sold for the same price (25 cents), and is the only national railway guide which is sold at that price. It contains many featnres which will commend it to the traveling public. The July number contains a Tourists' Guide in addition to the nsnal matter.

The department of "Anecdotes and Incidents," a popular feature of Appleton's Guide, will be retained.

The book will be issued by the Knickerbocker Guide Co., from the office of the National Railway Publication Co., at 46 Bond Street New York, the latter company being the well-known publishers of the Official Railway Guide, the standard work. From this fact it will be be seen that the publishers have unrivalled facilities for obtaining early and accurate information respecting all transportation matters.

"Gen. Grant's Funeral March," for the piano or organ, by Louis Meyer. This beautiful and impressive Dirge is illustrated with one of the finest portraits ever published of the dead hero. For military band, 50 cents; for piano, 40 cents. Philadelphia. Published by F. A. North & Co., 1308 Chestnut St.

We have received the September number of The Southern Cultivator. We find this valuable agricultural monthly continues to improve, and it is, certainly, doing a good work for the farming interests of the Sonth. The prize essay in this number on "Intensive Farming" is fine reading and contains many valuable suggestions. This we nnderstand, is to be followed by other prize essays on important subjects and farmers will do well to avail themselves of the instruction given in this valuable paper by sending $1 50 to The Cultivator Publishing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Southworth's Famous Books.—Messrs. T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa., have just made a large reduction in the retail price of all their popular duodecimo publications, including the well known and popular books by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, Mrs. Catharine A. Warfield, Miss Eliza A. Dupny, Alexander Dumas, and their several well-known and standard Cook Books by Miss Leslie, Mrs. Hale and others. These popular books will be found for sale by all booksellers, and they will now get a fresh impetus by the large reduction made in their retail price. The Messrs. Peterson will send their new Catalogue to any address if written for, with the new and reduced retail prices annexed, and all Booksellers are requested to write for special wholesale rates, as Peterson's books always meet with large sales wherever shown and properly introdnced, and they give large discounts and easy terms to the trade.

The American Antiquarian is journal devoted mainly to the Prehistoric Antiquities of this country. It is now in its seventh volnme. The July number is especially interesting. It contains first an illustrated article on the Ruins of Palenque and Copan, by L. P. Gratcap, with notes to the editor and qnotations from Charnay and Reville's writings. Next is an article on Pawnee Dances by Hon. Wm. Gordon Lillie ("Pawnee Bill.") Then follows a suggestive treatise on American Symbolism, by Rev. S. D. Peet, in which the author shows this continent abonnds with symbols which are as striking as any found in oriental lands, but which are to all appearances of native American growth.

The editorial is devoted to a description of certain rare archæological relics recently found in Russia and various parts of Asia.

The correspondence, notes and book reviews add to the interest of the number, as they bring a great variety of information from all parts of the globe.

A New Household Magozine—Good Housekeeping is the title of a new aspirant for public favor in the line of Semi-Monthly Journalism. It has, pre-eminently, a field of its own, no other journal of its kind being published, and a broad and fruitful field it is, indeed. Good Housekeeping has some solid material among its foundation stones. For instance, it says in its announcement that "Our homes are what we make them—good, bad or indifferent—and their precepts and practices are neccessarily more or less sharply defined, intensified and demonstrated in our own individual lives. They are the fortress from which the battles of life are really fought—the embrasures from which are fired 'the shot heard aronnd the world,' with more telling effect for weal or woe than any other worldy actions known to humanity. Good housekeeping makes good homes, speaking after the manner of men. Tolerably good housekeeping makes tolerably—and never more than tolerably—good homes. Poor housekeeping prodnces only poor homes. Grapes are never gathered from thorns, nor figs from thistles, along the highways and byways of mankind's domestic heritage. To produce and perpetnate perfection—or as near nnto perfection as may be attained in the household—is the purpose and mission of Good Housekeeping.

The Eighteenth Annual Session of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of F. and A. T. Masons (Colored) of the State of Kentucky.

The eighteenth annual session of Masons began on the 14th day of July, 1885, in the city of Paris, Ky., the capitol of the Bonrbon Nation.

True Economy.

Every one must practice true economy to succeed in life. But it is no economy to buy "shoddy" articles: bad Flour, bad Butter and bad Food of any kind are not economical to use at any price: a thousand times worse is a "shoddy" medicine that pretends to cure, but makes the patien worse.

☞ As the best food is the cheapest because it is nutritious and strengthning to the whole system, even in small quantities, so is a pure medicine, which cures every time, even in small doses; therefore always keep in mind these Ten Solid Facts.

☞ There is more real solid cure in one bottle of Hunt's [Kidney and Liver] Remedy, for the diseases it is prepared for than in a barrel of the so called cures; the dose is 20 to 30 drops.

It cures restores, regulates and invigorates the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary organs, creates a marvelous appetite and rebuilds the entire system, and it is "Never known to fail."

It will prevent as well as cure Malarial Fevers and Rheumatism and all diseases which come from impure blood. Keep the fountain and the springs that supply it pure, and the stream flowing therefrom will be healthful and lifegiving.

Special attention is given to all disease of Bright's disease described on second page of our Banner Book.

Hunt's [Kidney and Liver] Remedy purifies the Blood, thereby keeping the Kidneys, Liver, Stomach, Bladder and Urinary organs vigorous with life and action, causing them to free the system from the poisonous waste which brings disease and death.

It reaches the seat of the disease at once—removes the cause—stimulates and assists the functions of the Kidney, Liver and Urinary organs.

Save your health by using Hunt's (Kidney and Liver) Remedy, as millions will yet recompense the loss of the priceless boon. It will cure Female Weakness, and prevent monthly suffering.

I Shall Be Satisfied

REV. M. H. SWEETEN

Far over the mystic river
There is a land on high,
Where disapointment cometh never,
And true friendships never die;
Here the scenes of life are changing,
Our fondest hopest in ashes laid.
Not till the fields of Heaven we're ranging,
Our highest hopes are satisfied.

The mists that shrond mortality
Hide the glory of this great beyond;
Here we know not Jesus fully,
There the fullness of his presence find;
A little longer waits the Bridegroom,
Till our work on earth is done;
Then the longed for message comes,
"Child, thy Father calls, come home.

Pilgrims and strangers on earth we wander
Following the footsteps of Jesus our Lord;
Our rest is not here, but yonder,
In heaven is waiting our final reward;
There we shall awake in his likeness,
Then the soul shall be satisfied!
No trials, temptations, or darkness,
Ever enter the home of the glorfied.

Now we behold our Savior
Only by the eye of faith,
"Whom having not seen we love,"
And wait for the hour of death:
When our souls forever shall leave
The sorrowing scenes of earth,
Forever with him to live,
Who redeemed us by his death.

Domestic Hygiene.

Thumb Sucking Among Children.

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

It is an unfortnnate habit into which many children fall, and which many parents permit to be continued, viz., that of thumb sucking. There is everything against it as a habit to condemn it, with nothing in its favor. We will enumerate a few of the evil consequences to the child of sucking the thumb.

1. "Thumb Sucking is more detremental to the health of the child than that of all other fingers, for the reason that the thumb once in the mouth, more readily remains during sleep."

2. Thumb-sucking "interferes with the child's proper rest, which should be continued and undisturbed." While the thumb is in the mouth the child will continne to suck, though nnconscious of the act, and the unconscious act disturbs the rest.

3. Thumb sucking prevents the "natural respiration through the nose, thereby setting up abnormal condition." Children should be taught to always respire through the nose and not the mouth." Mouth-breathing is always injurious to health.

4. Thumb-sucking produces "malformation of the front part of the mouth." The direction of the malformation is dependent upon which thumb is sucked. If it is the right thumb the under jaw on the right side is pressed inwards, and the upper is pressed outward. If the left thumb is the one always in the mouth the deformity is on the left side. A child allowed to suck the thumb until 10 or 12 years of age will produce a deformity of the mouth never to be overcome. We saw the cast taken or the mouth of a man 35 years of age, who until 12 years of age was a thumb-sucker, and his cast showed this deformity in a startling manner. All observant dentists have discovered the ill results of thumb-sucking.

5. Thumb sucking impairs nn trition in the thumb itself. It does not always seem to produce the same effects. Generally the sucked thumb becomes unusually large, because of the greater amount of blood placed there by the sucking process. The capillary vessels become enlarged. The nerves lose their delicacy of touch, and at last the thumb becomes partially un[illegible]. In some cases the thumb partially perishes and loses its delicate sense of feeling.

6. Thumb sucking unnaturally stimulates the salivary glands to secrete large quantities of saliva, which is not expectorated, but is swallowed, and entering the stomach mingles with the gastric juice and dilutes it or is charged by the fluids of the stomach so as to become an inert body. In either case the process of digestion is greatly interfered with. Dispeptic conditions may result from thumb-sucking.

There is nothing good in thumb-sucking. It has not one redeeming quality in it. Parents ought to break their children of it at once.

Africa's Commercial Importance.

Every nation of Europe seems alive to the importance or acquiring the benefits that will surely result from obtaining a commercial foothold in Africa; the immense resources of which have only of late years been made known to the civilized world. Prompt and energetic measures have already been taken by them in appropriating millions of money for exploring and scientific expeditions, for gold mining operations, and in establishing trading companies and lines of direct steam communication. Great Britan has at least twenty-eight steamers running from Liverpool along the West Coast of Africa. France, Holland and Portugal each have steamships engaged in traffic in the same region.

England also has colonies; and France, Germany and Portugal claim extensive possessions on the seaboard and in the interior of Africa. Italy has taken possession of an island off the coast of the "Dark Continent," and placed colonists and artizans there that she may reap some of the advantages arising from the new birth of an empire.

The population of Africa is estimated at 200,000,000 and it is found that in the interior there are rich agricultural and mineral reources, large cities and people of finer physique and intellectual breadth than on the seaboard. When the immense population shall have established intercourse with the outside world, and their country enabled by the best means to bring forth the wealth of its fertile soil and rich mines, what a grand opening will be presented for the exchange of the manufactures of the former for the produce of the latter? This is the harvest which European nations are sowing to reap. America unfortunately, has scarcely made a single move in that direction, yet she has a stepping stone in Liberia, which by enlarged fostering care, might become as advantageons to us as England has made her colonies in Asia and Africa.

In view of the considerations presented, the important question arises, do not American manufacturing and commercial interests, and American dignity require that steps should be at once taken for the establishment of steam navigation to West Africa, for the exploration of its interior within and beyond the borders of Liberia, and for the promotion of select emigration to the young African Republic.—African Repository.

The Genuine Ring.

Indiana District Conference of the M. E. Church, Lexington Annual Conference, at its last session passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, the great Methodist Episcopal Church has elected to fill the editorial chair of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, one of the former members of this District Conference, Rev. M. W. Taylor, D. D, we feel highly gratified to know that he has proven worthy of the confidence placed in his ability to direct the affairs of one of the leading church papers in this country, and a paper at the present wielding a mightier influence for the welfare of our people than any periodical published at the same rates. Furthermore we fully appreciate the self-sacrificing spirit and the willing manner in which Dr. Taylor has labored, and the disadvantages he has been compelled to undergo, therefore be it

Resolved by this District Conference, 1st, That each pastor will do all he can to secure at least ten cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and as many more as possible, and that we pay the claims this paper has on our people. 2d. Resolved, That we urge upon the local preachers of this (Indiana District) the necessity of reading the SOUTHWESTERN ADVOCATE, and that we do as a conference refuse to grant any of the local ministers a renewal of their license unless they pledge themselves to take the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Resolved, That we commend the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, as a periodical worthy a place in any of the homes in the land, and that we are justly proud of the editor as a representative of our race (Negro) and co laborer in Lexington Annual Conference, and we pledge him our hearty support in his effort to bring the race up to a higher plane of education, morality, Christianity, etc., and that we will bring the claims of the paper properly before our people. A. A. Price, I. Mennely, A. McUoomer. I heartily concur with the above sentiments: Presiding Elder C. Jones.

Germany has sent a note to Spain notifying that government of its intention to annex the Carolines. In this note Germany made a specific reservation in favor of the claim of a third party, provided Spain was able to show by acts of protection or possession that the right of sovereignty was vested in herself when Germany would withdraw all its claims.

Nervousness.

The moment there is danger of impairment of the mind from exessive nervous exhaustion, or where there exists forebodings of evil, a desire for solitude, shunning and avoiding company, vertigo and nervous debility, or when insanity has already taken place, PERUNA and MANALIN should be implicitly relied on. But it is never well to wait so long before treatment is commenced. The early symptoms are loss of strength, softness of the muscles, dim or weak sight, peculiar expression of the face and eyes, coated tongue, with impaired digestion; or in others, certain powers only are lost while they are otherwise enjoying comparatively good health. In all these PERUNA and MANALIN should at once be taken.

Mrs. S. Smith, Hillsville, Lawrence County, Pa., writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O.: I have been a great sufferer for ten years. It seemed as though every organ in my body was diseased at one time or another. I had about given up all hopes, when I commenced taking PERUNA and MANALIN. I immediately began to improve, the soreness and pain disappeared, strength gradually returned, and now I am as well as ever in my life, and I owe it all to your PERUNA and MANALIN. I recommended it to my friends and it gives better satisfaction than any other medicine I ever heard of."

Miss Maria Roderick, Warren, Ohio, writes: "It is with pleasure and many thanks that I write to you to tell you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of the PERUNA. I have used several bottles of your PERUNA, and can safely say it has done me a great deal of good. I have improved ever since I commenced its use."

Mr. T. J. Webber, Plymouth, O., writes: "I am selling your PERUNA, and having a good trade on it. It gives excellent satisfaction."

Mr. Thomas Acton, Brooklyn Village, Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I received a severe wound in my foot by tramping on a spike. It inflamed and was painful and swollen. I had every reason to fear lockjaw. Your simple suggestions as to local applications and the taking of your PERUNA and MANALIN were followed to the letter, and, thanks to you, my foot is entirely well, and I am happy."

PE-RU NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. Statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World."

The Committee in charge of the construction of the base and pedestal for the reception of this great work, in order to raise funds for its completion, have prepared a miniature Statue six inches in height—the statue bronzed; pedestal nickel-silvered—which they are now delivering to subscribers throughout the United States at One Dollar Each.

This attractive souvenir and Mantel or Desk ornament is a perfect fac simile of the model furnished by the artist.

The statuette in same metal, twelve inches high, at Five Dollars Each, delivered.

The designs of Statue and Pedestal are protected by U. S. Patents, and the model can only be furnished by this Committee Address, with remittance.

A Daily Defalcation.

Hon. Jno. Kelly, the head and front of Tammany Hall, a man of strict integrity, an indefatigable worker, early at his office, late to leave, so burdened with business that regular meals were seldom known by him, with mind in constant tension and energies steadily trained, finally broke down!

The wonder is that he did not sooner give way. An honest man in all things else, he acted unfairly with his physical resources. He was ever drawing upon his bank without ever depositing a collateral. The account overdrawn, the bank suspends and both are now in the hands of mepical receivers.

It is not work that kills men. It irregularity of habits and mental worry. No man in good health frets at his work Bye and bye when the bank of vigor suspends, these men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until their dying day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental effort, by constant worry and fret, by plunging in deeper than they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well known fact that the poison which the kidneys and liver should remove from the blood, if left therein, soon knocks the life out of the strongest and most vigorous man or women. Daily building up of these vital organs by so wonderful and highly rebuted a specific as Warner's safe cure, is the only guarantee that our business men can have that their strength will be equal to the labors daily put upon them.

Mr. Kelly has nervous dyspepsia, we learn, indicating, as we have said, a break down of nerve force. His case should be a warning to other who, pursuing a like like course, will certainly reach a result.

At Rock Springs, 250 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, on Wednesday week, the white coal miners employed by the Union Pacific Company, 150 strong, marched into "Chinatown," set the Chinese quarters on fire, and drove the Chinamen to the hills at the point of the revolver. The latest reports say that 100 houses, fifty belonging to the railroad company and fifty to the Chinese, were burned, and that the bodies of fifteen dead Chinamen have been found The cause of the riot was the recent employment of a number of Chinese in place of white miners.

Walking down Broadway is very pleasant when you feel well, and T—K—never felt better than when his friend asked him how he got over that severe cough of his so speedily. "Ah my good boy," said T—"G. M. D. did it!" And his friend wondered what G. M. D. meant. He knew that it did not cure a Good Many Doctors, for T—K—had tried a dozen in vain. "I have it," said he, just hitting the nail on the head, "you mean Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery,' or Gold Medal Deserved every friend J—S—always dubs it Gold by druggists.

Lost Friends.

We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my relatives. My mother left all her relatives in Kentucky. Her father and mother were Bennet and Delilah Johnson; brothers were Rolling, Westley and Bob, and brother Elisha Bullett and Smith Bullett by father; aunts were Betty and Sally; she left them all in Cloverport, Ky. They belonged to Zeke Fisher, brother of Clayton Fisher. My mother was at that time, Sally Johnson; she left her brother in Elizabethtown, Harding county, Ky; before peace was declared his name was Henry Clay Brown; she belonged to Thos. Brown, brother of Elisha Brown, and her name was Sally Brown, but is now Sarah Forrest. My father Hardy Forrest, now deceased, left his relatives on Stanley's Creek, Gaston County, North Carolina. His parents were Samuel and Lucy Forrest; brothers Moses, Orange, Jerry and Wart Forrest and a sister named Margaret Forrest. My guardians, Geo. and Sally Hunter, left the city about fifteen years ago, and said they were going to Norfolk, Va., but I never heard from them. I am anxious to hear from all my relatives. Ministers in Kentucky, North Carolina and Virgini will please read this from their pulpits. Address, Chesnut, near Valence street, New Orleans, La, Bennett Forrest.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my sister, whom I left in Fayette Co. Alabama. Her name was then Mary Jackson; her mother's name was Lucinda. My mother and three brothers of us were sold to ship and brought to this country. Also, our step father, name Jack Smith. The oldest brothers' name was Western, next Clark and Abram. There were two others of us, a sister and brother, names Nathaniel and Cathorine. They were only half brother and sister by mother's side. Address Abram White, Winchester, Tenn.

A British man-of war has left Aden to occupy Ambo, situated on Tajousah Bay, East Africa. The object is to anticipate the occupation of the place by France.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Canada has issued a proclamation appointing a Provincial Board of Health, with power throughout the Province to compel vaccination and enforce sanitary laws.

The Allan line steamship Hanoverian ran on a reef near Cape Race. She will be a total loss, as her hull is battered in and she is full of water. All on board are reported to have been saved.

U. S. Consul Mason has sent to the State Department a detailed report on the cholera at Marseilles. The reappearance and ravages of the pest and the virulence of its type are fully explained by his statements in regard to the horribly filthy condition of that city and the total neglect of sanitary precautions by its authorities.

When a lecturer has worked the ladies of his audience so near the weeping point that they have gotten out their handkerchiefs, and then suddenly changes his tone and speaks of the merits of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup he is bound to rouse a feeling of indignation.

Lesson 1.—What was the new king Rehoboam advised to do? Speak kindly to the people and make their yoke lighter Because he would not do this what happened? Ten of the tribes went by themselves and were called the kingdom of Israel or of the Ten Tribes. What were the rest called? The kingdom of Judah.

Lesson II.—Who was made king of Israel? Jeroboam. What did he do? Made two golden calves for the people to worship. Where were they placed? One at Dan on the north, the other at Bethel on the south.

Lesson III.—What kind of a king was Omri? He did evil in the sight of the Lord, and was worse than all before him. Who was king after him? Ahab, who was worst of all. What kind of a wife did Ahab have? A very wicked, idolatrous woman, named Jezebel.

Lesson IV.—Whom did the Lord send with a message to Ahab? Elijah, a prophet. Where did he send Elijah as soon as he had given the message? To the brook Cherith to be fed by the ravens. Where, when the brook dried up? To Zarephath, where a poor woman fed him from her handful of meal and little bottle of oil.

Lesson V.—What did God next tell Elijah to do? "Go and tell Ahab I will send rain upon the earth." What was Ahab and Obadiah doing when Elijah went to find the king? Looking for water for the beasts. What did Ahab ask Elijah when he saw him? "Art thou he that troubleth Israel?"

Lesson VI.—What did Elijah tell Ahab to do? Gather all the people and the prophets of Baal to Mount Carmel. What happened? The prophets of Baal, built an altar and prayed to their God to send fire. Did he answer? No.

Lesson VII.—What did Elijah do? Repaired an altar and prayed to his God to send fire. Did he answer? The fire came down and burned sacrifice, altar, and stones. What did the people say? "The Lord he is God." What did Elijah then do? Prayed seven times for rain.

Lesson VIII.—Where did Elijah go from Mount Carmel? Into the Wilderness, and sat down under a little tree. Where did he go next? To Mount Horeb, and hid in a cave. What passed before him as he stood on the top of the mountain? A whirlwind, an earthquake, a fire and a still small voice.

Lesson IX.—What did wicked king Ahab covet? Naboth's vineyard. How did he get it? Jezebel had Naboth killed. What message did God send to Ahab by Elijah? In the place where the dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood."

Lesson X.—Where did Elijah and Elisha go together? To Bethel, Jericho, and the river of Jordan. As soon as they passed over Jordan what happened? A chariot of horses and fire parted them, and Elijah was taken in a whirlwind to heaven.

Lesson XI.—Who took care of [illegible] when he passed through [illegible]? A rich Shunammite woman, What happened to her little boy? He was sunstruck and died. What did Elisha do? Brought him to life.

Lesson XII.—What was the matter with the great, rich, mighty man, Naaman? He had the leprosy. To whom did he go for healing? Elisha. What did Elisha tell him to do? Wash in Jordon seven times.

II. Responsive Sentences.

Supt. Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments for this is the whole duty of man. Eccl 12. 13.

School. Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. Phil. 4. 8.

III. Dismission.

THE APOSTLES CREED.

I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth; and in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord; who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary, suffered unto Pontius Pilate; was crucified, dead and burried; the third day he rose from the dead; he ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty, from thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy catholic Church; the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins; the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting. Amen.

Keep Looking Young.

This is the age of young men. Other things being equal they are everywhere preferred. Save your young looks. It means position and money. Is your hair falling off—dry or lustreless? Preserve and beautify it by using Parker's Hair Balsam. Not an oil, not a dye, sure to work, clean, harmless. Restores color.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; It produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Obituary.

In Brownsville, Tenn., Aug. 1, 1885, little William H. Hurst Price, son of Rev. Jesse P. Price and Sister E. M. Price, departed this life. He was born Dec. 18, 1884. The burial services were conducted by the writer and Rev. H. W. Key. Little William attempted to sing until death. Not until the third day after his death could the news be conveyed to the elder, but he was in time to see him. May God bless the family.

J. L. MASSEY.

Mason, Tenn.

The sacred altar of our church has been invaded by inexorable death, taking five of its brightest gems.

Bro. James Meeks, a good and faithful member of our church here for several years, suddenly departed this life at his home, April 28, 1885. He was a peaceful husband, a careful father, and a meek and lowly Christian. He was a member of the "Methodist Preachers' Mutual Aid and Beneficiary Society." He left a wife and four little ones to mourn his loss. We all sympathize with them in their loss, but his gain.

Bro. George Hersay, after a lingering affliction of four months, passed from life into death in full triumph of faith, May 12, 1885. He was a young, but zealous worker for the cause of Christ. His consistent Christian life, his unobtrusive patience, cheerful daily walk won many friends, and brought honor to Christ He loved his Bible.

Sister Hannah Jones, born Sept. 18, 1862, died at the age of 22 years, May 25, 1885. She died of pneumonia. The word of God was a constant inspiration to her; grace wonderfully sustained her. In the conflict with disease her trusting soul was stayed on God. Her life was that of many candles sitting upon a bill uncovered. The icy hands of death did not daunt her. Not only the church mourns her loss, but the entire community. She leaves a husband to mourn her loss. Her remains were deposited in the cemetery to await the resurrection of the just. There she will rest in hope until the day break and shadows flee away. 'Blessed be those who die in the Lord."

Sister Sallie Allen, being attacked by pneumonia, had to leave school, and after much suffering died June 13, 1885. She died in the full triumph of a living faith. She now rests from her sufferings.

Bro. A. F. McDonald, for many years the assistant postmaster here, and the leader of many societies, after an illness of fifteen months, died June 27, 1885 He was devoted to the church, generous in its support, faithful in the performance of official duty; having breadth of view, quickness of perception, and administrative ability of high order, his place will not easily be filled, He died at West Point, Miss. His remains were brought to this place, and he was buried with all the honors of the Masonic order. He leaves a wife, two children, and his dear father and affectionate mother to mourn his death. "It is some consolation to walk through the dark shadow of death and fear no evil." Yours,

J. J. HARRIS.

Corinth, Miss.

Sister Adaline Connor, a member of the M. E. Church, departed this life August 1, in the Christian faith.

"It Will Cure Asthma."

"I had suffered with asthma for over forty years, and had a terrible attack in December and January, 1882 One day I took four doses of Parker's Tonic. The effect astonished me. I slept perfectly that night, and am now wholly well Parker's Tonic will cure chronic asthma.' E. C. Williams, Chapman, Pa.

Verdi now shuns hearing music sung or played, whether his own or another's. He never touches the piano, but frequently hums to himself simple old Italian songs.

We receive and keep on file over 13,000 Newspapers published in every State and Province in America. Over 1000 Daily papers alone arrive every morning. Each paper is examined by careful clerks and the insertions entered in record books. Under our system an advertiser is sure to receive the full value for his money.

We publish the "American Newspaper Catalogue," a volume of 900 pages elegantly bound in cloth, and containing a complete list of the publications of every character in the United States and Canada. On one line we give place of publication, name of paper, class or denomination, age and circulation. In it are catalogued 14,000 periodicals. Sent free on receipt of $1.50.

We can secure the prompt insertion of any advertisement in any publication at the lowest attainable prices. We keep constantly invested over $200,000 "in space" in the best lines of newspapers. Our special lists of Papers will be found especially useful in making up lists for pushing any special lines.

We have, for the convenience of advertisers, made up our Religious List containing the names of all the leading denominational papers with prices. Our Agricultural List containing the names of all the prominent agricultural papers with prices. Our Local List of 1,300 County and City Weeklies and Dailies, arranged by States with publishers' prices and the prices at which we can insert advertisements. These Lists are mailed free on application.

We will furnish to any reputable advertiser who will apply, an estimate showing exact cost of any proposed line of advertising, and when desired, will make up lists and write advertisements, provided the amount desired to be expended is named. We have had a wide experience, and can suggest lines of papers best adapted to the wants of an advertiser.

We keep constantly supplied with the newest styles of type best adapted to the display of advertisements. Send us your copy and we will return with estimate a proof from type without extra charge.

Our organization for correctly following an advertisement in the newspapers is perfect, and our patrons can be assured that correct work from every publisher will be exacted.

To any advertiser entitled to credit, or any one who can furnish us proper references, we will extend any reasonable line of credit. Publishers pay us a commission for all the business we send them, and any advertiser can be assured of obtaining through us lower prices than can be obtained from publishers direct. In no instance do we charge advertisers any addition to publishers' rates.

"THE LILY OF PURITY"

This beautiful Lily is one of the rarest novelties known to Florists, and it is by rare good fortune that we are able to offer it as a PREMIUM to our Subscribers and Readers for a limited time. The lovely Lily is PURE WHITE and has delicate fragrance—one Lily filling the house or yard with its delicious perfume. It has another valuable peculiarity—that of blooming two to four times without rest. By planting it in a mixture of equal parts sand and loam, in 3-inch pots, a plant will usually be produced twenty inches high, bearing from twenty to forty flowers at one time. One on exhibition in New York bore 150 Lilies. $5.00 IN GOLD premium to the subscriber who produces the largest number of Lilies on a single stalk from the premium bulb. A single bulb is sold by Florists at $1.00. We have imported a large number direct from Bermuda, and are able to offer ONE BULB FREE BY MAIL to anyone who subscribes for six months at fifty cents, or two bulbs to anyone who subscribes at $1.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1886; the postage (five cents on one bulb and eight on two bulbs) to be remitted with subscription price. This offer is limited to October 15 1885. Bulbs will be ready for delivery about Sept. 15, for Fall planting. Specimen copies of HOUSEKEEPER and new Premium List for 1885-6 to any address.

There, also, where the form itself lost,
Nor served as fig leaf covering for their sin:
Their naked shame, their only joy and boast,
All vile without, and viler still within;
Whose nights were spent in revelry and din,
Their days in wretched drudgery and gloom;

Is the Public School Teacher Under Obligations to Attend Sunday-School?

MISS AMELIA C. TAYLOR.

Is the public school teacher under obligations to attend Sunday-school?

I do not see that the school teacher is under any more of a public duty to attend Sunday-school than any one else. Does a merchant, a shoe-maker or a physician, who fails to attend a Sunday-school perform his whole duty? When a man in any position has faithfully performed the service for which he has been employed and paid, he has performed all the duty that is especially attached to that engagement.

It is a mistake to assume that because a man is a teacher or a preacher, he is required to be better than anyone else. The popular notion runs too much to this effect, and hence we find people taking license for ease and self indulgence in the fact that they are not preachers or teachers, and this very idea is made a cloak and an excuse for a large proportion of the minor sins of commission and omission. Before God, who is no respector of persons, every man stands upon an exact equality, and each is required to live in all respects up to the highest standard his abilities and opportunities will admit.

Hence, while I claim that it is no more the public duty of the school teacher than of any other person to attend Sunday-school, yet, it certainly is true that the teacher in common with all other persons is under obligations to attend Sunday school, and to embrace all other opportunities which promise intellectual or moral advancement, and since the Sunday-school affords unusual opportunities in this direction, the obligation to improve them is a very strong one.

I venture a few thoughts upon the subject thus presented, but do not feel that I could undertake to give it full and sufficient discussion.

First comes the obligation to "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." This certainly implies not only ceasing from the ordinary labors of other days but the taking up of some service peculiarly appropriate to this day.

How still the morning of the hallow'd day!
Mute is the voice of rural labor, hush'd
The plowboy's whistle and the milk-maid's song.
The scythe lies glittering in the dewy wreath
Of tedded grass, mingled with fading flowers,
That yester morn bloom'd waving in the breeze:
The faintest sounds attract the ear hum
Of early bee, the trickling of the dew,
The distant bleating midway up the hill

Next I would mention the obligation to set a good example before the young; for example is the living law whose sway neu more than all the written laws obey. The teacher should always remember that he is expected to set the proper example for his pupils, and he is also responsible to a certain extent for the conduct of the youths under his guidance. Let the teacher by his example lead his pupils into the habit of Sunday-school attendance, and who can estimate the grand results that may follow in their lives and in succeeding generations. He has brought them into contact with the breath of religion, which will mold their lives and which they will transmit to others, and he has thus in each of these lives set in motion an ever widening circle of influence which will break only upon the shores of eternity.

On the smoth expanse of crystal lakes,
The sinking stone at first a circle make;
The trembling surface, by the motion stirr'd,
Spreads in a second circle, then a third;
Wide, and more wide, the floating rings advance,
Fill all the watery plain, and to the margin dance.

Patriotism lends an additional inducement for the proper observance of the Sabbath day. No nation has ever prospered that has discarded the Sabbath and all the obligations of citizenship, urge to its preservation and observance. Sunday is the saving element in individual and national life.

Sundays the pillars are
On which heaven's palace arched lies:
To other days fill up the space
And hollow room with vanities,
They are the fruitful beds and borders
In God's rich garden; that is base
Which parts their ranks and orders.

The Sundays of man's life,
Threaded together on Time's string,
Make bracelets to adorn the wife
Of the eternal, glorious King.
On Sunday heaven's gate stands ope;
Blessings are plentiful and rife,
More plentiful than hope.

The teacher is the important assistant of the parent in the training and disciplining of their children. He is obligated as is every other person, to do the work he undertakes in the best possible manner. The Sunday-school furnishes the great opportunity for the moral education of children, and only through this channel can the teacher hope to reach the highest ideals in his work.

To a person of intellectual habits, such as a teacher, there is no richer field of study than that afforded by the Bible. It is replete with instructions or suggestions on every subject of human interest. It runs over the whole gamut of human joys and sorrows and teaches upon every problem connected with man's history and destiny. The loftiest achievements of the human mind in literature, science, art and religion have their inspiration in this blessed book of books. The teacher who fails to be a careful and prayerful student of God has missed the chief source from which to draw wisdom and strength for his labor.

Within that awful volume lies
The mystery of mysteries!
Happiest they of human race
To whom God has granted grace
To read, to fear, to hope, to pray.
To lift the latch, and force the way;
And better had they never been born
Who read to doubt, or read to scorn.

The teacher who regularly attends the Sunday-school and studies the lessons deserves all the benefits which arise from the formation of a good habit. Good habits when formed have much the same power as bad habits. Therefore regular attendance upon the Sunday-school becomes a strong disciplinary influence of itself, besides all the Gospel restraints under which one is brought thereby.

Again regular attendance at Sunday-school frees one from all the temptations incident to Sabbath breaking, not only keeping him from sin but securing him that repose of mind and body which brings him strength and cheerfulness for his week day labor. The associations, acquaintance, and friendships of the Sunday school are worth more than wealth to the teacher. They serve to strengthen his hands and direct his steps. They bring him a sense of sympathy and assistance in his arduous labors. They rob him of loneliness and drive away melancholy and discouragement. It stimulates him greatly for him to find himself Sunday after Sunday standing in line and keeping steps with a multitude of others moved by the same noble impulse and aspirations which stir his own soul.

This constant study of the Bible, this regular association with warm Christian friends, gives a teacher an insight into human nature, a better understanding of himself, his wickedness and shortcomings, enable him better to understand the acts and needs of his pupils, brings him into closer sympathy with them and lends him the grace of faith, hope, and love to carry into his work. Here finally he gets a true conception of the importance of his calling. He finds himself working not for time but for eternity. He is not teaching reading, writing or science. He is moulding character and shaping destiny. The parent, the teacher and the Sunday school teacher are laborers together with God. In conclusion my advice to the teacher, whether for the public or the Sunday-school, I shall quote from America's celebrated poet, Henry W. Longfellow to the Cincinnati public schools:

"Live up to the best that is in you. Live noble lives as you always may in whatever you may find yourselves to be, so that your epitapth may be that of Euripides. This monument does not make thee famous O Euripides, but thou makest this mounment famous."

A Sermon Preached Before The Delaware Annual Conference, at Salisbury Md., May, 31, 1885, by Bishop R. Foster D. D. L. L D.

V. CHARLES DICKERSON, REPORTER.

Text: Psalms 8th chapter; 3d and 4th verses. "When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers; the moon and the stars, which Thou hast ordained;" 4th verse. "What is man, that Thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that Thou visitest him?" Bishop Foster said. "The Christian religion has been considered on two grounds, science and truth. On the ground of science it has been accused of abusing men; but truth especially is that the Scripture teaches, and leads us to consider the importance of things; so David looked upon himself, when compared with many other things as being less than a grain of sand. And what am I when compared with all these systems. David lived in Syria, and he looked upon the same stars that we look upon, and he said. "When I consider the heavens the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained, what is man that Thou art mindful of him, or the son of man that Thou visitest him? I am less than the dust of the earth, but I shall try to set forth the truths of God, as he is concerned; he is not concerned about the heavens, moon and stars, neither is he concerned about the angels, but man. Before I proceed further, I want to say, I shall preach to this congregation just as I were preaching to a Senate. The probabilities are that David knew a very little about the moon and stars in his day, and we have held to the old convictions that no one could count the, stars and so it will look to every one that has not looked through a telescope. Now to the naked eye there is visible but 27,000 stars, and they look like little jets of light fixed on a canvas, and the moon looks like a large chandelier, or globe, hung out in the heavens, and were thought by the wisest to be such as I have described; but by the aid of the telescope you see not only 27,000 stars, but 27,000 worlds, each having 5,000,000 stars and a million of suns with their dazzling splendor bursting forth to our vision. So this is what the Psalmist is teaching you in this text. Then when David considered the heavens, may be understood to say "When I consider Thy heavens, the moon and 27,000 worlds and 5,000,000,000 stars, and 1,000,000 suns in the heavens, then what is man that Thou art mindful of him." I am trying to find out what man is, and may God help me to shed some light on this subject. This is not assumption, but facts, and we Christians, and you ministers, will have to grapple with these questions, and you must study it, and be prepared to preach it in this way, and teach the people what man is, and what God has done for him. Man is his chiefest object, all things were made for his glory. You cannot tell what everything is you see and hear. You stand up on the earth, what is it? you hear sound, what is it? you cannot tell; you see the something and call it man. You cannot see the man; he is like his Creator, invisible as God is. You see the body and call it the man; that is not the man, it is only the house the man lives in. You see him move his lips and hands and feet. These are only signs that the man is in the house. Notice the visible operations of God. Oh, how long you have to be with him and watch him before you can tell what he is doing. You have a cabinet maker in your town, you put your son there to learn the trade, he sees him take two pieces of boards, compare them, plain them off, saw them in shapes. When done you say there, now I know what he is doing. He is making a casket. You go to a foundry; you see one man make a screw, and another make a plate of iron of curves, lengths, etc., and when brought together you say, now I know what he was doing, he was making an engine. Just in this way God made the world; it had to be a long time cooling down from its volcanic ragings and intense heat, and become a solid crust, and then began to crack and crumble; but stay with him and watch him and his works, and after it crumbles you will see a little sprinkling of green. You say, what is this for; but some day you walk out and see birds and thousands of other creatures in the earth and they are all feeding on that shrubbery, and they are resuming new forms and bursting into life, and lo, a man in the midst of them. You say, there, I know now what God was doing; He was making a house for his child, and this is the furniture, and all of this would be needless without the man. Now I see for the first time that God meant it all for a foundation for the home of man when he started. Look at man; is there not something in him beautiful? But when you examine him you say he has flesh and bone, blood and matter, just like any other animal. He has an appetite, passions, and a body. And walking out you see your neighbor. You say, how do you do, neighbor Smith, but you don't see neighbor Smith; it is only the house neighbor Smith lives in; you only spoke to neighbor Smith's animal; you see his hand, that is only neighbor Smith's flag. Man is a two fold being. Talk about man's soul, man has no soul, man is the soul, and the soul has a house and this is the fundamental doctrine of the Bible. This is what Paul meant when he said absent from the body, present with the Lord, and if this earthly house of our tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. The man takes care of the body just as you take care of your clothes. You have a bonnet or a nice hat, you hoist your umbrella over it to keep it from getting wet, so the man takes care of the body. I must carry you home out of the cold or you will freeze. When it gets sick, the man saith I must send for the doctor for you. (There the Bishop held out his hand and asked the congregation what moved it) My hand moves, what is it that moves it? why, the inner man wills, and it moves. Perhaps there is an artist in your town, he is a thinker, he thinks a beautiful picture, in order to do this the man saith I must have a piece of blue canvas a certain length and width, and another white, he has a box, crystals, lines and circles, light and darkness, smoke and flame, and he places the object in a certain position, and looks at him saying now be still. The man takes the brush, draws his lines, and paints a beautiful picture. It is the artistical man in the house that draws the lines and paints the picture, this is the way the artist proposes to build the man. Suppose God, away in the annals of eternity, said, I will make for myself man, but, before I do this, I will make for the would be man a universe, just as the cabinet maker and artist prepared before hand for their work. You go over there to yonder mansion, and there is a child just from the hand of its maker, it is nothing but a lump of flesh laying on the bosom of its parent, it seems to be senseless, taking no notice of anything; you go there three weeks later, and it will look at you, it is the man just come home, it is a spirit peeps out at you and it begins to reason, for it is only the prerogative of a spirit, to reason. This little body grows on milk, you feed it on herbs, the soul feeds on questions and answers, the body becomes grown, the soul feeds on ideas, a little older, and it becomes like its father circumnavigating the globe, and riding among the stars of heaven, and after death he flies on in the heavens, towering above the archangels, shining in splendor, changed from glory to glory. What I am trying to do is to find out what man is. It takes God forever to make a man, first a child, when he is grown and at his calling, a David, Paul, Newton or Herchell, broad as an archangel, then God can answer the question, "What is man," and God could well afford to spend for him half of eternity in preparing him a home, changing him all the time from glory to glory. Have this before you always, what you are and what you must be. God wants that which is peculiar about us, that thinks and lives. You know that you have lived 60 years, it passed in your experience and is gone, it was all in that little word now, it passed while I am pronouncing it. Now, now, now, eternity is made up of one eternal now and in that man now, that bird that breaks my heart with its song now, I hear every note warbled flies into eternity, and the next is now. Why live down here in the stable, when our Father has such mansions for us? Why take thought for what you shall eat, or or what ye shall drink, when God has done so much for his children here, and lastly provided for the an eternal home.

From the Districts.

Columbus District Conference.

REV. E. HENDERSON.

The fourth session of the Columbus district, West Texas conference, was convened at Lagrange, in St. James Chapel, July 2, 1885, Rev. P. M. Carmichael, presiding elder, in the chair.

The opening exercises were conducted by Elder Carmichael, reading the fourth chapter of Ephesians and singing hymn 770; prayer by the presiding elder.

On calling the roll very nearly all the brethren answered to their names.

On motion the writer was elected secretary.

On motion the following committees were appointed by the chair:

A committee to examine candidates for license to preach.

On home mission work.

On temperance.

On Sunday School.

For orders for admission.

The conference was well attended, all the pastors were present.

The morning session adjourned at 12 m., and the evening was given to the meeting of committees.

The second day was given to the hearing of reports. First, from the presiding elder; second, from the pastors.

The reports of the presiding elders and pastors show that the district is advancing. Two hundred conversions have been made in the district since January, fifty above that of last year. There has been an increase in the Sunday School.

The elder's report shows that he has held thirteen conferences and preached seventy eight sermons; also shows that the people have paid their preachers better than last year.

Our fine church at Luling is progressing but slowly, but we hope to be ready for Bishop Foster to dedicate it for us on the first round.

The Columbus district is moving up in every department. We expect to come up to conference with our $325 for missions from this district. What do you say to this, brethren, shall we have it or not? I think I hear you saying yes. If we get it we will have to move up on the money line, for you know the year is half gone, and we will have no time to play.

The elder preached on the Sabbath at 4 o'clock p. m. on the subject of the "Soul of Man," and all that heard it were carried away in the spirit. I need not tell you the effect it made on those that heard it. He never fails to carry the people with him. Glory to God was heard going up all over the church; 139 came forward and communed at the Lord's table. We had a pleasant session, which will be long remembered by this people. The people say times are a little hard, but come again, for you have done us good. Lagrange had never had a better meeting, and the Columbus district never had a better presiding elder. Heaven bless this young man.

In addition, allow me to say that Lagrange is moving up in the way of improvements. We have a fine organ in the Lagrange church.

Jackson District—The Second Round.

J. M. SHUMPERT.

Having finished my second round upon the Jackson district, it is with exceedingly great pleasure that I pen these lines in reporting the progress of the cause of Christ and Methodism in this part of the Master's vineyard.

Commencing with the quarterly meeting at Steen's Creek, May 9 and 10, the pastor, Rev. J. Thomas, was quite ill at the time, and was not able to attend the conference, but the meeting had been duly announced, and quite a large number were in attendance. This being the first appointment for the new pastor I am glad to say that he has made a good beginning. Bro. C. Stewart, at Madison, is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Mayersville, eighty five miles above Vicksburg, on the Mississippi river, Bishop Mallalieu appointed the Rev. Jackson Little, at our last annual conferences, where we had no church, and but ten or twelve members. Bro. Little has rented a house to preach in, and has organized a Sabbath School with 30,040 scholars, and has added several to the church, and a number have been converted to God and have been made to feel happy on account of knowing their sins had been forgiven. Bro. Little has also organized a church at Refuge Landing, with about fifteen members and a Sunday School. The outlook now for Mayersville circuit is most excellent. It is quite evident so far that the Bishop made no mistake in appointing Rev. Henry Henderson to the Rolling Fork Circuit on Deer Creek. It is said to be the finest cotton country in the world. Captain Willis has in cultivation 2000 acres in cotton, and will make an average of more than a bale to the acre. Some of the finest farms the writer has ever seen is there. Thousands of colored people are in that part of the country. Bro. Henderson seems to know just how to please them, and the hundreds that come to hear him preach and sing show plainly that they are pleased with his manner, and in return they show the pastor that they are pleased by their very liberal contributions to the support of the ministry. A few weeks ago a whole church from the colored M. E. Church in America united with the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Rolling Fork circuit. This church is about five miles from Rolling Fork, named St. Stephen, and is a nice frame building, with beautiful windows and excellent seats. They united with our church at their own request. The outlook for the Methodist Episcopal Church on Deer Creek and in the great Mississippi and Yazoo delta is exceedingly good.

Rev. Ira B. Griffin, at Vicksburg, has won the hearts of our people and friends there, and has just closed a gracious revival, which resulted in the conversion of several precious souls and additions of quite a number to our church, which has greatly revived and strengthened the church. A new lot for the new church in a beautiful place has been purchased and paid for, and the work of building a new church will commence as soon as we can raise $1000. It is with deep regret that we are compelled to say that the health of Bro. Griffin has failed, and he has been released from the charge for a month or two. It is hoped that he may be able to return to Vicksburg by September or October. Let the brethren pray for his speedy recovery.

Rev. Simpson Jossell, on the Vicksburg circuit, and Rev. Alexander McBeth, at Edwards, are both doing a good work, are greatly beloved by their people, and the indications are that a grand work will be accomplished and good reports may be expected to the next Annual Conference from them.

Rev. E. Graves, at Bolton, seems to be having a hard time from several causes, but at the quarterly meeting the brethren and the pastor expressed themselves pretty freely as to the cause, and after explanations were made they all promised to do better. Bolton is one of the best charges in the district. We urged the pastor to give the people the Gospel as well as the law, and we sincerely hope now to hear of a grand work for Christ and Methodism at Bolton.

At Clinton Bro. R. McAlpin is doing a good work this year. The Sunday School and church are being largely attended.

Rev. L. L. Shumpert, at Jackson, this being his first year at the capitol of the State, was kindly received by the people, and has made a good beginning. The Sabbath School and church are largely attended; has closed a successful revival, which resulted in the conversion of many precious souls and the addition of the same to the church.

Rev. A. Davis, at Canton, was kindly received by the people, and is doing a good work. At the last quarterly meeting there was an outpouring of the Holy Spirit. The presiding elder at the afternoon service baptized fourteen children.

Rev. A. Handy, on the Canton circuit, is getting along nicely, and is greatly beloved by the people.

Rev. P. H. Davis, at Brandon, has won the hearts of the people, and is doing a good work.

Bro. Davis is a most successful pastor.

Rev. H. W. Wallace has been released from the Brandon circuit.

At Pelahatchie, Rev. I. W. Davis, as pastor, is doing a most successful work. He has purchased a splendid bell for the church and paid for the same. The people are very much pleased with him, and everything indicates that a grand work for the Master is to be accomplished there this year.

Bro. R. B. Anderson, on the Trenton circuit, is getting along quite well, and we expect much good for the cause of Christ and Methodism upon that circuit.

Rev. J. I. Garrett, at Forest, is doing a good work, having built two new churches upon the work last year—one of which was just dedicated at the quarterly meeting July 2. Quite a large congregation was in attendance. Bro. Garret is preparing to build another new church. The old church at Forest is to be taken down, and a new one erected. Part of the lumber is new on the ground, and the church will soon be built. Bro. Garrett is greatly beloved by his people, and is doing a good work.

Rev. B. Stewart at Hickory, Rev. S. Doby at Chunkey, and Rev. E. Collins at Lake are getting along as well as could be expected.

Bro. Collins is earnestly at work, and I hope will do well.

The pastor at Hickory is finishing up his church. It is with the greatest pleasure and gratitude to God that some real progress is being made upon the district; hence we report the same. May the Lord continue his special blessings upon the work is the prayer of your brother in Christ.

West Tennessee District—Tennessee Conference.

JAMES P. PRICE, P. E.

I closed my second round with fair results. I filled all my appointments. The condition of the district generally is good. I found all the preachers at their post. We have built two new Churches, and 75 new converts added to the church, $80 collected for mission. The SOUTHWESTERN is much liked by the people. We think we will give it a good cash support this fall.

The District Conference.

D. W. HAYS.

To my judgment, the time has come when the expediency of discontinuing the district conferences, in some portions of our work at least, demands serious consideration. Owing to some cause a majority of the members pay no attention whatever to the sessions. They neither attend in person nor send in their reports. The business is thrown upon the hands of a few persons present whose unavoidable ignorance of many of the items involved, often leads to confusion. Under these circumstances there is but little enthusiasm and, consequently, the proceedings lag until the hour of adjournment brings the wished for relief. Those who come expecting to enlarge their acquaintance with the work by meeting men from all over the district go away disappointed. The occasion imparts but little mental stimulus since the literary programme has to be set aside in order to give place to tedious routine. The conference room wears a deserted appearance contrasted with what it used to be. The effect is chilling. The small group of members feel it and become discouraged. Visitors feel it and afterwards stay away. There are of course, exceptions to which this description does not apply. I am glad they exist. A real live district conference can but exert a most salutary influence upon all lines of church enterprise within its territory. Permanency is eminently befitting such a conference. Its perpetual operation means perpetual gains to the church. But a conference which, from any cause, no longer interests; fails to secure the attendance of a respectable proportion of its membership; contends with its work in a desultory, unsatisfactory manner; requires an outlay of money and time with disappointment as the only return; imparts no health, quickens no enthusiasm, fosters no grand impulses, and leads to no renewed struggle. Such a conference ought to be discontinued. Interment is the only proper use to be made of bodies when life has fled. We can get on without the district conference whenever its existence adds nothing to the progress of Methodism.

Knoxville Tenn., Sept. 9th 1885.

Palestine District, Texas.

G. W. SMITH, P. E.

Dear Brethren of Palestine District—Please be prepared to report at each quarter of this fourth round the actual number of full members. Do not report probationers or deceased persons for full members. Let it be positive members. Push the missionary cause in all parts of our district, brethren. Let each of us do hard work in this great cause, and also the other benevolent collections.

Letters from the Pastors.

W. R. Butler, Robelene, La., writes: "The second quarterly conference was held June 27. The elder came with Rev. D. A. Taylor from Kansas, they both preached on Sunday, and we enjoyed their sermons. We are doing all we can to build our church at Robelene, with some of the money in hand and nearly all the timber out for the foundation. I have built a parsonage and paid for it. We have a good presiding elder to stand with us in our struggles. At a basket meeting June 16, we raised $16,45. The white people here tell us to go ahead and they will assist us."

J. A. C. Wade, of Cookville, Tenn., writes: "Our third quarterly conference was held June 6 7, at Livingston, where the church has nearly come to naught for want of attention. Livingston is 20 miles from Cookville, and in the town and vicinity are about 200 colored people, and they have no church at all. They know nothing about our literature. I found an ordained minister who formerly belonged to our church but, left it a few years ago and was stealing the weak members. I found a backslider, a former member who taught Sunday School, and he has a strong influence, and is using it against our church, but there are a few grains of wheat in the pile of chaff. I have succeeded in getting a church seat, one fourth of an acre in a convenient place, given us by Mr. Peter Carr, who had bought it of Mr. James Wright, and he had not paid for it. We have $13 on subscription, and $5 cash and the sisters are at work. No collection was taken on Children's Day. I baptized nine children and one adult. Elder Bullington preached to about 175 persons and administered sacrament to 18. At night the white people wanted him to preach and he did so. Paid elder $5,10; pastor $22, 35. The committees say they will raise the benevolent amounts."

Mr. Smith, of Winchester, Texas, writes: This work is known as the Cunningham and West Point circuit. It is in the Austin district, West Texas conference. It is called an old circuit. It was at one time the leading church in this part of Texas; but it is not so now. I have a great foe here to fight to keep our church alive, and it is because a good portion of the members are either the African or immersion Baptist, both sides try to keep us back. I told a good many of the people we could not be kept back unless we keep ourselves back, for this is Christ's church and he will protect his own from all harm. I tell the people here our church has come almost through fire, and she is here yet, and the reason is because she is in Christ Jesus. The circuits are a little more up to the time now, than they was last year. They have gone to work and taken a subscription of $119 to build a parsonage for the preachers. I am doing my best to get this circuit to number 200 members by the close of this year. I have already received 20 in full membership this year, and I have on hand 8 converts, and 4 other probationers; so you see I am on the road. Camp meeting will open at Shiloh on the 9th of this month, (July); and if the Baptists don't bother us too much, we will have a good time. My reason for speaking about the Baptists, as I did is because they have nearly all the black people here with their hearts and minds turned to rivers, creeks, and ponds. So you see I must give myself some chance to look up, if I can get any converts in my camp meeting. The writer thinks in a few years, the walls will fall and the field will be ours. I am also getting the young people to look at the temperance work, since I have talked in the public on the question of being temperate. I have a good many that want me to organize at once which will be done.

J. I. Garrett, Forest, Miss., writes: "My quarterly conference was held July 2nd, at Green Grove Church, with Rev. J. M. Shumpert presiding, and M. Collins, Secy. The roll was called and a good many of the conference brothers were present. The reports show that the circuit is moving on nicely. The pastor's report received in full, this quarter 16, on probation 4; and 4 converts; total 20; baptized adults 2; infants 1; deaths 2; pastoral visits 75, and church papers taken this quarter 6; church papers paid for 4. The Children's Day was observed, collection $2,80. The pastor raised $68,05, after which the elder dedicated Green Grove Church, and administered the Lord's supper to about 50 persons. A collection was taken up for the elder, and $9 65 raised. Our elder is a wonderful man, I guess some of our slothful choir leaders thinks he is a mighty man. Our conference was a grand one, and the SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten.

A. Philips, of Nashville, Tenn., writes: "My work is moving along gradually. I have received 26 members in the church since conference. Our Sunday school is getting along well. We are getting along well with our benevolent collection also. After I took charge of this church I found it indebted to the Church Extension Society about $500, June 29 was raised $200, to pay off the indebtedness of the church. Since conference we have raised about $500."

S. Boddie, Gallatin Tenn., writes: "We have only two churches on Hartsville circuit. One at Lick Creek 8 miles East of Hartsville, is a little log house about 10 feet high and 20 feet long, no seats, one third covered, and it is built on private property. Some former pastors bargained for a lot to the amount of $10 for one acre, paid nothing on it, but received $40 from the Church Extension Society. We have no members there. I have 60 members at Huntsville, and 25 at Hope Chapel. At Hartsville we have a good house, well papered and furnished with seats. On Children's Day the collection was $2,48."

A. Davis, of Canton Miss., writes: "Presiding Elder J. M. Shumpert, held our second quarterly conference June 20-21. On Sunday at 3, p. m, he preached an able sermon on faith, after which 25 children were presented for baptism, and a nice collection was raised. At 8 p. m, the elder preached another splendid sermon, and 100 persons came forward at communion. Paid pastor $96; presiding elder, $14. 50."

Rev. A. Nicol, from ——— ——— writes: "We have four Sunday Schools within the bounds of my charge. Of them we had 212 children together on Childrens Day, and 120 of them repeated from 1 to 20 verses of scripture each. There were several good essays prepared by our pupils of which I send you one as a specimen. I think considering all things they were very good and do credit to our race and show a degree of improvement of which we have no reason to be ashamed. We ministers should use great energy and diligence in working with our superintendents officers and teachers in our schools. This is the great and grand work of the church. We raised $9 in our Children's Day collection."

Rev. Robt Anderson of Opelousas writes: "Thanks be to Almighty God, all is well. A. E. P. Albert held our quarterly conference March 29, and preached a wonderful sermon. We had a grand time, Monday night March 30, we started off with our protracted meeting, which was favorable all through. We have 60 seekers, and 28 conversions. Two very promising young men, and many of the Sabbath school scholars are among the number. Glory to God in the highest. The church is all on fire. Brother Abbott assisted us; he is now gone to help Brother Morant, at Washington. Pray for us."

Q. W. Davis, Pelahatchie Miss. writes: "J. M. Shumpert, held our second quarterly conference June, 27 28 Reports all showed progress, pastor reports received 22 full members and 10 on probation. During the quarter we paid pastor $42. 10; presiding elder $14, 25. We have purchased a bell for the church costing, hanging and all complete $33. The presiding elder preached at 11 o'clock, and administered the Lord's supper to 75 communicants, and at 7:30 in the evening he preached a sermon I trust will be remembered during life by all that heard it. Pray for us."

Letters From the Laity.

M. E. Kellum, of Eylau, Texas, writes: "We are very much delighted with the paper. Our presiding elder is expected, and we hope to have a good meeting. In August a protracted meeting was commenced."

R P. Younggreen, of Rosedale, La., writes: "The second quarterly conference commenced at Rosedale June 27; many encouraging and instructive things were said in the conference by Rev. S. Priestly: The reports were all gratifying to the elder. This quarter $133 75 was raised, 9 received in full connection; 18 baptized, all adults, 96 communed Sunday after the sermon from Brother Priestly. Brother Priestly started immediately for Shiloh, reaching there at 4 o'clock. There was a large congregation waiting for him. Brother Priestly grows on the people.

Wm. Harper, Gonzales, Texas, writes: "During the two years of Rev. A. M. Mason's pastorate on this circuit, he rendered general satisfaction to both white and colored. Mr. Editor, this loving pastor found us in a bad condition. He saw we were poor, but willing to be led and instructed. Bishop Thomas Bowman sent him here in 1882, and he commenced to ingather us going from house to house and the Lord blessed his labor with great success. We had no church to worship in so he commenced talking to the members about it, some said we are too poor to build, he did not heed but went forward. We were then having meeting in a government school house, some of us thonght it was our property until this good minister told us better. One night he said "We are going have to a protracted meeting for the Lord, and I desire you to be ready to ask the Lord to save sinners." A few days and nights rolled away, then he commenced praying and singing and preaching, the Gospel was preached as we had never heard it. Sinners were made to say "ont men and brethren wha shall I do to be saved!" The meeting closed with 13 converts, and from that time we went forward, and soon after our presiding elder, Rev. M. Henson, who was then of San Antonia district, came to hold our quarterly meeting. The pastor and the people were greatly encouraged to go on with God's work. Now we have a nice church named after him. He is a man of good manners and at the commencement of a protracted meeting he would tell the Christians some body is starving for the bread of heaven. Old and yonng loved him, and he always loved his church. He did not only visit the wealthy but the poor likewise. He visited all alike. We are expecting him and wife.

The M. E. Church.

Helping the Pastors.

Drs. Rust and Hartzell, of the Freedmen's Aid Society, have issued a magnificent lithographic chart to help pastors raise money for their cause. Every pastor pledging to raise his apportionment will receive a copy of the chart free. The following description is from the office of that society.

OFFICE FREEDMEN'S AID SOCIETY, —Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 1, 1885.—

Dear Brother: Many pastors and Sunday-school superintendents have at various times earnestly advised the publication for use before public assemblies of some kind of a map or chart, which would set forth in a tangible way the educational wants of the South as compared with the North; and also give pictures of buildings erected by our society in the South, with such other general information as could be tabulated, so as to be easily seen and understood by the audience.

At great expense we have arranged to meet this want. We have published a large double-faced chart, 41x62 inches in size. It can be used with advantage before an ordinary audience. Covering one side is a map of the United States. In each State, by means of differently colored squares, a picture is given of its illiteracy, the amount expended for public schools the money invested in school property, and the whole amonnt of taxable property in the State.

The whole map is divied into sections, as North, Border South, and New South, so that at a glance it is seen that in proportion as a State has illiterate masses its school accommodations are limited, and its ability to enlarge them is small. The same is also true of Church or benevolent educational work.

Two important things are suggested at a glance: (1.) Compared with the North is intelligent and rich, and the South has masses of ignorance, and is poor. (2.) It is the work of Christian philanthropy and patriotism for the North to give abundance to supplement the poverty of the South in its povwork of Christian edu

The printing is from stone, in oil colors, and is done in the very latest and best style of lithographic art, and would be a beautiful and attractive ornament in any library or parlor room.

The back of the other face of the chart contains pictures of twenty of our school properties in the South, illustrating the permanent and substantial character of the real work the society is developing. In the center of this group of buildings is the shaded illiteracy map of the United States, surrounded by the official figures as to the illiteracy of every State, among both white and colored people.

The other half of this side is given to a grouping of statements concerning our work, its magnitude, what has been done, etc This is put in large type so that it can be used before congregations, Sunday schools, or mission bands if desired, or by a single fold of the map only the picture side may be shown, and the printeed facts used in an address.

We are safe in saying that no such expensive or complete chart bearing upon its work has been attempted by any benevolent society of the Church.

The chart must be seen to be appreciated.

We have gone to this expense because so many friends have expressed a desire for something of the kind, and because we believe it will greatly aid the pastors in increasing our collections.

Our appeal to the Church is for $250,000 a year for Christian education in the South. If the pastors will raise at least their apportionments, that will give us $150,000 The remainder will come in large gifts from individnals, whose hearts God touches in behalf of this work.

Our propositions are: 1. We will send the chart free to any pastor who will pledge to raise at least his apportionment for this society. 2. To any individnal donor giving $5, we will send the chart, if desired.

In conclnsion, we confidently expect your cordial co operation in the great and providential work in which we are engaged, in the order of the Church and her blessed Master.

Drop us a postal saying yon will raise your apportionment for our cause, and we will mail you one of the charts.

Yours for Christian edncation in the Sonth,

R. S. RUST,
J. C. HARTZELL.

We have seen and used this chart when urging the people to more earnest efforts in behalf of education in the South. Nothing can be more helpful in this cause than sneh an instrument. All our pastors ought to send for it, and when they get it they ought to take it to the church and press upon the people the valnable facts it contains. It is for the people Get it for them.

The most famons Methodist, to the minds of Marylanders, was Joshua Thomas. Thongh he led a simple life, his was the spirit that walked upon the waters of the Chesapeak. In his day, fleets of sail boats from the Tred Avon to the sonthermost limits of Tangier turned their bows toward church as regularly as Sunday came. It was "Father Thomas" who preached to the red coats on the way to Baltimore, and who warned them that God would fight in the battle of North Point. More than seventy years have passed since that sermon, yet "The Methodist," the famons canoe of the famons "Parson of the Islands," is still afloat in Tangier sound. It is a relic that the islanders prize as highly as the Parson's Bible itself.

Helpless Upon a Friendless Sea!

But let me describe a scene when one morning in mid ocean, there came an alarm from the pilot house followed by a cry: "The ship's rudder is lost!" From the confident expression, consternation came to every face. The wheelman being helpless to direct her course, the vessel was at the mercy of wind and wave.

The captain had been negligent —the hangings of the rudder were allowed to wear weak, and suddenly it had dropped deep into the sea!

Strong in intellect, in physical vigor, in energy and ambition, man confronts, nndannted, gigantic tasks, and commands applause for his magnificent achievements. But, all nnexpectedly, an alarm comes —the rndder of his constitution is gone. He has been careless of its preservation; mental strain, nervons excitement, irregnlar habits, over work, have destroyed the action of his kidneys and liver. This wonld not occnr were Warner's safe cnre used to maintain vigor. And even now it may restore vitality to those organs and give back to the man that which will lead him to the haven of his ambition.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, OCT. 1, 1885.

The calendar of the New Orleans University for 1884 5, New Orleans, La., and of Gilbert Seminary, located at Winsted, La, have been received at our office. It is a neat pamphlet of fifty pages, and in matter and make up is very neat Thanks to Acting President Hoyt.

Arnett, Brown and Harlan, all three Negro candidates for the Ohio Legislature on the Republican ticket from Green, Cuyahoga and Hamilton counties respectively seem likely to run well. help their ticket a good deal, and probably get elected.

The South Carolina regulators have been regulating miscegenationists in that State; but it is hard to decide between lewdness and mob law, which is most baneful in its influence. Speed the day when the people will confide in courts and juries and abide legal enactments which are the creatures of their own suffrage.

Feeling the Public Pulse.

The New Orleans Commercial Bulletin and the Southern Watchman have given space to liberal extracts from editorials properly credited to the SOUTHWESTERN. As we suspected it would be the tone of their comment is that of friendliness to all efforts in favor of Negro elevation, when such efforts have no possible tendency toward miscegenation, our object is, and has been, to free the Negro question from this illogical incumbrance, so that the cooperation of good men all over the South, otherwise willing and ready to aid in helping the Negroes on the road to a future of prosperity as a race might thus be made able confidently to do so.

There will be more and more cordiality between the races as it comes to be understood, that this does not imply consent to consequent blood blending of the races We believe that natural barriers are strong enough to guard race purity, if by right education, race pride, without race antagonism is everywhere inculcated.

As to the mulattoes they are by us regarded as a part of the Negro race, to be ultimately, and not very remotely, absorbed by the darker complexioned people of the race in marriage, so that there is no interest of the mixed blooded element of the Negro race, which can be either discussed or considered separately from all Negroes in our country. At least not until there shall be some sort of a difference between them apparent in the consideration of their social claims by the white people of the country. A mulatto only escapes the odium attached to all other Negroes by reason of their circumstances, and previous conditions when he can pass for white. The cause of the Negro is one. They rise or fall together. If they will but lay hold upon the money making pursuits, get wealthy by honest industry and right economy, hold fast the form of Godliness, not omitting its power, and the maintenance of a sound moral code, the Negroes will find in this and every other land, an open opening highway before them leading to right success.

The Political Horizon in Ohio and Virginia.

Politics in Ohio have been an unsatisfactory question for the past two years, but one can now begin to see and with some degree of certainty venture the following predictions:

Foraker will be elected governor. The legislative ticket will be elected by the Republicans which will insure the re-election of John Sherman to the United States Senate.

Hendricks will not run as [illegible] Ohio. The Negroes of Ohio gave him stronger support then, than now.

The election of a Democratic President, it was thought, would expand in his influence and that Democratic Negroes would find a generous recognition of the support he acknowledges that they had given him.

Peter H. Clark is the representative Negro Democrat in Ohio, and his appointment would have been regarded by Negro Democrats as illustrative of this recognition. His non appointment leaves them in a state of apathy. The nomination of those Republican Negroes upon the Legislative ticket makes this element jubilantly enthusiastic; so that out of nearly 30,000 Negro votes, less than 3,000 will probably be for Hoadly this time, and with a similar number for prohibition, the remainder will go for the Republican candidates.

Virginia, is a seething political cauldron with many chances to boil over, create an explosion and go off in steam; no one can certainly tell just what will happen there. But it is quite probable that Fitzhugh Lee will be inaugurated Governor.

The prohibition vote in Ohio will probably be larger than last year, but the aggregate vote will also increase, and the increase of the latter will be greater than that of the former. The presence of Senator Sherman in the campaign and his speech in Music Hall at Cincinnati, Monday, Sept. 21, has warmed up the fighting and turned the flank in Foraker's favor.

That meeting was a great affair as to the numerical proportions. It is estimated that 7,000 people inside, and a vast army of, no one knows how many, were outside the building.

The Cincinnati Conference.

This conference is composed of a more than ordinarily distinguished body of ministers taken as a whole.

Its recent meeting was attended by unusual interest in consequence of Dr. A. B. Leonard, the Ohio Prohibition candidate for Governor being a member of it.

The late session was held in Walnut Hills Church, Cincinnati, of which that able and eminently successful and promising young minister, Rev. W. N. Broadbeck, is pastor. The presidents of three great Methodist institutions of learning, namely, Dr. C. H. Payne, of Delaware; Dr. H. B. Ridgaway, of Evanston, and Dr. Brown, of Cincinnati Wesleyan University, are members here, as are also Dr. Rust, corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society; Dr. F. A. Archibald, of the Book Concern; Dr. J. H. Bayliss, of the Western Christian Advocate, and a host of others whose names are the common property of Methodism, and whose fame is in the mouth of all the churches.

Bishop Harris presided with his customary ability, and won many compliments for his great familiarity with the Methodist Episcopal Church jurisprudence, and his skill as a parliamentary tactician. A very good picture of him was printed in the Telegram, a Cincinnati afternoon paper.

Rev. Frank G. Mitchell, as handsome and courteous a gentleman as one would wish to meet, is the secretary, and W. G. Baker, in several respects the tallest member of the conference, is one of his able and efficient secretaries.

Drs. Starr, Runyan and W. L. Hypes are well known ministers of broad culture, but Dr. William Young is the most formidable debater among them. Dr. Richard H. Rust, entering the conference a few years since from the East, maintains the confidence of his brethren, and a first-class rank.

Dr. Ketchum, Marlay, and Brof. Bishall, Tuckley, Baker, and all the rest named herein, and many who are not are old acquaintances and especial friends of the writer. Dr. J. J. Reed, of St. Paul's Church, Cincinnati, must not be omitted when the roll of strong men in this conference is called, If there are none elsewhere to be found, and the necessity for general officers in our church was several times as great as what it now is, the Cincinnati conference could, without a strain, supply the demand from Bishops down, and have plenty of useful undergrowth left for future supplies. Indeed, it is more than probable that several members of this conference will soon be wanted in a wider field of labor.

There are some heroes, gallant men here, who have ceased to work effectively, but 'who still their bodies that must have place in this notice." Chief among them is the silver haired M. P. Gaddis. He has wrought faithfully and is still working vigorously with his pen. He is an author of no mean repute, having written and edited several very useful works.

Rev. J. F. Courey is a revered father, who, in addition to the weight of years upon him, has the past few months been pitilessly smitten in the loss of his wife by death.

Rev. J. J. Hill, an octogenarian, whose first wife was a daughter of the great Bishop Soule, is young yet in all things save muscular force.

Rev. Col. Moody, of patriotic fame, around whom closes an aroma of sweet-scented Christian fragrance was present in a characteristically beautiful and tender letter to his brethren. And others of this rank there are whose labor of love is held in practical remembrance by the conference.

Dr. Leonard, H.D. Fine, Fletcher Hypes, and a host of other old and dear friends, were seen, greeted or grasped by the hand while at the white heat of business in the closing moments of the session.

The following have charge of Methodism in and about Cincinnati:

APPOINTMENTS AND CHANGES IN AND ABOUT CINCINNATI.

Dr. Thomas H. Pearne, the newly appointed pastor of historic Wesley Church, Cincinnati, is a man of recognized ability, and is not unknown to fame. Dr. Pearne is a terse, vigorous writer, and was at one time editor of our church paper in Oregon. He subsequently resided in the West Indies under appointment of the U. S. Government in the public service. He is an earnest speaker, of commanding presence and stentorian voice. His appointment to Wesley was earnestly sought and is now regarded with great satisfaction as likely to result in great good to Methodism and general cause of religion in Cincinnati. Rev. Thomas J. Harris, late pastor of Wesley, requested a years's rest from the work of the active pastorate at the close of the recent conference. The Conference reports of Mr. Harris and of his Presiding Elder showed that he had accomplished a successful pastorate of three years at Wesley, having added to the membership and increased the collection of his charge for the benevolent and connectional work of the church. By a rising vote, Conference adopted a resolution declaring the affection and esteem in which Mr. Harris is held by the body, and expressing the hope that he may resume pastoral work at an early day. The letter of Mr. Harris requesting a change of relation, and declaring his love for the Church and affectionate esteem for his ministerial brethren and his Presiding Elder, was heard with interest and reciprocal feelings by the Conference. Rev. Ballard R. Wilburn, who was received by the Conference, and appointed to McKendree Church, on Eastern avenue, comes from the city of Baltimore, where he has rendered good service for several years past. The high esteem in which he is held in Baltimore is manifested in the following resolutions adopted by the Quarterly Conference of the church he left:

"Whereas, Rev. B. R. Wilburn is about to sever his connection with our church to accept work in another field of labor; therefore, Resolved, That during his administration he greatly endeared himself to us by his devotion to the cause of Christ, by his earnest preaching of the Word, by his ministrations to the sick, his attentions to the poor, his high moral character, and his interest in the affairs of the church, and that whenever Bro. Wilburn shall visit our city, the doors of Epworth Church are always open to receive him, a willing people ready to listen to the Gospel in its purity, as it is always preached by him."

Rev. Winfield C. Helt, who was received into the Cincinnati Conference from the New England, Southern Conference, and appointed to the Mt. Washington and Red Bank charge, is a young man of established character and devotion in his ministerial work. A letter recording his acceptability, popularity and usefulness in the Church East was written by Bishop Harris, and read to the Conference. In scholarship, piety, experience and purpose, Mr. Helt is entitled to take a high rank in the ministry. Revs. Dr. Joyce, V. F. Brown, C. W. Rishell, C. T. Crum, D. C. Ridgway and G. M. Hammell continue the good work carried on the previous year. Revs. E. T. Lane and L. G Tufts remain within hailing distance of their hosts of friends.

The Hartwell M. E Church gave its retiring pastor, Rev. S. O. Royal, a farewell reception. The attendance was large, and the interest very marked. Music and social converse constituted the exercises of the occasion. Rev. Dr. Pearne, Rev. H. Tuckley, a former pastor, and Rev. J. H. Ely, of the Episcopal Church, were among the ministerial guests. Brother Royal and Mrs. Royal must have felt highly gratified by the cordial expression of affection and good will, so spontaneous and widespread, as they sever the pleasant ties of the past three years of pastoral service

Rev. John E. Shannon, who for the past two years has been pastor of the Methodist Church, in Middletown, O., will enter upon the pastorate of the Hart ell Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Shannon is a minister of acknowledged ability, rare oratorical powers, and most effective pulpit talent. Although a young man, he has a bright future, and his appointment to the Hartwell church, is certainly a most valuable acquisition.

Rev. A. Lourey, D. D, of New York City, is spending a few days with old friends and relatives in this city. He is editor of "Divine Life," a paper that has a large circulation both in this country and Europe. He is a man of marked pulpit ability.

Rev. S. D. Clayton, of Broadway Charge, Dayton, O., has received into full membership 238 of those admitted on trial at the revival of last winter. There are over one hundred others recommended for full membership. The cornerstone of the church was laid on Tuesday of last week. Dr. I. W. Joyce officiating, The church will be ready for occupancy, it is hoped, by the 1st of November.

The Exposition

The North, Central and South American Exposition will open in New Orleans on the 10th of November ensuing, and close April 1st 1886, occupying the same buildings as last year. The department especially for colored people, has been abandoned, and they will secure space this season and exhibit their commodities and wares just the same as other people do. Last year the colored department was practically without any headship; so that many valuable contributions made to the exposition by industrious Negroes throughout the country have not been returned, or if returned, in a damaged condition. Sufferers of this kind are to be found in Lexington, Frankfort, Georgetown, Louisville and other places.

These failures to keep faith with exhibitors will create a dread of loosing their contributions in the minds of many who would otherwise be ready to contribute, and it will, to some extent, curtail the ability of those now charged with that duty to secure the valuable articles desirable for the Exposition this season.

There has been formed a colored Auxiliary Association that will look after all interests pertaining to the colored people; and the character of the gentlemen selected, indicate that they will faithfully apply themselves to the task they have assumed. We believe there is good reason to hope for a much more thorough canvassing of the colored peoples interests now, than before, and we esteem it our duty hence, to ask the Negroes of our country and of Louisana to improve this opportunity to shew what they have so far accomplished as producers.

The Auxiliary Association represents no faction or squad, but the people, Episcopalian, Catholic, Baptist, Methodist, all the denominations and gentlemen beyond all the denominations, are members of this association.

They are ministers, professional and solid business men. The have issued an address to Negroes of the country which we print in another place. It speaks in words which seem to mean what they imply. Personal acquaintance with all the gentlemen lead us to the conclusion that it will be safe to consign valuable articles to their care and otherwise rely upon any or either of them for needed information.

The white managers of this enterprise, deserve a cordial and appreciative recognition for their interest in and endeavor to bring forward and exhibit the capacity of our Negro population for productive industry by putting examples thereof on exhebition.

Assured and encouraged by the kind reception which greeted their first efforts in this direction all over the country, they have undertaken to do even a little better in their effort, and we feel assured it will not only be reciprocated but highly appreciated by all who believe in, and desire to promote equality of American interests, and fair dealings to all men in the race of and for life. This, as last year, the SOUTHWESTERN bids good speed to the exposition, and will do all it can to aid its every interest, barring Sunday openings, which we hope the management will discontinue. We do not anticipate any failure, but the way to present it is, for every friend of American industry to rally.

Rev. L. N. Taylor Dead.

A telegram from W. E. Gifford, to this editor, from Evanston, Ills, announces to this editor the sad intelligence that Rev. Lewis N. Taylor, student in Garrett Biblical Institute, died there on the morning of September 22, of malarial fever. Brother Taylor was a member of the Mission Conference and the founder of the Methodist Men and Women's Mutual and Beneficiary Association. He was a man of rare gifts and many splendid attainments before whom there seemed to be a career of useful labor in the church. We expected in a few days to join him in consultation at St. Louis, but alas, we shall meet no more on earth. He leaves a tender wife whose deep bereavement calls forth the loving sympathy of our brethren everywhere. Further particulars of his life, labors, and death will be supplied later.

Personal.

—Rev. W. H. Nelson, in a little while, will change his relation to the Central Alabama conference where he is an honored member.

—Rev. L. J. S Bell, of Quitman, Miss., was lately smitten and confined to bed about four weeks with fever, but is now about and convalescing rapidly.

—Miss Josephine Cowgill, of the Woman's Home Mission work, will be in New Orleans about the 1st of November. She is now serving the interests of the society in Ohio most efficiently.

—Mr. William Porter, of New Orleans, took his vacation in Galveston, whence he writes us that he finds the SOUTHWESTERN in much favor and general circulation among the people there.

—Rev. Thomas Stalker, late pastor of Ames M.E. Church, by postal to a friend, says under date of Sept. 18, Owossa, Michigan: "We have one of the most pleasant appointments in the State."

—Rev. L. P. Cushman, presiding elder of New Orleans district, returned to the city last Friday, from New England, where he has passed an enjoyable summer. He is full of vigor and is ready to do an abundance of church work.

—The Rev. Dr. Talmage, of Brooklyn, N. Y., having completed a busy vacation sight seeing and preaching in Europe, upon his return was tendered a public welcome in his Tabernacle by several hundred of the citizens, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher presiding.

Church Polity.

MR. EDITOR—1. Is there any thing anti Methodistic in responsive service? 2. Is it violating any law of the Methodist Church? 3. Does the Discipline any where speak against it? — Subscriber, Cape Palms, Liberia, Africa.

Answer.—Presuming that your questions apply, and are limited to the Methodist Episcopal Church, our reply to your inquiries 1, 2 and 3, is no.

In the early history of our Church, a ritual with responsive services arranged by Mr. Wesley, was for a short time in use. Our Sunday schools have responsive services prepared for them, which are very generally used.

Our Children's Day services are always attended with the responsive feature. The Missionary Church Extension, and Sunday-school Union societies of our Church are about to adopt this form of service in their annual popular exercises. And many of our great congregations read the Scripture lesson alternately with the pastor. We have thought it very impressive and useful to do so, when it is properly done. Still it must be borne in mind that there is no written law in its favor. A responsive service in the Methodist Episcopal Church stands alone upon the law of local usage and implication. And where no law is, there is an implied law against the contemplated action. The law regulating the order of services in the Methodist Episcopal Church may be found at P. P. 40, 1. Paragraph 55. section 1, 6. Discipline 1884. It aims to "establish uniformity in public worship among us on the Lord's day," and reads as follows:

1. "Let the [illegible]ing service consist of singing and prayer, the reading of a lesson from the Old Testament, another from the New, and preaching."

Observe, there must be singing, prayer and preaching in the order laid down. Then if there is time, and the minister desires, and can do without confusion in his church among its attendants, he may prepare the Scripture lessons so as to read them alternately or responsively with the people, but he is [illegible] as circumstances warranted [illegible] into his service a ritual [illegible] book into use among people [illegible] other church. We once [illegible] our pastors to introduce [illegible] ritual of the African Methodist Episcopal Church into his congregation, but our people properly made short work with it and him too. It would be equally as offensive to a well trained church, to introduce the ritual of another denomination among them, as it would be to employ another church's hymn book or Discipline in their public, or any of their services. Such a course is positively forbidden by our law and usage, as well as by good taste, and a proper degree of denominational pride,

2. The afternoon or evening service must be as the morning, except there may be only one Scripture lesson if the minister prefers it.

3. On the days for administering the Lord supper, the reading of the Scripture lessons may be omitted; but it is not optional with the minister what he will use instead of it, for in section 4 is the following direction:

4. "In administering the sacrament, and in the burial of the dead let our form of ritual be used. Let the Lord's prayer also be used on all occasions of public worship in concluding the first prayer, the congregation being exhorted to join in its audible repetition. Let a doxology be sung at the conclusion of each service, and the Apostolic Benediction be invariably used in dismissing the congregation."

1. In administering the sacraments. The pastor or presiding elder is commanded to use our ritual. There are parts of this in which it would be well to have the exercise responsive.

2. In the burial of the dead use our ritual, and here again the form of ritual is capable of being used at several parts in a responsive manner.

3. After the first extemporary prayer, the pastor must use the form of the Lord's prayer, found in our ritual and the people all repeat it after him.

4. In all our ritualistic services, the people should be instructed to say amen in an audible, and fervent manner at the end of each paragraph. Here then we have an implied law for the responsive service; but the matter and manner of it is strictly prescribed, and from it there must be no departure.

5. "Let the people be earnesly exhorted to take part in public worship of God by first singing; secondly, in prayer, in the Scriptural attitude of kneeling, and the Lord's prayer." 1. All the people, not the choir alone, must sing. 2 They should all kneel to pray. 3 They should repeat the Lord's prayer audibly when kneeling.

6. Let the society be met wherever it is practicable, on the Sabbath day. Some times in some [illegible] it is impracticable to meet on the Sabbath day; at such times, in such countries, the society is permitted to meet on some other day or night. But the substitution of some other day or night for service, does not authorize any change in the matter or manner of the service. A doxology must be sung at the conclusion of each service. And the apostolic benediction used. How sel[illegible] this is done in Negro churches generally. It is a rare thing to hear a benediction pronounced in the name of the Trinity. We know of congregations where no [illegible] is made to sing a doxology on Sunday or when a strange [illegible] are present. We know of [illegible] who persist in

[illegible] keep whomso'
All [illegible] now."

[illegible] they have been [illegible] advise to say "whom" [illegible] Some of these are young [illegible] do it only through care [illegible] We heard a minister dismiss his congregation once by saying, "Now abide, faith, hope and [illegible] these three; but the greatest of these is charity, [illegible]." He was a Free Mason and was in a hurry to get to the lodge.

Schools and Colleges.

The School for Christian workers at Springfield, Mass., opened on the 9th inst., with very encouraging prospects. Students were in attenance from Canada, New England; the Middle, Southern and Western States. The design of this institution is to train laymen to be secretaries of Young Men's Christian associations, superintendents of Sunday-schools, and helpers to pastors.

General Church News.

A committee of the American missionaries at Constantinople writes to the American Bible Society that during the past year 46,218 of the Scriptures were sold within the limits of the American Missions in Asiatic Turkey, of which 12,090 passed into the hands of Armenians, 3,801 into the hands of Greeks and 3,055 into the hands of Turks. That such a large number of copies of God's blessed truth have begun to shine in the dark parts of this land is cause for devout thanksgiving."

The Mestizos of Mexico.

"The noblest of the Aztecs," says the author of "Mexico and the Mexicans," "fell in battle with the Spaniards; their property fell into the hands of the victors, who at the same time became possessed of the families of those who had fallen; the rude warriers married the dusky daughters, who were rendered their equals by baptism, it was not considered a messalliance to marry a noble Aztec girl. The sons of Montezuma, who were educated in Spain, recieved the title of Count. The Indian aristocracy adopted Christianity, and became amalgamated with the new population, It was not so with the poorer classes, who from the earliest periods had been subjected to the Indian aristocracy, and at the conquest only changed masters. Nevertheless, countless mongrels were born, some in lawful matrimony, *per se*f as; and during three centuries the priest and the monk, the soldier and the young Creole, have continued to engraft the Caucasian stock on the wild trunk. Thus arose the numerous Mestizo population, which has inherited in part the brown hue of the mother, but also the greater energy and more vigorous mind of the father.

"The Mestizo, then, is properly the offspring (not always properly begotten) of white father and Indian mother. He has an inborn originality, and is the representative of national customs and peculiarities. He is a magnificent horseman; one might take him for an Arab, as, lance in hand, he rushes past upon his light steed. In the warmer regions he wears (on Sundays) a carefully plaited white shirt, wide trousers of white or colored drilling, fastened aronnd the hips by a gay girdle, brown leather gaiters, and broad felt hat, with silver cord or fur band about it. The peasants, or rancheros, are usually distinguished by the calzoneras, or open trousers of leather ornamented with silver, with white drawers showing through, a colored silk handkerchief about the neck, and the sarape—the blanket-shawl with slit in the centre, resembling a herald's mantle. The women seldom wear stockings though their dainty feet are often encased in satin slippers; they have loose, embridered chimeses, and a woolen or calico skirt, while the rebozo—a narrow but long shawl—is drawn over the head, and covers the otherwise exposed arms and breast."

The Mestizos are of pleasant countenance, when of good extraction, of full figure, with complexions which, though swarthy, are yet fresh, and sometimes rosy. As servants, the Mestizos are generally faithful, not over fond of ablution, but having high regard for their masters and misstresses. Always aspiring, the Mestizo is rapidly drawing away from the Indian progenitor, and assimilates with the white race; it is said that Mestizos of the third generation cannot be distinguished from the Creoles themselves. As politicians, they have ever been successful, taking to law, also, as naturally as to the profession of arms. Not alone in point of numerical superiority, but as regards the real possession of power, through peculiar fitness for holding political offices, the Mestizos are the dominant people of Mexico to day. There is a class of Mestizos called the Lepero, who are the progeny of a union of the worst of the Spanish with the worst of the Aztec race.

Time, instead of ameliorating, has hardened him, and the miserable lepero is the vilest specimen of humanity, the most degraded, most devoid of principle and honor, to be found on the American continent. And what is the lepero? Let Brantz Mayer, a close observer of the Mexicans for quite a length of time, answer this question: "Blacken a man in the sun, let his hair grow long and tangled, and become filled with vermin; let him plod about the streets in all kinds of dirt for years, and never know the use of brush or towel, or water even, except in storms; let him put on a pair of leather breeches at twenty, and wear them until forty without change or ablution; and over all place a torn and blackened hat, and a tattered blanket begrimed with abominations; let him have wild eyes and shining teeth, features pinched by famine into sharpness, and breasts pared and browned; combine all these in your imagination, and you have a recipe for a Mexican lepero."

In fine, the lepero is the most worthless kind of proletarian, a beggar whom no one can intimidate. Cortes mentions the swarms of beggars that existed in the Aztec capital in his time; they are so spoken of by Humboldt; they were the terror and disgust of every viceroy, except Revillagigedo, who, in the latter part of the last century, successfully dealt with them. In the revolutionary period they committed unheard of atrocities, and upon the entry of the American troops into Mexico it was the leperos who, let loose from the jails, murdered and pillaged friend and foe alike. To-day we find them on every street and corner, curled up in the portals of the churches, sleeping at noon in the shade of every sanctuary. It is on feast days that the lepero particularly shines. Many are only married, but the majority are not. The lepero is a thief from his mothers arms.—The Missionary World for June. 1885

President Cleveland and his Cabinet.

I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass., will send to any address in the United States or Territories for fifty cents in stamps, with the order, a beautiful, life-size stone engraving (size 24 x 30) of President Cleveland and his cabinet, and two boxes of the famous Parsons' Pills, both by mail post paid. This engraving is handsome enough to hang in the most elegant parlor in the land. It has no advertisement or anything upon it to mar its beauty, and is practically given away, as every druggist, physician and general trader knows that the uniform price of Parsons' Pills is 25 cts. per box.

This engraving is copyrighted and we own the plate. No one in this or any other country can get the engraving except through us. The price of the engraving alone, if on sale at any art store, would be $1.00 or more. Our object in making this great offer is to acquaint people with the use of these marvelous Pills. All who order should mention this paper, with their own name and post office address plainly written. Address I. S. Johnson & Co.

Good Tidings Day, October 18.

The Good Tidings Service for morning or afternoon of Good Tidings Day, October 18, with an appended Epworth Song Service for the evening of the same day—sixteen pages—is now ready.

I think I may say that, of all the services submitted to our Sunday-schools during the past ten years, this will prove to be one of the most popular and useful. The new songs and tunes from the Epworth Hymnal, the marvelous new hymn by Miss Lathbury, "Heart of Jesus," for recitation by ten voices and by the school, will themselves give peculiar charm and power to the service.

And now, brethren interested in the great work of the Sunday-School Union and of the Tract Society, I hope you will stand by these two societies in this first commemoration of Good Tidings Day. Hereafter it will be an annual feast. Shall not the first be a brilliant success?

Copies of the combined Good Tidings and Epworth Hymnal Service will be sent to all pastors who make application on the postal cards which have already been forwarded for that purpose. Let the office hear from you.

New York, Sept. 18, 1885.

A Plucky Young Man.

Here is a true story of successful energy. A young drug clerk wrote from the Far West to a prominent pharmacist in New York, saying he would like to come to the city and enter a store. He came, but when the pharmacist questioned him personally he found that his visitor had never put up prescriptions written in Latin; consequently, he could not get a situation. He did not know a soul in the great city, not even the gentleman to whom he had written (until he met him at his store). He sought in vain for a place, and finally found a subordinate position, where he was given five dollars a week and had to board himself. He was a studious, pushing, active young fellow, and soon managed to attend the lectures at the College of Pharmacy. The gentleman with whom he had corresponded took an interest in him, and invited him to come to his store and assist in the manufacturing of fluid of extracts. Once he showed his employer what he could do in that line. The man was surprised. "Why can't you do something of that kind for me?" he asked. The clerk said he could, and his salary [which had been slightly increased] was raised to very respectable proportions. He worked for a time in this way, eventually receiving $50 a week; finally he opened a laboratory of his own, and to day he employs forty or fifty "hands." And yet, when he arrived in New York he did not have a dollar, and was without influence and without friends.—St. Nicholas for November.

GOOD LUCK.

The Royal Baking Powder Never Fails to do Perfect Work.

The "Good Luck" that always attends the use of the Royal Baking Powder in making perfect bread, cake, biscuit, pastry, etc., is not "luck" after all, but the exact result that inevitably follows the correct application of scientific principles.

All the scientific knowledge, care and skill attained by twenty years' practical experience have been combined in the Royal Baking Powder to make a leavening agent absolutely perfect, and it cannot help doing perfect work in the production of light, sweet, wholesome, palatable bread and pastry.

The most exact accuracy and precision are exercised in the preparation and combination of all the ingredients of the Royal Baking Powder. Every article is first ascertained absolutely pure. A number of chemists are employed to test the strength of each ingredient, so that its exact power and effect in combination with its co-ingredients is definitely known. Nothing is trusted to chance, and no person is employed in the preparation of the materials who is not an expert in his particular branch of the business.

As a consequence, the Royal Baking Powder is of the highest grade of strength and excellence, always pure, wholesome, and uniform in quality. Each box is exactly like every other. It will retain its powers and produce the same and the highest leavening effect in any climate, at any time.

The Government Chemists, after having analyzed all the principal brands in the market, in their reports placed the Royal Baking Powder at the head of the list for strength, purity, and wholesomeness, and thousands of tests all over the country have further demonstrated the fact that its qualities are, in every respect, unrivaled.

Housekeepers never fail to have "good luck" in making the most delicious bread, biscuit, cake, and pastry, who use the Royal Baking Powder.

The Unceasing Melody.

Like some pink shell, that will not cease
To murmur on the sea,
My heart sings on without release
This anthem full and free:
"Thou will keep him in perfect peace
Whose mind is stayed on Thee."

The melody of the melody
Has floated down the years,
A soul-subduing harmony,
It elevates and cheers:
And like the voice of deity,
It dispels all fears.

Beyond the sounds of earthly strife,
Beyond the frown and sigh,
Above the world with discord rife,
In life the soul on high—
To find a clear and peaceful life,
By faith in Christ brought nigh.

There perfect peace surrounds the soul
Whose trust on God is stayed;
While pressing onward to the goal,
It hears, all undismayed,
The deep notes of the music roll,
Through sunlight and through shade.

And this is why, without release,
My heart sings full and free,
The anthem that will never cease
Through all eternity:
"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace
Whose mind is stayed on Thee."

Domestic Hygiene.

Human Parasites.—Worms

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

Among the small animals that find a resting place or a home upon or within the human body, none are more interesting or troublesome than worms. Children are generally the most frequent victims of these unbidden guests, though adults occasionally become infested. Our attention was called to these parasites by the agony of a five year old boy on the cars a few days ago. These pests, for some reason, had become roused to wonderful activity in the bowels, and were causing great agony to the little fellow, almost throwing him into convulsions.

There are several kinds of these parasites, called by the general name of Entozoa. They are animals without a vertebra or back bone, and during some period of their existence live within and derive nourishments from the bodies of other animals. Nearly all belong to the class of "hulminthe" or worms. There are two or three kind never found in any animal except man, while others may infest several animals in common. The ascaris lumbricoides, one species of the round worm, is an example of a worm never found in any animal but man, while the tape worm is found in "the intestines of all classes of vertebrate animals."

The round worm is one of the largest and most common inhabitant of the human intestines. It prefers "the lower part of the intestines," infesting and interfering with the ileocecal valve. Dr. Fletcher, of Indianapolis, during the war made a large number of post mortems of patients dying with typhoid fever, in the military hospitals, and found that in nearly all cases there were more or less of the lumbricoides located at that point of the intestines. In cases where reduced in flesh he found the largest number of worms, and frequently they were rolled up and matted together. This worm is of a pale color, with a "reddish hue." It is round and tapered at both extremities; one, however, being slightly more blunt than the other. It greatly resembles the angle worm seen so abundant in moist places and under old logs. The female is much larger, being from eight to fifteen inches in length, while the male is from four to eight inches. Through the entire length of the worm runs the intestinal canal and it is straight or constricting only slightly. The body is extremely muscular. Its muscles are arranged in two sets. One is circular, and the other longitudinal, by which it can elongate itself, and, fastening its rude sucker to the side of the human intestine, draw itself forward. It feeds from the large intestines up to the stomach. It is probable that when the worms are on their journey upwards they irritate the membrane of the intestine to such an extent as to cause severe pain and finally convulsions. In passing down the canal they produce no irritation.

The round worm is wonderfully prolific. It is claimed that "64,000,000 ova have been found in one female." It is a question not fully settled as to how they come to inhabit the human intestines. Their numbers are so great sometimes that it is thought under favorable circumstances they breed there. But how come they in the young child? Certainly they are not born in or with the child. None have ever as yet been found in a new born child, and yet at a very early age, very soon after the child begins to take solid food, they are found in the child's intestines, and in some children more abundantly than others. The following is a supposition from observation, though it does not fully explain the matter. Round worms "are most abundant in moist localities, as sea coasts and river valleys, and they may gain admission to the intestines on raw fruit, or in molasses or larva of insects, which abound in such places." It is possible the ova may be taken in by drinking water, and when once in the intestines soon hatches out, and the worm begins its growth. As yet there is no satisfactory explanation of how they find a way to their human house.

These worms must live on the food eaten by the child or adult. When the person abstains from food and becomes hungry, the worms become hungry also, and are often dislodged and discharged. Bad food and sickness dislodge them, for the reason that an unhealthy condition of the intestines is produced, which is distasteful to them. They want good treatment, like many another visitor, to be induced to stay. In the summer time, when fruits are plentiful and from eating abundantly, there is a tendency to diarrhoeal disorders, these worms are largely dislodged, and pass away. Some have supposed from that fact, that these worms are formed as a result of eating fruit. But such is undoubtedly erroneous.

When worms are infesting the child to any great extent the symptoms are usually marked. The cheeks flush and alternate with paleness. The breath is foetid and hot; the pulse increase; the stomach and bowels become hard, and some what full. Pains in the abdomen are frequent and during the paroxysm are severe. The child is really sick, and no wonder, for monsters are stirring within.

What shall be done for such a suffering child? The remedies are as numerous as the schools of medicine, and mothers in the neighborhood. A few drops of turpentine, santorium, an emulsion of pumpkin seeds, cowhedge, oil of worm seed, a decoction of apigetia or pink root either alone or with senna, are taken internally with great benefit, to be followed by a smart cathartic In some instances, an injection of lice water, salt water, infusion of quassia, lime water or a decoction of aloes," is an efficient remedy. If the child should be in convulsions a tepid bath is excellent to relieve present distress, but it must be followed by proper remedies.

Good Qualities of the Negro.

Griffin News: We are informed that at the poor farm is a singular case of touching devotion between old master and slave. For some time there has lived at the farm as one of the county's wards an old Negro man named Lewis Cline. Before the war he was a favorite slave of Maj. Wm. Cline, then one of the leading citizens of our county, prominent as a business man, as a man of standing and character, and as mayor of Griffin. In the march of events this fine old gentleman, through many misfortunes, became reduced to poverty and finally became, a few weeks since, an inmate of the farm, where he will peacefully end his useful and eventful life. No sooner had the old Major settled in his quarters than old Lewis, true to the instincts of the faithful servant, put his nearly worn out old body at his former master's service, and ministers to his every want with touching kindness and fidelity. It is said to be beautiful to behold the cordial restoration of the old association between these two veteran soldiers of the battle of life of the olden time and a living monumental answer to the erroneous teachings of the authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Still we hear a great deal of the Negroes brutality and all that. The truth is the Negro wishes to live amiably with his white brother and help on in the world, and the Lord wants it so too.

How Pale You Are!

is frequently the exclamation of one lady to another. The fact is not a pleasant one to have mentioned but still the act may be a kindly one, for it sets the one addressed to thinking, apprises her of the fact that she is not in good health, and leads her to seek a reason therefor. Pallor is almost always attendant upon the first stages of consumption. The system is enfeebled, and the blood is impoverished. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will act as a tonic upon the system, will enrich the impoverished blood, and restore roses to the cheek.

A Lady's Opinion.

Mrs. Geo. Gilbert, Bryan, Ohio, writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, Ohio: I commenced on the fifth bottle of your PERUNA this morning, and should just as soon think of doing without my meals as without my medicine. I have been doctoring for about four years, and kept getting worse all the time and was just giving up in despair when I got one of your books, "The Ills of Life." I was in bed at the time. I read and re-read your book and felt like trying your medicine. My folks thought there was no use in trying anything more, I was too far gone, and might as well make up my mind to die. I told them PERUNA was the medicine I needed, and I intended to try a bottle. It proved a success in breaking the chills, and if it had not done one thing more, I would have been satisfied. But it has done more, and I feel like another person. Everybody that sees me is surprised to see me looking so well, as they all thought I was dying with consumption, and now my own folks have as much to say for the PERUNA as I. I recommend it to everybody I see. There were two of our neighbors in yesterday inquiring about the PERUNA. I gave the one my book to read; told her to bring it back, as I prized it very highly. The other got the name of the PERUNA to send to his son in Chicago. He is a telegraph operator. My disease is something similar to Mrs. Milo Ingram's, though nothing compared to being so bad. There was a lump raised on my collar bone, and it was a long time before it looked like opening. The doctor said he would have to lance it in a few days, but I thought I would attend to that myself, so I put a little fly blister on it and it opened; then I put a poultice on and then salve, and kept the salve on all the time. It got so bad and spread upon my left shoulder, and one place under my left breast. Then there were two places on my head, one near the temple and one back of my ear that was just dreadful. No tongue can tell what I suffered. My head felt so strange sometimes, I thought I was going crazy. Since I have used the PERUNA (I don't use the salve any more) my sores healed up right away. And oh, what a relief it is to get around without chilling and having to suffer with my sores. I feel like letting everybody know all about it."

John Ferguson, Gallitzin, Pa., writes: "Your PERUNA is a good medicine, and we sell lots of it. Will you please send us some more 'Ills of Life,' with a few German."

Lost Friends.

We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Persons will please read the requests published below from their friends, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of inquiries in the SOUTHWESTERN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brothers, George and Natha, who left here in 1862 63, and joined the Union army. They belonged to Simms Leggett, who lived near Foster Creek, Copiah county. Our parents were Henry and Lucinda Darsy. Sisters was Maria, Missouri and Amanda. Father lived in Franklin county, Miss. My name at that time, was John Leggett, but I am John Alexander now. Address me at Bowerton, Miss.

MR. EDITOR—Please make in inquiry for my mother. Her name was Emily Berry, and belonged to Richard Berry, of Nashville, Tenn. She was sold in Memphis, Tenn., carried there by John Overton, who now lives six miles from Nashville, out on the Franklin road. Some years ago a letter came to Nashville, inquiring for us. The letter was from Illinois, and stated that she had been to Mississippi and back to Illinois since the war. She inquired for Mary, Martha, Billy and Minerva. We are three ones, but we did not get the letter, only heard of it. We would be very glad of any information. Address, Minerva Stokes, Lebanon, Tenn.

MR. EDITOR—I am in search of ot my people who left South Carolina in 1867, bound for Mississippi, with Bob Holmon. Their names are Aunt Rose, Uncle Ben Menard, children, Ralph, Winnie, Wash, Edward, Hannah, Butler, Silvie. Uncle Marshall Strother, his wife Patsy belonged to Ned Culbreath Aunt Rose has my brother Billy with her. I am mother's eldest son and was born in Edgefield county, South Carolina. Address Garland City, Miller county, Ark, Rev. Charley Brown.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my mother, who I left 15 miles from Huntsville, Ala., on a plantation belonging to the widow Mary Rice. My mother is Minerva Rice; my father Jordan Rice; my sisters are Francis and Carolina. We were parted about the first year of the war. Our owner lived in Huntsville, Ala. Any information of her whereabouts will be thankfully received by her son Milton Moore, care Rev. F. P. Chinn, box 26, Donaldsonville, La.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brother, sold in the year 1856. He belonged to Mrs. Sarah McDonald, the widow of "Big Jack," near Lynchburg, Sumpter district, South Carolina. His father was Gabriel, his mother Maria; his eldest brother Joseph and eldest sister Caroline. The name of the one I am inquiring for is Harvey, went off in company with a man named Williams. When I last heard of him he was in Louisiana. Any information of him will be gladly received and rewarded. Address J. Wofford White, pastor, Florence, South Carolina.

Early Recollections in Texas

REV. PETER MORGAN.

It has been raining pretty steady here in Galveston for nearly a month. Water standing so deep that I have often failed to meet the congregation, but the Lord knows best. I have gotten up a pretty good list of subscribers to send you but they don't cash up as they should and I am pushing ahead for cash, and will send in my list very soon, I am doing the very best I can Mr. Editor, to keep from crowding your office with all subscriptions and no cash. I know what you need, and am traveling in that direction, but even now while I am writing, the Lord is sending great showers of rain upon us, and while I am writing I would like to see the brethren of the Texas Conference know what is [illegible] at Waco. My heart rejoices to see how they do in [illegible], and to pay them a long contemplated visit. There I met all the brethren seemingly full of the Holy Ghost, a fine looking body of soldiers for the Master. There I met our beloved Bishop Harris again, and Dr. Gillette, and our editor of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Among the numbers that I saw at this conference, was Brother E. Cogswell who was with me at Millican Texas, in the years, 1866, 67, and 68 During which time a riot was gotten up, and for his intellect had to escape for his life, and become a pastor in this conference. That was the first sight I had seen of him since 1868. I was most too much of a lad I suppose, was the reason I was overlooked by the rioters, but indeed! Mr. Editor, that was a sad time. My beloved Shepherd fell in this conflict, Brother George Brooks, and others well known to Texas preachers; and whose name will appear on the death roll. About this time, 1868, I was fixing to take up the heavy cross that I am now carrying for Christ. To touch the history a little closer, and, particularly avoiding self aggrandizement, I was born in Richmond, Va., joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1867, at Millican Texas. In the same place I commenced preaching in 1869, I preached 9 years, as a local preacher, and have traveled all through dark and dismal places, in various parts of Texas, preaching Christ. When the West Texas Conference was made I was in the work. When Wiley University was talked about, I traveled, preached of it; solicited what I could get for its erection under my pastors at Millican. It was not that I was going about so much to show myself but being at work on railroads, cotton farms, etc., working for a living, gave me the better chance to preach all these good things in various places concerning our church. So I have it, two years a minister, nine years a local preacher, four years a deacon, two years an elder, and the 31st day in April I will be 31 years old. So you see, Mr. Editor, what I have been trying to do from a boy. My loving mother learned me how to pray before we left Virginia, and I humbly ask the prayers of the church in her behalf, while she lay at Palestine sick. She has gained hundreds of souls for Christ in her day, and I know her crown will be bright in the end. Now Mr. Editor, don't you think a man ought to go and see some of the things that he has been preaching about so long when he can conveniently do so? Sir, I had gone traveling and working all through Texas, and being a common working boy, I was looked upon with the least suspiciousness by large farmers, and thank the Lord, I have clung on to the life boat ever since she commenced floating in Texas, and like Caleb, of old, I am as brave for war now, as when I first began. I told the people when the Methodist Episcopal family had grown too large to stay in a house, and when she built another and named it West Texas Conference, and besides I told it to them about all of our institutions of learning when they thought it almost impossible. Wiley University has done me untold good, and I have hope to finish my studies before I depart this life, so I went to the west to see the other house. I went to see and hear, and know more, but the sickness of mother would not let me stay satisfactorily, that caused my absence as soon as it was, that precious name to me Easter Morgan. In conclusion may God's blessings rest upon Bishop Wm. Harris, Marshall W. Taylor, and Dr. Gillette, and all the rest of the crew, and I am with you Mr. Editor in the struggle for the up building of the Lord's cause; go on, dear brother, your influence has already broke in upon the nations as the burst of a mighty meteor. I wish you success for life in leading millions to victory.

LESSON HYMN. 7, 6.

[Hymnal, No. 586.]

Go forward, Christian soldier,
Fear not the secret foe;
Far more are o'er thee watching
Than human eyes can know.
Trust only Christ, thy Captain,
Cease not to watch and pray;
Heed not the treacherous voices,
That lure thy soul astray.

Go forward, Christian soldier,
Nor dream of peaceful rest,
Till Satan's host is vanquished,
And heaven is all possessed;
Till Christ himself shall call thee
To lay thine armor by,
And wear, in endless glory,
The crown of victory.

Time—Perhaps B. C. 890.

Places—Dothan, twelve miles North of Samaria; and Samaria, the capital of Israel.

Rulers—Jehoram, son of Ahab, ninth King of Israel; another Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat, fifth King of Judah; Ben-hadad II, King of Syria.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

1. A Great Mystery, v. 8-12.
Who made war against Israel?
What secret did he confide to his servants?
Who warned the king of Israel?
How was this warning heeded?
To whom was this revelation a mystery?
Whom did he suspect of treachery?
How did they explain it?

2. An Angelic Ministry, v. 13-17.
Where did the king of Syria find Elisha?
How did he attempt his seizure?
What sight greeted the fearful servant of the prophet?
What was his question?
What was the prophet's answer?
Golden text.
What was the prophet's prayer?
What did the servant now see?
What does the psalmist say of angelic ministry? Psa. 34 7.

3. A Prophet's Mercy, v. 18-23.
What came upon the people at Elisha's prayer?
What counsel did Elisha give his enemies?
Where did he lead them?
What did the king of Israel desire to do?
What did Elisha command him to do?
How did the king treat his enemies?

TEACHINGS OF THE LESSON.

Where in this lesson are we taught—1. That God knows our secret thoughts? 2. That God's presence means safety and deliverance? 3. That enmity may be killed by kindness?

EXPLANATIONS.

Shall be my camp—Evidently a part of ambuscade into which he expected the Israelites to fall. Sent to the place—That is, sent scouts or spies. Not once nor twice—Frequently. Which of us is for the king—which one is a traitor? Thou speakest in thy bedchamber—Indicating strict secrecy. How shall we do—How can we escape? That he may see—That is behold the invisible host. When they came down—Referring to the Syrians. Smote the people....with blindness—Caused the prophet's servant had natural sight, the prophet's eyes were supernaturally blinded. According to the word—According to the prayer. Came no more—made no further effort to capture the prophet. Bread and water—Suggestion—The invisible food of faith.

Obituary.

Sister Ann Anderson departed this life in the full triumph of faith, on the 24th of May, 1885. Sister Anderson was a faithful member of the Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Winsted, La.

Sister Emily Sutton, after suffering long while, made peace with God and departed this life June 15, 1885.

Sister Philian Baunde died July 12, and leaves a husband and five step children to mourn her loss.

M. COOPER.

Heidelburg, Miss.

Sister Susan Mason, a member of Woodlawn M. E. Church for thirty two years, died June 26. She was also a member of the Woman's Home Mission Society. She leaves two married sons, and five daughters.

Wilson C. Dickerson, also for twenty-five years a member of the church, died June 17. He was ready to go. He leaves a widow and many friends.

J. W. LEWIS.

Bertie, La.

Auston Bostick died at his home on De Armes street, between Clinton and Hillery streets, Sept. 16, 1885. He was born in Amos county, Va., 1833.

Owing to slavery he was brought from the land of his birth and carried to the State of Mississippi, where he labored with an untiring patience until the breaking out of the civil war. Deeply moved by the state of affairs at that period, and having an undaunted and intrepid ambition within him, he, among the many with such ambition, enlisted in the army with no other desire but to die for the good of the Union. But Providence preserved him to enjoy the sweet liberty which he fought so bravely to obtain. After the close of the war he came to New Orleans where he sought refuge as a Christian in Clinton M. E. Church, and there labored until his death. He was a real gentleman, a faithful husband, a loving father, and a true Christian.

He served faithfully under the several ministers who were pastors of Clinton Street Church from the day he joined until the day of his death.

He leaves behind him to mourn his loss a dear wife and six small children, and a host of friends to sympathize for the family in their distress. But we rejoice to know that he has taken a seat among those in the kingdom above, resting from their labors.

Church Festivals.—No 2.

D. JONES.

My last article sent you, and published in your valuable columns was on "Church festivals," an evil of such growing magnitude that I felt a resistless impulse to utter a few words of warning to the church. I realized my own inability to cope with this dangerous foe to religion single handed, and could only hope that a few feeble notes sounded in the ears of the true lovers of Jesus and his sacred cause, might arouse them from their lethargy and indifference, at the same time bring the church to a gradual conception of the baleful influence exerted by these "spots upon our feasts," these "raging waves of the sea foaming out their own shame." The discovery has been made in this brief time that the heart of the church is sound in her belief that the day is fast approaching when this far reaching evil of church festivals will be obliterated from the vocabulary of church literature, practically driven out of the garden of the Lord, while cherubims with flaming swords of prayer and faith turning every way to sacredly guard the entrance to God's holy temple, shall stand with ceaseless vigil to protect the true worshiper in his dearest homage to the Father of lights. Many kind words have come to me from a distance requesting in some instances to continue the assault, while all have uniformly expressed a desire for the speedy abolition of festivals in our churches. It is said of malarial fever that it always leaves behind it some lingering remnant of its raveges in the human system, thereby more readily inviting other prevailing diseases to successful assault. On the same principle church festivals invite other afflictions, and breed likewise other violations of church discipline, and eventually cause a deadness of conscience which will prepare it to submit to practices at total variance with Christian duty and obligation, and at the same time bring the professed Christian to yield a more ready obedience to the plausible persuasions of the devil. As I pen this article, almost beneath my window I see posted, a conspicuous notice, inviting the people generally to a gathering at the fair grounds July 4; at Lexington, Ky., and as one of the especial attractions to bring the people together on that day, the anniversary of American Independence, there occurs this notice among others announced by the managers "dancing and other pleasures." To this attractive programme I find the names of five Methodists attached, including one local preacher. Here is a twin sister of church festivals, dancing and other pleasures: These may extend ad libitum to base ball, organ grinding, with monkey and soldier clothes attachment, pitching coppers, quoits, foot racing, card playing, and lnly. I ask the church today in God's name, where are we drifting to. Is it not time to call a halt, is it not time for us to get down in sack cloth and ashes, and mourn over the degeneracy of this age; will we not enter our solemn protests against these crying evils, these positive violations of the plain letter of the law, these covenants with hell. I am not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, yet I feel a conviction deep within me that unless as a church we set our faces like a flint against these steady encroachments of the enemy of men's souls, and positively say with all the Christian manhood aroused within us "Thus far shalt thou go, and no further," the penalty will surely come in demoralized homes and society, spiritless churches, powerless lives, the withdrawal of God's spirit. How many ministers of Christ are made to weep hot tears of sorrow because of the unmberless abuses that have crept in and scattered the flock through these open doors of church festivals. Who can tell the quarrels engendered, the violations fostered, the many cliques established, the many batteries of flying artillery here organized and hurled against each other to the spiritual maiming and death of countless numbers of the army. How much of the valuable time of the pastor and leaders is taken up in trying to settle the feuds born of these unnatural monstrosities, theses house leeches of Satan who are seeking out the spiritual life of the church. Who can tell the number of truly earnest religious ones of the church that have been caused, even at midnight hours, to send up their plaintive mournful cries to the throne of God for deliverance from this thralldom, this incubus that rests upon and paralyzes the movement of this struggling army. It behooves the true church to prepare itself for a battle within its own lines. For in this age of corruption and bribery when Satan is using all his arts and blandishments to seduce the believer from his allegiance to the despised Nazerene and disarm him of his strength, we must put forth united, earnest effort not only to scotch but effectually kill this distnrber of Israel in our midst, then and then alone can the church with unfettered limbs march forward to highest conquest for Christ, and with that lofty courage born of intense, holy desire for the spread of His Kingdom and the sound conversion of the world, see the stone cut out of the mountain hands, breaking in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver and the gold.

Let us then, arouse our church and family altars, renew our fealty and deep devotion to Christ and his sacred cause, and finally declare that by his aid our influence, our prayers, our labors shall ceaselessly be given to purify His church while we contend for the faith which was once delivered to the saints.

Books and Current Literature

Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, the authoress of "The Led Horse Claim," has written another story of mining life for The Century. It is called "John Bodewin's Testimony," and will be a leading serial feature of the magazine during the coming year.

Gen. Grant's third paper in The Century war series, a description of the battle of Chatatnooga, will appear in the November Century. The Wilderness article will be printed in one of the Winter numbers.

Lieut. Kell, Executive Officer of the Alabama, and Dr. Brown, Surgeon of the Kearsarge, have written accounts of the famous fight between those two vessels, and the articles will appear in an early number of The Century.

Gen. Horace Porter will contribute an anecdotal paper on "Lincoln and Grant" to the October Century. From personal knowledge he describes the official relations of the two men, and their private intercourse, and relates many new stories. In the same number will be printed a paper by Gen. Adam Badeau on "The Last Days of Gen. Grant," an authentic account of the last year of Gen. Grant's life, including his literary work, etc. A number of portraits and illustrations will accompany it.

Professor Charles Forster Smith, of Vanderbilt University, has an interesting paper in The Current of September 19 on the use and misuse of the terms "gentleman" and "lady," maintaining that the words "man" and "woman" are in danger of falling out of the common vocabulary.

Mr. Geo. W. Cable will contribute to The Century a series of papers on Creole slave songs and song-dances, including the songs of the Vondous (dealing with the rites of Negro serpent-worship), etc., which Mr. D. W. Kemble will illustrate. Mr. Cable's latest essay in fiction is upon a new ground. A novelette by him will soon be printed in The Century, the scene of which is laid among the Acadians of Louisiana.

The numbers of The Living Age for the 12th and 19th of September, contain Memoirs of Count Pasolini, Edinburg; The Paris Newspaper Press, Midsummer in the Sondan, and Lord Peterborough, Fortnightly; What can History teach us? Contemporary; "The Metaphysical Society," by R. H. Hutton, Nineteenth Century; Constance Alfieri, Marquise D'Azeglio, and Modern Prettiness v. Art, Temple Bar; The Krakatoa Eruption, Leisure Hour; Unparliamentary Boroughs, Cornhill; An Old London Gardener, and Anarchism in Switzerland, Spectator; English History in Danish Archives, Globe; Recent Pyramid work, Chambers'; On a House Boat, St James; with installments of "A House Divided Against Itself" and "Fortune's Wheeel and poetry. Littell & Co., Boston are the publishers.

Pastors Wanted.

To any Presiding Elder of the patronizing conferences of this paper: I am greatly in need of several good preachers and pastors Methodist preachers, men of zeal and piety to take charge of work in my district. Will you be obliging enough to put me in correspondence with any answering the above description.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; It produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cause. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Editorial Notes.

"How sleep the brave, who sink to rest;
By all their country's wishes blest;
When spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns, to deck their hallowed mold,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod,
Than fancy's feet have ever trod.
By forms unseen, their dirge is sung;
By fairy hands their knell is rung;
There honor comes a pilgrim gray
To bless the turf that wraps their clay
And freedom shall awhile repair,
To dwell, a weeping hermit there."

As long as there is an effort to manage the Negro so long will there be a Negro problem to solve. To solve the problem at once is to help the Negro to manage himself.

The steeple of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church in Houston, Texas, was struck by lightning, and damaged to the extent of $200, but the damage has been already repaired and paid for by the energy of the officiary and membership under the direction of the pastor of that excellent church.

The sixth volume of The Chautauquan begins with the October issue. Its prospects are unusually bright. The magazine has been improved in every particular. A better quality of paper is used, its editorial corps has been increased, and its list of contributors enlarged by the addition of many new and prominent names.

"How to Live" interests the average man and woman about as much as any question they think on. Edward Everett Hale proposes to tell in the coming volume of The Chautauquan his ideas on the subject. In the October issue he says of the coming serial "the essays are written by an American for Americans. They are written by an American who is neither rich nor poor, for Americans who are neither rich nor poor. They attempt to meet only the conditions of our social order"

For twenty five years General John A. Logan was the close observer of General Grant. He met him in June, 1861. Both men were at the work of organizing volunteer troops in Illinois. He was his companion in arms through the days of the Rebellion. It was Logan who presented Grant's name to the Republican convention as a candidate for the presidency. He was associate through his years of [illegible] and has been a frequent companion since. General Logan contributes his "Reminiscences of General Grant" to the current issue of The Chautauquan.

The Required Qualifications of the Teachers in our Sunday School.

MISS NELLIE CROSS.

Qualification is that which qualifies; any natural endowment or any acquirement which fits a person for a place, office, or employment or enables him to sustain any character with success. There is no qualification for government, but virtue and wisdom actual or presumptive. We regard the Sunday School a legitimate and necessary function of the church, and not a mere accident, notwithstanding its recent organization. The required qualification of the teachers in our Sunday Schools. First our teachers should be religous, in order to give religious instructions to the children. They are to teach the rudiments of religion and they should have a good knowledge of religion in order to teach the children the same. Religion includes good character. It is a fact that a person with religion is qualified to teach those who are without it. And hence I believe, that experimental religion is one of the essential qualifications for a Sunday School teacher. The Sunday School is a place where children are to be collected for religious instructions Otherwise, the Sunday School is not necessary. Second, the qualified teachers in our Sunday School is a person well acquainted with the common branches of the English language. Education will enable a person to give a right conception of words. A good education is but little more than a formation of good habits. To insure a systematic training in all that is necessary to fit a young woman or man for good qualities, time, patience and industry are required.

These are not merely arbitrary regulations; they are founded in reason, and cannot be dispensed with if the Sunday School shall be made to accomplish the design of its organization. Their observance will insure habits of attention punctuality, regularity, and self control, that is an essential part of a good education. It is the interest of the teacher to make every reasonable exertion to secure the friendship of his or her pupils. The teacher is in honor bound to do justice to all his or her pupils, and to see that each one does their part.

And these traits will qualify any person as a teacher in our Sunday Schools. Punctuality is also an essential for teachers in our Sunday Schools. The pupils are governed by the movements of the teachers who are criterions for the children.

Wherever a good Sunday School is established it becomes a center of power, enlightening the children and improving their morals.

The Sunday School teacher is a teacher of Christianity, and the Bible is his text book. The Sunday School teacher should know a great deal about the text-book in which he is the instructor, and this text book is the Holy Bible. The fact that the text book of the Sunday School teacher is supernatural, and his work is dependent upon the inspiration of the holy ghost, does not diminish the necessity for the most thorough preparation on his part, for the laws of man's mental activity in the study of the holy scriptures are the same laws which he must observe in any other intellectual operation. He must have ability to originate methods of his own.

There are empiricisms in teaching which, without looking for the underlying philosophy, experiments upon some suggested method, and often confounds seeming with success. Therefore the Sunday School teacher, like the secular teacher, should know the principle, and, in his intense eagerness to quicken minds to the thought falness and self appreciation, should devise methods which are his own. In order to know and to teach what he knows, that his pupils may know and grow under his ministry. The Sunday School teacher should in his preparatory studies, see other and expert teachers at their work. With his knowledge of principle and method, he should be able to observe the appreciation of these by those who are his superiors.

Pastoral Visitations.

REV. JOSEPH COURTNEY, LEXINGTON CONFERENCE.

Pastors should look upon visiting as a considerable part of their pastoral work. The people have learned so, and it has been kept up in a large measure, and of course they now expect it of them. The first thing with a merchant is to throughly acquaint himself with his business, and then form as large a circle of acquaintances as possible. These two things he deems essential to his success. So it should be with a minister; he has especial need first to qualify himself mentally for the pulpit, and, second, to become personally acquainted with his members and congregation at their homes. He cannot, as a Methodist preacher, afford to make himself a stranger to the people he serves, or neglect the duty of visiting them after having solemnly promised the Church in prayer that he would. He should make two or three pastoral visits to each family of his members, even where there is no affliction to especially demand, his presence, at least in the course of the conference year. In these visits it is his duty to talk to the master and mistress of the family; urge upon them seriously but calmly their Christian duty in the church, and the importance of performing the same. Then it is his especial duty to inquire about the religious training of their children, and whether or not they have been baptized, and if they attend Sabbath school and public worship Sabbath morning.

Pastors are to make themselves social men, visiting angels. They should not discriminate in their general visits among the church members, because some of them are poor—that was the class of persons our Saviour most closely identified himself with. To my mind, they need the pastors counsel, prayers, and sympathies more than those who are in more favorable circumstances. And above all he should never, no; never neglect the sick, and the old, infirm members, for they are ornaments to the church, and God's special, preserved children. And now the pastor may have all the eloquence and logic of a Demosthenes, but except he makes himself, social and at home, among the members and friends of his congregation, he is sure to fail in holding them as a pastor. A Methodist minister is expected to be a polite, social shepherd, mingling and co-mingling among his flock; teaching, building up, and encouraging them by holy precepts and by holy examples. O! but some pastors say that they cannot visit a portion of their members. Well we should suggest to such pastors, that it will not be hardly fair to expect that portion to contribute of their substance for your support, especially when you fail to administer the comforts of prayer and conversation to them in their homes. The better a quainted pastors are with their members and congregations, and their manner and customs of living at home, the better they are prepared to preach to them more effectively. Methodist ministers ought to always remember that they promised the church that they would spend a portion of their time in visiting from house to house—not to gossip and have a gay mirthful time, but to do real pastoral work, such as world, impress upon those they visit, that they are men sent forth of God to administer unto immortal souls.

Close Communion not Scriptural.

REV. PERRY M'PHERSON, WASHINGTON CONNENCE.

The Lord's Supper is the dying legacy that our Savior bequeathed to every one of His disciples.

To receive it worthily is a glorious privilege. But we have no authority to examine a Christian as to his denominational connection, since he is a Christian and a member of the body of Christ it is sufficient. If he appears to observe the outward forms of Christianity. We have no right to question his possession of its inward power, or otherwise judge of his fitness to come to the Lord's Supper; nor have we any right to turn him away from it. By such a course we assume more authority than the Lord did, for we know that he has told us that the servant is not greater than his master.

The scriptures authorize a man to examine himself, and so let him eat and drink of that bread and of that cup. To practice close or restricted communion against professed Christians is hence in direct opposition to the express warrant of the word of God. It must therefore offend him, and it offends many of his children. Close communion creates caste in a sense that the Bible forbids it. Those who believe in free and close communion have been sometimes called devils, heathens, idolaters and such like. Yet they have been permitted to preach, pray, sing and toil with convicts, penitents, and seekers of religion in close communion churches.

I tell you if I am not regarded as a Christian qualified for the Supper I am not ready to accept this other recognition. I disregard any man's claim of authority and dispute his right to thus revoke and set aside God's laws and ordinances. Away with such religion as that. Whosoever shall add to the prophecies of God's Book, to him God says shall be added the plagues which are written therein.

AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Address to the Colored Citizens of Louisiana

BY THE

REV. A. E. P. ALBERT, D. D.,

Honorary Commissioner for the State.

Friends and Fellow Citizens:

The Colored people of the country having been invited, by the Management of the North, Central and South American Exposition, to participate in the coming Exposition, which is to open in the City of New Orleans, Nov. 10, 1885, and closes April 1, 1886, without discrimination, and upon terms of perfect equality, are manifesting their appreciation and acceptance by a general movement to contribute to the Exposition the multitudinous evidences of their skill, artistic taste, industry and thrift, as well as of their help and attendance.

From the extreme North, from ocean to ocean, and from all surrounding sections comes the gratifying intelligence of the preparations being made to secure creditable, collective, State, and competitive exhibits They are actively at work—aiming to excel. We should profit by a knowledge of their purpose. We know that if all classes of our people, many of whom have enriched the several departments of human knowledge and discovery by their superior talents and inventive genius, are aroused and interested, we can make such an exhibit as would not only compare favorably with others, but such as would be an honor to any State or people. Fellow Louisianians: you have never failed to vindicate and sustain, to the full extent of your opportunities, your manhood, intelligence and skill. Shall you now neglect to improve this auspicious request to exhibit those attainments? I trust not. But rather let the word pass down the line, to men, women and children, "Louisianians to the front!"

Having accepted the office of Honorary Commissioner for the State of Louisiana, I have cheerfully undertaken the task of inciting our people, by my humble efforts, to the importance of assisting in making the collective exhibit of our State second to none, and to extend to the Exposition that generous support which it so richly deserves. In this noble endeavor, I am most emphatically sustained by the following prominent and representative Louisianians, members of the Colored Auxiliary Association of the American Exposition, viz:

Col. James Lewis, President; Hon A. Dejoie, Vice President; J. B. Gandet, Secretary; James D. Kennedy, Assistant Secretary; Dr. J. T. Newman, Hon. L. A. Martinet, Rev. C. H. Thompson, D. D., Rev. A. S. Jackson, Rev. R F. Hurley, C. F. Ladd, Esq., Dr. F. A. Williams, Paul Trevigne, Esq., Col. N. D. Sneed, Dr. J. H. Coker, Honorary City Commissioner, Rev. Marshall W. Taylor, D. D., Rev. Jno Marks, Prof. A. P. Williams, and others, whose united address to their colored fellow citizens of the nation, and special appeal to their colored fellow citizens of Louisiana, I am persuaded to think you will not fail to hear and to effectually answer. Through the fault of nothing but uncontrolable circumstances, these special efforts to enlist your co-operation have been delayed, but they are none the less genuine and cordial. The time for action, however, is short; hence what is done must be done quickly. In the words of the Colored Auxiliary Association of the North, Central and South American Exposition, I would respectfully beg to inform you that: All articles, whether they be objects of art, literary production, scientific inventions or discoveries, machines or machinery, products of the shop, field or farm—in short, all articles, products or objects which evidence ingenuity, progress or talent, will be gladly accepted.

And in conclusion, I do most earnestly appeal to all our people in Louisiana, to all our leading men and women, our ministers, lawyers, doctors, artists and scientists, our mechanics, artizans, merchants and farmers, to co operate with us and lend their aid and assistance to the success of this grand enterprise.

Yours for progress,

A. E. P. ALBERT,

Honorary Commissioner for Louisiana.

Womens's Home Mission.

The annual session of this society met in Wesley Chapel in the City of Baton Rouge, September 24. The opening sermon was preached by the Rev. Stephen Priestly, P. E., of Baton Rouge district. Subject, woman as a help to man; text, Proverbs 30 31; after the sermon a contribution was taken for the benefit of the society, on the morning of the 25th the session was continued, services were opened by a prayer meeting.

Mrs. Lucinda Steward and Mrs. Emma Caldwell conducted the service. Afterwards the reports were received from the various local societies. Mrs. Hester Williams district manager and chair lady, conducted the meeting and spoke upon the different reports as they came before the meeting. Addresses were delivered by the pastors that were kind enough to be present. Rev. S. Carroll, Rev. C. Wright. Mr. D. Harris and Mr. S. Wesley had the privilege to open the way with the presiding elder.

The evening session was opened with a sermon by Rev. Sanders Carroll, then came the ladies, Mrs. Steward, Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Ellen Taylor, with written addresses relative to the woman's work, and other ladies spoke very highly of the work. Mrs. Sergeant of Mt. Pleasant made a telling address. At 7:30 a sermon and love feast concluded the session, upon which the pastor, Rev. R. Thompson, addressed the audience with great force upon woman's work.

MRS. HESTER WILLIAMS.
D. M. of E. B. R. La.

"The Model Christian Soldier," a sermon on the death of Chaplain William Earnshaw, by Rev. T. H. Pearne, D. D., of the Cincinnati conference, and for sale by Rev. M. P. Gaddis, Sr., Oakwood, Dayton, O., is just such a sermon as many of our people ought to secure and read. There is a depth of Christian love and fervor about it that is especially refreshing to spiritual worshippers.

From the Districts.

Van Buren District Conference.

A. J. PHILLIPS.

The first district conference of the Van Buren district, Little Rock conference, convened at Newport, Ark., July 10, 1885, at 9 o'clock a. m. Rev. W. R. R. Duncan, presiding elder, took the chair, and called the house to order. After the religions services Rev. A. J. Phillips was elected secretary of the conference. Owing to the distance but a few members were present, yet we had a grand session. Business was transacted in the most business-like manner. Several good men were licensed to preach. The benevolent objects of the church were discussed by all the brothers present, and we think a good impression was made. The elder urged the brethren to bring up all their benevolent moneys, and to share our part of the one million dollars to be raised by the church this year. The elder held the second quarterly meeting. The elder preached at 11 a. m. on the Sabbath one of his grand sermons, and administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and a good time prevailed. The people promised to pray for a revival of religion. This district is in fine condition spiritually and financially. In connection with the district conference there was a meeting of the committee in the case of Rev. R Boone, and he was suspended from all ministerial duties and church privileges.

Dadeville District.

O. R. FRANKLIN, P. E.

The M. E. Church is doing a good work in this part of Eastern Alabama. Every pastors' charge on this district have recently held revival meetings. Some have been greatly blessed. A great many have professed and joined the church on probation. The Lord is in our midst.

Gulf District—Mississippi Conference.

W. M'DONALD, P. E.

It has been a long time since I have said anything through your paper. I guess you and your many readers would like to hear from the Gulf district, Mississippi conference. I have nearly completed my third round on this district for 1885, and the work is as follows: Crystal Springs, on the Illinois Central Railroad, twenty five miles from Jackson, Miss., J. H. Cook is pastor, and has done good work up to date. He has built a new church seven miles northwest of the above named town, and many souls have been added to the church. New Hope, fourteen miles from Illinois Central Railroad, H. May, pastor, has added many souls to the church this year. Union Church, twenty five miles from the Illinois Central Railroad, due west, W. A. Dorsey, pastor, is doing very well. Quite a number have been added to the church. He is doing a good work, and has succeeded in building a church at Fayette, where there have been so many failures. W. H. Mims circuit is doing very well. Some have been added to the church. Meadville, thirty-three miles from the above named railroad, J. Ford, pastor, has added forty to the church. At Liberty, R. Ronndtree, pastor, work is doing well. The people love him. Spring Chapel circuit, eight miles from [illegible] Railroad, W. H. Mosby, pastor—his work is poor, he has added fifteen to the [illegible] Hattiesburg, Miss., on the [illegible] Railroad, 100 miles from New Orleans, D. F [illegible], pastor, is doing good work, preparing to build at Hattiesburg. Cotter's Switch, N. E [illegible], pastor, is doing good work. He has added another church to his circuit, that came over to us from the Zion church. At Bay St. Louis and Pearlington, on the L. and N. R. R., G. W. Smith, pastor, is doing good work. The church at the Bay has been painted, and new seats and a new floor put in it. Pass Christian, on the L. and N. R. R., P. E. Bardwell, pastor, the work there is doing very well considering everything. At Handsboro and Ocean Springs, where the faithful old war horse, Father N. Cannon, is pastor, there has been good pastorate work done, and many souls added to his work. He has a camp ground on this work at Ocean Springs, on the above named railroad, 85 miles from New Orleans and 55 miles from Mobile, Ala., at which two mail trains stop daily. At Moss Point, O. Gillespie, is pastor, and is beloved by his people, as most of the pastors are, and is doing good work. Brookhaven, on the Illinois Central Railroad, where the writer lives, S. H. Nevils is pastor. He is one of our promising young men, and has done good work up to date. A good many have been added to the church. A new church has been nearly completed at Hazlehurst. At Summit and Magnolia, H. L. Kennedy is pastor. He is doing good work, and many have been added to the church. China Grove, J. Drapden, is pastor. His work is poor, but he has added some to the church. Columbia, J. K. Comfort, is pastor, assisted by C. H. Brown. He is doing very well. He has built a new church, and it was dedicated July 26, 1885. All the above named charges have been hard at work to raise the assessments for this conference year.

Brookhaven, Miss., Sept. 23, 1885.

Holly Springs District Conference.

A. M. TROTTER.

The Holly Springs District Conference met in Providence Church, Abbeville Circuit, 4 miles West of the I. C R R, May 20, and adjourned on the 22nd. And allow me to say in the ontset, that this was pronounced to be one of the most interesting conferences in the history of the district.

Thirty one members answered to the roll call. The usual committees were appointed, and on each of the three days of the conference from 9 a. m., to 12 m, the regular business was carefully attended to. At the latter, a recess was taken, when all scattered out to their several homes, where bountiful and rich dinners were waiting; but 3 o'clock always found them again in the church to hear the literary and religious discussions. The reports of the presiding eldess and pastors each show a high spiritual state all over the district, quite a number had already been converted; and the benevolences of the church had each recieved attention, Resolutions were enthusiastically adopted to do more in this direction, than ever. Each of the following subjects were instructively discussed, church extension, Rev. H. York; best method of raising benevolent collections, Rev. J. W. Pair; the M. E. Church as a temperance society, Prof. A. C. McDonald of Rust University. The committee on temperance here reported strong resolutions favoring prohibition, and promising to join in with any honorable effort to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors, which was unanimously adopted by a rising vote Church music by Anna L. Talbot of Rust University; this address was so highly appreciated, Miss Anna has been requested to give the members of "Asbury Chapel" the benefit of her service on this subject. Freedmen's Aid and Rust University by Rev. A. D. Payne. Our Sabbath school literature, J. M. Nevils and C. M. White; duty of local preachers, M. Strong and Beverly Tolbert. Last but by no means least, missions, home and foreign, Prof. R. R. Green of Rust University, this was a masterly effort, and it is to be hoped that it was not made in vain. Rev. B. L. Crump also spoke on the subject after which a good collection was taken. The conference expressed its warm approbation by appropriate resolutions of the presidency of the Presiding Elder Eckles; Rev. A. A. Honston and I. A. Oates of the M. E. Church South, was with us on the second day of the session, and each spoke encouragingly of the work. Many responses and amens were heard cheering these speeches. Our next district conference is to be at Batesville Miss.

Letters from the Pastors.

M. Williams, of Gallatin, Tenn; writes: Our quarterly meeting came off June 27 28. The presiding elder having to hold conference on the Gallatin circuit on the same dates, held our Quarterly Conference on Friday night June 26. The reports showed some work done during the quarter. Dr. J. Braden, President of the Central Tennessee College, was with us on Sunday, June 28; he spoke words of great power to the Sunday School, which met at 9:30 o'clock, At 11 o'clock a, m, the church met in an old time Methodist love feast, in which there were many witnesses for the grand Christian army, at the close of the love feast Dr. Braden baptized 13 children. At 8 o'clock p, m., he preached a sermon that will not be forgotten by a large congregation; after the collection of over $20, the Lord's supper was administered to 113 Four young men joined the church; I must not forget to mention that Dr. Braden was with us on Children's Day June, 14 It was also a day of joy. We are always glad to see the Doctor."

D, F. Dudley, of Hattiesburg, Miss., writes: "It is proper that the public should be informed how the people of Carter's Switch on the Northeastern Railraad, five miles from this place love the cause of Christ. I went there Sunday, June 3, and organized in a room that could seat about 30 or 40 persons. I found there some members of our church; and the old Methodist fire began to burn, and the power of God was in our midst. Mr. Charley B. Rich owner of the turpentine orchard came to the front and gave us a house and had it fixed in nice style; he had seats made for it and a nice pulpit put in it, and it is now the best church on the circuit, the white friends there attended the church, and are my strong support. I recieved from the church there $13 40, also we have a good little Sunday School organized there, and they have on hand $1,40, and a large number of testaments, and a few hymn books. Now I will state how good it is for us to trust God's words. He has said to us ask and it shall be given unto us. I had no coat and no money to get one; God moved a young man's heart by the name of Charlie Wilson, and he made me a present of a nice one. God will provide if we will trust him. I shall say God bless the people of Carter's Switch, and that many of them may find rest for their souls before death find them."

Rev. J. M. Nevils. Hernando; Miss., writes: "June 13. 1885 Sisters Mattie White, Sallie Fort, and A. M. Carlton, Misses Belle Cobbs, and Annie Poole decorated the M. E. Church in Hernando, Miss., for Children's Day; notwithstanding the great oppositions with which we met. June 14, was a day long to be remembered by the people here, the sun arose in her beauty, not a cloud to be seen, just about day brake Brother F. Bryant called the people to prayer meeting, by the ringing of the church bell. Some of the members of the A. M. E. Church tried to carry all the people in town, and and all the people about town, out near four miles from town, to what they called "our Children's Day." So far as we can learn it was old folks day. The pastor promised us a programme, but we never received it, we promised him a programme, and red letter, and he received them. At 9 a,m., we met about 50 little bright eyed girls and boys, and a goodly crowd of young and old people, and Sister Martha Smith of Oxford, Miss., formerly of Rust University, gave us her aid. The opening address was by two little girls, Misses R S and W. Tolason, about eight and ten years of age. The programme was used with some additional essays by Misses Annie Tolason Mattie Mosley, Annie Pool, Belle Cobbs, Martha Smith and Robert Gilbert. Reading by Mrs A. M Carlton and Miss Eliza Westbrooks; an address by Rev. J. M Nevils. The collection was taken up $4,65. The people say, "it is the best Children's Day service we have ever had here." We have a nice school down six miles from here, Stephen Chapel, about a half mile east from Love Station Miss., The kind young sisters decorated their church very nicely indeed, Sunday morning by time, the little girls and boys with their bright faces, were seen on every road and path, on their way to Children's Day; here comes an old lady and five children, who had come five miles, ages from three to twelve years, a little five year old girl had walked all the way. Rev. A. H. Hooks of the A. M E. Church was with us, and gave good service in the school. The girls recited about 154 verses from the Bible, and the boys about 46, so you see the girls beat the boys, well they raised the most money too. Our collection was $4 50, "we never saw anything better," we may freely say that we had grand times at at both Sunday Schools, so closes these services.

June 27 28 were the days of our second quarterly conference, Rev. J. C. Eckles our presiding elder, opened the conference with singing and prayer. Ten of the fifteen members were present, most of them had written reports. The elder talked at length about raising the pastor's salary, and about the other collections, and how to raise them. Rev. W. W. Hooper A. M. President of Rust University, Holly Springs, Miss., (our tried and true friend) was introduced to the conference. The conference promises not to recieve any reports, unless they be in writing. Snuday at 9 p, m., Rev. Prof. Hooper delivered a most telling address in behalf of the Sunday School; Rev M Strong of Elijah circuit conducted the love feast, at 10 a. m., there was great joy among God's children, at 11 a, m., President Hooper preached a very able sermon from Psalms 8 h chapter, third and fourth verses, "When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which Thou hast ordained; what is man, that Thou art mindful of him; and the son of man that Thou visitest him." The Prof. showed us that man is something after all, our hearts were full. We looked around and there were baskets and boxes brought there by kind sisters, brothers and friends, who carried them out in the beautiful dining room, that God made, and prepared the table by spreading cloths upon the beautiful grass, and every body was asked to come forward, and after awhile the people were heard to say enough. At 3 p, m., Elder J. C. Eckles preached a soul stirring sermon, that will not be forgotten soon. Then 80 kneeled and took the Lord's supper. About 35 young ladies and gentlemen gave their names, and promised to try to go to Rust University some day. We praised God, and took conveyance for Hernando Miss., where we found a nice crowd waiting according to previous appointment; among the congregation were some of the best sisters of the Baptist Church and friends of the town. Rev. W. W. Hooper addressed the people in the interest of Rust University, the Elizabeth S. Rust Industrial Home (for girls) and the Freedmen's Aid Society, followed by Rev. J. C. Eckles, Prof. Hooper is not a thunder storm, but he is lightning, and it is the lighning that kills; he is the right color for us, for he has found out long since, that of one blood God made all nations to dwell on the face of the earth. These men did great good while with us this time, collections during the day were $14, $6 to Prof. for Rust, and $8 to the elder. And about 15 young women and men promised to go to Rust when they can. So you may come again, dear brethren, we are in Egypt as so to speak, and dont want to come out without the Lord's people. The people in Hernando are not the worst people in the world, we find here as at other places some very good people, out as well as in the churches; but please pray for us."

Rev. M. H. Foster, from Durant, Miss., writes. "I was appointed to this work by Bishop Mallalieu. I came here the 19th of February. Brothers Rhienhart and Hatcher met me at the depot, from there we went to the church and found the members engaged in a class meeting. We had a very good time. One sister said that she had been in the church forty years. The former pastor, Bro. Nevils, introduced me to the people, after a few words in response I asked how many would fast and pray the next day, a small number of them agreed to do so. On Sunday it was very cold, but I met a large number in the Sunday School and gave them a little encouragement and preached at 11 o'clock, taking the text "He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love," after the sermon one of the brothers said we are all right and well pleased with our pastor. At 7 o'clock the church was full and we had a grand Methodist love feast, many of the brothers and sisters spoke for the Lord saying that they intended doing more for the Lord this year than they did last. On the 7th of of March my first quarterly meeting was held by Dr. Revels, the Presiding Elder. The meeting was opened by singing "A Charge to Keep I Have," and prayer. Many of the leaders had written reports. I found the charge to be in good circumstances, spiritually. On Sunday the Dr. preached a fine sermon taking the text "The Lord God is a Sun and Shield," after which the stewards took up $7, after this the Dr administered the Holy Sacrament to about 100 persons assisted by H. Heslop and the writer. At night I preached the text. "For the wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." We hardly ever see the Dootor happy but he got happy that night. We organized a music class of 13 and sent for Mrs. E S. Spriggs to take charge of the class She arrived March 14, and began instructing the class. She is thoroughly competent to teach music, being the best I ever met. She remained with us two months, she gave an entertainment in the interest of the church the 1st of April. The amount collected at the entertainment was $33: 10. We then carried on meeting two weeks, had five converts; by this time Sister Spriggs had her class in a good condition and gave another entertainment on the 17th of April, collecting at the same $16, 30, also gave one at Mt. Pleasant, May 7 h collected $16, 50 Gave another entertainment on 23-h and collected $28: 10 On May 16 collected $16: 75 making a grand total of $110: 75. Her last entertainment was a moonlight picnic and a grand musical concert, after which she took her exit to Vicksburg Miss., to help Rev. I. B. Griffin. She carried the prayers and good wishes town with her, may the Lord be with her."

Rev. J. Wormly, of Davilla Texas, writes: "I love the paper. In regard to my work, I am doing all I can to build up, and by the help of the Lord I hope to accomplish some good. Our people do not take enough interest in sending their children to Sunday School, we have a qualified superintendent in W. R. Patterson, a young man. We are getting ready for a revival. Pray for us."

Rev. W. H. Moseby, of Lagrange, Texas, writes: "Our third quarterly meeting was held June 29. Elder Carmichael and all the brethren were on hand. The circuit is in good condition. The elder preached at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., and administered the sacrament to 81. Collection, $6 55. Pastor received $10 40."

Rev. H. Adams, of Ashville, Ala, writes: "We were glad to have Rev. W. O. Lynch with us three days this week. Tuesday night he lectured to a large audience, of white and colored people, in the courthouse, on "The Colored Man's Place in History." The leading citizens of the town of Ashville attended the lectures, and by their request Bro. Lynch lectured again at 2 o'clock Wednesday on "The Colored Man's Relation to America." Since these lectures both white and colored feel quite differently in view of their relation and obligation to each other as men and brethren, and American citizens. Bro. Lynch said that God has called him to speak to public attention on the great subject of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. By these lectures the two races in the South will be brought into a greater friendly relation.

Rev. B. Anderson, Murfreesboro, Tenn., writes: "This work is in a very good condition at present. I have five appointments, and five churches. One was disbanded for six years, but I took it up, and it is in a growing condition. The ground upon which the church was built was bought and given to us by Rev. John Seay, a true friend to the day of his death. The Sunday School prospers. Elder C. H. Bullington held the third quarterly meeting with success, and preached one of his best sermons."

Rev. A. M. Trotter, of Holly Springs, Miss., writes: "Many readers of your paper would doubtless be glad to hear a word from Holly Springs, "The City of Flowers." The maxim, "Behind the clouds the sun still shines," has been realized here this year. I arrived here on the 17th of February, and commenced my year's work. About then the golden text in our Sunday School lessons was, I believe, God. On looking up I found Paul driven before the wind in the Mediterranean. I at once adopted this as my text. Our presiding elder, Rev. J. C. Eckles and Dr. Revels had each said good things to our people concerning me, which greatly helped me in entering upon my work. The Holy Spirit has been and is now here bearing witness with our spirits that we are the children of God. We have had a glorious revival, which resulted in forty-eight accessions to the church; received into full membership 16, and baptized 35. So now our loins are girded with strong faith in the Lord "to push the battle to the gates with this increased army." We already sing "We're marching through Emmanuel's ground to fairer worlds on high." But as we take them into the church militant they are called into the church triumphant. On May 19 Bro. John Wright passed away in the full triumph of the faith. I was glad to be present a short while before he died, and heard him say farewell; that he was not in the least disappointed in trusting in the Lord. His much beloved wife, also an acceptable member of our church, preceeded him only three weeks into the blessed home of the soul. Bro. John Wright was 88 years of age and Sister Jane Wright was 77 years of age: So Mr. Editor, combining all our circumstances together, we can sing with up-lifted hearts, glory to God in the highest."

Rev. M. Henson, of San Antonio, Texas, writes: "A grateful pastor hereby tenders his most sincere thanks to Miss Mattie Vandrose, Mrs. Amanda Lawrence and Mrs. Susan Mitchell for a very pleasant surprise on last Saturday morning by sending around a furniture wagon with a set of cane bottomed parlor chairs and a lounge sofa. These ladies, together with their many friends in St. Paul's M. E Church, are determined to make the new parsonage very home like. This parsonage was built this year, and has been occupied since March 1. We are also very grateful to Mrs. Emma Joseph for a very good second hand cooking stove. The sisters think they have got the finest and best built four roomed parsonage to be found anywhere in the West Texas conference, if not in the whole of Texas, occupied by a colored divine. Visiting friends testifying to the same self supporting fact. Then, we say, "it must be so." And they are furnishing it incredibly fast. The stewards have provided to raise the 72 95 arrears of the pastor's salary by a big festival, and to pay in the uncollected part of our benevolent money, by the second Sunday in October, 1885. Notwithstanding hard times we have managed to keep our heads above financial tides, and reduced all of our indebtedness. We have shared with the people in their scarcity willingly, because we have witnessed in them "the mind to work." We have paid $150 on our new parsonage, and have two years and six months to pay the balance, $550. If priest and people don't lay aside their selfishness, and provide for the future, the future will hold them good for it, and you might as well recollect it. Some people are driving true ministers from them by trying to starve them to death. Some preachers are driving themselves from the church and people by their supreme selfishness and imprudential conduct. Time, the great healer of moral, as well as physical diseases, will furnish the healing balm, recollect it; and if time fails eternity will not. I trust the readers of the dear old SOUTHWESTERN of my congregation will not take this to themselves, for I have nothing but gratitude to offer to St. Paul's membership and congregation. A steward and class leader from an adjoining charge told me that they had paid Bro. D. at one of his four preaching places $5 during the year." "Have you paid less than the other three?" "No; we, if anything, have paid more." "Well, I feel bound in the spirit to preach the Gospel, but I shall ask the Bishop not to send me you all." These people, nearly all, own their homes. What's the matter now? The issue is upon us, and there is no disguising the fact, hundreds of our people use to give more when they had nothing, so to speak, than they do now, with something. Why all of this? Allow me to give you a pointer. Our poverty used to be a mitigating circumstance, when it came round our time to give, to push forward the great cause of God and humanity. Time and circumstances should bring about a marked change respecting this matter as it relates to us. Brethren and sisters of the grand old M. E. Church, you remember we all pledged to "give of our earthly substance to the support of the [illegible] and the various enterprises of the church, as the Lord prospers us." The issue is now upon us, and the only remedy for this [illegible] giving as to keep that pledge before us, and not for wrath [illegible] We can keep the delinquent part by scattering [illegible] and other Methodist [illegible] Thousands of [illegible] know too little about [illegible]

THE SOUTHWESTERN

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, OCT 8, 1885.

"The best of all is, God is with us."—J. Wesley.

"I am going, glory! Glory!"—William Earnshaw.

Not every warrior is victor, but every victor has been a warrior.

"The battle is fought and the victory is won forever."—Payson.

A satisfied conscience is the dividing line between true and false faith.

"My fever is very hot but beyond the fever is sweet Jesus."—E. M. Mason.

Those who work for Jesus receive "this testimony, that their work is righteous."

Christianity is a life, and men need this life to distinguish them from more earthly animals in instinct it not practice.

Rev. E. W. S. Hammond says: "That Dr. Rust's work on Bishop Wiley is one of the most interesting and beautifully written books he ever read."

The colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Church contributed $2 75 per capita for all church purposes in 1884. We ought to make it even $3 per head in 1885. Let us try it.

Our Church at Newton, Scott county, Ky., was never more prosperous than now. Rev. J. H. Stanley, pastor informs us that he thinks it will be necessary to enlarge their house of worship soon.

Don't fail to read our table of statistics for the Negro conference and Negro districts, and charges in white conferences. Also of Negro members in white congregations in the North; it is absolutely correct except Kansas, which is approximated.

I hope you have to contend with nothing to impede the progress of the SOUTHWESTERN. We pray for your success daily as we feel that in your position, a failure of your paper will be a failure of the race. —E. M. M.

The Negroes of the Methodist Episcopal Church own above $2,— of debt. We challenge [illegible] Zion both to show for [illegible] a better result for [illegible] among the Negroes. [illegible] the figures or silence.

One who cannot speak for himself is an object of pity; one who will not may be so. The [illegible] is invalid; the second is [illegible], disdaining under circumstances [illegible] what he could, as is a coward, fearing to speak [illegible] would.

The Negro Membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, 1884.

There are 225,159 Negro ministers and members in the Methodist Episcopal Church, of these 30,147 are probationers received in 1884, upon the returns of which year this computation is based.

We have 58 Negro presiding elders, 1 208 pastors and 3 075 local preachers. Our preachers baptized 24,481 persons, of whom 13,114 were infants and 11 910 were adults. Of our members 3,594 have died. We have owned and occupied by this ministry and membership 2,250 houses of worship valued at $2,366 575, 414 parsonages valued at $172,817, and 15 schools and colleges valued at $150,000, total value of churches, parsonages and schools $2,689 392. They raised and paid for building and improving churches $169,795. Paid on old debt of $58 079, total indebtedness paid on $227,874.

They have 2,533 Sunday Schools or 280 schools more than churches, showing that the nucleus for 280 churches has been laid among the children beyond the church.

In these Sunday Schools are gathered 14,286 officers and teachers, and 135,843 pupils, 150,129 children in our Negro Sunday Schools, which is 75,030 officers, teachers and pupils less than members and ministers. This is not a good showing, and it should be corrected by bringing the other 75,030 pupils required to equalize the Sunday School and church membership $21,395 was given for benevolent purposes and $300,078 paid to the ministry. The current expenses for the year was $32,262, and the debt remaining on our church property is $221,558. The total amount collected and paid for all causes by our Negro members to the support of our church and its general enterprises last year was $729,608 or a little more than $2,75 per head.

This is an achievement of which a people who have but now fairly emerged from slavery may not be ashamed. But the report for 1885 should be better still. It can be made only by still better efforts. Let us then at once begin to make the effort. The table in another column gives the details upon which this grand outcome is established.

We are sure its importance will secure for this table a close and general consideration. No church can by its statistics prove a better work among the Negroes than ours. Let our people therefore take courage and go forward.

Almost simultaneously with the killing of several, possibly scores of "Heathen Chinese" laborers in civilized America, we hear of the killing of several thousand Christians in uncivilized Asaan. We wonder if these heathen Asamites think they have the same right to kill people that we Christians have?

Political Flashes in Ohio.

The Republican parade in Cincinnati, September 26 h, was a mingled affair. Col. Harlan, Wm. Copel and Fred Stith, marshal and Rev. B. W. Arnet, James Poindexter, Wilton R. Boone, and H. W. Tate rode in carriages sandwiched between distinguished white Republicans. Things political are at white heat. The Democrats have gone on a still hunt among the Negroes and the Prohibitionist held an all day meeting at Shinn's Grove, near the city on the 24th. Rev. L. M. Hagood made an address on that occasion. It is pretty hard to forecaste, but it now looks as if the Republican ticket would be elected.

Nevertheless there is a chance for this conclusion to fail as the Democrats are far from being asleep, although they are making very little noise. But the present stagnation in business matters hurts them now as it did the Republicans so many times when in power. Dr. Lonard will set an increased vote and he feels good.

Personal.

—Rev. E. W. S. Hammond delivered a lecture on Walnut Hills by invitation recently.

—Rev. Dr. J. C. Hartzell has taken a residence at Terra Altea, 11 miles distant from Cincinnati.

—Rev. S. E H. Morant, Washington, La., is moving along nicely with his work. He is developing into a good writer.

—Mr. J. H. Jenkins, of Independence, Mo., passed through Kentucky lately, en route for his home in Kansas City, Mo.,

—Beverly, son of Jefferson Porter, Esq, of Paris, Ky., has embarked in a mercantile venture in Indianapolis, Indiana.

—Mr. D. T. Robinson and others have the thanks of this editor for a serenade to himself and family at the residence of Mr. Peter Poyntz, No. 60 East Third Street, Covington, Ky.

—Rev. Mack Henson is still driving ahead gathering material for his sketch of the life of Rev. Larkin Carper, and will thankfully receive all authentic information on that subject.

—Rev. Joseph Courtney, presiding elder, Ohio district, Lexington Conference pending his entrance upon the third round of conferences, is recuperating at his home in Covington, Ky.

—Bishop Merrill delivered an address of great force, before the Cincinnati Preachers' Meeting, Monday, September 21st. He is in good health apparently, and doing his full quota of hard work as usual.

—Mrs. Mary Thomas, the wife of Rev. G. W. Thomas, of Lexington, Ky., is dead. She died September 11th, at 10 p. m., in full triumph of faith. Rev. J. H. Stanley preached her funeral sermon to a large congregation.

—Rev. W. H. Nelson, of Marion, Central Alabama Conference, and Rev. A. J. Fletcher, of Big Springs, East Tennessee Conference, it is rumored, may at the next session change their present conference relations.

—The members of Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, recently presented Charles Pyles with a fine hat and other valuables, after a neat presentation address, read by Mrs. London Facing.

—Prof. J E. Page, one of our colored gentlemen, was the first to attend the Lincoln Institute, of Jefferson City, Missouri. This Institute is composed of whit teachers. He read a paper on th "Education of the Negro" before the State Teachers' Association, of Missouri, last June.

—Rev. H. W. Tate, of Springfield, Ohio, exchanged pulpits with Rev. L. M. Hagood, of Union Chapel, Cincinnati, lately, to the entire satisfaction of both congregations. Bro. Tate finishes his third year with the close of the present one.

—Miss Amelia C. Taylor is employed as assistant teacher in the Eastern district school under a five years' certificate. Miss Lettie G. Taylor will probably, spend the winter in New Orleans, and Miss Linnie Sanders will teach at Cleves, this winter, all of Cincinnati.

—Bro. John Lyons, of Troy, Ohio, at whose bedside we lately spent a profitable hour in Christian communion, is dead; Sister Sampson and Bro. Jas. Williams are not expected to live. Bro. George Green, a father of the Church there, has been for several weeks confined to his room.

—Rev. H. G. Jenkins and wife, of Ninth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Covington, Ky., on September 24th, "entertained for dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Courtney, presiding elder, Ohio district, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. S. Hammond, pastor of Ninth Street Church and Mrs. Rev. Dr. Taylor, of New Orleans." It was an agreeable and appetizing affair.

—Rev. W. P. McLaughtin, the new pastor of Ames Methodist Episcopal Church is expected to be present and enter upon his work next Sabbath. Mr. McLaughtin come to Ames from one of the largest and most prosperous churches in Ohio. We give him a cordial welcome to this city, and wish for him the largest measure of prosperity.

—Accompanying the last letter he ever wrote to the SOUTHWESTERN in a characteristic, personal note to us, Bro. E. M. Manson, said: "Dr. if your see anything not worthy to be printed in this, strike it out and oblige E. M. M." It was thought that he would be the coming presiding elder on the West Tennessee district, Tennessee conference, succeeding Rev. J. P. Price. His death is regraded as a severe blow to our west Tennessee work.

Those ministers who go about proclaiming that shouting in a church is disorderly, and that shouters are generally hypocrits not tolerated in their charges will themselves bear a good deal of close scrutiny as to consistency of personal conduct, and generally they partake more of the character of spiritual refrigerators than healers. As to shouting and shouters the man that man can prevent from shouting ought to be prevented.

The Central Ohio Methodist Episcopal Conference had a very interesting session at Fostoria. The statistical secretary reported as follows; Number of full members, 29,282; preachers, 154; churches, 355. Value $8,865 550; parsonages, 92; value $134,900 Current expenses $20,735. Amount paid to pastors, elders and bishops, $106,787. Number Sunday schools, 340; attendance 22,589. Bellefontaine was chosen as the place of next meeting.

Church Polity.

May the Methodist ministers observe without censure, some of the holy days and holy weeks anciently observed in the Church?—Liberia Subscriber.

Answer. In the sense that all days, and all weeks are for holy observation, yes. But our answer must depend upon your question, which is too indefinite to permit of a specific reply. You must first inform us which were the holy days and holy weeks anciently observed in the church."

And since your inquiry is whether a "Methodist, meaning a Methodist Episcopal minister may, without censure" observe not all such "holy days and holy weeks," we must know which of the said days and weeks it is, you wish to observe, before we can give such reply to you, as would be satisfactory to ourself. Preachers in charge of our churches are authorized to observe watch nights, fast days, communion days, Sabbath days, and they usually observe Christmas day, Easter day, Good Friday, Ascension day and Passion week. By preaching upon these solemn subjects they suggest.

Then too, there is our Missionary day, Children's day, and Good Tidings day, which can be observed by all Methodist Episcopal ministers without censure; and after the careful observation of these days, with the arduous labor of itinerant added, there will be little inclination, if any time to consult a calendar of saints' days or any thing of that sort.

Our Church is more careful as to what the pastors preach about, and it has specified several subjects. Christ in all His affairs, His law, and His Gospel are the first and greatest of them. After these in sec. 157, page 92, Discipline 1884, several other topics are provided. We ask you to carefully consider them. We may, without censure as Methodist Episcopal preachers observe all days and weeks as holy. But we must not forget that the Methodist are a simple people who professionally observe all times and seasons alike for holy walking with God. There are churches which make a speciality of occasional piety, but one must be constant.

Schools and Colleges.

Central Tennessee College.

R. F. BOYD, M. D.

The Central Tennessee College opened favorably students have been coming ever since the opening. There are over sixty in the boarding hall, and still they come. By the middle of October we expect to be full and overflowing, Most of the old students are still teaching. Their school will close by the middle of next month, all the teachers are at their posts, and students seem to be more in earnest this year than ever. The new department of cookery and laundry will be ready for occupancy soon. It is three stories, the lower story being of stone. The Tennessee Singers who went out to raise funds for the school have returned, Prof. L. N. D. Pickett, the leader, having taken sick. Their trip was not a financial success, owing to the stringency of the times. President Braden tendered a reception to the singers and thanked them for their earnest effort to raise means for their alma mater, and welcomed them to the school and friends who had watched their cause and prayed for their success, health, and safe return. On Monday morning Oct, 5, the Meharry Medical Department will open. Students from Texas, Alabama and Mississippi have already begun to come in. We expect a larger number in this department this year than ever before; quite a number is expected from Texas and Arkansas. These states were thoroughly canvassed last year in the interest of Meharry. There has been quite an addition to the library and laboratory, and the course of study has been raised. The departments of Pharmacy and Dentistry will be opened this year. There is already a demand for colored druggists, and towns in the South should have a colored dentist, as well as a practicing physician. With the exception of one addition the faculty will be the same as last year. After looking over the catalogue of Meharry the other day, a very eminent physician said to me, the graded course, text book recitations and regular courses of lectures placed Meharry on an equality as to thoroughness of work, with any medical college in the South. I tell you, brother Editor,

Mcmurry Medical College is coming up.

For the Southwestern.

Mixed a Little From One Side.

REV. G. W. SAMS, LITTLE ROCK CONFERENCE.

There are a great many people in our church who oppose the oplor line only where it favors the colored people. They have a great deal to say on the subject if they see a colored man so favoring the color line as to benefit his race.

It is indisputably true that the color line exists in our church. Let us see by whom it is most commonly practised.

The fact that no colored man can hold any position over the white members of our church in the South cannot be denied.

Before our Southern white members would allow this I believe that they would leave the church by thousands. Though that colored man should in a literary sense surpass any one over whom he was appointed. And though his character was as pure as angels. Our Bishops know this to be true. Therefore they make no attempt to settle colored ministers over white congregations. In such cases the color line is adopted. Acting for the peace and harmony of the church until the walls of prejudice are battered down by the gospel, this administration is right in many particulars. But let us look at the other side of the question. In a certain case the colored preachers and their membership protested against the appointment of an objectionable man as their presiding elder, and earnestly requested the bishop to appoint a suitable colored one. They made it clear that it was for the good of the church that they wished it. But their request was ignored and the objectionable man appointed be[illegible] white. I have a case [illegible] in my mind, in which the bishop knew from what he had seen and heard that a certain brother who had been presiding elder over a given district in our conference was unacceptable to the people of many of his churches and to many of the preachers. For nearly if not all his preachers came to my stopping place at the seat of our last conference at the hour of midnight and talked the matter over, and wanted to sign a petition which they had drawn up requesting the bishop not to reappoint said brother, but to give them a colored man instead.

For fear of incurring the displeasure of the Bishop, and bringing vengeance from him or the presiding elder upon themselves, they deferred the matter to another year, and because it could be seen that this brother was not wanted but a colored man in his place, and because a representative Negro in a speech before the conference said that "A Negro with equal ability, if called [illegible] to colored work [illegible] white man." Because of [illegible] objectionable presiding elder was reappointed, and [illegible] this brother, and the [illegible] said to me personally, and [illegible] what has since been said [illegible] it is clear that that appointment was made neither for Christ nor the work's sake, but for [illegible]. If so, in such work Christ [illegible] In this case the color line [illegible]. Now if the color line [illegible] why not all cases; [illegible] a colored man says anything [illegible] wanting a colored man to [illegible] that position over him. [illegible] speaker gentlemen [illegible] him "disloyal." [illegible] call it "disloyalty" [illegible] Glance. But since [illegible] from [illegible] among [illegible] no chance for [illegible] there. I say [illegible] forgive [illegible] in these are [illegible] of your among them.

[illegible] in this [illegible] because they [illegible] No.]

Books and Current Literature

For four years Dr. D. H. Wheeler held the position of consul to Genoa. During this time he was a close observer of Italian life and customs. His notes on this interesting country have never been published until now. He is furnishing for The Chautauquan a serial on Modern Italy which, if we are to judge from the the paper in the October issue, will be very good reading.

One evidence of the continued prosperity of The American Antiquarian is given in the fact that it is absorbing various amateur journals, and surviving all competitors in the same department. The editor announces in the September number that the Museum, a monthly recently established in Philadelphia has been merged into the Antiquarian, and that all of the contributions, correspondence, engravings and subscription lists have been already transferred. A new department called the "Museum," devoted to the description of archæological relics has however been established, and Mr. E A Barber the Editor of the Museum is to have charge of it. Archæology is now the rising science and it is a cause for congratulation that a magazine which is as safe and careful, and at the same time as progressive and scholary as the Antiquarian, should be able to hold the field, and unite the workers of all classes. The following is the table of contents of the September number: Prehistoric Cities of South America, by L. P. Gratacap. [Illustrated;] A Navajo Myth by W. Matthews; The Taensa Grammar and Dictionary, by D G. Brinton, M. D; Ancient Canals on the South West Coast of Florida, by A. E Douglass; The Dogs of Æsculapius, by A. C. Merriam; Correspondence:—Antiquities of the Wabash River. Ancestor Posts on the Pacific Coast. The Sun Symbols in Earthworks. Mound Builder's Relics from Indiana. Editorial:—Explorations Among the Emblematic Mounds; Notes on Archæological Relics. [Illustrated;] Notes from the Far East; Literary Notes; Book Reviews; Books Received. Price $4. per year. Published by F. H. Revell, 150 Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church Review presents the following table of contents for the forthcoming October number: I, Life of Lord Lawrence and Its Lessons, by Edward W. Blyden, D. D, Liberia, W. C; II, The Need of New Ideas and New Aims for a New Era, by Alex. Crummell, D. D. Rector of St. Mary's, Washington D. C.; III, Claimants for Territory on the Congo, by Archibald Johnson, Esq, Oxford University, England; IV, Our Theology, by B. F. Lee, D D editor Christian Recorder, Philadelphi; V, Colored Men as Professors in Colored Institutions, by Rev. Francis J. Grimke, A. M. Pastor of Fifteenth Street Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C. VI, Early Discoveries in Africa, by Prof. Geo. W. Cook, A. M., Howard University, Washington, D. C. VII, Woman's Lament: A Poem, by Prof. Alexander Dumas Delany, Urbana, O VIII, Tacitus' German Woman, by Frazella Campbell, principal Female Department Institute for Colored Youth, Philadelphia. IX, The Intrinsic Value of a "Ready Pen," by Rev I. H. Welch. D. D X, Notes of the West Indies, by a West Indian XI, On The Border Land, Poetry, by Prof. J. A. M. Johns XII, the N. O Exhibition; Colored Department, by B. Henri Herbert, Commissioner for New Jersey. XIII, The Barbarism of our Civilization, by Rev. J. C. Embry, Publisher A. M. E. Church. Editorials, "Keep His Head Down." Scarborough vs. Harrison. Lord Rothschild. Dr. Byron Sunderland's Letter. Grant's Silence. Crisis in Liberia. Gordon's Estimate of Black Troops. Book Table, Payne's Domestic Education. Turner's Methodist Polity. Boggs' Resurrection of the Redeemed. Roberts' Dieu et mon Droit. Reviews, Monthlies. Bi Monthlies. Quarterlies.

In St. Nicholas for October we find some of the brightest and cleverest contributions that have appeared during the year—notably, the idyllic "Garden of Girls" story, by Celia Thaxter, entitled "Peggy's Garden," in which the authoress shows that she is a poet, even when writing prose. Then there is a characteristically impossible tale by Frank R. Stockton, the unmixed absurdity of which is sufficiently indicated by the title, "The Captain and the Mines Canon." The boys who have been hard at work playing ball all summer will enjoy the story by a base ball expert of "How Science Won the Game," which contains practical directions for pitching the "out" and "in" curves. E S. Brooks tells us about another "Historic Girl," "Pulcheria of Constantinople," and how she afterward became an Empress. In the "From Bach to Wagner" series, Agatha Tunis writes about Mendelssohn, whose bright and happy boyhood stands in pleasant relief to the lives of many musicians. There is an interesting paper by John R Coryell on "Honey Hunters;" and Palmer Cox relates in inimitable pictures and verses the adventures of "The Brownies at School." But probably most readers, before turning to these and other bright stories, poems and pictures, will first look to see how Mr. Trowbridge finally extricates his hero from the difficulties in which he has been involved by "His One Fault," and how Mr. E P Roe disposes of the happy family that has been "Driven Back to Eden"—the two serial stories that, like other good things, must come to an end.

Forestry is well represented in the October issue of Outing. Mr. G. R Goddard contributes an article on the "Head Waters of the Hudson," which deals squarely with the Adirondack question. There is fearful truth in the statement that "there exists to-day hardly one important lake or stream in the Adirondacks that has not been tampered with, dammed in the name of soulless utility, with a result fairly expressed by a different spelling of the word." Mr. M. W. Gillett also contributes an article to the "Outing Club," regarding the cultivation of timber, that is full of interest.

An article of curious interest, and very instructive withal, on comets, by President A. D. White, leads in the October Popular Science Monthly It is a history of the strange beliefs and speculations that have been entertained in different ages respecting the nature and import of comets, and the history constitutes a most striking chapter in the warfare of science with ignorance and superstitution The paper shows immense research. The second article is entitled "The White Ant: A Theory," and is by that lucid thinker and happy writer Professor Henry Drummond. The paper is long, beautifully illustrated, charmingly written, and full of new information concerning an extraordinary creature, and especially the wonderful part it plays in the economy of Nature. "The Early Study of Plants," by Miss Eliza A. Youmans, is an extremely valuable contribution to the science of primary education. "On Malarious Countries, and their Reclamation," by that eminent authority, Torcmasi Orndeli, discusses questions which vitality concern a great many people. "The Energy of Life Evolution, and how it has acted," by Professor Cope, is a further development of his original views upon that subject. "The Metaphysical Society," by Hutton, is a brilliant paper, giving an account of one of the meetings of that remarkable club, and what was said about miracles and the uniformity of Nature by men of the caliber of Ward, Huxley, Dalgairns, Ruskin, Bagehot, Sir James Stephen, and Dr. Martineau. "The Solar Corona," by Huggins; "The Relations of Railway Managers and Employes," by Barnard; "The Trading Rat," and "Tissue Selections in the Genesis of Disease," are excellent and readable papers. There are a likeness and biographical sketch of Professor H. A. Newton, and an editorial discussion of "Official Science at Washington" The minor departments are full and varied as usual. New York: D. Appleton & Company. Fifty cents a number, $5 a year.

We have received from the publishers A. H. Andrews & Co. a useful little volume, suggestively called "Look Within for Five Thousand Facts that Everybody Wants to Know" It contains 75 pages of condensed information on Mechanics, Statistics, History, Medicine, Astronomy, Finance, Mythology, Education, Mathematics, The Bible, Politics, Agriculture, Religion, Science, Temperance, Trade, etc. It is embellished with a number of colored diagrams, and is by far the most valuable Pocket Cyclopedia we have yet seen. It is offered for sale at the exceedingly low price of 15 cents, for which sum in stamps it will be sent postpaid by the publishers, A. H. Andrews & Co. Chicago.

"The Woman's Magazine" for September presents a varied and excellent table of contents: A genuine and first-class love story by Margaret E Winslow, a well known writer; a plea for the working women, by Dr. Talmage; for women physicians by a physician; an account of the "Louisville [Ky] School of Pharmacy for Women," — the first one ever established, a fine story for the children; numerous short articles and poems, and a new department, for Women,s Work in Missions, with opening article by Mrs. Jennie F. Willing of Chicago. 10 cts. a copy. $1·00 a year; Frank E. Housh, Publisher, Brattleboro, Vt.

"Book of Mormon; Is it from God?" is a little book published by Rev. M. T. Lamb, Salt Lake City, Utah. Paper 25 cents; cloth 50 cents. Several lectures devoted to the discussion of the main points of Mormonism and delivered in the First Baptist church of Salt Lake, are here gathered together for popular circulation, by special request of Governor Murray. All interested in the subject of Mormonism will find this a handy volume.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Moral Courage.

REV. WALTER DUNCAN.

Moral courage is a virtue of high origin It is an essential element of true greatness. It arises from a consciousness of rectitude and duty. It makes one fearless in the pursuit or defense of truth. Socrates, though a heathen, furnishes a sublime illustration of this noble trait. His was a glorious sacrifice of life rather than surrender what he esteemed truth. He exhibited a perfect pattern of patriotic citizenship. He submitted to an unrighteous sentence and died on the altar of prejudice for the sake of principles he believed to be right. His example has spanned a score of centuries and still lives.

While the reformation is remembered the moral courage of Luther will not be forgotten. The Roman pontiff, armed with temporal power to execute his malevolent purposes, breathed forth his anathemas, but the great reformer did not falter. He defied the thunders of the Vatican, and proceeded on his journey to meet the diet at Worms. "I am called," he said, "in the name of God to go, and I would go, though I were certain to meet as many devils in Worms as there are tiles on the houses."

That was exemplary moral courage.

And he who can contemplate the intrepid Daniel without admiration for his dauntless adherence to a right purpose must be less than human. He was a youth among strangers, a captive in a foreign land. Cut off from the righteous institutions of his native country, he was surrounded by an idolatrous court, the influence of which was calculated to draw his heart from the worship of his fathers, and lead him to forget his duty; but his powers of resistance saved him. Through his constancy, both the impotence of man and the omnipotence of God was made visible to unbelievers. What a noble instance of moral courage was the march of Daniel to the den of lions.

How we love those who know and dare to do their duty; who express honest convictions unmindful of consequences.

A man of moral courage, like the giant mountains, stands firm in the maintenance of his purposes, though storm and tempest toss upon his brow, or the floods of persecution dash at his feet. He is high above the sordid strategy of merely selfish men about him, and his towering soul glories in the moral grandeur of its own height. Thus traveling he goes onward to the tomb unmoved. He is ever cheered by the inward assurances of God's gracious presence here, and the radiance of the great white throne in a blissful immortality hereafter. Without moral courage, it is impossible to be a Christian, or even respectable.

Cakes Without Eggs

In a little book just issued from the press of Messrs. Scribner & Welford, New York, a large number of practical, though novel, receipts are given for making cakes of various kinds, from the informal griddle-cake to the stately bride cake, without eggs, by the use of the Royal Baking Powder. Experienced housekeepers inform us that this custom has already obtained large precedence over old-fashioned methods in economical kitchens, and that the product is often superior to that where eggs are used, and that less butter is also required for shortening purposes. The advantage is not alone in the saving effected, but in the avoidance of the trouble attendant upon securing fresh eggs and the annoyance of an occasional cake spoiled by the accidental introduction of an egg that has reached a little too nearly the incubatory period. The Royal Baking Powder also invariably insures perfectly light, sweet, and handsome cake, or when used for griddle cakes to be eaten hot enables their production in the shortest possible space of time, and makes them most tender and delicious, as well as entirely wholesome. There is no other preparation like it.

The Outlook for Africa.

There has never been a time when the attention of all prominent nations turned with so much interest towards Africa as now. In accordance with the policy sketched by Ezekiel, (30; 13,) which declares, "There shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt," that country must always have a foreign ruler. This has been the the record of history since the death of Nectanebo II., 243 B. C., a period of 2,127 years. If it must be that Egypt must always be ruled by a foreign prince, the law of the survival of the fittest would certainly give the sceptre to England. The politics of Europe seem to be shaping themselves so as to add, at an early day, this historic land to English-Africa. This would make England the owner of African territory twelve times that of the British Islands, and one-half as many people as live in Great Britain. In other parts of the Dark Continent, England has more territory than in her three kingdoms, and five millions of people. In the immense territory known as Algeria, France has African possession, lacking less than the state of Massachusetts of being equal to the whole area of France, with a population of three millions. The young French republic is as wild with the excitement of acquisition as was the empire under the first Napoleon; and, with or without a reason, Madagascar, having one fifth more territory than the whole republic, is likely to be absorbed by the republic.

While Portugal was yet in her glory, she stretched out her hand to take the Indies, both East and West; North and South America, Western and Eastern Africa, and Southern Asia. Her grasp has loosened almost everywhere except on unresisting Africa, where her right is not disputed over 600,000 square miles and among over twelve millions of people,—three times as many as she rules at home.

These three countries are the claimants of African soil; but almost every country in Europe has been seized with the mania for annexation, and any outlaying square mile from from the Mediterranean to the Cape of Good Hope has been free for occupancy by the cheap process of taking.

Even poor, miserable Turkey, if she could be disgraced by anything, would be ashamed of her still more miserable Tripoli, with one-third more square miles than has Turkey in Europe. No part of Africa has had a harder fortune than Tripoli. At first a colony of Carthage, then a province of Rome, then overun by the Vandals, and afterwards owned by the Spaniards, and at last by the Turks, the progress has been downward for two thousand years.

Holland has trading posts on the coast of Guinea, and claims the contignous territory, on which one hundred thousand natives swarm, in utter ignorance of either Dutch advantages or obligations. Belgium is making great efforts to gain a foothold in the interior. A Belgian association, of which the king is a member, was an efficient patron of Mr. Stanley, in his recent explorations. In Germany there is an African colonial association, carefully studying the map of that continent, which has prevailed on the government to establish a colonial bureau, which is to oversee and guard the interests of Germany in that region. All these countries named, and others, are sending explorers through the interior, planting stations, locating claims and staking out the boundaries of empires to be. If Dr. Livingstone had lived ten years longer, England would have owed to him more than Spain was indebted to Columbus. These two men were, both pioneers of dominion and of religion. The former lived to stimulate enterprise and colonization, while the footsteps of the latter will be followed but slowly by his countrymen, who do not readily go from the base of supplies of beef and ale. As the successes of Dr. Livingstone pass into history they become the property of all nations, and all are alike stirred to repeat in Africa the golden legends of the East India company. There is this difference: Africa has a richer soil, is more abundant in minerals, has a more tractable people and is nearer home.

It is a significant fact that, since writing thus far, the news has come that an international council will soon convene, representing England, America, France, Portugal, Spain, Holland and Belgium, for the purpose of securing freedom of commerce to all these nations in the Congo country, and upon the river Niger. The world moves — Golden Censer

The Sweet Old Story.

Tell me about the Master!
I am weary and worn to-night,
The day lies behind me in shadow,
And only the evening is light!
Light with a radiant glory
That lingers about the West.
My poor heart is aweary, aweary,
And longs, like a child, for rest.

Tell me about the Master!
Of the hills he in loneliness trod,
When the tears and blood of his anguish
Dro p d down on Judea's sod.
For to me life's seventy mile-stones
But a sorrowful journey mark;
Rough lies the hill-country before me.
The mountains behind me are dark.

Tell me about the Master!
Of the wrongs he freely forgave;
Of his love and tender compassion,
Of his love that w s mighty to save.
For my heart is aweary, aweary,
Of the woes and temptations of life,
Of the error that stalks in the noonday.
Of falsehood and malice and strife.

Yet I know that whatever of sorrow
Or pain or temptation befall,
The infinite Master hath suffered,
And knoweth and pitieth all.
So tell me the sweet old story,
That falls on each wound like a balm,
And my heart that was bruised and broken
Shall grow patient and strong and calm.

Domestic Hygiene.

Clean Up the Barns and Stables.

Horses and cattle need clean and healthful surroundings just as much as human beings, and if they do not have them their suffering may become very great. Many barns and stables are permitted to go for years at a time without cleansing away the filth, and removing and destroying the rubbish and disinfecting the place. The atmosphere about some barns is almost unendurable, being laden with all manner of foul odors. This arises from the accumulations of filth and decaying vegetable, and sometimes animal matter, which ought to be removed and destroyed or disinfected. The atmosphere about a barn or stable ought to be as sweet and pleasant as about a house. If it is not so, be sure there is gross neglect. After a barn has been well cleared of rubbish it may be easily disinfected. Whitewash of lime well and often applied to the barn and stable, both inside and outside, helps wonderfully to clear away offensive odors and dangerous emanations. After diseased cattle or horses have been about the barn or stable great precaution needs to be taken to prevent the retention of the germs of disease, and its communication to other animals. Some diseases will retain germs about barn or stable in great numbers and virulence. They only await a favorable moment to break out with all their force. You can stamp out these diseases so deadly to our domestic animals. Clean up and disinfect barnyards and stables to prevent disease in animals and man.

Salvation Oil, the greatest pain cure on earth, is guaranteed to effect more cures where it is possible for disease of the disease to be reached at a moderate. Price 25 cents a bottle.

The North, Central and South American Exposition.

Opening Nov. 10, 1885—Closing April 1, 1886, at New Orleans, La., U. S. A.

Colored Auxiliary Association Executive Committee—L. A. Martinet, Chairman; James Lewis, ex officio; Paul Trevigne, J. B. Gandet, Secretary; Jas. D. Kennedy, C. H. Thompson, R. F. Hurley, A. Dejoie, A. S. Jackson, A. E. P. Albert, J. T. Newman,

TO THE COLORED PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES:

The management of the North, Central and South American Exposition, ignoring all race or caste distinction, having cordially invited the colored people of the country to enter the Exposition on a footing of equality with all other exhibitors, and in view of the great advantages and lasting benefits, educational, industrial and otherwise, that must accrue to the colored people from an exhibit of their products side by side with the products of the more favored classes, we cheerfully join the Board of Management in their laudable endeavor to fairly represent the race without distinction at the forthcoming Exposition, and appeal to our colored fellow-citizens of the country to lend their assistance to this undertaking.

By the colored people's exhibit at the Worldd's Exposition the capabilities of the race have been judged; the verdict is highly creditable to them and gratifying to the friends of freedom.

A further and more complete exhibit will more fully show the great progress they have made in the trades, the professions, the arts and sciences and in the acquisition of property; will forever settle all doubt, if any still exists, as to their ability to take and maintain their place as a potent factor in the American social fabric, and will especially demonstrate their value in the progressive industrial development of the South, which, by the application of the industry and capabilities of the race to its vast resources, will soon become a great and rich manufacturing mining and commercial section.

Under the liberal arrangements of the management we cannot let pass unimproved the opportunity thus offered to elevate and further identify our race with the grand aspirations of the American people, whose destinies are ours.

Here is our home—here is our country. Americans are we all Hence the opportunity presenting itself in such an auspicious way, we cannot afford to do less towards the advancement and aggrandizement of our common country, than others circumstanced as we are would do without being derelict in our duty as citizens of the Republic.

To the leading colored men of the States and Territories of the Union we appeal to organize themselves in order to co operate with us and the management, to canvass among and present the question of colored exhibits at the Exposition—to show the advantages and beneficent results to be derived therefrom, to the colored people of their States and Territories.

To our colored fellow-citizens of Louisiana we appeal with equal earnestness for their assistance in our efforts to uplift the race and further demonstrate its capabilities.

Feeling assured that wherever the good will and sympathies of women are enlisted success must follow, especially do we appeal to the women of the race not, only for exhibits of their special products in the line of their several avocations, but also for their aid in creating, by organizing among themselves and agitation, a public spirit and interest among our people, in order that the great ends in view may be more speedily and successfully attained.

All articles, whether they be objects of art, literary productions, scientific inventions or discoveries, machines or machinery, products of the shop, field or farm, in short, all articles, products or objects which evidence ingenuity, progress or talent, will be gladly accepted.

It being understood that there will be no separate colored department, we therefore advise our people to prepare and send their exhibits with, or as part of, the collective exhibit of their respective States and Territories.

All information to carry out this plan, for shipment or transportation, for the proper designation of articles so as to identify exhibitors, etc., will be furnished in due time, or upon application to the executive committee.

But individual exhibits, in cases where exhibitors are to defray the necessary expenses, and the expected results likely to repay the outlay, are most desirable and should be made.

Having accepted the task of assisting the Board of Management in securing exhibits from all sections of the country, in quantity and quality that will be a credit and honor to the race and render the Exposition still more attractive, we renew, in conclusion, our earnest appeal to all our people in all the states and Territories—to all our leading men and women, our ministers, lawyers, doctors, artists and scientists, our mechanics and artisans, merchants and farmers to co-operate with us and lend their assistance to the success of this grand enterprise.

72 St. Charles St, New Orleans, September 1st, 1885.

JAMES LEWIS, President.
J. B. GAUDET, Secretary.

Is it Really Consumption?

Many a case supposed to be radical lung disease is really one of liver complaint and indigestion, but, unless that diseased liver can be restored to healthy action, it will so clog the lungs with corrupting matter as to bring on their speedy decay, and then indeed we have consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs, in its worst form. Nothing can be more happily calculated to nip this danger in the bud than is Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." By Druggists.

"It is better to preach a large Gospel in a small church than to preach a small Gospel in a large church."

Is your back lame? It is a solid fact that the only sure cure for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder, is Hunt's Remedy.

The NEW YORK WORLD,
NEW YORK, FOR ONE YEAR
Only $2.20.
OR THE TWO WEEKLIES
—AND A—
Waterbury Watch and Chain FOR $4.20.

Either Weekly alone is worth more than the price asked for both, as they contain reviews of the news of the world, a vast amount of select literary matter, exhaustive commercial reports, in fact everything is embraced that tends to make a

First-class Family Newspaper.

The subscription price to Weekly Times-Democrat alone is $1 50 for 12 months; 75 cents for 6 months, or 50 cents for 3 months.

Every family in New Orleans not taking the Daily TIMES-DEMOCRAT should keep posted in the

by taking these Weeklies, and as an inducement we offer a good serviceable watch for the small addition mentioned above.

The WATERBURY WATCH is a stem-winder, and will run twenty-eight hours. The case is NICKLE-SILVER, and will always remain as bright as a new silver dollar. The Watch has a heavy beveled edge and a crystal front. The works of the Watch are made with the finest automatic machinery. Every watch is tested in varying positions, and is perfect before leaving the factory. Each Watch is put up in a handsome new improved "KEYLESS CASE," for safe transportation through the mails.

No Wonder.

A MAN WHO SUFFERED MENTAL AND PHYSICAL AGONY EIGHT YEARS PROCLAIMS HIS HAPPINESS.

Mental agony is dreadful, but when that and physical ailment combine, it is simply terrible. Such was the condition of Geo. W. Frampton, of Huntingdon, W. Va., for eight years. He was a sufferer of necroses—that is, the leg bone at the ankle was inflamed and mortified, which caused running sores. He says: "Pieces of bone the size of a silver three cent piece came out of the sores on my leg. The discharge from the sores was almost continual, and I was unable to walk. For eight years I have been doctoring. I had been under the treatment of a physician at Newport, Ky., for a year; another at Burlington, O., attended me for three years, and a doctor here at Huntingdon worked with me for a long time. None of them did me any good, and they all finally said my case was hopeless. A few months ago I commenced trying PERUNA, and now I am well. I can walk as good as anybody, and have perfect use of my limbs."

Mr. Alf. Lusk, Wooster, Ohio, writes: "DR. HARTMAN, Columbus, O. I have been a great sufferer from that dreaded disease, chronic catarrh of the stomach. I have thoroughly tried your MANALIN, and it has done me more good ten-fold than all the doctors' prescriptions, and I have used legions of them.

Mr. Edgar Harte, Smeltzer P. O., Elk county, Pa., writes: "I have bought several bottles of your PERUNA, and find it to be of great benefit. I also gave it to some of my friends; they experienced the same result."

Mr. L. R. Wollen, 45 and 47 Ross street, Pittsburgh, Pa, writes: "I am taking PERUNA with good results, and can highly recommend it to all. I have applied at the different drug stores for one of your books. They claim they have none on hand at present. Please do me the favor to send me one."

W. W. Russell, druggist, Canonsburg, Pa., writes: I handle your medicine, PERUNA. I have sold immense quantities of it, and consider it a staple article. I have a great many customers who think there is no medicine like it for a tonic or for building up the system. I recommend it as a safe and reliable remedy."

Calista Fishel, Malvern, Ohio, writes: "I take pleasure in recommending the use of PERUNA and MANALIN to any one afflicted with any form of lung or bronchial trouble. I have been for some time afflicted with a very troublesome cough, but a few bottles of PERUNA entirely cured me."

PERUNA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. A Campaign Secret Given Away.

In the campaign of 1884 the two candidates for governor in a "pivotal" Western State arraigned for a series of joint discussions. Both men were popular, both of fine appearance and were so well matched in mental force and as orators that the contest between them promised to be a magnificent one. For several weeks the scales balanced evenly.

But one day the brilliant Republican candidate came up ailing. He seemed overcome and spoke laboredly. The next day he was even less effectiv . Later he was compelled to ask his opponent for a postponement of certain appointments, which was granted. Before the campaign ended he had abandoned the field altogether.

Meantime the Democratic candidate continued his canvass, seeming to grow stronger, cheerier and more effective with each succeeding week. He was elected. One evening in December while entertaining several gentlemen he said:

"I will tell you a campaign secret—which gave me the election. With the opening of my campaign I began caring for my liver. I knew that a disordered or torpid liver meant dullness and possible sickness. I took something every day. When my opponent began failing I knew his trouble to be his liver and felt like prescribing for him, but feared if I did so he might beat me. I grew stronger as the campaign progressed, often making two speeches a day. Even my voice, to my great surprise, did not fail me once. All because Warner's safe cure kept me in A 1 trim." Ex Governor Jacob of Kentucky, also made a campaign tour under precisely similar circumstances and says he kept up under the exhausting strain by the use of the same means.

Frontier Churches.

In 1879 appeal was made for 400 special gifts of $250 each for new churches on the frontier to be worth, at least, $1,250 each. Up to October 31st, 1885, there has been 268 responses. With these, accompanied in some cases by loans, 268 new churches have been procured, worth on the average, nearly 2 000 each, and accomodating at the time of building, 10,250 members, and 16,620 Sunday school children, affording 80 000 sitting amid populations of 250 000. Being in new communities, the value of the property, and the number of members, etc., is constantly increasing. Our Annual Reports give the the location and facts of each case. The frontier is large and filling up rapidly, and this work can be enlarged indefinitely We need 100 additional gifts of $240 immediately.—From Church Extension Service of Song.

is the sum Dr. Pierce offers for the detection of any calomel, or other mineral poison or injurious drug, in his justly celebrated "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They are about the size of a mustard seed, therefore easily taken, while their operation is unattended by any griping pain. Billiousness, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, and jaundice, yield at once before these "little giants." Of your druggist.

But for the drink habit the cry of hard times would never be heard in this fair land.

Several apartments should be provided in the barn basement, so that breeding ewes may be kept by themselves until their lambs are a few days old.

The best time to destroy crows is in winter. Food is then scarce and they can be baited in traps, and when feeding may be shot more readily than in summer.

Few vegetable dishes are used, as the course are served a la Russe with the vegetable on the dish as a garniture to the meat, game or entree. If, however, they are served separately, the dishes are of porcelain set in silver stands.

Sedgwick Steel Wire Fence.

Is the best general purpose wire fence in use. It is a strong [illegible] work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire, as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial; it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and easiest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the neatest cheap iron fences now made. The Rees folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The best Wire Stretchers. Climbing Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

A Campaign Secret Given Away.

In the campaign of 1884 the two candidates for governor in a "pivotal" Western State arraigned for a series of joint discussions. Both men were popular, both of fine appearance and were so well matched in mental force and as orators that the contest between them promised to be a magnificent one. For several weeks the scales balanced evenly.

But one day the brilliant Republican candidate came up ailing. He seemed overcome and spoke laboredly. The next day he was even less effectiv . Later he was compelled to ask his opponent for a postponement of certain appointments, which was granted. Before the campaign ended he had abandoned the field altogether.

Meantime the Democratic candidate continued his canvass, seeming to grow stronger, cheerier and more effective with each succeeding week. He was elected. One evening in December while entertaining several gentlemen he said: "I will tell you a campaign secret—which gave me the election. With the opening of my campaign I began caring for my liver. I knew that a disordered or torpid liver meant dullness and possible sickness. I took something every day. When my opponent began failing I knew his trouble to be his liver and felt like prescribing for him, but feared if I did so he might beat me! I grew stronger as the campaign progressed, often making two speeches a day. Even my voice, to my great surprise, did not fail me once. All because Warner's safe cure kept me in A 1 trim." Ex Governor Jacob of Kentucky, also made a campaign tour under precisely similar circumstances and says he kept up under the exhausting strain by the use of the same means.

GOLDEN TEXT.

The things which are impossible with men are possible with God. Luke 18. 27.

LESSON HYMN.

Hymnal, No. 161.

God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps in the sea,
And rides upon the storm.
Judge not the Lord by feeble sense,
But trust him for his grace;
Behind a frowning providence
He hides a smiling face.
Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan his work in vain;
God is his own interpreter,
And he will make it plain.

Time.—B. C. 885.

Place.—The city of Samaria, besieged by the Syrians.

Rulers.—See Lesson I.

Connecting Link.—When Samaria was besieged by the Syrians so closely that its people were starving, Elisha delivered the prophecy at the opening of the lesson. Read 2 Kings 6. 24.33.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

1. Doubt, v. 1. 2.
What promise of plenty did Elisha give?
Who doubted him?
How did he express his doubt?
What assurance did Elisha give him?

2. Despair, v. 3, 4.
Who were without the city gate?
What made them despair?
What proposal did they make?

3. Discovery, v. 5 15.
When did the lepers start for the camp?
What discovery was made?
How had the Syrians been ruled?
What did the lepers do in camp?
What did they finally decide to do?
What stratagem did the King suspect?
What counsel was given him by a servant?
How was the matter tested?
What did the scouts find?

4. Death, v. 16. 17.
What did the people do?
What price did the spoil bring?
How was Elisha's prophecy fulfilled?

TEACHINGS OF THE LESSON.

Where in this lesson are we taught—1. That nothing is impossible with God? 2. That the servants of God are under divine protection? 3. That doubt robs us of blessings?

THE LESSON CATECHISM.

[For the entire school.]

1. During the famine in Samaria, what did Elisha prophecy? A plenty on the morrow.

2. What did the four leprous men find when they went to camp? "No man there."

3. What had the Lord made the Syrians to hear? "The noise of the great host."

4. What did the leprous men do? Made it known to the king.

5. When the people knew for a fact that the Syrians had fled [illegible] word of the Lord [illegible]

Obituary.

Bro. Jackson Louis, aged 68. He was a local preacher, and departed this life Sept. 14, after a long spell of illness. He died in the full triumph of a Gospel faith. I visited him during his illness, and he told me, the last conversation I had with him, that he was ready and prepared to go whenever God saw fit to call him. He leaves a wife and children, and friends to mourn his loss.

Letter from Boston.

L. P. CUSHMAN.

Boston is a city noted for its wealth, churches, schools, charitable institutions, and the intelligence and refinement of its people. It is still growing, having nearly doubled its population during the past twenty years. North of it, South of it, and West of it lies a tract of country that is far from being the most fertile in America, but it is dotted with cities, towns and villages, and penetrated by railroads radiating in all directions from this great centre. There go out from the several depots in this city over four hundred passenger and frieght trains of cars every day, each train consisting of from four to thirty coaches or cars. No city on this continent excels Boston in its marvelous arrangements for life and comfort. Its numerous and mammoth warehouses and stores, its palatial hotels, its ample churches and schools, accessible alike to all without the least reference to race, color, or previous condition. (There colored and white attend the same school, sit in the same classes and recite to the same teachers, and why not since God has made of one blood all nations that dwell upon the face of the earth. Its various and gigantic manufacturing [illegible] we have not [illegible] our ability to [illegible] [illegible] one of the wonderful spots on this planet. But Boston is not heaven, its people are busy and active, but they are not all good. The sons and daughters of the devil are here, and seemingly they are among the most active beings in this active city. Let no one think however that the devil has everything his own way in Boston. The sons and daughters of the Lord are also here in goodly numbers. Perhaps some of them may be at ease in Zion but not all. There are ministers and members who are planning and working for the salvation of the people. But an oculist should not have sore eyes, and he who has a sure cure for consumption should not go around with a chronic hacking cough. It is universally conceded that a man cannot teach that he does not know, so no man can preach effectually a standard of Gospel salvation that is essentially above the line of his own experience. It may be all well to speak of the dignity of man, of the unspeakable love of God in sending His son into this world to save sinners, the beauties of religion, the unutterable happiness of a blessed immortality, to reassure the people that Jesus Christ is still the redeemer of the world, the Savior of sinners But that minister occupies an unfortunate position who has to confess that the Gospel which he preaches to others as the power of God unto salvation does not fully save him. Perhaps a little thundering on the remorseful pangs of a guilty conscience, the worm that never dies, the fire that is never quenched, the hopeless banishment of the wicked from heaven into the abyss of outer darkness, where they are tormented day and night forever and ever, would not be out of place, specially if the preacher's heart is intensely aglow with the love of God, so his spirit and temper declare him saved. It ought to be understood here in Boston that hell is not a sort of summer house somewhere on the path of the sinner, where because of his poor chances in this world he is to spend his second probation in regaling himself with the pleasant or unpleasant memories of a sinful and a voluptuous life.

Just now the Methodist ministers are wasting an immense amount of time and strength in discussing the question "How can we reach the multitude." A question that implies a truth that must be exceedingly mortifying and weakening to every son of Wesley. A question too that is very simple or complex according to the standpoint of the speaker or writer. If he stands on the platform of modern thought and custom, all is involved in doubt and uncertainty, and he looks into one great dark. But if on the platform of the New Testament all is clear. Christ when he called Peter and Andrew to leave their net to follow him said he would make them "fishers of men" He who catches fish must go where they are.

Our Colored Work in Kansas.

REV. R RECTOR, PASTOR ASBURY CHURCH.

Old wounds are healing up and our work is now increasing here. I found things greatly confused here and thought of trying Jonas' plan. But as I have not at any time suffered myself to disobey the call, so with faith and prayer to God I assumed the duties here as I have ever done elsewhere. It seemed as if nothing short of Gabriel's trumpet could awaken this work to life. But like Solomon we can now say "who is she that looketh forth as the morning." Our work is increasing, but the continuity of this success depends on one thing; that is, we must be so shaped as to more readily reach the masses of our people.

I am more than ever convinced that we need a different shaping of our work for success. To advance our interest among the people as we desire to do, we ought I think to have a Kansas district and a colored presiding elder of it. I say it without any west colored for our white presiding elders that they are doing all they can to carry on this work, but they cannot reach the wants of our people, so well as one of our class. Then too, we should more rapidly prepare young ministers for our work in this way. Then we can never use the license they hold without an opportunity to work. They require practical training Like young eagles, they should not be kept forever in the nest and hovered, but thrown from it that they might do for themselves when they are able. I am a quiet man in the St. Louis and in the Kansas conference where I have been a member, I looked a heap and said but little. But the time has now come to speak, "For Zions sake, I will not hold my peace." We do not want to draw the color line but we are anxious to do what we esteem the best to accomplish the design of our church here. We are losing hundreds of people who come here and joined the African Methodist Church and the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church because we have no man in the field as a presiding elder especially devoted to the work of looking after and gathering them into our church here. And where we have small classes I learn that some of our white brethren are advising them to unite with the African Church. Such things are very unpleasant for a colored minister to hear. Just as well persuade them to join the Roman Catholic Church. For these reasons we are greatly in hope that we shall have our district and presiding elder at our next conference. This is the sentiment of our people throughout Kansas. Then with a few men willing to do pioneer work great things can be done in this country. The couch was thorny here at first but we find feathers at last. All who come must expect this.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; It produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Smith's Tonic Syrup
FOR THE CURE OF
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

Full many worse than fruitless fields were found,
Where sprang no vigorous shoots of righteousness,
But thorn and thistles covered the ground
And useless weeds and noxious grew apace
There stout armed Methodist prepared the place,
Uprooted weeds and thorns and thistles vile;
And planted deep the healthy germs of grace,
Which rooted in a good and genial soil,
Repaid in time with fruit the hardy tiller's toil.

Rev. Lewis N. Taylor.

L. M. HAGOOD.

The above named brother's death, when announced to the writer last week, struck him very forcibly. Particulars of his death have not yet been received further than the fact that he died at Evanston, Ill., of malarial fever this week. I I first met him in Sedalia, Mo., his home, in 1870. He was a young man of much promise. He was born in 1851, being 34 years of age. He was of medium hight and built, in color what is called light brown skinned, of noble physique, prepossessing in personal appearance, and affable in manner, tidy in dress and of pleasing countenance. He was a man possessed of more than the average natural ability. When I first met him he was engaged in selling monuments for cemeteries for a firm in or near the city of Sedalia. In this, as in all the other avocations of life, he displayed vigor, indefatigable industry, earnestness of purpose, and business tact possessed by few men of his age and race at that time. He was much respected as a salesman for his brilliant conversational power, quick wit and business qualities. After this he was engaged as lecturer for an organization, of which he was one of the originators; known as the Sons and Daughters of Charity. He seemed always to have the courage of his convictions. Sometimes, because of this, he found himself opposed, rashly criticised, and judged imprudent, but seemingly he knew no such word as fail. Having but limited educational advantages he diligently applied his mind to his books, and was, as is usual in such cases, liberally rewarded. As a public speaker he was forcible, logical, accurate and highly entertaining. Among his associates he had no superior in this. He possessed a fine voice, which he handled to advantage; the beauty of his diction and the grandeur of his natural eloquence were only surpassed by the elegance and grace of their presentation. He possessed enough self-reliance to prevent extreme timidity. He believed in asserting his manhood, and at the same time respecting his race. He possessed great race pride. He never appeared so natural, eloquent and dignified as when defending the race; nor so sublime in thought as when presenting Christ crucified to a lost and ruined world. In the pulpit he was earnest and dignified. He became noted as a minister, while rendering service at the famous Sedalia camp meetings of other days, and while filling, as a local preacher the pulpit of his native city, Sedalia, in the absence of his pastor. He applied for membership in the St. Louis Annual Conference held in Kansas City, Mo., in 1878. He was, after a rigid examination, admitted and appointed by Bishop T. Bowman pastor at Independence, Kansas. Here he raised his record. The white pastors of the city invited him to preach in their pulpit. He remained there two years. During this time he married Miss Toley, his now bereaved wife. Owing to her youthfulness some of his brethren in the conference were not well pleased because of this marriage, and their words were as goods to him.

At the conference held in Sedalia, in 1883, he was ordained deacon, and transferred to the Missouri conference over the Missouri river. He received an appointment to Fulton, Calaway county, Mo., where he remained two years, and did valuable service. Becoming acquainted with a public spirited brother of his church named Minor, he in company with ex Presiding Elder Hughes originated the Methodist Men and Women's Mutual Aid and Beneficiary Society, of which he was president. When the conference committee examined him and found him anxious to pursue a course of study in some institution of learning, they recommended him, above others, as the most hopeful person to be educated at Garret Biblical Institute, at Evanston, Ill. His record there, I think, is good. His wife and self remained there up to his sudden and unexpected demise. In the interest of the above named organization he visited several of the Southern States, and planted the organization. Those who met him will remember his earnestness and affability.

Bro. Taylor's death will leave for a time a breach in the ranks of the promising young men of our church. In the world the evil that men do lives after they are gone, and the good is oft interred with their bones. It cannot be so in the church. We find it natural to differ in this world with each other's opinions, but death settles all accounts, ends all disputes, relegates to the rear that which should not come to the front and facing the living with the startling revelation "in the midst of life we are in death."

The Best Method of Governing Our Sunday-School.

MRS. EMMA ALEXANDER.

The government of a Sunday-school as a science comprehends the mental constitution of man and its relations to those means by which he can receive and impart instruction and culture. To govern a school successfully it requires a science of school government. The superintendant of a school may be very sage and yet lack the scientific ability of governing. All educational institutions should have some form of government for its instructors to pursue.

The day school teachers of the country assemble at certain times to discus the theory and practice of teaching, and they are greatly benefited. To put the Sabbath school on a firm basis its faculty ought to discuss the theory of teaching at its board meetings. The methods adopted in the work of teaching may be right of they may be wrong; just so as the lawyer may gain or lose his cause, the physician may cure or kill his patient; or as the mechanic may operate upon his wood by skillful or unskillful processes, the school may pursue the right methods of teaching or the wrong methods. The officers of a school should be well acquainted with the duties of of their office. Any degree or perfection is the outgrowth of only well governed schools, and that degree of perfection must be brought about by the officers, being well acquainted with the school lessons, so as to teach all alike as to doctrine. The duties of a superintendent is to see that the school is properly taught, that the right books are used and thoroughly understood by the teachers, and to see that order is kept during school hours. The greatest opposition to our schools is caused by some of our superintendents not being qualified to fill their positions satisfactorily to the pupils. Kindness and affection are very essential for the Sabbath-school officers to possess. Because, through them schools can be greatly influenced. Active teachers make active scholars; their influence radiates and spreads in every direction. Christianity is another essential quality for Sunday school officers to possess. Our teachers should be members of the M. E. Church and should take a great interest in enlarging the school. How can the officers of a school expect their school to grow in intellect when the officers fail to equip themselves? There is more responsibility on the Sabbath-school teacher than there is on the day school teacher and yet many of our Sabbath school teachers are not acquainted with the rudiments of teaching. All are not teachers who have an education; many attempt to govern a school who know nothing about the theory and practice of teaching. Others attempt to govern a school for the honor it gives them, not for the good that they can do for the school. It is very important that the governing power of a school should be an educated one, because they have pupils' minds to train from infancy to manhood. In these stages we have many different forms of mind to deal with, besides we have many learned and cultured minds to direct, who have high asperations, minds that are versed in the elements of the "common school studies," minds that expect to make many noble works on this earth. Therefore much depends on us. We should be qualified to monstrare viam success, we should, as teachers be as studious as the pupils, so we can impart truths to them.

To interest their minds in their different studies, we must be versed in them. To place Sabbath-schools of Louisville district on a par with other Sunday-schools, we must have the same intellectual kind of government. Our prescribed course of study can not be excelled, we have had plenty of bad government, and expended a vast amount of money buying unnecessary books.

The best governing method for Sunday-schools is for all to work in one way and in love. The officials should make special preparation to perform their duties. In conclusion I will say to the readers if you agree with my stated proposition, we will, as preachers, teachers, deacons, trustees, exhorters, superintendents and scholars, work together in the chair of love, for love and union is strength. We hope the day is near when our schools can be called the leading schools morally and intellectually.

The Duty of Sunday-School Teachers.

PETER A. FISHER, ESQ.

The teachers in the Methodist Episcopal Sunday schools ought to be sound minded Methodist Episcopal Christians. "Living epistles known and read of all men." The primary duty of an honest teacher is to examine into the equality of his own spirit. He ought above all things to consider their value and his relation to the souls of his pupils.

He should trace out the handi work of God in every child regardless of caste or any unfavorable circumstances by which it is or has been surrounded. The highest attainment for himself and each pupil is his first qualification to teach. He should never lower this standard or relax his efforts to reach it and remain in the work. It is his duty to make especial preparation for each Sabbath's work in the previous week. Occupying a place where ignorance is a sin he should be impressed with the importance of thorough preparation and go to his part of duty full of his work.

Let the teacher consider well what manner of spirit he is of then. And be sure that his designs are all right. The teacher owes it to himself to be prompt in attendance, kind in his intercourse and clear in his teaching. He best leads who is loved and understood by his pupils. His power lies in creating within his pupils a desire for improvement, a wish to rise above their present conditions, and attainments. It is the duty of the teacher to direct his pupils how to study. He should point them to ideas rather than words which convey them. To subjects instead of the books which contain them.

Mere recitation is an insufficient substitute for study. He should teach the lesson referring to books as helps. He should show his pupils how to find and study the subject of every lesson. The Sunday school teacher conscious of a useful and honorable calling, should be an honorable and useful man. He must awaken and learn the unimproved mind to think and reason correctly; he must train it to discipline and move it to truth and virtue; so that going forth from him it will exert a power for good through all coming time.

It is the teacher's duty to instruct his pupils from the book of nature, as well as the world's literature. The moral training of children is committed to their parents by God, and where parental influence and training, consist with correct morals is as the duty of Sunday-school teachers to supplement it in all their intercourse with the children. Whatever the relation of any home may be to the right moral culture of the children under its influence.

The teacher must always be an educator of the heart, as well as the head in right moral ideas and practices.

Knowledge is power but without right principles it makes a "powerful villain." The teacher's precepts will prove to be an important factor in his work and should therefore be always right. He should be well acquainted with human nature as it is, and understand the power of conscience as well as the means of reaching it.

But above and over all stands his example. Example is everything, it should be pure and soulful, always controlled by the law of right and love.

Onward and Upward.

JOHN W. STEPHENSON, ESQ.

There was a time when our voices were hushed to the onward march of progress, but a better day has dawned, and the time has come that we must have "Onward" for our motto. Had Columbus yielded to the threats and entreaties of his crew America might still be undiscovered, and here still the Indian lover might have wooed his dusky mate under the shades of the spreading trees, or by the rippling stream. Man was created with a progressive spirit. He must push onward, or he will retrograde. This echoes in his ears from the sunny morn of youth till the dewy eve of age, when life's sun is about to set.

My associates and others in your eagerness to rise to distinction forget not that it took Milton almost a life-time to complete his "Paradise Lost;" that Cooper, whose poetry seems to flow without effort, tells us that each line cost him one-half hour's work; that it was seven years before the gray dawn of the day when Gray's "Elegy" was completed. In the face of all these struggles let no one shrink from his tasks because it is arduous, but like Napoleon at the foot of the mountain, ask if the way is practicable, the answer coming back barely possible. Give command onward and all will be well. To you, oh youth of to day, has been said, and is now the saying, just beyond the Alps lies Italy. Then arouse ambition's slumbering fires, and strive for the topmost round. The laurel may even now be wreathed designed to deck thy brow. Though misfortunes and circumstances surround you which seems to baffle your most persistent effort; though friends who once seemed near and dear to you have deserted you; though rough waves of public opinions have well nigh overwhelmed you with their angry billows, still place high your standard and success will surely reach your aim. We have seen the benefits of advancements, political, moral and intellectual. We have seen the poorly clad youth of our country taken from the very depths of poverty climb slowly but surely upward and onward until he has shone as one of the brightest stars in the constellation of intellect. We have seen the advancement of civilization as it moves onward to a higher plane of excellence, have seen how the Christian religion has spread among the heathen nations of the earth, and made the garden of their mind blossom as a rose. We have seen what vast inroads the march of mind has made in the nineteenth century. We have seen men and women that have crossed the Alps for Italy from Central Tennessee College, Fisk University and Roger Williams Institute. We have seen science picking up pebbles on the shore; aye, and more than this, we have seen her plunge down into the profound depth of the unknown and bring up pearls of the brightest hue. We have seen how the once uncultivated soil of our beloved America has been made to bring forth in its abundance and nourished on its bosom the mightiest and grandest nation the world has ever known. We have seen how our once slaved mothers and fathers sprang from the yoke of bondage into liberty, and the descendants thereof preparing for different professions of life. Aye, more than this; we have seen them crossing the Alps for Italy. Let the motto onward, like a blazing meteor, sweep on down the surging grooves of change, and bursting forth into the halls of every succeeding century illumine its walls with bright effulgent rays of grandeur till the angels shall swear that the time shall be no longer. Ah, then let us push onward; for though we, the sons and daughters of the once servants for we have been kept in bondage two long centuries, and therein treated as dumb driven cattle to market, but association confronting those long centuries January 1st, 1873, our morning star of prosperity appeared to us, and since that time we have made mighty strides up the Alpine heights of learning, yet onward and upward, there are positions, stations and possibilities yet to be attained, of which we have little dreamed. Behold the colleges that are now opening their portals to you, are you going to spend your time in repining, and say that heaven has destined you captive? If not association, have onward for your motto. Strive for the Alpine heights, for you have in your reach Central Tennessee College with its Normal Academic Collegiate, Lexington, and medical course, for refining, and the president therein is beseeching you every day to come and prepare yourselves for life. Who would be a drone in life's busy bee hive, or an idler in life's busy workshop? Then let us strive for the Alpine summit and onward will be our guide.

From the Districts.

Staunton (Va) District.

W. T. HARRIS.

MR. EDITOR—The writer wishes to inform you that we have closed the first and second quarters of the district work for this year. During these two quarters there has been 130 souls added to the chnroh. The church at Martinsburgh, which was totally destroyed by a storm a few months ago, has been sold by the creditors and bought in by the congregation, and they are hard at work on a new building, and they ask and desire the aid and sympathy of all lovers of Christianity, as they are left without any place of worship of their own. The weather has been intensely hot and dry here this summer in the lower part of the valley, but further west, all through Greenbrier, Bath, Pocahontas, Summer, Monroe, Augusta, and the highland counties, as far as I have traveled, good seasons have prevailed, and the products of the earth, such as corn, oats, potatoes, buckwheat, etc., is far beyond that of any season for many years.

In point of territory our district comprises a part of Eastern and Western Virginia, with seventeen counties. The principal streams along which we travel are the Shenadoah, Greenbrier, New and Potomac rivers, by way of turnpikes. These routes are all mountainous, with scenery beyond description, makes a journey of each quarter 1835 miles. We are also glad to inform you that God, in His gracious providence, has preserved the health of the ministerial brethren and their families so far this year. Thanking and praising God for past favor upon the work of our holy Methodism we shall enter upon the work of the third quarter on the 2d of October, hoping and trusting him for a bright and happy future. Far and wide may her dominion be extended and long may her flag wave.

Marion District Conference, Central Alabama.

B. G. SMITH.

The Marion district conference, Central Alabama Conference, convened at Tuscaloosa, Ala., July 23, Rev. E. B. McCauley in the chair. Rev. N. H. Speght preached the opening sermon.

Bro. E. M. Jones, of Marion, and Bro. S. W. Jackson, of Entaw, were licensed to preach.

Bro. W. M. Leewood was recommended for ordination.

On Sunday our preachers preached in the other churches in the town, and there was a collection raised for the M. E. Church in each church. Bro. W. H. Nelson preached Sunday night.

We have worked up a union here with all the churches. We are at work trying to raise money to pay on the Church Extension debt. The conference left a good impression among the people of Tuscaloosa. Our enemies are beginning to love us. Everything looks well for our success. We raised on Sunday $34.15.

2. Resolved, That we heartily [illegible] SOUTHWESTERN as our [illegible] paper, and through the judgment of the last General Conference they did select a representative of the Negro race in the person of Dr. M. W. Taylor, D. D., who has so ably edited one of our leading church papers, and we, as ministers, shall urge every Methodist family and friend to subscribe for the said paper.

Resolutions were offered on all departments of the church.

We, the committee, to investigate the Methodist Mutual Aid Society of our church, after a thorough investigation we believe it is the society for the people. We have noticed the promptness of the society to pay its policies. Sister C. Moody has received her pro rata as per policy in force. The secretary writes that he is ready to pay the widow of Rev. E. M. Manson.

Resolved, That we will recommend this society to all our preachers and members, and also organize the local aid for the protection of its members.

JESSE P. PRICE, P. E,
J. A. W. MOORE, Secretary.

P. S. Dear brethren, remember that the Annual Conference is very near at hand, and if you have failed to collect your benevolent money, or to have used all the energy that was in your power, you have failed to do your duty as a minister. Brethren, the truth is delightful. You know we have not done our duty toward that institution of learning which has done so much toward elevating our young men and women. I want to see if I can get 100 men or women to give $10 to educate some young man or woman. I will start the ball at $10. Keep it rolling, brethren, until Central Tennessee College shall enjoy all the financial advantages of any other institution in the State or any other State. I want to see $1000 raised for the Central Tennessee College. Let me hear through the SOUTHWESTERN who will give ten dollars and forward the same to Dr. J. Braden, President of Central Tennessee College. I want to hear from every brother in the conference, more especially those in the West. If we are to be men we must stand alone and help ourselves, and its the only way that we can prove that we are competent to stand alone. Brethren, dont forget your presiding elder, that money that was promised by each pastor comes in slow, remember we are far behind with him this year, and unless you spur up he will not get his money. I can only speak for Friendship, she has paid him and we are ready to meet the Annual Conference with our benevolent money that has been assessed.

To The Ministers of Gulf District Mississippi Conference

Dear Brothers, do not fail to raise the amount assessed to each charge. Our apportionments are small on the district, let each pastor see to it, that every dollar assessed to his charge is raised. The farming part of our people are handling more money at this season of the year than any other. Now is the time to collect while they have it. I will repeat what I have once said, don't come to the Annual Conference with excuses, for they don't pay debts. I hope that the pastors will not stop until the last dollar assessed to each charge is raised. Furthermore don't forget the third Monday in October is Good Tidings Day. We have said enough at present. Let us collect.

Yours Truly.
W. MCDONALD, P. E,
Brookhaven Miss, Sept., 28, 1885.

The Work on the Baton Rouge District, Wesley Cpapel.

STEPHEN PRIESTLY P. E.

Rev. R. Thompson is doing a grand work, many precious souls are being converted and the church is crowded to hear this man of God. The members are holding up the pastor's arms and we are having a good time. Over $677 have been raised in this third quarter, and 66 souls have been happily converted to God.

Wesley Chapel.—Rev. J. P. Franklin is doing well, we have paid off a debt of over a hundred dollars.

Clinton.—Rev. Prince King is holding the fort and the church is lively, we need a parsonage at this place very much.

Comite.—Rev. C. Kershaw is making much needed improvements, a new pulpit, new seats and a nice fence has been added to the church work, and all the benevolent collections taken up before the third quarterly conference; all pastors should take this example.

Macedonia.—has a lively choir and a grand people at this charge Rev. C. Barnes has been restored to his health, and is leading his black.

Mt. Carmel.—We have a class of members growing into wealth, Rev. H. James is the happy man, and pressing on the enemy's lines gaining grounds for Christ.

Bethel.—Rev. J. G. Rogers is beloved by his people, and a good spiritual influence prevails.

Jackson.—The people are struggling hard to take care of their pastor Rev. W. Davis, he is beloved by his members, and has made some little improvements in painting which we hope to finish soon.

State Line.—Rev. J. H. Rylander is holding the fort and at Mt. Siana is building a new church.

Slaughter.—A Baptist battle field, Rev. B. Carr is is building a breast work.

The Plains.—Rev. R. J. Thomas like a general in the battle field with his soldiers for Christ, a new church is being built that was burnt down.

Mt. Pleasant.—is a beautiful place fronting on the Mississippi river. We need a church at this point very much. Rev. C. Wright has procured the deeds already through the kindness of Mr. Hyce, the owner of the place.

Dutch Town.—We are opposed by the Baptists yet we thank the Lord, Rev. A. Branch has been able to keep on dry land.

Stony Point.—Rev. E. Harrison is clearing up his third year with great success. The people love him, his wife is very sick.

Plaquemine.—Is a nice town fronting on the river, a grand people are at this point, and Rev. M. Franklin is gaining ground. We expect to be out of debt soon.

Rosedale.—Rev. G. W. Wells is getting on nice with his people and expects to have a new church by the 4th quarterly conference, at Lavonia, and is already donated for the purpose.

Mussou.—Rev. E. Taylor is building a new church and is doing good work, his people have done nobly in the support of pastor.

New Roads.—Has a neat little church supplied by Brother Sorrel, he has made a good beginning and the people like him. We expect to close up a successful year financially and spiritually. I find few pastors pushing the cause for the paper of our church. I hope that they will read this as a notice and warning, as I have talked on the subject at the quarters. Send in the subscription money for the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE at once.

Letters from the Pastors.

The Rev. W. H. Harris of Germantown circuit writes: Of the wealthy members of our church, we herewith mention some names and their possessions. Wm. Hughes owns 86 acres of land, Richard Hughes 98 acres, Robert Alexander 110 acres, John Ware 5 acres, Mary Benum 60 acres, James Woods 1 acre and Jerry Bright 40 acres.

We have a large Sabbath school numbering 56. It is one of the grandest ever known in this place. It is growing daily since May 1st, 1884. We have bought one acre of ground and built a neat church on it. When I arrived here the church was dead and the chances looked gloomy for a preacher to live here, but in due time Christ died for all. Let us trust in the name of the Lord.

F. Buckner, Tolesboro, Ky., writes: "We had a good time on Sunday, Rev. J. H. Hagrave conducted the services together with Dr. Bowman and Rev. J. H. Cox. to raise $38. Our church had been closed for two weeks, but we finally succeeded in raising the amount, and it was a glad day for us when the house of the Lord was again opened for us."

Rev. Isaac Horton, of Jefferson town Ky., writes: I am engaged in a great work so that I cannot stop. The name of the Lord is a strong tower; so I am trusting in God to help me in this hour of trouble.

Names were originally given to express character as well as to distinguish one individual from another; so the name presiding elder is distinguished from my name; and that is the reason I want to see his face. Can we not remember our situation when first awakened to see and realize our exposure to the wrath of God; and how welcome the name of the Lord was to me. So I think about our elders, they are a great help in these places. We stand in need of a refuge, and the presiding elder is a strong tower in time of trouble. I expect, by the help of God to come to the front, and if alive, coming up to a man."

I. Summerville, Springville, Tenn., writes: "Rev. R Palmer, of Paris, and J. L. Massey, of Mason, gave me a call and did great good. They stirred up my people to a great degree. We are always glad to have such brethren call."

A. Williams, Orange, Texas, writes: "Our second quarterly conference was May the 14 16, and Presiding Elder E. Lee was with us on Sunday and preached to a crowded house afterwards we administered the Lord's supper, and baptized five infants; collected $13 80. The protracted meeting had begun and I was taken sick, and was sick two weeks under the Dr., which finally brought me safe though. I commenced my meeting again. We had 19 conversions; 11 backsliders was reclaimed; total amount added to the church. 33. Our congregation is still good. Our children's day was grand. We had a march around the church and in the church; $9.19 was raised. We had a dinner out under the grove, near the church, and at our Centennial Jubilee, we collected $4 70. Pray for us."

B. H. S. Ferguson, Pontotoc, Miss., writes: "My work is doing well. We have seven Sabbath-schools. Our second quarterly conference was held by our dear Elder D. A. Williams who was with us from the 4th to the 9th inst. and held the conference on the 6th; and from the reports of the different members of the quarterly conference, the work seems to be spiritually, as well as temporally alive. We have received in full connection, 16; conversions, 2; reclaimed 1 from Colored Methodist Episcopal Church and Baptist Church 5, among the number is my wife, who was formerly a member of the Baptist Church of Columbus and now a helper of mine in the Sabbath-school. Steward's reports show $15.50 to presiding elder; $53 60 to pastor in charge, to have been paid. During the stay of the presiding elder we had a pleasant time, he preached us a glorious sermon, administered the Lord's supper to 54, and lectured to the young people on Tuesday night, subject "Virtue, Morality and Decorum," which was gladly received by a resolution of thanks and singing a verse of praise. We still have good people of Pontotoc, and with God in front we mean to help take the world for Christ. Our protracted meeting will commence in a few days, we are trusting and praying for scores of souls. Brethren pray for our success here."

DeWitt Frierson, Kildare, Tex., writes: "My work is in good condition. I report 21 conversions and 44 backsliders reclaimed; 3 received from the Baptist. Elder H. Webb held my third quarterly conference, July 18th. We had a nice session. Raised for elder $6.05."

R. Williams, Loveladay, Texas, writes: "Our third quarterly conference was held in our new church about eight miles from Lovelady, at Pleasant Hill. Elder E. Lee was with us, and we had a good time. At night we had a good sermon by B. Fisher, and on Sunday by the elder, who also administered the sacrement. Collected for the elder $10. We have been having a gloomy time, but the Lord still wais to bless His people. Pray for us."

Rev. C. A. Jordan, Roebuck and Minter City circuit, Miss., writes: "I have accepted an exchange by the request of Presiding Elder Dr. H. R. Revels, with Rev. A. S Williams on the 28th of April. I did not hesitate, but come to the work at one, and found a warm, healthy people waiting my arrival. The 1st of May found me at my new field of labor. At Roebeck, St. Paul, Wildwood and Minter City the brethren received me with joy. On the 4th Sunday in May we pitched battle at Minter and from then up to date we have had 23 conversions; 21 joined; we recieved 5 from the Baptist Church. The circuit is alive both spiritually and financially. We received two members from the African Methodist Episcopal Church. Total added to the Church, since my arrival, 28. We have two cotton patches on the circuit and they are in a good condition. We only have one acre of land dedicated to the Church but we are trying to collect money to buy lots. Pray for our success."

A. F Lane, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., writes: "I found a cheerful people, and a good Sunday School here. A protracted meeting was started and we had a good time The presiding elder was here in June, and addressed the sub-district conference to a crowded house. Rev. Dr. Braden also gladdened our hearts on Sunday. The light is still burning. We had 10 conversions, added 15 to the church. The elder and I met Bro. Bradford at his post, and from there went to Pundy circuit, and found Rev. L. W. Taylor at work. We went also to Jackson, my old home, to be welcomed by my family."

Rev. G. C. Harden, Linden circuit, Tenn., writes: "My third quarterly conference was held by our beloved Elder J. P. Price, and he was on time. The brethren were out with written reports, which shows some growth in Methodism. At 11 o'clock he preached to a crowded house of white and colored. The sermon was one that will be long remembered among both classes, after the sermon the Lord's supper was administered to 25 lovers of the Lord. At 3 o'clock he preached again to a large crowd of white people. Rev. E. M. Manson, of Brownview was with us and rendered good services on the occasion. We wish him to return again. Paid the elder $5:85; the pastor $10:50. We will have our new church building, will have it ready for the next quarter, it is 24 by 16.

Rev. J. W. Lewis, Bertie, La., writes: "We are thankful to say that the Lord has blessed Woodlawn this year. Up to date we have 38 converts, 19 of whom have been baptized. Our Sunday School is well attended, Mr. Guss Tunsan is the superintendent. Robt. Armstrong jr, assistent superintendent, and a fine corps of teachers. A few weeks ago we had an exhibition which was said excelled any ever given on Byou Lafourche. The third Sunday in June our Presiding Elder E. W. Williams was at his post and held our second quarterly conference. The cases reported was as follows: class No. 1 16 members, John Riley leader, raised $13:45; No. 2 H. Rhines leader 22 members, $18:10; No. 3 S. Hudson leader 11 members, raised $7:70; No. 4 Geo. W. Brown leader, 25 members, $12:25; No. 5 James Tunson leader, 19 members, $15:45; No. 6 J. Hite leader, 13 members $5:25; No. 7 L. Thompson leader, 19 members, $13:90; No. 8 G. Hill leader, 17 members, $9:95. On the 4th day of July, 1885, a grand entertainment was given for the benefit of Woodlawn M. E. Church, the pastor told the brethren that he wanted to see what each class would do to carry out the plan, and the following are the results. Class No. 1 $14:45; class No. 2 $18;90; class No. 3 $5:20; class No. 4 $10:85; class No. 5 $6:25; class No. 6 $5.90; class No. 7 $13,00; class No. 8 $5:95. From ice cream table, $14:85; grand total $95:35."

T. W. Davis, Central Grove, Miss., writes: "I have been silent long enough. The Methodist fire is burning here. I arrived here as my first appointment February 21, I was cheerfully received by all. I found a very extensive work. We have four very large churches, our beloved elder D. A. Williams met us April 1st and 2nd, and held our first quarter. He preached us a lovely sermon, administered sacrament to 84. Collection $7,00. He found a good number of the brethren present. June 27 and 28 he held our second quarter, this, it is said was the largest quarter that was ever been on the circuit. The brethren were on time. He found the work had greatly increased since the first quarter. The reports were made on printed blanks as directed, so everything was pleasant and the elder was made happy over the agility of the brethren, and spoke words of intrepidity. On Sunday at 11 o'clock he preached to a crowded house from Mat. 25 and 28 chapter. He preached an able and instructive sermon. The white citizens of Cotton Gin were struck with admiration and gave freely to help the cause of Christ. He administered sacrament to 104 persons. Our collection was $19:55, so we promised to pay the elder $55,00, we have paid him $25:50. The pastor's salary is $480, they paid him since the first quarter $113:08. The bishops salary $5. We have collected $1,05. The Lord has blessed us this year, Methodism is shining as the bright star Jupiter does in starry heavens. We have added to the church this year 83. We have not had any protracted meeting yet, but we expect to commence on the 23d inst. We ask the prayers of all the brethren that we may hold the fort with prayer and trembling, that we may publish the gospel of Christ with more Methodist fire than ever.

A. C. Culbreath, of Huntsville, Texas, writes: "Our third quarterly conference was held by Presiding Elder Rev E Lee, who preached two wonderful sermons and administered the Lord's supper to 40 persons. Collection $10:25. We have had a very hard time, but there is an improvement. Huntsville circuit is looking up a little, the people have not been able to feed themselves. All their stock is under mortgage, and this ties them down. But the Lord has blessed this country with a good crop. We ask your prayers."

Rev. P. B. McDonald, of Bastrop, La., writes: "God is blessing the work, 105 added to the church this year of which 72 of them were recently converted. Money raised $41, paid on our church at Berhill, which is clear of debt. Our town paid $70 for a fine organ, and have $32 in hand to buy lumber to ceil our church in town, and adding more to it; in six weeks we will have a church nicely ceiled, God being our helper, Pray for our success."

Letters From the Laity.

A. J. Gholson, recording secretary, Aberdeen, Miss., writes: "On account of the scarcity of financial means during the summer months, our Church fell short $92, in the prompt payment of the pastor's salary. So it was resolved at the leader's meeting to have a financial rally among the members to supply this deficiency, made at time mentioned in the margin. The time was set, the day arrived, and the following named leaders give the following sums: class No. 1, John Eckford, (for the sternness, energy and faithfulness of Bro. Eckford, we mention his age, 67 years.) $10 10; class No. 2, John Gidden, $18 05; class No. 3, M. Thomas, $7 55; class No. 4, J. G. Baldwin, $10.15; class No. 5, Wm. Holliday $6 10; class No. 6 F. G. Bumpas, $10; class No. 7, Geo. Tindall, $10.10; class No. 8, S. Clopton, $14 35; class No. 9, J. T. Grayson, $1.75; class No. 10 Jas. Greenwood, $2; class No. 11, J. B. Sims, $4.45; total, $95 20."

Lizzie Edwards, superintendent, Mayo Grove Sunday school, Texas, writes: "Our school is flourishing, we have about 40 students, four classes, all seem to be interested, and attend regular. I feel that we are doing a good work and that the Lord will bless our efforts. We desire the prayers of the Church, that the good begun in this work will go on until every knee shall bow, and every tongue confess the Lord to be Lord and Savior of all. The SOUTHWESTERN is a welcome visitor every week. We appreciate it very much, and feel like we could not get along without it. Our last quarterly conference was last Saturday. Our elder, Jesse P. Price preached a funeral sermon and administered the sacrament, it was a day long to be remembered, the elder made the best speech I ever heard from him, about 400 or 500 people present. Our pastor John [illegible] is doing a good work, his preachings are instructive and interesting. His practical work is good."

J. T. F. Carr, Covington, Ky., writes: "The Ninth Street Church, in Covington, Ky., is moving to the front. There is a livlier interest manifested among the members than has been for sometime. There has been an increase in the congregation, and 12 have been added to the membership since conference. The Sunday-school is doing finely and the outlook seems very favorable, and our pastor, Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, is taking hold of the work with patience, full of zeal, and the people love and respect him. The collection during April, May and June, amounts, in the aggregate to more than $700 to-day the schools have had a prosperous session, and are now having their usual summer vacation. Prof. S. R. Singer, principal of our Sunday school has cast his lot among us, and is now an active member of the Church; he is a worker in the Sunday school, and with his good lady, renders very efficient service. We have organized a Red Ribbon club consisting of members and friends of the Church, the object is to help pay indebtedness of the church. We were organized by the noble sisters a few weeks ago and have already raised $75. The people are doing their best to make the stay of Rev. Hammond and his excellent family pleasant and agreeable. Covington is nicely located and is a gem of neatness, over which Mrs. Hammond presides with her grace and dignity. They have already won the hearts of the people and their friends are numbered by the hundreds. Mr. J. R. [illegible], our assistant superintendent, who fell from a scaffold and broke one of his ribs, we are glad to be able to be out again. [illegible] is read here by many of our people, and its visits are earnestly looked for. The editor has the thanks of the people for the good words he says for our church and pastor."

[illegible] Weirs Station, [illegible] Miss., writes: "[illegible] conferences [illegible] Presiding Elder [illegible] with us this [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] could not stand [illegible] church, he lay sick [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE SOUTHWESTERN

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, OCT 15, 1885.

"Jesus is precious."—L. N. Taylor's last words.

A new Methodist Episcopal Church is to be dedicated at Hazelhurst, Miss., Oct. 18.

If for nothing else the Prohibition party in this country would be needful as a curtailing, a repressive and a veto force upon the aggressive, arrogant, and ever exacting liquor interest.

Excuses about the burdens the church is laying upon the people is an after consideration. No preacher ever talks about them until he gets into a good charge and gets dissatisfied because he thinks some one else has a better one.

The Temperance Union of Plaquemine, La., under the direction of Mr. J. L. Jones and Mrs. J. P. Moore has a reading room open to the public, and has inaugurated a movement in favor of temperance upon which all religions denominations have united.

Clermont county, Ohio, is unexcelled by any community of which we have knowledge for the generosity of its citizens. We are under renewed obligations to those, black and white, of Laurel, Amelia, Batavia, Milford, New Richmond, Shiloh and Bethel. Long may they flourish.

Rev. A. D. Payne, an old and intimate friend of Rev. Ira B. Griffin says in a letter touching the life and work of Bro. Griffin, "like other men he had no works of supererogation, of which his friends may boast, but a retrospect of his life, and works will plainly show that a Methodist hero has fallen."

The Senior Bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church has very comprehensive views upon the question of union between his own church and other colored Methodists, especially those of the British Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada, which ought to be generally known and we believe accepted.

We need a million dollars for the prosecution of missionary interests in the world; and these we need, and before any great successes can further bless our efforts at home, must have, a thorough reversion, if not a revision of some things in our domestic missions among the colored conferences of the South.

The effect of taxing the liquor traffic seems to be to concentrate it rather than to destroy the business—the fellows with the most customers being able to pay and the small dealers not. The latter are closed out, and the former consequently increases his trade. Hence, by reducing the number of saloons we increase the business and power of those which remain.

Speaking of our expression upon the subject of ecclesiastical equality as to the matter of appointments in colored conferences. The New Orleans Christian Advocate says: "We are quite sure he has fallen upon an expedient to dissolve their white work in the South." Well, dissolution means death, and death only means a change of the form of life. Now, therefore, if this dissolution should come and be analagous to corporeal dissolution it would only be the changing of isolated white churches to white districts in white conferences, which as things now are, might be a more desirable sort of life.

Francis Von Suppe, the composer, is in seriously failing health. His nerves are giving out.

The new Minister to Liberia, [illegible], was once a hotel porter in Pittsburg, and during his residence in that capacity prepared [illegible] for college.

The Illegitimate in Church Financiering.

In church financiering some things are lawful, and some in common practice are not lawful. Again some lawful things are very inexpedient, and some things lawful and expedient in some localities are quite the reverse in others. So that it is not necessary and hardly practicable for the administration to be precisely the same in every place so far as mere details are concerned. But in all places the principles, and polity, of the church should be strictly and rigidly adhered to by Methodist Episcopal pastors, as the exponents of its peculiar view of things. The Methodist Episcopal pastor has committed himself to a specific, written, and well defined, well tried and successful method of church financiering. He has hence no right to depart from it, or even to add to it by the use of tricks, schemes and plans of his own supposed origination. Most of the so called original plans used by pastors of to day have been discarded by wise men of the church in other days. Because they esteemed them inimical to Christian purity. There is a financial plan in the Discipline, which every Methodist pastor has promised to apply in his charge.

What is the standing of a pastor's veracity, who fails to do it, and instead of it, runs an excursion over a railroad or watercourse on the Lord's day? Has he not failed to abide in the truth and are such as do this not "liars?" What right in either Methodist law or equity has any pastor to substitute a festival for the financial plan of his church, or even to use the festival alongside of such plan? Churches are to be supported by the benevolence of their communicants without any other consideration than the good they do to others, and receive to themselves thereby. Almost, if not quite, every expedient in common use for raising church funds is in the nature of a barter, and they offer a material consideration for value received.

Very often the sin of fraud is added to that of hypocrisy and untruth, good order is violated, and church Discipline dies in the face of these inventions; and as for true benevolence and Christian interest, Satan has proposed no surer means of destroying them, than those which are brought into use by such "original tricks" to pay church debts.

Let our pastors remember their promises, read the Discipline, visit the people, read, sing, pray, and converse with them freely on such topics as are current in the work of the charge, and the people will render all needful aid. If God cannot carry on his work without these inventions to help Him, then indeed is His cause far behind the enterprises put in operation by the best class of business men. The gates of hell shall not prevail against the church in its assault upon their vices, but when the church takes refuge in those gates and employs their vices for its own support, the Lord cannot bless the result.

It is not sufficient or pertinent to argue that the plans of the Methodist Episcopal Church are not adapted to the present wants, and condition of the colored people. Because these very people send representatives in the person of their best men to the General Conference, and thus they have a direct voice in the moulding and shaping of all its legislation. If they do not send colored men from colored conferences, then those who fail to send are not the ones to complain of non-appropriate representation.

Suppose a pastor raises his benevolent assessment by means of a festival or an excursion, what is the difference since he raises it? These benevolent collections represent Christian interests, which are educational in their character. When their true character is exhibited, and their importance fixed on the heart of an individual, he becomes at once a voluntary life patron to it. He looks forward through the years and devises plans for aiding it. He interests himself to secure others to its aid, and so a friendly influence for that cause goes on swelling up, and rolling forward like a wave of the sea, broadening and dashing all before it, in the grandeur of its march through the ages.

But what permanent influence comes from a festival or an excursion which is beneficial to any Christian cause? A frivolous crowd is drawn together, who giggle, romp, eat ice cream, set up until a late hour of the night, probably have a fight, go home, oversleep themselves, and loose a situation if the morning. How does such a process enlighten the mind upon the merits, claims, accomplishments of any important church enterprise.

When a pastor has put in nearly the whole of Saturday night looking after his "entertainment" as they euphoniously call them, what condition is he in for preaching on the Sabbath? And what excuse can he make to that God who has commanded him to "come out from among the world and to go and preach the Gospel," when he has thus failed to do it? Then, too the losses in church attendance on Sabbath by reason of the fatigue and late hours kept at the festival, besides the general temptation to steal what is earned by them, is often greater than what is gained if reduced to actual dollars and cents. The deterioration in morals is positively alarming, but it is probable that ministers, who persist in this course rather than the course laid down in the Discipline, are not very deeply concerned about morals. God is, if they are not, and we must draw near to God in all these things.

The only legitimate plan of raising church supplies is the Disciplinary one. To that we must come, be the result as it may. We must do as we have promised, or we must give up the ministry. If we cannot trust God, we can give place to men who will trust Him. Every financial plan unindorsed by the General conference is illegitimate. Some plans, besides what we have adopted may be useful, but the absence of law in favor of them is a law against them. We must bring our useful plans by appropriate legitimation into the plans of the church, before we can legitimately employ them in church work. "We are not to mend the rules, but to keep them. Not for wrath, but conscience' sake." In our pastoral capacity we are executives, not legislators. The true way is to regard all things prohibited which are unauthorized by a fair and consistent construction of our church law. Since they are subject to quadrennial revision no useful feature need be long left out nor any inoperative one retained in our statutes.

"The Almond Tree Shall Blossom."

What is ahead? What are the words of cheer, and signs of care proffered by the church he serves, for him whose labors have been abundant, but whose release from effective work and life is not simultaneous? The superannurate preacher is the one person whose claims upon the church to which he has given his life and faithful service is paramount to all others.

Our church has given full recognition to these claims, and in three ways made provisions to meet them.

First—It has provided that the profits arising from the sale and circulation of our periodicals, and literature shall be applied to this purpose.

Second—It has secured and invested a certain fund known as the "Chartered Fund," the interest of which is to be annually divided among the claimants.

Third—It has authorized that an estimate for the support of the superannuates be made and raised annually in every charge throughout the connection, and brought up to each yearly conference by the several pastors for distribution by the conference stewards.

These provisions depend primarily for their efficiency upon the laity of the church who must purchase what we publish, contribute to our invested fund, and make up what is estimated by the quarterly conference. But between the people and this interest of the "superannurates" stands the avarice, supiness, apathy, carelessness, indifference, ignorance or something else of the pastors. Whatever it is, it is sufficient to neutralize the intention of the church to provide for these necessitous cases. Not only by not presenting them, but by presenting other things instead of them. If all the money collected and given to preachers who go to another brother's charge to preach rather than their own, was sent up the conferences for the superannuated preachers their receipts would be largely increased. A preacher who chooses to become a professional tramp and a beggar has equal but no claim to consideration superior to that which any other man who prefers tramping and begging to working has. Of course when a brother is invited to assist another in any sort of church service he is entitled to receive what it may in any way cost him to do so. We do not refer to this class of tramps. We have reference to effective men who are given appointments which they fail to serve, but give their time to visiting other charges where they may have been pastors once, but where they now have no official relation or right, and in fact are neither invited or wanted. Their very presence works to the detriment of the appointed pastor, their words are generally either against him or not strong for him. Whatever they can get from foolish or evil people in the absence of the pastor they take, and then annoy him for a collection besides. This is the class we refer to as tramps. Then there is another class about as injurious to the dignity of the pastorate. This is the class of professional perapatetic funeral preachers, men who go about making a merchantable commodity of other people's misfortunes, going long journeys to attend funerals of people who had been dead for months and sometimes years. And after dragging forth all the horrors of putrified flesh, worm eaten vitals, pulverizing bones, and the anguish of the death bed scenes connected with them, finally accept money in return for this ghoulish service, which they call traveling expenses, just as if they didnt travel for the sake of the money they were sure to receive. Or as if they would have traveled at all, but for the sake of the money. And all this in spite of the provision in our Discipline which forbids the taking of money on any account for preaching funerals. These are all sewers into which the gifts of the people are turned improperly. While they are for the most part left in ignorance of the number, and condition of the real claimants upon their liberality.

Now what has been done for these conference claimants in the Methodist Episcopal Church in the past year. The minutes of eight conferences are before us whose members are mostly colored but one, the St. Louis Conference. Of this latter our figures refer alone to our colored members.

The story is a sad one, and we really hope that the reading of this article with the saddening exhibit thus made from official and authenticated data will quicken the conscience, stimulate the interest, and provoke our pastors and people to more earnest efforts and enlarge giving for this cause. Read the following table, then pray and afterwards as a member or a pastor go and do your duty to this cause. The table below does not include probationers, only members.

CONFERENCES.	No. Superannuates	Amount of Last Year's Collections	No. Charges Not Contributing.	No. Charges Contributing.	Number of Members in Each Conference.	Amount Received From Each Conference	Proceeds of Book Concern Paid Each Conference

Total	30	$1 177 26	301	247	87 2 8	$218	$764 00

It will be understood that these funds were divided among a large number of other claimants than superannuated preachers. The highest amount paid to any one of these was $40. These tell tale figures show that from all sources the available resources for claimants in the conferences named, last year amounted to $2,159 75, of which not over $500 was paid these 30 worn out traveling preachers, which gave them perhaps about an average of $15 each, for support this year. Then too, it must be borne in mind that this entire sum has not been raised by taking collection, but much of it has been raised by conference societies. For example the Daughters of the Washington Conference raised $390 of that sum credited to that conference; and $40 of that credited to Louisiana, and $31 to Lexington, were brought up by the conference societies.

Small as the sum is, less than one half of the churches contributed to it. But this is probably because the pastors did not present the cause and urge them to contribute toward it. Out of 542 charges, 147 responded to it, if they were called to give for their worn out preachers. Out of 87 268 Methodists, about 42 000 gave a few cents each for their faithful ministers, whom they used to love to live upon in their decrepit and infirm age, and yet, we are talking about going to the land's end in search of heathens to convert.

"You can find the heathen near,
You can find them at your door."

We hear talk of schemes here and there to buy farms, erect homes and do this and that thing for superannuated preachers.

The first thing we need to do is do is take the collection for them. We should press the sale of our publications, so that larger dividends may be declared for them, and as we go abroad among the people in every place solicit contributions for the chartered fund.

The North Carolina Conference has a rule to call the name of each pastor in open conference, and ask how much he has collected for the conference claimants. That is a good rule and might be adopted with profit, by other conferences. The conferences not named in this table would, if examined make about the same showing.

The outlook is not encouraging for either inducing suitable young men to give their lives and best years for labor to the ministry, nor secure full service of those already in ministerial work. We can and we must do better at this point, and we ought to show the improvement at the next conference.

The following are the names of the superannuated preachers herein enumerated: William McFarlan, Geo. W. Sams, A. Legardy, F. Reeves, C. Downs, P. Yarborough, L. Johnson, S. Armstead, S. Osborne, A. Ross, Wm. Murrell, John B. Snowden, Philip Brown, Wm. Sidney, John Loggins, Alex. N. Kennedy, James A. Scott, Nathaniel Jackson, John Trigg, Jacob Owens, Henry Williams, Washington Langford, William A. Claxton, ——Stephen Tasco, Henry Gibson, Geo. W. Adams, Isreal Sims, Adam Nunn, James Ellis, and Nelson Farror; these are the brethren and fathers who have borne the burden and heat of the day, who by pine knots glare or dim tallow dip's pale ray, have blazed out the way and laid the foundations of our present and future prosperity. For all of which about 1,300 of us pastors and presiding elders have provided for them the sum of $15 a head per year. It is a cheerful prospect.

Unprofitable Controversy.

Some of our contemporaries are devoting much precious space to the discussion of the question, "Whether Bishop Taylor is a full fledged, or, partially fledged bishop." We think they could fill their columns with matter that would better edify their readers. The common people are not disposed to split hairs. Over all the earth, wherever this man of God, commissioned by the General Conference, sets his foot, he does, and will, receive the salutation, "Bishop Taylor," as much as Bishop Foster. Our main business is to publish the facts, to let the godly in Christ Jesus know that Bishop Taylor, with a band of heroic men and women at his back, is on the march, leading the Gospel column, clothed with fire. The objective point is the interior of Africa, in the midst of the benighted millions. At every step God is with him. Money, money, plenty of money, is needed to speed them on their journey. Give us the money, and and let them march on to glorious war and victory. Leave the next General Conference to settle his "ecclesiastical status," if it needs settling. Send on the checks, or postal orders!

The Kentucky Teacher's Institute.

Two Institutes of teachers' in Kentucky were held in Lexington July 1st. The first of white and the second of colored teachers. The white teachers met first and the colored ones later. Some members of the former attended the latter and received a cordial welcome. Both meetings were numerously attended and their exercises seemed to be useful.

Kentucky is really advancing, but the pace is measured and slow. These bodies contain some very scholarly people of both sexes and each race.

Prominent among those of the colored race is Revs. J. M. Maxwell, of the African Methodist, and Dr. W. J. Simmons of the Baptist church.

There are some things connected with the educational system of this State which have outlived both their day and usefulness. They are first: Requiring the Negro population in the country districts and small towns to supply their own fuel, furniture and buildings for school purposes. The result of this is to force the schools into churches, which are commonly the only public buildings owned by the Negroes in this State, and places them more or less under some denominational influence. A thing so obnoxious to our theory of free and non-sectarian public schools as it is unjust to the honest class of our citizens. It requires them to do more than the rich and more numerous part of the population to obtain the same benefits with them. And this is at variance with our common Democratic boast of equal rights to all, and exclusive privileges to none. It will require no high degree of political acumen to see how fatal this must ultimately be to the permanence of our beloved and beneficient Republican institutions.

Secondly, it is a common thing to find two sets of public school trustees in a given district one white and the other colored. The one legally elected by the people, and the other farcically elected by only the colored part of the people. The one with well defined powers to regulate matters pertaining to popular education, and the other having no status or responsibility except as a kind of go-between, in which capacity they cover and void the white trustees of the responsibility of non-action when they are disposed to move slowly which is frequently the case. These dual Boards of Trustees are a useless encumbrance on the conduct of school matters; an imposition and an injustice to the colored people for the reasons given above. Therefore they ought to be dispensed with. It will be easy to do this; All that is needed is for the colored people to ignore the elections and where colored men are wanted for trustees nominate and vote for them the day for the election of the white trustees. Then in case of election should there be objection to seating any colored man, legally elected unite and carry the case to the courts. And do this not once or twice but continuously until the right prevails.

Fairdly. Supporting colored schools by the taxes of the colored or white people alone is not the proper thing. All citizens should be taxed proportionally and for the good of all taxed alike.

Finally. There is no need for two seperate teachers institutes in the State. The colored and white teachers are professionally engaged in the same great work of saving the country by educating the masses of our people. The colored people make successful teachers. In the primary branches their success has been something phenominal. The whites are not their equals there as the more rapid progress of little colored children taught in these branches by Negro teachers proves. Let the teachers come together so that the superior qualities of each may be at the command of the other. People learned enough for public teachers should surely know how to take care of themselves and hence no fear need be entertained that they will lose their heads socially.

"Oh, I don't Visit Them"

During a three year's pastorate at Gunn's Chapel, Rev. W. W. Locke made 1178 pastoral visits of from five to ten minutes in length, taking all denominations and grades of society as they came. His experience was that calls could be made upon persons living out at service, with equally, as much profit as any others. At Lexington, Versailles and Boyd's station, Ky., he found white people for whom members of his own church were working were not only willing but glad to have him come to see their help.

The cold blood of our nature warms and flows more freely when we hear a minister to the Lord's poor, especially His poor Negroes, talking about him not visiting "people who are out at service." The relations between white and black people would be in consequence a great deal more cordial and fraternal in all sections of the country, if the colored ministry would only do what its God given position enables and demands that it should do. That is lay hold of the people guide them and teach them, by example and precept.

Church Polity.

If a retiring pastor leaves behind him on his previous charge, persons who claim membership, and there is no official record or other evidence of their membership, and if such persons are not in good standing in the community is it legal for a succeeding pastor to recognize their claim and admit them into the church, either on trial or into full connection?—Subscriber.

Answer.—No. When a pastor is changed from one charge to another, his official connection with the charge from which he retires ceases; and his successor is bound to faithfully administer the Discipline in all cases, without any reference to the administration of his predecessor. But no one can be legally admitted to probationary membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church, "unless he gives satisfactory evidence of an earnest desire to be saved from his sins and to enjoy the fellowship of God's people." Dis. 1884, paragraph 48, sec. 1. This is at least presumptive evidence that he is in good standing, or at the time of his application for admission into the church on trial, is in the act of changing from bad to good moral standing, by reforming his character.

Yet, the church does not take this for granted since it provides Dis. 1884, paragraph 48, sec. 2. That the preacher in charge, and the class leaders shall see that all persons on trial, be early made acquainted with the doctrines, rules, and regulations thereof. Now this section settles two points in your case.

1. That every person received into the church on probation has good moral standing soon after they do so, because none other persons being made acquainted with our doctrines, rules and regulations, would accept them.

2. That the pracher and class leaders, who instructed such persons would recollect that they did so, even though no record was kept of it.

Since this is true, it follows that that where no official record or recollection of the admission of a person to prohibitory membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church is found, this fact constitutes pretty clear evidence, that concerning these persons, no such admission has ever taken place in that church.

Hence, it would be illegal to recognise any claim of membership, so based that such persons might make. The procedure in all such cases should be the same as if no claim to membership had been set up. In that case the pastor would be justified, in fact he is compelled to admit any person who gives satisfactory evidence of an earnest desire to be saved from his sins, and to enjoy the fellowship of God's people."

When we come to consider the method of receiving a person into full membership, there is no room for doubt. See Dis. 1884, paragraph 48, sec. 3, after all is done which is required in this paragraph to be done, some one will be able to remember when and where it was done, or the candidate will himself be able to refer to the time and place and prove it, and no pastor is justified in recognizing the claim of any one to membership, when such claim cannot be verified in in some one of the ways known to to the Discipline.

Schools and Colleges.

Claflin University.

BY ALBION.

The best monument a man can build and leave behind him is an institution of learning. Such monuments are living and perrennial in their influence. There are many noble names connected with our schools in the South that will be handed down to history, names that shall be fragrant and enduring to coming generations. Among these names that of Lee Claflin occupies an enduring place. Through his generosity Claflin University owes its existence today; because of his gifts in the feeble beginning of our educational work, an institution was founded that has sent its graduates all over the south land and now, year by year, has its halls crowded with undreds of students.

The school is central in its location, occupying the site of the old Orangeburg Female Seminary The property was secured in 1869 by Rev. A. Webster, D. D., and F. Willard Lewis, and set apart for the uses of Christian education under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The same year a liberal charter was secured from the State of South Carolina. What a revolution of sentiment and action that means! Only several years before same State had statutes forbidding the teaching of Negroes even the elements of knowledge. Now she issues a charter for a higher institution of earning for the freedmen. In addition to this, by an act of the legislature in 1872, the State College of Agriculture and Mechanics Institute was located at Orangeburg, in connection with the University, With this was provided a farm of 116 acres. A disastrous fire in 1876 swept buildings and library away. This opened the way for the beautiful and comodious brick structure that now forms the commanding centre and front of a group of smaller buildings. The campus consisting of 37 acres is well wooded, rolling and attractive by nature. The contemplated purchase of an adjoining estate along the front will add much to the appearance of the college property.

On the retirement of the Rev. Dr. Cooke from the presidency, the Rev. L. M. Dunton, A. M. of the South Carolina Conference, was elected to this responsible position last year. The long experience of Brother Dunton as pastor and presiding elder in South Carolina has given him a broad knowledge of the needs and possibilities of our work in all its departments. By his faithful services for years, he commands the confidence and esteem of the people. At the late commencement testimonials appreciative of the work of the new president were passed by the trustees. The exercises of commencement week were most creditable. The standing and influence of the school may be seen from the fact that a staff correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier was present, and gave full reports of the proceedings each day in that journal, which also showed its generous progressive character by giving an appreciative editorial concerning the work of the institution. Such a journal merits the support of all of our people, because of its breadth, catholicity and justice to all, regardless of caste or color. The interest of the pastors and people in the school is apparent in the liberal gifts throughout the conference to the new Centenial Hall, which is greatly needed to give increased accommodations to its growing needs. A new model home for the girls is also started. Let the people keep on giving to build and thoroughly equip such institutions, for the great work of education in the South is only fairly begun.

The fall term of the the Ohio Wesleyan University opened most favorably September 16. The chapel was well filled at the first exercise on Wednesday morning. Bishop Harris and the Rev. D. Long, of Robert College, Constantinople, were present and took part in the exercises, expressing their surprise and gratification at seeing so large a number of young people together. Some 550 students are now present, and the number is rapidly increasing every day. A reception was given to the Ohio Conference on Friday the 25th., and the greatest enthusiasm for the University was manifested. On Wednesday the 30th Bishop Foster and Dr. Miley were present at the chapel exercises. The Bishop delivered a most interesting address to the students, stating that it was doubtful if another audience embracing so many young men and women in college halls could be found anywhere in our Methodism. Dr. Miley, of Drew Theological Seminary, said the sight was worth a journey from New York to witness. The work of the college is moving on successfully and its friends are rallying to its support.

SOUR BREAD.

Sour bread is caused by poor yeast, or an excessive fermentation in the dough. Sour biscuits are caused by the use of an adulterated, impure, or improperly compounded baking powder. Both are unwholesome, producing intestinal derangements, indigestion, etc.

The sour or alkaline taste attending the use of cheap, low-grade baking powders is due to the fact that such powders are not properly combined, and that the ingredients used in them are impure. The cream of tartar of the market used by their manufacturers is adulterated from five to twenty per cent. They do not know how much lime it contains, and hence are unable to mix it with the alkali or soda in proper proportions. As high as 11.85 per cent of lime has been found by the chemists in some of these powders, due to these causes. The result is an imperfect action which renders the bread, biscuit, or pastry heavy, sour, and disagreeable, or a residuum of lime and dirt, imparting a bitter taste to the food. Any baking powder that does this is unfit for use.

There can be no heavy or sour bread, biscuit, or cake where a perfectly made pure baking powder, like the "Royal," is used. In the use of the Royal no residuum is left, and the loaf raised by it is always sweet, light, and wholesome, and noticeably free from the peculiar tastes complained of. This is because it is composed of nothing but absolutely pure materials, scientifically combined in exactly the proper proportions of acid and alkali to act upon and destroy each other, while producing the largest amount of raising power. We are justified in this assertion by the unqualified statements of the Government Chemists, who, after thorough and exhaustive tests, recommended the "Royal" for Government use because of its superiority over all others in purity, strength, and wholesomeness. There is no danger of sour or bitter bread or biscuit where the Royal Baking Powder alone is used.

The Great Church LIGHT.

The Song of the Corn

I was made to be eaten,
And not to be drunk;
To be thrashed in a barn,
Not soaked in a tank.

I come as a blessing
When put in a mill
As a blight and a curse
When run through a still.

Make me up into loaves,
And your children are fed;
But if into drink,
I will starve them instead.

In bread I'm a servant;
The eater shall rule.
In drink I am master,
The drinker a fool.

Then remember the warning—
My strength I'll employ,
If eaten to strengthen,
If drunk to destroy.

Domestic Hygiene.

The Eyes, and Injuries.

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

EFFECTS OF STRONG LIGHT UPON THE EYE.

The effect of sudden strong light upon the eye is, at times, very marked, and attended by much pain and great physical disturbance. Dr. Little reports two cases. The first was the case of a gentleman whose right eye had been exposed suddenly, and, for a moment, to a very strong electric light. He was blinded for several minutes and he suffered from intolerance of light and severe headache for some days. He complained of a mist and dark specks before the right eye. There was a distinct haziness over the optic disc and neighboring retina. The second case was of blepherospasm (or twitching and spasmodical closing of the eye-lids) caused by lightning. A gentleman, aged fifty-six, while walking, was struck down by lightning, but was not rendered insensible. On rising he found he could not open his eyes. Two days later both eyes were involved in the injury, and intolerant of light. They were hot and painful, and the eyes refused to receive the least ray of light. At the end of this time, by the use of soothing remedies, he began to improve, and finally recovered with good vision.

A sudden exposure to any glare of light may be followed by serious results. Glass workers, especially those working in plate glass furnaces and foundry men are peculiarly liable to injury from too sudden and strong light. Better to shade the eyes well if there exists danger of any sudden exposure to brilliant light. When once so exposed and injured, recovery can only come after complete and continuous rest of the eyes. Even then the recovery is not apt to be entire.

A FALL MAY INJURE THE EYE.

It is not always necessary that a blow or fall on the head should have been the cause of injury to the eye. A case is given of a boy seventeen years old who fell only about two feet and struck quite heavily upon the hips, and received an injury which developed into a serious matter. That night no serious effects were discovered, but the next morning, on awaking from sleep, he noticed "a cloud before the right eye." The third day he was entirely blind. On making a careful examination the eye gave no response to light, which showed complete paralysis of the retina, and a part of the optic nerve. This continued for nineteen years. Then under careful treatment the eye became slightly sensitive to light. About a month after the accident other grave symptoms appeared. The left leg showed signs of paralysis, and in a few days became worse. This reached its height the last of May, now reached complete loss of locomotion of the leg, and began gradually to improve until the last of November, when it had entirely disappeared.

What were the probable conditions of injury? The fall caused a hemorrhage from a blood vessel in the optic nerve just as it enters the skull, or within the sheath of the nerve. The quantity of blood that passed out of the artery was small, but by the third day was enough by its pressure to shut off all nervous sensibility, and cause complete blindness. This blood was absorbed after a few days, and as the pressure was removed sight returned. But the paralysis of the left leg and arm indicated another injury, or the rupture of another vessel near the base of the brain, by which the nerves of sensation and locomotion were compressed, and their functions partially destroyed. The gradual recovery indicates the absorption of the blood. The great wonder is that in this case recovery occurred at all. Such blows or falls sufficient to produce such effects may cause death.

There is a foolish habit which some young people have of pulling the chair away from a person in the act of sitting down to see them fall on the floor, and witness their mortification. There are dangers attending such fun too great to be tolerated by civilized and decent people. We were witnesses of a case, where a young lady was sitting on the stairs, part way to the top. Another girl caught her playfully by the feet, and giving her a sudden jerk, pulled her down four or five steps, striking heavily on the hip. At the time she seemed to recover from the jar and fall quite well, but in a few days the hip began to swell, a large abscess formed, bits of bone came out of the hip, and about fifteen months of terrible suffering followed, while at times it seemed impossible to recover. After she recovered sufficiently to be dressed and walk around the house, an ulcer became established, which, when we last saw the case, a year later, had not healed, and gave no indication of healing.

Beware not to cause one to be injured just for fun.

NIGHT BLINDNESS FROM MIASMATIC INFLUENCES.

It has been observed that persons who are greatly exposed to miasmatic influences have a tendency to blindness or dimness of sight at night. A family occupying a house "in a low situation and close to a sewer," were greatly afflicted. The father sickened with typhoid fever, and the children soon after (four of them) were attacked with intermittent fever, together with marked blindness, intensifying at night. On using quinine the fever disappeared, but the blindness persisted. It did not seem to yield to any treatment, until the family moved to a higher and better locality, free from miasmatic influences. Then improvement occurred, and after a few weeks was completed. Possibly very much of partial blindness may be due to the baneful influences of miasmatic air. It is well to seek homes located as far from sewers, swamps, low places, cesspools, etc., as possible. The saving of health is as great an accomplishment as the restoring of it.

For the Ladies.

Laughter is the poor man's plaster,
Making every burden light;
Turning sadness into gladness,
Darkest hour to May dawn bright.
'Tis the deepest and the cheapest
Cure for ills of this description,
But for those that woman's heir to,
Use Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription."
Cures all weaknesses and irregularities, "bearing down" sensations, "internal fever," bloating, displacements, inflamation, morning sickness and tendency to cancerous disease. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

Prof. John A. Moore, principal of Santa Clara public schools for Negroes in San Antonio, Texas, has been removed by the School Board as a result of which quite a spicy debate has been carried on between the Light and Times of that city. Rev. Mack Henson has also written and published two letters on the subject. We do not understand [illegible] day, to his fellow citizens there.

Lost Friend Found by the Aid of the Southwestern.

MR. EDITOR: I cannot say that I am a stranger to you, I am from the State and city that you are from, Louisville, Ky. I came to Louisana in 1835. I belonged to Major Throckmorton; I was raised at the Galt House, on the corner of Maine and Second streets. My father was Peter Page, he died in 1861. I have found my Aunt Mary Jackson, through your good paper. I had not seen or heard from her for 30 years. Your paper has found many lost relations. I have found all mine except one brother, Peter Page. The last time I saw him, he was in the army with John Throckmorton, he was in Vicksburg when I last heard form him. I am glad to know that Kentucky has raised a son, and sent him to the South, who has improved our paper so much, and can speak for his people. There are five in my family who subscribe for your paper. You have 20 subscribers in Rosedale. We have a nice church and many good people and may God bless the Bishop for sending Rev. G. W. Wells to this place.

From the Bloody Ground.

TOLLESBORO, KY.

DR. S. B. HARTMAN & CO., Columbus, Ohio.—I keep the largest stock of medicines of any store in Lewis county, with the exception of a drug store at Vanceburg, our county seat, and am selling a great deal of your PERUNA and MANALIN. It is giving the best satisfaction of any medicine that I ever handled. In one case the constable for the precinct, has been very sick and low spirited for a long time. For several years he has tried all the doctors here, and we have some good ones, and they did him no good. After much persuasion I sold him two bottles of PERUNA and MANALIN. He took half of the medicine. I could see a great change in him, and now he is as sound a man apparently as there is in this vicinity, and he says he is entirely well. He is a number one man and is highly respected. He is satisfied that your medicine saved his life, after all the doctors and all medicines had failed. Being unacquainted with you, I refer you to John Shillito & Co., Alter, Pinckard & Co., and other business houses of Cincinnati.

R. L. GILLESPIE, P. M.

Messrs. Adamson & Shipley, of Waynesburg, Pa., write: "Please send us some "Ills of Life" immediately. We are having a big run on your medicine, PERUNA. Instead of dying out, like most medicines, in course of time, it seems to be growing in favor. We sell lots of it. Please send the books soon."

Messrs. Wirthorn & Urban, of Allegheny City, Pa., write: "Having a large sale for your PERUNA and MANALIN, we have also many calls for your book, "Ills of Life." Please send us a supply of them, German and English, and oblige."

S. Wolf & Son, Wilmot, O., write: "Gentlemen: We handle your goods, and they give good satisfaction."

A. G. Sellards, Greenup, Ky., says: "Gentlemen: I am handling your medicines, and having a good trade on them."

J. C. Saunders, Martinsburg, W. Va., writes: "Gentlemen: Your PERUNA sells fast and gives good satisfaction here. We sell more PERUNA than any other preparation we handle."

W. Bauer, St. Mary's, Pa., writes: "My son is still improving in health. Your PERUNA is just the thing for him."

H. L. Day & Co., New Vienna, Ohio write: "S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, Ohio.—Gentlemen: Your PERUNA sells as well as any medicine with us. Quite a number have told us that PERUNA is the best thing they ever used."

PE-RU-NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price. We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O.

MR. EDITOR: I wish to inquire for Wyatt Bradford; would also request that the pastor of Vicksburg circuit read this to his congregation, and if he can be found address Melvina Cooper or G. M. Bradford, Heidelberg, Jasper county, Miss.

MR EDITOR: I wish to inquire for my people whom I left in Mississippi in the year 1837. We all belonged to and was raised by the Caraways. There were four brothers of the Caraways—John, Thomas, Patrick and Alexander Caraway. There were four brothers of us and two sisters. We all go by the name of Rivers. My name is William Rivers; brothers' names are George, David and Sandy Rivers. My sisters' names are Betty and Harriet Rivers. Father's name was Malcolm Rivers; mother's name Sarra Rivers. We had three cousins; Annie, Daniel and Washington. Cousin Annie's husband's name was Lyons. We had five uncles who lived in Nashville and Clarksville, Tenn. They all went by the name of Caraway, to whom they belonged to. Uncles Louis and Stewart bought their freedom about the year, 1831. Myself, brothers and sisters lived between Yazoo City and the Benton place, called Poplar Bridge. I don't remember the name of the county. Brother George, Sister Betsy, Cousin Washington and myself came to Texas and left the others at Poplar Ridge, Miss. I have not heard anything from them since I left. Bro. George, Cousin Washington and myself are yet living in Texas. Sister Betsy is dead. I am living a lover and member of the M. E. Church. Pastors will please read this from their pulpits. Address William Rivers, Chambers county, Texas.

The Duty of a Sunday School Superintendent.

PETER A. FISHER, ESQ.

The duty of a Sunday-school superintendent is to have the oversight of all children who attend the Sunday-school; to nominate teachers, to arrange classes, to conduct the singing, to open and close the Sunday-school and give such religious instructions to the school as may be most needed for its advancement in spiritual and intellectual growth. The idea of the children's Bible service being advanced of good, it is yet necessary that the idea be properly carried out by the superintendent, else the labor is lost, for upon him depends the success of the Sunday-school, and its general teachings.

[illegible] done, [illegible] the smallest [illegible] duty, and be [illegible] such a spirit that will be acceptable and pleasing in the sight of God.

In giving religious instructions, he should use the Bible as his text book. Children love variety and are entitled to it, but there is among [illegible] nature, that is sufficient to furnish lessons new and old, which will edify, while they interest, and are powerful to make wise unto salvation through faith, which is in Christ Jesus." It is his duty to see that each teacher is [illegible] and gives the right instruction [illegible]

The superintendent should see that [illegible] instructs his pupils to obey their parents, to honor, obey and love God with all their mind, heart and soul, also their neighbor as themselves. He should [illegible] in their minds the results of early piety, he should encourage them to seek God in the days of their youth, and by seeking Him [illegible] will obey the teachings of the Bible, which says "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth." He should often remind them of this saying: "If they be bent to God in the days of their youth, they will grow strong in the works of the Lord, and when they shall have grown to be men and women, they will not depart from the teachings of God, but will strive to be the means of others coming along in the same way, and that God will bless them, in the end. Heaven will be theirs for for pleasure and glorifying God through the endless years of eternity."

Attention should be given to the opening and closing exercises, no part should be so dull and unattractive that the children will long to have it over with, to give place to that which alone is pleasing. Let it be done in a spirited manner, such as will make them wish to have it continued, instead of being discontinued.

The superintendent should instruct the school in such a manner that the children will love Bible reading, and prayer as well as the singing. The singing should be carefully looked to by the superintendent, and it will naturally have prominence in the Sunday-school, and this is well, for it is the most choice mode of praise on earth, and I imagine in heaven.

"It is good to sing praise unto our God, for it is pleasant, and praise is comely." Psalms 147, 1. Sunday-school music is a recognized power in our land. It has already driven much of that away which was impure. It has lightened many a heavy heart in homes of poverty and sorrow, and has drawn multitudes to the house of God, and instrumentally not a few to the fold of Jesus.

The most indispensable duty of the superintendent is to assist the preacher in appointing teachers, selecting the literature that is necessary to be used in our Sunday-schools, which should be none other than such as is furnished by our Book Concern. As that is plain, instructive, and adapted to our use and wants. When once thoroughly understood, the superintendent, preachers and scholars will admit it, and by its use, will be benefited in the end. God will crown the work of such a superintendent with great success. And eventually will say: "Well done thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many," come thou from works to reward, and enjoy the blessings of God, prepared for thee from the beginning of the world.

Lagrange, Ky.

I Had a Dreadful Cough

and raised a considerable amount of blood and matter; besides, I was very thin, and so weak I could scarcely go about the house. This was the case of a man with consumption arising from liver complaint. He recovered his health completely by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Thousands of others bear similar testimony.

At the earnest request of the Board of Trustees of the Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church at Vicksburg Miss. and at the request of several ministers of the Mississippi Conference, Rev. S. A. Cowan Pastor at Vicksburg and Rev. J. M. Shumpert, P. E. will visit many of the churches in the state and solicit aid for the much needed new church at Vicksburg. The pastor and presiding elder have received several very encouraging letters from the brethren and it is to be hoped that they will meet with great success. They have entered upon the work of building the new church with a determination to succeed. We think that every minister of the Conference will invite and open the doors of their churches and help these brethren in their great effort to do good.

"My boy got his arm badly mashed. I objected to having it amputated and commenced bathing it with Darby's Prophylactic Fluid. The arm commenced to heal rapidly, the Fluid keeping it clean and inoffensive and in a short time was entirely healed. I have used it in cases of burns and sores and found it to act instantly and unfailingly.

Mason & Hamlin Pianos

Mason & Hamlin bid fair to become as famous for their upright pianos as they have long been for their world-renowned cabinet organs. The distinguishing feature about the "Mason & Hamlin Upright" is an important improvement in the method of holding the strings of the piano, which originated in their own factory. Mason & Hamlin have made 150,000 organs. They can hardly expect to make as many pianos, but they will doubtless be called upon for a very large number. Indeed, their piano department is now running to its utmost capacity, and the Company is behind orders. So great is the demand that the Company is now arranging for a large additional factory building.

Prophylactic Fluid.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER!

DARBYS PROPHYLACTIC FLUID

Disinfectant, Deodorizer and Antiseptic.

USE IT IN EVERY SICK-ROOM
FOR SAFETY, CLEANLINESS AND COMFORT.

IN ALL CONTAGIOUS DISEASES it arrests their spread by DEODORIZING the apartments, rendering the air pure and wholesome; by DISINFECTING the dischargee from the patient and the vessels receiving them; by DESTROYING all poisonous matter, malaria, gas and disease germs.

CONTAGION DESTROYED.

A second case of SCARLET FEVER has never been known to occur where the Fluid was used FREELY. Yellow Fever has been cured with it after BLACK VOMIT had TAKEN PLACE. Its use in SMALL POX will PREVENT PITTING. The worst cases of DIPHTHERIA have YIELDED to it.

Attendants on the Sick will secure Protection from Infectious Diseases by using the Fluid.

Perfectly harmless, used internally or externally.

As an Internal Disinfectant and Detergent.

Taken or injected or used as a wash it allays inflammation and corrects offensive discharges. The Fluid is a certain cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery and inflammation of the bowels. Being Alkaline in its nature, it will often afford complete relief from Heartburn, Acidity of the stomach and Dyspepsia.

Sedgwick STEEL WIRE Fence

Is the best general purpose wire fence in use. It is a strong net-work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry, as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School-lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial: it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and easiest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the newest cheap iron fences now made. The Boss folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The best Wire Stretcher, Cutting Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

LESSON HYMN. L. M.

Hymnal No. 599

B. hold the Christian warrior stand.
In all the armor of his God;
The Spirit's sword is in his hand,
His feet are with the Gospel shod;
In panoply of heavenly complete,
Salvation's helmet on his head;
With righteousness as breastplate meet,
And faith's broad shield before him spread.
Undaunted to the field he goes:
Tho' vain were skill and valor there,
Unless to fight his legions foes.
He takes the truest weapon, prayer.

Time.—B. C. 884.

Place.—Samaria, the capital of Israel.

Rulers and events.—Soon after the events of Lesson II revolution took place in the Bible lands Ben-hadad II, was slain by Hazael, his general, who became King of Syria. Jehu, a soldier, was anointed King of Israel by a prophet. He took the throne, and slew Jehoram and all Ahab's family. Athaliah, the mother of the king in Judah, also seized the royal power, and reigned for six years. Read 2 Kings 8 and 9

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

1. Jehu's Zeal, v. 15-28.

Whom did Jehu meet?
What was the king's greeting?
What honor did he confer upon Jonadab?
Of what did he ask him to be the witness?
What did Jehu do in Samaria.
What public avowal did he make to the people?
What assembly did he call?
For what avowed purpose was the call made?
For what real purpose?
Who came at the call?
What order was given as to dress?
What search was instituted?
What measures were taken to prevent escape?
What order was given to the captains?
How many priests escaped death?
What was done with the idol images?
How was the destruction completed?

2. Jehu's Sin, v. 29 31.

Whose sin did Jehu copy?
For what did the Lord commend Jehu?
Where did Jehu fail to please God?
How service to God be rendered? Deut. 10. 12.

TEACHINGS OF THE LESSON.

Where in this lesson do we see—

1. Zeal in obedience to divine command?

2. Divine commendation of faithful service?

3. Zeal without heart service?

THE LESSON CATECHISM.

[For the entire school.]

1. What did Jehu say concerning the worship of Baal? "Jehu shall serve him much."

2. In pursuance of this what did he do? Proclaimed a great sacrifice to Baal.

3. Was Jehu's heart in this? "Jehu did it in subtility."

4. For what reason? That he might destroy Baal's worshippers.

5. Was he rewarded? "Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel."

EXPLANATIONS.

Lighted on—Found. Gave him the hand—Joining hands was a pledge of fidelity, and a common form of entering into a contract. Jehu's chariot—A king's chariot was a place of honor, and on occasions of holding state, two persons were usually allowed to ride in it, namely, Jehu and his charioteer. Destroyed him—A way of saying that his family were destroyed. Served Baal a little—Irony. Vestments—The gowns used in worshipping Baal. Smote them with the edge of the sword—Unsparingly, showing no quarter. Images—These were small statues of the gods. Draught house—Devoted it to vile purposes. The golden calves—Jehu was probably afraid that if he abolished the calves of Jeroboam as well as Baal that Israel would go back to Jerusalem to worship. Took no heed—Was not careful.

DOCTRINAL SUGGESTION—The wages of sin.

Mrs. Lulu L. Williams, formerly Lulu Monroe, a former student in the Central Tennessee College, died at her home in Bowkville, Miss She was an excellent Christian woman and died in full hope of eternal life. Her many friends will regret to hear of her death. Her life was full of promise of usefulness.

J. BRADEN.

Rev. Cæsar King departed this life Aug. 16 1885, at 1:15 p. m., at his home in Georgetown, Texas. He was at peace with God and with all men. Bro King was one of our old faithful Christian ministers. He was taken ill Jan. 7, 1885, and remained in this state of health until his death. He leaves a dear wife and one step daughter and three little grandchildren to mourn his loss. Sister King deserves the care of the West Texas Conference for the manner she nursed and took care of Bro. King: He told her just before he died that she had done all she could for him; that he was all right.

T. WADKINS.

Georgetown, Tex., Aug. 25, 1885.

Rev. Elijah Nesbit was born in North Carolina in 1836, and embraced a hope in Christ in 1859, at which time he felt inwardly moved to preach. Prayer meetings, class meetings and revival meetings were his soul's delight He was a man of great faith, and a power in revivals. He wielded a wide influence, and was beloved by nearly all who knew him. Bro Nesbit joined the West Texas conference in 1875, and was appointed to the Austin Circuit where he served three years; then to the Luling charge, and he served them three years, after which he was appointed to the Cedar Creek Circuit, serving a term of three years Again he was appointed to the Austin Circuit where his mission on earth ended

On Saturday, Sept. 19 1885, Bro Nesbit arrived at the parsonage at 8 o'clock, a. m., in his hack as he always stop with me when he comes to Austin. I invited him in. He unharnessed his horses and took his overcoat and valise out of the hack, and reached to get a pistol that he brought in with him, taking it by the muzzle. He let it fall, he hammer striking a rock, the pistol discharged, the ball entered his right leg just below the knee. At the time I was in the house about twenty-five or thirty yards from him, but could see him out of the door. He hallooed to me that he was ruined. My wife and I went to his rescue, and succeeded in getting him to the parsonage, and sent for Dr. E. F. McKinly, who soon put in his appearance, calling to his assistance Drs. Q. C. Smith Q B. Neale, and on examination they pronounced it a bad wound. Bro. Nesbit suffered intensely for eight days. Before his death he talked over his business affairs to me and his wife, and requested myself and Elder C. L. Madison to see to it, and advise his wife as to what to do. I then asked him how his business with the Lord was. He readily answered it is fixed, and he was only waiting the will of the Lord. He said he could hear the heavenly choir singing, and a white horse, rigged with gold, waiting for him just across the river.

Saturday, Sept. 26, between 1 and 2 o'clock, p. m., the Lord took him home to himself. Sunday, Sept. 27, Rev. C. L. Madison, presiding elder, and the writer preached his funeral, assisted by Revs. A. B. Norrie, I. D. Scott, A. M. and A. Grant and Frank Green. The pall-bearers consisted of four elders, namely, Rev. A. B. Norrie, G. Norman, S Smith, J. Henderson, Revs J. J. Collins and A. Megors. The funeral was largely attended, the procession being nearly a half mile long. Eighty-three dollars were contributed by his many friends to defray his funeral expenses, and to help his widow. Bro. Nesbit left a wife and seven children and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

Reverend and Dear Brethren—Permit me to ask you to remember our work beyond the sea, in Africa, India and Japan; and by so doing, push vigorously the benevolent cause.

"The earth-born shadow now may shroud
Our thorny path awhile;
God's blessed Word can part each cloud
And bid the sunshine smile.

Only believe with living faith;
His bow of love and peace
Shines sweetly through the vaulted skies,
A pledge that storms shall cease."

For all Brain-Workers.

Mr. J. R Francis, of the Religio-Philosophical Journal, Chicago, says: "Parker's Tonic is the specific for all the ills that literary flesh is heir to. I have used it for digestive disorders, and for coughs colds and pains generally. Workers on the Press, in the Law, the School and the Pulpit will find it the right thing.

Prof. John Dickinson, a brother of Anna Dickenson, has accepted the chair in the Lawrence Kansas University recently vacated by Prof. Wheeler on account of ill health.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Epidemic of Crime.

Whence comes this epidemic of suicides and murders? Recent discussions show several causes. Hon. C. H. Reeve, of Indianaua, charges it to infidel teachings, holding that hopelessness of a future state cripples fortitude for bearing life's ills. Another declares suffering from the universal business depression, the cause. A third writer attributes it to increasing insanity, a physician thinks much of the tendency is inherited, while temperance advocates lay the responsibility upon strong drink.

Free-thinkers have committed suicide, but so have orthodox churchmen. Financial straits have upset many, but the wealthy have also taken their life.

Insanity and dissipation have preceded suicide and family murders.

One feature common to almost every such crime challenges attention. Well nigh every report of suicide and family murder mentions the perpetrator as having "for some time been subject to melancholy." Whence comes this? All recognized medical authorities tell us that the fire which consumes the brain is always kindled by derangements of digestion; that good digestion is impossible without pure blood, and pure blood is never known when the liver and kidneys are out of order. Under such circumstances, a preventive should be sought, and for this Warner's safe cure is sovereign—a fact conceded by the best authorities in the land, and is especially commended by the celebrated Dr. Dio Lewis.—Rochester Democrat.

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

Editorial Notes.

Who are schismatics, therefore? Those are they

Who from the love of brethren separate,
From peace and Christian kindness go astray,
And angry, sinful strife perpetuate.
Each angry contest's end, too, oft in hate;
And they who hate their brethren hate their God,
However much soever they may vainly prate
Of faith and comforts by his grace bestowed,
The curse is on their souls, and they must bear the load.

How Can We Interest Old People in the Sunday School?

MISS SALLIE L. PARKER.

Let us show the old people that we mean what we are trying to do in the Sunday School by being faithful, truthful and punctual We must cultivate the mind as well as the soil of the nation. The soil brings forth wheat, corn and good grass, if the weeds and briars are well rooted out. So mind brought under cultivation brings forth skill, learning, sound knowledge and good principles; while ignorance, bad passions and evil habits, which are the weeds and briars of the mind, are all rooted out and destroyed. To interest the old Christian people in our Sunday School we must make our Sunday School a Christian one, in order that children, when they grow up, may be honest and faithful; for if a man be untruthful or intemperate his knowledge and skill is worth little to the country, because he will be neither trusted nor employed. To get the old people interested in our Sunday School we must first get the children interested in it. When the old people see that their children are interested in the Sunday School they will become interested themselves, and do all they can to get their children to attend, for we know that the small children cannot attend the Sunday School without the consent and assistance of their parents. A good Sunday School is another name for happiness. We all desire to be happy, and should take pains to learn how. Some may say we have not the time to attend the Sunday School. Shall we not devote time and toil to learn how to be happy? And if we work for the mind as well as for the soil we will be happy in the future. It brings something better than the gold that perishes, for this may be suddenly lost. Fire may consume it; water may overwhelm it; the tempest may destroy it; the thief may take it away; but that knowledge which enriches the mind, which teaches us to make a right use of time, is superior to the elements. Fire, air, earth and water have no power over it; it can rule them as servants; it fears neither rust nor robber; it walks with us into the vale of years, and does not leave us even when we come to die. If we attain the knowledge of many languages and the fame of great learning, yet fail in that which makes the heart and life good, our knowledge is but sounding brass. If, then, the Sunday School of the people be necessary to the prosperity of the children, it is the duty of the old people to provide for it; that is to see that no child grows up in ignorance or vice. Every child in the United States should attend some Sunday School, but it is necessary that they should know what they are attending for. Is it to get lessons well, and excel in every study? This is a part, but not all. Is it a knowledge of books? Yes, and something more. It is possible to possess learning and be ignorant of necessary things. Is the Sunday School to cultivate the intellect? This is not enough. It must also strengthen the moral principles and regulate the affection. If, then, the old people know that their children are gaining so much knowledge and wisdom from the Sunday School they will become interested in the good works of our Sunday School and begin to work with us. What a grand thing is a good Sunday School. Therefore, dear Christians and friends, let us work for the up-building of the Sunday School.

Post Mortem Matters.

REV. B. M. TAYLOR, TEXAS CONFERENCE.

We have been making an evangelistic tour over our conference work, and reached Hempstead where Rev. E. Jefferson is stationed, just in time to join him in a camp meeting there.

He is expecting a hard battle with sinners, because some of them in this locality are inclined to think there is a chance after they go there.

They were probably led to this conclusion by some sermon Bro. Jefferson reports as being preached by two preachers who visited him for the purpose of attending the funeral of a member of his church. The person whose funeral they had attended had been dead for four years.

One of them said he did not know whether the deceased was in hell or heaven for the past four years, but on this day he is in hell; yes, in the lowest hell.

Thus the man was transferred to the lowest hell. So according to this new theory there are more hells than one.

Then the other preacher came, and he said the gentleman had too good a family to remain in hell. So he took him from the lowest hell, and put him in heaven.

Now, this kind of preaching is mischievous. It misleads foolish people, and makes trouble for pastors after such visitors return from their visiting.

They soon learned the pastor did not approve their course. They returned to their homes in disgust, determined to preach no more funerals in Hempstead.

Now, sir, the time has come for an end of this sort of business. Our ministers should preach the Gospel, and leave this trifling to such as have no means of knowing better.

These Sunday excursions to preach the funerals of people who have been so long dead that they are nearly forgotten ought to be given a rear seat. We believe in preaching the funeral of a man at his death; but this Sabbath breaking nuisance in the name of funerals and the dead is a sin. Crowds go as to a show to hear men tell what they do not know to be true according to the Scripture. Our church should order it to be stopped.

Protestant African Methodist Episcopal Church of San Domingo, August 15, 1885.—Greeting.

In appealing to the Christian ministry and the vast congregation they represent without respect to denominational differences, to the philanthrophists and humantarians of America in behalf of the up-building of the Protestant Church in this commnnity, we are forced to use the memorable cry of the Great Apostle of the Gentles, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." We require between $8,000 and $10,000 to build the first Protestant Church worthy of the name in the oldest city in the New World, and we appeal with pride to the American people, believing that they will respond to such a glorious cause, and will be glad to do "something for Jesus." Christian friends, at our very doors thousands and tens of thonsands of souls are hnngering and thirsting after righteousness; will you refuse them the bread of life? Three years ago when appointed here, we promised our good bishop, John M. Brown, to do all we could to bnild np the Master's Work.

When we came, there was not the vestige of a Protestant institution, for three years we have been toiling on. The 28th of August last, we dedicated the first Protestant church in this city, a neat little bnilding, at the cost of $1,000, without any aid from abroad and have paid all running expenses. Now it is too straight for the people and must be enlarged, and to the honor and glory of God, we ask you to assist in rearing up an edifice worthy of His name.

If you could witness the scenes of vice and immorality, the profanity on the Sabbath day, the errors and superstition prevalent here, you would readily give, knowing for such a cause that "God loveth the cheerful giver." Then out of your abnndance my friends, and from your blest firesides, from your cities of churches, reach across the waters and bnild up this temple to Christ and to our God. He will bless you, prosterity unborn will bless you, and this struggling little Repnblic will thank you. It would tire you to go into detail; relying upon your generosity, we hope to be able to bnild and dedicate this church by early spring, God willing; without a dollar, but trusting in God we appeal to your.

For references we refer you to bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church; Rev. J. M Townsed, missionary secretary, Richmond, Ind., and Hon. Charles Julien, Dominican counsel, 35 Broadway, New York.

Thankling you in advance for your generous gifts, in behalf of our church, very truly yours in Christ,

H. C. C. ASTWOOD, Pastor,
CHARLES WILLIAMS, Sec'y,
FERMIN HAMILTON. Trea'r,
FRANCOIS CLAUDIA, Trustee.

[We have long wondered why our own church with its hundreds of Negro preachers, who speak the French language correctly, did not enter Santo Domingo! Possibly it is for the want of money. Protestanism ought to be firmly planted there, but we would urge givers to use the utmost care in donating money there. The cause is good and it must be well assured that the agent for Christ to do this work is without other aim than the glory of God.—ED.]

What Is the Best Method of Interesting Children in the Sunday School.

MRS. GEORGIA TALBOT.

The best work in the world is always done, I believe, by one man. A Washington gives shape and character to a nationality. It is from one man an entire denomination often takes form of its theology, and it may be that we can give some ideas on the method of interesting children in the exercises of the Sunday School. In every age of the world we find different opinions on every subject, and as the child is an immatnre being we must seek first to gain the attention of it, and get it interested on the subject we are teaching, and this step will insure us good order, for without order our teachings will be in vain. Some one may ask in what way may we have order? The teacher should first be orderly; but you should know just how to begin. If you start in confusion you are very likely to have it throngh all your session. We should insist earnestly on all the pupils to have perfect quietness before we begin. Again, it is best to have them properly seated, that they may feel pleasant while engaged in their lessons. We should teach one subject at a time each Sabbath, so that each child may get familiar with their lessons. We should pass quietly and quickly over each lesson, so that we may not let our subject become tiresome to the minds of the children. The exercises should be interspersed with new pieces of music to enliven the minds of the children. Much of the success of the Sunday School depends upon its management, for those in charge of the Sunday School need to lift up their eyes upon their work; they must gather facts, weigh them, and present them to the school in the most interesting manner. One may work hard and fail of real success from not understanding what the real purpose of his work is. We can have different modes of interesting children in the Sunday School. We can interest them by giving prizes for their good lessons, punctuality and deportment. We can also win them by being kind and affectionate to them. There may be other methods that might be given, but I think the best method is to give them a teacher with patience and tact; but to answer this question intelligently and safely we must know what is to be aimed at in the Sunday School. God has called the Sunday School into great prominence. as an arm of strength to his church, and as this is God's work we must look in his Word for the purpose to be accomplished, just as we must seek the true idea of a church in his Word. Our business, then, is to teach the word; to use means that will imprint the truths of the Gospel upon the mind and heart, for this is a commission from Christ to the Sunday School worker.

A Visit to Our Old Home

REV. WILLIS H. JACKSON.

Monday, August 17th, my wife and I boarded the South bound passenger on the G. C. and Santa Fe at 5:20 p. m. Glancing along its lines rapidly we saw many fine crops.

After traveling a distance of thirty-nine miles, we landed in Sealy. One remarkable thing in this little town, only five years old, was the water works, which were being placed there by the railroad company. On account of misconnection of the Santa Fe and Western Narrow Guage railroad, we remained over that evening and found a happy home with Mr. and Mrs. S. Allen. The next morning we were conveyed to San Felipe, a very old town, taken from the Mexicans in 1820. Crossing the river our attention was attracted to the old home seats, and residences that had been ruined by the high water. Still traveling on, we soon heard the familiar old church bells of our childhood days, whose pealing toll, told us that some one was dead. We had already heard that Sister Sarah Ann Glover had passed from labor to reward, she being one of the oldest members of Asbury Chapel, and a leading sister of the church, arriving at the scene, we were soon seated in the pews where we were born unto Christ. The funeral services commenced. After the pastor, Rev. E. Gilmore, had told the true story of our faithful Christian friend's life. The services ended and we laid her where all living souls must some day lie.

During our stay there, Rev. Gilmore had a protracted meeting going on, and the writer preached at night to a crowded house. After the sermon, ten souls professed hope in Christ, seven of whom were new converts and three backsliders.

Presiding Elder Pullam and I continued in the service during the week. Saturday found us in the session of the fourth quarterly conference. Rev. Gilmore, the preacher in charge, was on hand with his brethren, and Elder Pullam took the chair. I was called forward, not to be introduced, but to aid as secretary, as we were converted in this place and sent out from this quarterly conference. The business all passed off nicely.

The next morning we were invited to meet the Sunday School of which Mr. P. H. Jenkins is now superintendent. I was once superintendent of this school for five years, so they were apparently glad to see us. The good tidings of the morning's session were soon put in our hands. It was the session of the 23d of August, and it was carried out well.

The sermon preached by Elder Pullam was found in Romans 1 20, and it was as interesting as any sermon we ever heard.

Asbury church is 50 by 35 feet, and notwithstanding the unusual number of seats there were not accommodations for all. At the cry of "Christ has spoken peace to my soul," uttered by Mrs. McDade, the Holy Spirit was felt by many. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to 170. At 3 p. m. I preached from St. Math. 25 46, and Elder Pullam preached from Prov. 4 18 at night.

We spent many happy days there among our old friends and school mates, and up to the time of our departure Elder Gilmore had thirteen converts.

Monday, 24th ult., found us aboard the W. N. G. train, bringing us to Sealy, when we changed, taking the Santa Fe Railroad direct for Brenham.

After a visit of nine days we are on our charge again, and are still having spiritual meetings.

The Unitarian religion has been known in Transylvania, Hungary, since 1568, when it was recognized by the government as one of four religions. To day they have three two gymnasiums, a college at Kolosvzsar having 350 students and twelve professors, 103 parishes with 60,000 members; each parish has a day school connected with it, where 5000 pupils daily assemble. The principal periodical of the church is (translated) the Christian Seed Sower. There are also several other periodicals.

Letters from the Pastors.

Rev. B. Andrefson, North Leflore circuit, writes: "As I do not write to your paper often I wish to congratulate you on your success with the SOUTHWESTERN. I like it very much and look forward to its weekly visits with much interest. I am doing my best to get a list of subscribers, for six months for your paper. My third quarterly conference was held at Hopewell Chapel, May 23rd, Rev. C. H. Ellington, presiding elder, was on time and held the meeting. Paid the elder, $7; raised for the pastor during the quarter, $45. The elder gave us a good sermon on Sunday at 11 o'clock, after which 40 persons partook of the Lord's supper. There are three Sunday schools on this work, and they are in a good condition. John Seay, one of the oldest members of Tennessee Conference, died a few months ago, his funeral was preached by Rev. J. Braden and Rev. B. B. Manson and myself, a large congregation were assembled of both white and colored, to hear of a good man who had lived a noble life to do much good for God and his church, and the poor. His funeral was preached at Seay Chapel, in Wilson county, April 15, 1885. Bro. Seay was in his 61 year when he died."

Rev. T. J. Smith, Giddings, Lee county, Texas, writes: "I have been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for eight years. I can say out of a pure heart that I do love both her and her laws; but I must say I sincerely regret that just as we are walking forth into the light of Methodism, through the teachings of Bros. C. L. Madison and Burton Lee, my first quarterly conference with them was a joyful occasion. The instruction given us then left me with a better understanding than I had ever had before. Bethel Chapel, Giddings, Mt. Dade and Ledbetter have been highly benefited by their wise counsel, and the people love them and wish if it is in any way possible that their services might be retained to us. Through their instrumentality the SOUTHWESTERN came to mine and many other homes here. They have power over sinners and have been instrumental in getting many into the church. They have been patient, wise and thorough. Oh, send them back to us again."

Rev. W. H. Logan, Houston, Texas, writes: "A soul converting revival began in April, Bishop Galloway was with us and preached the opening sermon, succeeding which 15 persons came forward for prayers, some of whom were converted. We continued the meeting for five weeks with a result of 41 conversions. Revs. Wade Hampton, of Hearn, and W. H. Davis, presiding elder, of Waco district, were with and assisted us. It will be seen that we have neither been idle or failed to go forth to battle.'

F. J. Yeargin, Petersburg, Tenn., writes: "The third quarterly conference was held by Elder Bullington, who gave us a soul stirring sermon. This quarter there were two admissions, ten probationers, 1 stopped, 1 licensed to exhort. Paid elder, $8; pastor, $10 45; raised for missions, $1. This point is also a better church building, the amount spent by the 65 members annually for tobacco and snuff is estimated at $250."

Rev. John L. Smith, Calvert, Texas, writes: "In answer to a question in the SOUTHWESTERN, concerning how many churches have been built by those you have joined the traveling connection, it to me, the question reads, I answer, as follows: in six years, three parsonages as follows: Burleson circuit, Zion Hill Millican circuit, Millican, size 12x24, shed room; Franklin circuit, Chapel Hill Church; besides this one at Plantersville, a log house. When entering these places there was no money in the treasury at either place, nor any lumber except at Millican. The Rev. Edmond Lee, now presiding elder of Huntsville district, had begun this work and that was the only place I did not start from the ground. I have laid the foundation for more than 10 new churches all on Navasota district; have purchased more than 25 acres of land and three town lots, which will make noble charges some day. I have some very wealthy members in this circuit, the wealthiest of whom is Bro. David Morrow, who is said to be worth about $6 000; next, Jesse Smith, worth, $5,000; John Morrow, worth, $3.000; Mrs. Maria Robinson, worth, $6,000; then comes a sinner gentleman, whose wife is a member of our church, Mr. Nath. Jones worth, $3.000; Hodge Yonng, $2 000; next Sanders, Gaines, Knowlin, Whitehead, Williams, Frazier, Hilbert, Gray and many other whose property is valued at about $15,000, none of these have taken the foreign fever yet; but many others are talking of going to Liberia. We have built a parsonage 20x24, with portico 10x6, very neat, and have started a church at Franklin, the county seat."

J. W. Jackson, Carlisle, Ark., writes: "My second quarter was held July 18 19 our beloved presiding elder, Rev. O. H. Smith was with us and held our quarterly conference for us. We did not have a full attendance, owing to the fact that some of the brethren were sick. All reports were good except one, and that was from one local preacher, who failing to have his report, the elder reprimanded him for his negligence and he promised to do better. Bro. Smith preached for us Sunday morning, and I heard it remarked very generally that it was the best effort Smith had ever made, after the sermon, the sacrament was administered to 18 communicants. At night Bro. Smith preached quite an interesting sermon. Accessions 4, probationers 2; collections, for presiding elder's second quarter $7 50; conference claimants, for Geo. W. Sams first and second quarters $4; pastor, $5.85; total $17 35. One acre of ground and house valued at $125 has been purchased at McCreanors for a church, and a subscription of $75 has been raised for remodeling the house. The Sunday schools at McCreanors, under the superintendency of Bro. George Berry and Mrs. Alice V. Jackson is in a growing condition. Bro. Berry is our faithful and zealous district steward and does not believe in letting a pastor suffer. The school at Hazen is in a flourishing condition, Bro. Hewlitt, the superintendent is deeply in earnest. There we have have an excellent teacher, a fine Christian woman, who is not ashamed to teach her "brother in black." Mrs. Olive Curtis is doing heroic work here. We hope to commence building our church here the first of next month. What is the matter with my right hand companion, the SOUTHWESTERN? No one has received it last week, and its non appearance created quite a stir. Every thing looks gloomy and out of sorts, we have commenced this week wrong, it seems."

Rev. W. H. Evans, Asbury Temple, Lexington, Ky., writes: "Our people here have done a grand work and are still nobly rallying to the standard, they have a heavy debt, but they are paying it, besides having raised all their assessments. Rev. Marshall W. Taylor, D. D., was with us on the 11th of July, and in the morning he lectured the Sabbath-school and was attentively listened to. In the afternoon he preached on "Jacob's Last Will and Prophesy," too much can not be said in praise of it, as the Dr. certainly surpassed himself. The afternoon was very warm, but he held his audience spell bound for over an hour. The Dr. has many warm friends here, and we are glad to see him at any time."

J. A. C. Wade, Cookville, Tenn., writes: "During a revival in July there were 8 conversions, 6 joined our church. B. J. Coleman, a local preacher was with us on his way to Lexington to teach school."

G. W. Williams, Moreauville, La., writes: "We have had a protracted meeting, 9 mourners, 1 convert. There is a fine Sunday-school here with 30 in regular attendance. We are getting along very well at present."

Rev. Stephen Green, Evergreen, La., writes: "I am trying to do good with the help of the Lord. We organized a home mission July 23, Sister Baxter was with us, and 20 were enrolled. They may call 20 others out."

Rev. J. A. Reese, Princess Ann, Md., writes: "A revival in our church has commenced, and we are promised to believe that 100 have been soundly converted. Holiness is nailed to our flag, and the cry is still they come. We had 42 up for prayers on the night of September 29 h."

The M. E. Church.

Form Our Mission Rooms 805 Broadway, New York.

Chaplain McCabe reports steady progress in raising the Million for Missions. If the East will increase their contributions as well as the West, the money will be raised by Dec 31, 1885.

The latest intelligence from Bishop Taylor's Expedition is generally favorable. There has, however, been one more death, the second Rev. Henry M. Willis, returning to the United States on account of poor health, died on the way and was buried at sea. His wife has returned.

The new Mission Church in Aminabad, Lucknow, India, (Bird Chapel), was dedicated August 16 The house was well filled, the larger portion being Hindus. It is eligibly located on a great thoroughfare where multitudes are constantly passing it. A regular preaching service and two Sunday schools, one for boys, the other for girls and women, will be held.

"The house is plain and inexpensive. The room is 43 by 20 feet and will seat 300 people. The building is brick with iron rafters and arched roof. In the front wall outside is a stone tablet upon which the Ten Commandments are beautifully engraved, and at the bottom the comforting words (which we trust will catch the eye of many a passing pilgrim) 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved.' This tablet is a very effective preacher and thousands of passers by have already paused to read the message."

Rev. B. H. Badley writes from Ludlow, 22: "We are having a prosperous year. The kingdom is coming, and hearts are warming toward the blessed Jesus. The darkness breaks away and the Day is Dawning."

Our Missionary Periodicals for October have been forwarded to subscribers.

The "Gospel in All Lands" has an Illustrated Article on The Islands of the Sea, the People, and the Protestant Missions among them. The General Articles are on A Pilgrimage in China, Custom of Tattooing in Burma, Woman's Work in China, People and Religion of Cashmere, Stonehenge, Rev. Freeborn Garrettson, Exercise for a Sunday-School Missionary Meeting, etc. The Editorials are on Self-Supporting Missions, the Defenders of Bishop Taylor, etc. The Notes from our own, and from other Missions are full of interest.

The "Missionary World" contains a Missionary Letter from Rev. L. W. Pilcher, A Missionary Sunday School Exercise, Illustrated Articles on the Islands, etc.

The "Little Missionary," is filled with Bright Pictures and Interesting Missionary Stories for the younger children.

We urge our Pastors and Superintendents to introduce these Periodicals into every Family and Sunday school,

We have received from the Church Extension Rooms 1018 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., the following documents, valuable for their informatory character, historic character. They are as follows: 1 Report to the last General Conference; 2 Reports for 1884 ending Oct. 31; 3 Catalogue of architectural plans; 4 Sample copy of Church Extension song service; 5 Church manual for the current quarter.

1. That from statements by conferences on pages 14 to 16 of the report to General Conference, and on pages 18 to 49 of the report for last year, you will get a summary of our work in your conference, from the organization up to October 31st, 1884. The last report between pages 33 and 45 gives statement of all loans outstanding with the conferences severally Oct 31st, 1884. Pierce give aty evans outstanding within your district the special attention which they may require.

2. Please encourage pastors to order the service of song for use in the congregation and Sunday school when taking Church Extension collection, advancing the amount named at the bottom of the title page, and reimbursing themselves for the amount so advanced out of the collection when taken. In this way we treat all alike, and yet avoid wasting these sheets.

3. Invite the attention of pastors and trustees within the district to our catalogue of architectural plans, and urge them to send for catalogue if they contemplate building either church or parsonage.

4. Both presiding elders and pastors are entitled to the "Church Manual," published quarterly by Phillips & Hunt, 805 Broadway, New York, free of charge; others can obtain it for 50 cents a year. Pastors being allowed 10 cents commission on each subscriber. Will it not serve all departments of our Church benevolence to put this Manual in the hands of every official member?

For any suggestions you may make that would be helpful to the cause of Church Extension, and for items that might be published to advantage in the Manual, we will be greatly obliged.

A new Church with 20 members has been recently organized at Wah Valley, Miss.

The Tabernacle Church, Dallas, Texas, was dedicated on the 28th ult., Bishop Ninde officiating.

Punctuality.

GEORGE W. BEAUMOND.

This word implies scrupulous exactness. It is now used chiefly in regard to time, for instance, he pays his debts with punctuality, or he is remarkable for the punctuality of his attendance, etc. According to my humble views, it is the chief element of success, both as regards our mortal and spiritual life. A man given to tardiness or procrastination soon looses the confidence of his fellow men, and falls into disrepute. In the professional life it is every thing. The patient, extremely ill, says do not go for Dr. B. for he is not punctual to his calls, I shall die before he gets here.

The aspiring and diligent student says: "I am compelled to change schools, for my teacher is not punctual, and consequently my progress is slow. I shall never reach the summit of science to which my ambition aspires"

The tardy farmer comes in on a lovely morn in June, while every thing in nature is even musical with physical life, and says to his ever patient and hopeful wife: "I am wholly discouraged, my neighbor's farm looks beautiful and prosperity and success crowns his every effort, while every thing around me is going to complete destruction, at this rate I shall soon be a beggar. My crops are not yet planted and every where, dilapidation meets the eye" Thus it is with all classes of men in all the various professions of human life. If we would be famous, if we would be good, and useful citizens, in a word, if we desire to arrive at any degree of perfection in any of the various vocations of life, let us begin our ascension by strictly adhering to the subject before us.

On Sabbath morning, when the thrilling tones of the church bell calls us to duty arise and go and meet punctually those who leave their homes to instruct us in the "ways of righteousness," and thus far, at least, show our appreciation of their efforts.

In conclusion let me admonish those before me to be especially punctual as regards your duties and obligations to God, be faithful to the work assigned you, be up and doing whatsoever your hands find to do, put your own "shoulders to the wheel," and have a "heart for every fate," and so live that when you leave earth and shall knock for entrance into that everlasting kingdom it shall not be said of any of you that you are too late. God help us to be punctual to our souls best interests.

Pickens, Miss.

Next Conference Year.

L. P. CUSHMAN.

Just about this time certain preachers in several of our conferences begin to be troubled about their appointment for the coming year. With all such I desire to have a friendly chat. First of all allow me to say that I do not think that it will be the least impertinent for any one of this class to speak out what is in his mind on this subject, but as a rule those will be heard most readily whose walk and work have been in harmony with their high and holy calling. Nearly every one of them will have a desire to go up higher, and if during the year they have attended to all parts of this work, taken the conference collections for Missions, Church Extension, Freedmen's Aid, Tract, Sunday school, and educational causes, paid the presiding elder his quarterage, paid for the books they have bought, and the copies of the SOUTHWESTERN they have ordered, and been at peace with their brethren, they will find an open door and hear some friendly voice saying: "Go up higher." But if they have neglected their work, and spent the year on the complainer's bench, have told the people that their predecessor in securing his conference collections did it only for a great name, and that he shall do no such thing; they too will get a great name, but it will be on the descending scale, and they will be called upon to take a low seat. There is no divination, no enchantment against the Methodist minister who faithfully attends to all parts of his work. Men who are blatant, vociferous, and noisy, may for a while attract attention and occupy favorable positions, but only those who are faithful in the performance of work retain them. The one thought I seek to enforce, is that each minister or pastor attend to present duty, finish this conference year's work, attend faithfully to every part of it, do the Master's will where you are, and his word for it, each shall receive his own reward.

Two Conflicting American Civilizations.

REV. D. GREEN, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Another, and very important view of this education movement, is had by studying the yet unsettled conflict of the two civilizations which have struggled, and yet struggle, for the mastery in the United States.

One, the civilization of freedom, was typified in the company that landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620. The other, the civilization of slavery, which was typified in that cargo of slaves that landed at Jamestown, Va., in 1619. In one, the whispering word and thought was freedom; in the other it was slavery.

I will not here tell how these two civilizations have grown, and struggled for the mastery in the past. First, within each individual State, and at last in the nation in legislative halls, at the ballot box, and then on the battlefield. Every possible expedient was attempted to avert the conflict.

Foolish men said for a hundred years as foolish men said in 1860, and as some continue to say, "There is no conflict only as fomented by a few fanatics on both sides;" but the conflict went on until, in the awful agony of a life and death struggle on the battle field, where half a million Northern and Southern heroes were slain.

The real meaning of the conflict was learned, then rung out like the clear notes of the midnight bell in a storm, the sublime proclamation of the immortal Lincoln; the key-note of that proclamation was freedom to all within the national domain; then the armies of freedom triumphed, but the conflict did not end there.

That was the struggle of force with force, which, in fact, settled nothing except where despots rule and slaves obey. The conflict between the Northern and Southern sections of our country were more than simple party leaders, struggling for supremacy, as one army battling with the other for victory; it was the conflict of two civilizations, each rooted and grounded in the most profound conviction of millions of people. No people on the footstool ever fought a more heroic battle than did the people of the South, however much they have been wrong. No American can but be proud of their heroism in the late war; but if any one believes that when Gen. Lee handed his sword to Gen. Grant that the political and social convictions of the South passed over with that sword to the civilizations of freedom, as distinguished from the civilization of slavery, such a one has not read history aright, or knows not the power of strong conviction.

The abolition of slavery is accepted, but the conviction which was preached from every Southern pulpit that slavery was a divine institution, still demands that the relative positions of the white and black man shall be as distinctly marked as when the former bought and sold the latter. Why should it be otherwise?

Would the defeat of the Union armies have made the Christian people of the North believe that slavery was right?

This conflict of civilization is as distinctly marked in 1881 as it was in 1860. Thank God the conditions are so changed that the possibility of war is gone, and Christian men on both sides are striking hands, and each rising sun marks a day's progress toward perfect Christian national unity.

Who can fail to see the magnitude of this tremendous work? Christian people, North and South, uniting, hand in hand, in Christian labor, in the church and school, must be one in this undertaking.

There need be no disputes over the past. The great and momentous present is here with its work and responsibilities. The chief power of slavery lies in the ignorance which, perhaps, of necessity, was imposed upon the Negroes, and, perhaps, as a matter of jealousy was made the lot of vast multitudes of white people. Those masses must be educated up into conditions of independence of thought and action, and the Christian church must lead in that work: May God help us as Christians to labor on in this field.

Benton, Miss.

The hull of barley is very hard, and this grain should, therefore, always be ground or boiled before feeding. If fed whole more of it will be voided intact than of any other grain. Boiling, however, is quite as good as grinding. The grain expands, so that instead of losing the toll the farmer gains an increase in bulk.

The Epidemic of Crime.

Whence comes this epidemic of suicides and murders? Recent discussions show several causes. Rev. O. H. Reeve, of Indianapolis, charges it to infidel teachings, holding that hopelessness of a future state cripples fortitude for bearing life's ills. Another declares suffering from the universal business depression the cause. A third writer attributes it to increasing insanity, a physician thinks much of the tendency is inherited, while temperance advocates lay the responsibility upon strong drink.

Free thinkers have committed suicide, but so, have orthodox churchmen. Financial strains have upset many, but the wealthy have also taken their life.

Insanity and dissipation have preceded suicide and family murders.

One feature common to almost every such crime challenges attention. Well nigh every report of suicide and family murder mentions the perpetrator as having "for some time been subject to melancholy." Whence comes this? An eminent medical authority tells us that the fire which consumes the brain is always kindled by derangements of digestion; that good digestion is impossible with impure blood, and pure blood is never known when the liver and kidneys are out of order. Under these circumstances, a prevention must be sought, and for this Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is unexcelled by the best earth has yet produced, and is especially recommended by the celebrated Dr. Dio Lewis.—Rochester Democrat.

The Intermediate State.

REV. L. R. HAGOOD.

Rev. J. W. Hill's article in a late issue is an excellent contribution to the fierce theological disquisitions. I like the tone, diction and Biblical soundness. The entire article is good with a few exceptions. The theological tutor might give clear cut definitions and lucid explanations. In speaking of the Lord's parable of the rich man and Lazarus, he says: "Whatever we may say of the mode of communication, it is evident that it was by verbal heavy things." Again, he says, in speaking of the tales of the dead: "How, then, could the latter have been with him in paradise that day unless by material [illegible]." The fallacy of his argument is a little obscure in the [illegible], "living beings" and "material presence" are equivocal, and [illegible] is what logicians call "the fallacy of equivocation," arising from an equivocal word, or from the ambiguous structure of the sentence. To particularize, the word material is from the Latin word materia, matter; substance, as opposed to spiritual. "Living beings" is a phrase used to distinguish between that which we call "dead." Again, he uses the word paradise as synonymous with heaven. Paradise comes from the Greek, paradeisos, meaning pleasure garden or park. The writers use it to describe the intermediate state of the dead. Hence the thief was carried to paradise that day. But paradise is not the same as the final resting place of the righteous dead heaven. These are proven equivocal terms, "therefore, we conclude, the souls of the righteous are not immediately to heaven at death, but spend the intermediate time in the resurrection there" [illegible] equivocal, but inconclusive and misleading. The intermediate state of the dead, righteous and unrighteous, is the same though the circumstances of them are different. This is clear from the parables they were speaking and seeing the other. It is as true as the gospel now in the case now in God's word. The dead are happy, and the wicked are [illegible] "in their torment," and the judge." I would not have so hurriedly written this reply, but our people catch hold quickly and let loose slowly the things of God delivered to them. Give next Quiz.

A Sermon on the Character and Mode of St John's Baptism.

REV. H. W. WHITE, LEXINGTON CONFERENCE.

Text: Luke I 9 10: "And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in the Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens rent asunder, and the spirit as a dove descending upon him."

I now propose mainly to consider the character and mode of John's baptism. This will lead me incidentally to consider the mode by which he baptized our Savior.

I The character of John's baptism.

John's baptism could not have been a Christian baptism from the fact that his disciples were rebaptized by the Apostles after the resurrection of Christ. There are those who nevertheless believe that it was Christian baptism.

I cannot see why they do, however, for it seems to me that a quite limited acquaintance with the Scriptures would correct this error.

Read Acts xix, 1-6. Now, if John's was a Christian baptism can any man assign a reason why a single one of his disciples should be baptized over? But in each of these cases we have many such examples.

The 3000 baptized on the day of Pentecost were the disciples of John. Now, if John's baptism and Christ's baptism were equally Christian baptism as some people think, or at least say, then we have the Apostle after the resurrection of Christ doing the superfluous work of baptizing again persons who had been already once baptized before his crucifixion. A cause whose emergencies need such straining to sustain it must, indeed, be in a precarious situation.

Every fair and free mind must concede that the Apostle rebaptized John's disciples after the resurrection, because they had not received Christian baptism before his crucifixion.

They had received the baptism of John, therefore the baptism of John was not a Christian baptism. The baptism of John was the seal of a covenant between John and his disciples that they would believe on Christ when he came, which event his preaching announced would soon take place.

The purpose of John's ministry was as a herald to cry Christ is coming, and "the kingdom of heaven is at hand." And to warn men to "prepare the way of the Lord."

II The mode of John's baptism

I shall now proceed to show that John's baptism was by sprinkling. And hence that Christ was not immersed by him. And hence, also, that those who are dipped under water have not thereby followed the mode of Christ's baptism by John "in the River of Jordan."

The history of the baptism is recorded in Matt III, 13-16.

I argue that there is no proof of an immersion found here. The Scriptures say Christ went up straightway out of the water.

Out of is taken from the Greek preposition—(ek).

This word occurs more than sixty five times, and means in; fifty times it is used to mean out. By reference to your lexicon you will see that this word (ek) has eighteen different meanings, some of them in perfect agreement with the original. It is translated from in Acts vii, 3, "Get thee (ek) from thy kindred, not out of thy kindred." But if it were proved that both John and Christ were in the water together at any one time, this would be no proof that Christ was immersed by John. Besides it is not capable of being proved that into and under are synonymous terms. If they are not, then, even if Christ went into the water it would still be not proved that he was put under it. Though it seems that some people cannot see any difference between these terms. One of the evangelists says that Christ went up into a mountain to pray. Was he under the ground because he was in the mountain?

We will now consider the question, for what purpose was Christ baptized? A correct answer to this inquiry will determine the mode, and consequently the manner in which John performed this sacred rite.

For what purpose, then, was Christ baptized? It was not a baptism unto repentance, for Christ had never sinned and needed, therefore not to repent. It was not a baptism on the profession of faith in the expected Messiah, for Christ was the Messiah himself. Let us hear and obey God rather than men, and most of our difficulties will disappear in the face of this clearly stated truth.

Zacharias, the father of John, the Announcer, was one of the twenty four courses of Jewish high priests. Luke I 8 9.

John was himself a regular ordained Jewish priest. Christ was a priest also, but not after the order of Aaron, or the tribe of Levi, but a "priest forever after the order of Melchisedek." He had conformed to all the Jewish law, and now having waited until he was thirty years of age, which was the period fixed by law for a priest to commence his ministry, he seeks ordination at the hands of John, as we call it, or a public recognition of his right to teach, by one who was himself a regularly authorized Jewish teacher. Christ knew very well, and so do we, that such were the strong prejudices of the Jews, and such their regard for their law, that if he attempted to teach, without being inducted into his office in a legal manner, they would have refused to listen to him. This, then, is what he meant by his reply to John's objection to baptizing him when he said: Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becomes us to fulfill all righteousness. Now, no righteousness of the law was fulfilled by dipping or immersion, for no Jewish teacher or priest had ever been immersed.

Christ was the high priest of our profession, and his baptism the act of consecration by which he was set apart for his office, upon the duties of which he was about to enter. It hence became him to fulfill its duties in every part. What part of the law his baptism fulfilled we learn in Numbers viii, 5-7. Here, then, Christ is introduced into his priestly work by John, who sprinkles the water of purifying upon him. The old time objection that this was not required for Christ, because he was not of the Aaronitic priesthood, fails as signally now as it did 1800 years ago. It was first raised in the days of St. Paul, and triumphantly answered by him in his Epistle to the Hebrews, VII, 11-21. Blessed is he that readeth, but only blessed is he who understandeth these things. Amen!

What Sporting Men Rely On.

When Lewis R. Redmond, the South Carolina moonshiner, cornered, after eight years eluding the government officials, was asked to surrender, he exclaimed;

"Never, to men who fire at my back."

Before he was taken, five bullets had gone clear through him, but strange to relate, he got well, in the hands of a rude backwood nurse."

By the way, if Garfield had been in the hands of a backwoods nurse, he might have lived. A heap of volunteer testimony against the infallibility of the physicians has been accumulating of late, and people are encouraged to do their own doctoring more and more. It is cheaper and quite as certain.

Before Detective Curtin of Buffalo caught Tom Dallard he "covered" him with his revolver. Tom saw the point and tumbled!

Joe Goss was "covered" a few weeks ago and he tumbled, and so did Dan Mace. Death "fetched em" with that dreaded weapon—kidney disease. But they should have been lively and drawn first. They could easily have disarmed the monster had they covered him with that dead shot—Warner's safe cure, which, drawn promptly, always takes the prey. It is doubtless true that sporting men dread this enemy more than any mishap of their profession, and presumably this explains why they as a rule are so partial to that celebrated "dead shot."

Redmond was right. No man should surrender when attacked in the back. He should "draw," face about and proceed to the defence, for such attacks, so common among all classes, will fetch a man every time unless "covered" by that wonderfully successful "dead shot."—Sportsman, News.

The Bartholdi Statue.

Office of the American Committee of the statue of Liberty, No. 33 Mercer Street, New York, Sept 24th, 1885.

To the Press and People of the United States:

The able efforts of the New York World newspaper, coupled with the generous co operation of the Press of the country, which have been crowned with such unexampled success in securing the amount of money required to complete the the Pedestal for the Statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World," call from the Executive Committee their fullest expression of thankfulness for this manifestation of good will.

Encouraged by this success, the undersigned, on behalf of the Committee, appeals once more to our liberty-loving people for the necessary aid required for the putting together and erection of the colossal statue which is soon to be placed upon its magnificent foundation, the cost of which, with the steel and iron anchors, beams, &c., will approximate, nearly as can be the sum of Forty Thousand Dollars (40,000). To this end we desire to call the attention of the people, and to state that the continuance of the sale of Statuettes, on a liberal scale (which can now be supplied on demand), will produce the needed amount to complete this object.

All who desire to secure this beautiful souvenir of the great work, can do so upon application to the undersigned.

On behalf of the Executive Committee, Your Obt. Servant,

THE SOUTHWESTERN

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor.

THURSDAY, OCT. 22, 1885.

To try to retain a preacher off of his district is a doubtful proceeding.

The wish may be father to the oft-expressed thought that her colored members will some day leave the Methodist Episcopal Church, but we think we know them well enough to say that it will never be realized.

Unfortunately for our colored work in Kansas, it once had a colored presiding elder whose motion and promotion were incompatible with the extensive interests of our affairs in that most fertile mission field. But we respectfully request the trial of one more there.

Now the Liberals convened in Cleveland, O., through Mr. R. G. Ingersoll, their chairman, have told us plainly what it is they want. They want no Sabbath and no chaplins in our Congress or our army, and we wish to inform them that it is likely that their wants in these particulars will long remain unsatisfied.

Rev. M. B. Franklin, formerly of the Baptist church at Terre Hante, Ind., applied for admission and was rejected at the last session of the Lexington Conference. Bnt the presiding elder, being authorized to use him as a supply, if he desired, has appointed him to Latimer church, Steubenville, O., from the pastorate of which church said Franklin has now been deposed for conduct unbecoming a minister.

[illegible] Ohio is over, and for the general result the readers [illegible] of October [illegible], where it was about as accurately stated before [illegible] can now be after the fact.

If the reader will try to remember, it will be seen that we foretold the result of the late Presidential election with about the same accuracy. And that our statements were in advance of all, and in opposition to the statements made by other [illegible], especially journals with colored editors.

The issues of the present election can be briefly stated as follows: The Republicans have carried the State, electing the Governor and Legislature. This secures the return of Hon. John Sherman to the United States Senate, which is a desirable thing for the good of general legislation.

The Democrats did not secure so large a colored vote as in the last State election. More negroes voted the Prohibition ticket than in any previous year, and the Prohibition ticket was greatly increased. It drew as heavily upon the Democratic as upon the Republican party, thus completely refuting the foolish charge that it was a Democratic aid society.

More than 20,000 negroes voted the Republican ticket, and by their vote have called that party again to the exercise of power.

Several objections to Mr. Foraker's antecedents with reference to the negro were raised, but he succeeded disproving them all; and we shall now expect such an appreciative acknowledgment of the support the negroes have given the party [illegible] will be consistent with fairness and the oft-expressed purposes of the candidates.

[illegible] negroes, probably three, will [illegible] seats in the next Legislature, and it will be their duty, as [illegible] representing the [illegible] of Ohio, to keep a clean [illegible] recording matters where deep [illegible] exists the acquisition of [illegible] money possible, but to the [illegible] We hope Col. [illegible] get there, and we give [illegible] and B. W. Arnett [illegible] best wishes. But the [illegible] will yet be heard [illegible] Ohio, except there is a [illegible] curbing of the liquor power [illegible]

Cardinal McCloskey.

Cardinal McCloskey, died at his residence in New York, surrounded by chosen friends, Oct. 9th. The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette has the following notice of the sad event:

John McCloskey was born in Brooklyn in 1810. At that time there was not a single Roman Catholic Church in that city. When he was eleven years old it was decided that he should become a priest. He acquiesced in this decision of his parents with alacrity, and in 1821 entered the College of Mount St. Mary's, at Emmetsburg, Md. When he had finished the course he stood in the foremost rank of the class. In 1834 he was ordained a priest by the Rt. Rev. Dubois in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York. In the same church, forty one years afterward, the Archbishop of Baltimore conferred npon him the scarlet beretta of a Cardinal. Having received his orders he went to Rome. On returning to America he was made pastor of St. Joseph's Church in New York. He labored and preached for several years in this church. When Bishop Hughes established St. John's College in Fordham he made Father McCloskey first president, and soon afterward he was made Bishop Coadjutor to Bishop Hughes. On May 10, 1854, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, Bishop Hughes ordained Father McCloskey to the Episcopate, only a little over ten years after his entrance into the priesthood. Three years afterward Bishop McCloskey was sent to Albany. On March 15, 1875, a telegram was received by Archbishop McCloskey from Rome, announcing that the consistory just held in Vatican had made him a Cardinal. Cardinal McCloskey was thus raised to be the highest Catholic ecclesiastical dignitary in America. During a second visit of Archbishop McCloskey to Rome the Pope had conferred upon him the faculty of the Apostolic Benediction, with power to grant plenary indulgence. In addition, the Pope had given him a handsome chalice for the Cathedral. These were tokens of the special approbation with which Cardinal McCloskey was regarded by the Holy See. After this crowning honor the Cardinal's life flowed smoothly on, without change in his position in the Church.

There were present at his death bed his three nieces, Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. Cleary, of Washington, and Miss Mullen, Mr. Cleary, Father Danbresse, the Cardinal's own confessor; Archbishop Corrigan, coadjutor to the Bishop; Monsignor Quinn, the Vicar General of the diocese; Monsigner Preston, Monsignor Farley, Father McDonnell, the Cardinal's private secretary; Dr. Edward L. Keyes, his physician for years; the Sisters of Mercy who had been in attendance upon the Cardinal, and Catherine, the old servant of the Cardinal and household.

The Methodist Men and Women's Mutual Aid and Beneficiary Association.

Because of numerons inquiries as to its character, and of a resolntion of the Lexington Annual Conference directing us to do so, rendered more needful by the unexpected death of Rev. L. N. Taylor, who was its founder and president, we visited St. Louis, Mo., on Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1885, and made a careful examination into the law and administration of that association, and we find—

First—That it has for its object the financial aid of those who survive and represent its members after the death of said members.

Second—That it holds a charter from the State of Missouri authorizing it to organize and enact snch constitution, laws and rules as will conduce to its object.

Third—That its present membership comprises 833 persons, classified as follows: One division West, 305 women and 138 men; one division South, 261 women and 129 men. In the Western division there has been 9 deaths—4 women and 5 men. In the Southern division, 2 deaths—1 man and 1 woman; in all 11. Of these the society has paid the claims of 2, as follows:

One of the claimants, a man in the Western division, received $38, and the other, a woman, in the Southern division, $40. The others are on file in the office of the secretary at 1203 Linden street, St. Louis, Mo., and we were assured that they would be paid when assessments were in hand for that purpose.

The delay in getting these assessments in hand, we learned, was occasioned by the tardiness of members sending in their old and taking ont new policies since the reduced schedule of assessments and benefits was arranged, with which all our readers are now familiar.

We find fourth—That the men who projected and who now conduct this association are ministers and laymen of onr own church in the St. Louis and Missonri conferences, who apparently mean well and are aiming to do well, bnt that they have in the formation of their constitution, laws and rules made some mistakes by obligating themselves to do more than they can do, especially in the time of epidemics, and we assured them thereof in our conference.

We think that the association as now formed, with especial exceptions to articles 8 and 9 of its constitution, might be able with honesty and promptness on the part of the policy holders to carry ont its agreements under ordinary circumstances, otherwise not. But we believe, to attain the highest success, it will be necessary to so amend its charter and enlarge its privileges that, say one minister and one layman from each interested conference may be made members of its Board of Directors, and be authorized to hold meetings and review its work, and make alterations in its government at least quadrennially if needed.

It is but proper to say that in our conference there was present President W. H. H. Brown, J. W. Hughes manager, and E. A. Minor treasurer, and that our meeting was held in the office of the manager, and that each and the gentlemen altogether extended to us all courtesies, and every facility for gaining the information desired and sought.

We think these gentlemen and their associates in office will, after consultation with all policy holders take steps to put the association npon the firmest possible basis, and that it will finally accomplish its purpose. Hence, that the confidence of its patrons is not misplaced.

The Political Parson.

Speaking of Rev. Dr. A. Lenard's candidacy for Governor of Ohio, on the Prohibition ticket, a correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette of July 11th says: 'The political parson is out of place here in America. There are well understood conditions why the objection does not apply with eqnal force to the colored race. A congregation pay their pastor to administer to their spiritual needs, and their contract does not include a stumping tour for political famel, or emolument."

All this correspondent has to say about ministers going npon stump speaking tours for "political fame or emolument," is exactly as he says. Except his omission to apply it to the Negro race. If there are any conditions against white ministers stumping for political fame and emolument, which does not equally apply to colored ones, they are such conditions as alone exist in the mind of white men, and we should be glad to have this knowledgeons correspondent at once, proceed to inform us what they are.

We know that the Rev. Benjamin W. Arnet, a minister in the African Methodist Episcopal Church, financial secretary of that large and influential religious connection, with an office in St. Paul's Chapel at Nashville, Tennessee, is a candidate for representative from Green County in the Ohio legislature. We know also that the general missionary secretary of the same church, is a member of the Indiana legislature, and that Rev. R. H. Cain, one of its bishop was at one time a member of Congress.

We also remember several Baptist ministers, who have been in politics pretty deeply, among them Hon. Rev. G. W. Williams. We know that Rev. Henry Highland Garnet, of the Presbyterian Church, died in politics. We knew too that Hon. Frederick Douglass, left preaching and entered politics. But we do not know and to the best of our ability, we do not believe, neither has it hitherto been told us that there was any reason for these men being in politics which might not, with equal force be applied to white men or any men. We do know that they are doing a bad thing for their race by creating the impression that there are any conditions more favorable to them prostituting the ministerial calling than there are for white men who do so.

A minister is a citizen, and within proper limits has a right to express opinions and moral sentiment; but when his connection with politics extends to the extent of espousing the licensing of the nefarious and immoral business of liquor selling, he has violated every condition upon which he was admitted to the Christian ministry, and be he white or black there is no difference. The tone of the ministry and the cause of Christ is invariably injured in the eyes of God and most men by such unministerial proceedings. The minister who wishes to enter active partisan politics, has laid upon him the duty, first to relieve his church of all blame or harm from his course by resigning his ministerial office and credentials. He is otherwise in the attitude of a man who is trying to serve both God and mammon.

A Noble Cause Which Should Be Aided.

Our church at Frankfort, Ky., was lately burned. Throngh the neglect and misrepresentation of those in charge the insurance was allowed to run out, so that all was a total loss. They are $260 in debt and without a house. A good house eqnal to the demands of the case can be built there for $600. The people must depend upon themselves, as the Board of Church Extension has declined, for want of ability, to aid them. Frankfort is a point of great value to our work and must be retained.

Bro. J. Allen Ross is there and means to build this church and pay off the debt. For that purpose he held a meeting all day Sunday, August 14. Now let our pastors at Lexington, Versailles, Paris, Georgetown, Lagrange and Jericho clear the way for, and give him aid. Their presence and the help of their people, one grand rally and the work can be done. Expect nothing in return. Come, give, and help the cause.

The Relation of Barbers to Society.

Rev. Allen Allensworth, of the Union Baptist Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, is thoroughly reorganizing that church for effective work. He recently preached a sermon to the barbers there. His subject was the relation of barbers to society.

A barber in general is a person who does not seem to do society any harm or very much good; bnt that species of them who are seemingly ready to lick the boots of the dirtiest white men, and refuse to shave decent colored men in their shops, are a constant veto power upon the efforts of colored society to attain civil eqnality. They stimulate the foes, and weaken the friends of Negro social rights.

We have never felt qnite at liberty to complain of discriminations against Negroes by white people as a matter of custom, and remain silent touching Negro restaurants, saloons and barber shops from which Negroes are excluded as a measure of business policy.

Mr. Allensworth can do a great deal of good, and create a general and a profound sensation among Cincinnati barbers if he will preach a few sermons true to his feelings on the subject, and we do not see why he should fail to do so.

The errors in colored society must be corrected by somebody, and nobody is more influential or better qualified to undertake and perform the task than the men who create and largely control the thonght of that society. Snch men are the colored ministers.

The chief reason for advocating amalgamation between the races mainly grows ont of a desire of just snch people as these colored business men to see the end of a race which they continually degrade in order to make money. It is no marvel that they are anxious to crawl into the back door of white society, for their "consciences doth make cowards of them all," when they confront the injury they cause to the colored people.

Personal.

—Gen. Aiken, of Louisville, Ky., is a warm friend and benefactor of Rev. Mack Henson.

—Rev. Phillip Toliver, of Toledo, Ohio, recently lectured in Wheeling, West Virginia.

—Mrs. Rev. Mack Henson, of San Antonio, Texas, has been sick in bed with the dengue fever, but is now better.

—Our churches in Bellaire, Bridgeport, Martin's Ferry, Steubenville, Cleveland, Oberlin and Springfield, Ohio, appeared upon a recent visit of this editor to be in the midst of profitable labors.

—Many blessings are being ponred out upon the head of that hoary-headed philanthropist, Dr. R. S. Rust, by the people of the West Texas conference, for the order which now gives them a conference school at Austin, Texas.

—Dr. Long, missionary to Constantinople, is in this country, and attended the recent session of the Pittsburg conference; and Dr. E. M. Wood, of the same conference, has been exonerated by it of all blame for not filling his last year's appointment.

—E. J. Waring, late of Columbus, Ohio, founder and publisher of the original Afro American newspaper there, and clerk in one of the departments in Washington, D. C., has just been admitted to the bar to practice law in Baltimore. It is said that he is the first Negro ever so admitted in Maryland.

—Rev. Joseph Courtney and wife, Rev. E. W. S. Hammond and wife, Bedford Williams, Esq., and wife, and Mr. George Fisher and wife, all of Covington, Ky., have placed this editor and his family under fresh obligations for social courtesies extended to them during their brief sojourn in that city recently.

—A few moments with our old and valued friend, George W, Hollinger, of Wheeling, West Virginia, convinced us that his old time nd merited prosperity had not deserted him. Mrs. Hollinger is no less amiable as a hostess than of yore Rev. J. H. Daily and Cornelius Asbury, pastors there, are enjoying prosperous seasons, that of the latter being just at its close.

—The report of Rev. John Pierson, presiding elder of the Hillsboro district, Cincinnati conference, was a model one. It embraced a full review of the years' work, bnt so woven together as to read like the narration of a beantiful story. Bro. Pierson is a gentleman of excellent qnalities, and it is to us a real pleasure to make this mention of him.

—Mrs. Dr. Taylor and family arrived safely at home in New Orleans Oct. 4, after a pleasant trip via the O. and M. and I. and C. Railway. The trip was made without a sleeper, and the accommodation was uninterruptedly first-class through from Cincinnati. We think well bred and well behaved people intending to visit the Exposition this winter can feel assured that and other roads entering New Orleans will properly look after their comfort, and we urge upon colored people the need of a careful observance of the rules which govern good society, especially in traveling. If others do differently we must not. We shall have to deserve a great deal for a while to obtain a little, and it may be that rule will hold good when applied to railroads as to other corporations with whom we have dealing.

Church Polity.

Mr. Editor.—Will you please give a young lady subscriber the full meaning of the word "love?"—Subscriber.

Answer. As the name of a certain passion, love means affection, endearment or high esteem. It is an action whereby one soul actually takes another into the same measure of respect, as that in which it holds itself.

There is a spurious passion emanating not from the soul, bnt the body or animal nature only. This, is commonly called lust, bnt by young and uninformed persons, it is often mistaken for the genuine article. It is not love however, and differs from it in this: that love itself, is an abiding virtue, is created by the discovery of real virtues by one person in another. While lust, an evanescent appetite, comes into a being at bidding of our grossest sensual nature, uninvited by some pleasing external form of dress or appearance, and ceases to exist by its own gratification. Love is from God, and lust from the devil. One is heavenly, the other, earthly.

Mr. Editor.—If a member leaves one of our congregations without a certificate, and remains away for more than a year, and never unites with any of our congregations or any other church, though it was posible for him to do so, two of our congregations being near him part of the time, should he return to the place at last, from whence he at first started, would it be legal for the pastor of that charge to admit him to membership without any certificate?—Subscriber.

Answer. No. See Discipline 1884, pp. 56 and 7, paragraph 48, sec. 4 and 6, also pp. 112 and 113, paragraph, 184, sec. 5, 7 and 8. If any member of a church where we had charge should leave it without a certificate and remain absent for more than a year under such circumstances as you relate, we should regard him as having neglected the means of grace and proceed against him as specified under that head: Dis. pp. 134 and 135, par. 23, sec. 1-2.

If his whereabouts was known or could be ascertained, we should write to or visit him, or if otherwise proceed in his absence having previously caused such notice to be put where we had reason to presume he would obtain it as the law requires. Hence upon the return of such a member we should proceed as specified in Dis. pp. 137 and 138, par. 245.

West Texas Conference Seminary.

REV. MACK HENSON.

As a trustee of the West Texas Conference Seminary, I rejoice to inform the public generally that that school will open its doors on the 15th of October, 1885, in the church edifice of Simpson Mission Methodist Episcopal Church, Austin, Texas. A letter from Dr. R. S. Rust, and D. D., L. L. D., corresponding secretary of the Freedman's Aid Society, affirms the above facts. We have in hand nearly $3,000 in money, and about $5,000 worth of property in Austin, belonging to the West Texas Annual Conference. A large portion of it was purchased or accumulated in 1879, the year I was financial agent. We have waited with patience a long time to get the society to take hold of this institution, but had up to

And any one acquainted with the rank and file of the Methodist Episcopal Church knows that it has within its pale men capable to fill any position in practicable life in way of scientific scholarship. With the Tillotson already established, and this school, together with Austin's workable system of public free schools, Austin will, without any pretention, take rank as the Athens of the great Southwest. I trust the future will bring with it new life to our city school business so far as that provided for Negroes are concerned, for goodness knows that they amount to a trifle above a farce at the present. And if these Negroes succeed in getting any substantial good ont of them, they may be set down as the most capable Negroes to be fonnd any where in this free land of onrs.

This certainly shows a hopeful and encouraging revival of interest in higher ministerial training. The new professor, Rev. J. C. Murray, B. D., has entered on the work with ability and enthusiasm.

Books and Current Literature

The New York Evening Post offers its semi-weekly edition to new readers for the last three months of this year for 25 cents. Its make up includes, besides the news of the half week, the leading editorials of the daily editon. foreign and domestic correspondence, personal, political, and religions notes, book reviews, musical and dramatic criticism, farm, honsehold, and fashion hints, selections from the best current foreign literature, etc. Owing to its thoroughly independent attinde upon all political questions, the views of the Evenini Post are more eagerly songht and more widely copied than those of almost any other newspaper in the country. This was the case in the last presidential campaign, when, for reasons which it gave in advance of the nomiation, it fonnd itself nuable to suqport the Republican candidate. This has been thi case also since the election, for the paper has again demonstrated its independdence by promptly denouncing all departnres of the new Adminstration from the reform pledges npon which it was intrnsted with power.

General Grant's paper on Chattanooga will be printed in the November Century. It takes np the writer's military career at Vicksburg, and follows the campaign of Chattanooga from the beginning of his connection with it. The motives and conduct of the campaign are said to be set before the reader fully and clearly, and with much personal interest. His Wilderness article, which is to follow soon, is a description of the preparations made for the Wilderness campaign, by which General Grant meant the movement of all the Union armies begun in May, 1864.

The November nnmber of The Century is to have three short stories—"A Cloud on the Mountain," by Mary Hallock Foote, with a full-page illustration by the anthor; "The Mystery of William Barter," by Helen Jackson (H. H.), and "The Story of Seven Devils," by Frank R. Stockton. Mrs. Foote's new novel, "John Bodewin's Testimony," the first chapters of which are in this issue, wil run through six or eight numbers of The Century.

A long story by the late Helen Jackson entitled "Popsy's Table Cloths," calls for first mention in the October Wide Awake. Then there is the delightful "Story that Mrs. Hildebrand Told," with an equally delightfull pictnre by Smedley; a business boy's story, "Pete's Printing Press," by Miss Kate Garnett Wells; and a very funny story entitled, "The Frying Pan Bonnet," by Kate Foote. The poems include two by the yonng poets, James Berry Benel and Clinton Scollard. Last, and perhaps most important, is the opening of the Fifth Aunnal Reading Course of C. Y. F. R. U., a brilliant set of serials: "Pleasant Authors for Young Folks" (American), by Amanda B Harris; "My Garden Pets," by Mary Treat; "Souvenirs of my Time" (Foreign), by Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont; "Some Italian Authors," by George E. Vincent; "Ways to do Things," by various authors; "Strange Teas, Dinners, Weddings and Fetes" by their Guests and Givers, and "Search Questions in English Literature," with prizes for answer, by Oscar Fay Adams. Only $3:00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co. Boston.

Moses King, while a student at Harvard College, earned his entire college expenses of abont a thousand dollars a year by making books, such as "Harvard and its Surronndings" King's, "Handbook of Boston," "The Harvard Register," etc., and since gradnation a few years ago, he has published many successful books; among them "Students' Songs," which has had the most remarkable sale ever known for a book of its class. Over 40,000 copies of this Students' Songs have already been made, and the demand is said to be as active as ever. It is handsomely printed, and contains sixty songs, with their music, nearly all of which are copyrighted, and to be fonnd in no other collection. Published by Moses King, at Harvard Square, Cambridge Mass.

Celebration of the Sons and Daughters of Jacob.

J. D. SMITH, W. G. R. OF HOME PARK LODGE.

Wednesday, July 8, 1885, was a day demanded for all subordinate lodges of the above named order to assemble in a chapel and hold religious services and other exercises as lodges. Accordingly, the Home Park Lodge, No. 185, Lake City, Miss.; Olive, 184, Linden Landing, Yazoo river, Miss.; Faithful, 243, Home Park, Miss., and Benevolent, Yazoo City, Miss., met at Pleasant Green Baptist Chapel for the purpose stated.

The chapel was crowded in the forenoon, both with anxions Jacobs and friends to hear Jacobism proclaimed.

It was suggested by Bro. E. A. Anderson, M. N. S. P. of Home Park Lodge, No. 185, that a chairman be appointed to preside over the meeting during the day. The following resolntion and motion was offered by Bro. R. W. Stewart, of Olive Lodge, M. N. S. P.

Whereas, Rev. W. H. Clark, of Colinton, Hinds county, Miss., also District Depnty of the I. O. of the S. and D. of J. of A. for the State of Mississippi, is the father of Jacobism in this vicinity. Therefore, be it resolved that we present him as chairman of the meeting.

This preamble and resolntion was seconded by the writer, and was unanimously adopted. He presided with much dignity and manliness.

The presiding officer stated the object of the meeting, and the following officers were appointed: Mrs. M. E. Smith, G. S.; Rev. J. Hight, W. C., and Bro. Redding Braxton usher.

Devotional exercises were conducted by the W. C., Rev. J. Hight, after which three times three honors were given by members.

The President declared the meeting opened, and the following programme was carried out: Rev. J. Hight and Bro. R. W. Stewart, addresses; Bro. D. C. Coleman and E. A. Anderson, orations, and the writer an essay. All discussed the subject of the I. O. of the S. and D. of J. of A. The addresses, orations and essays were received by the congregation with enthusiasm. At noon an adjournment for the discussion of an ample collation, generously provided for the occasion, which consisted of meats, cakes, custards, ice cream and lemonade, all free of charge, except the ices.

All were bounteously fed, and after dinner the congregation reassembled in the chapel. Meeting opened by singing and prayer by W. Chapel. A collection of $6.70 was taken. At 3 o'clock P. M. Rev. J. Hight, of the Missionary Baptist Church, preached a very interesting sermon from the thirty-second chapter of Genesis and twenty sixth verse. This sermon will be long remembered by all who were present.

Benediction by Bro. R. W. Stewart.

Twenty eight dollars and twenty cents were the receipts of the day. The money collected publicly was divided between Rev. J. Hight and Rev. W. H. Clark ($6.70) for services done. The remaining money was divided between the four lodges, as have been named.

Dr. Fry, of the Central Christian Advocate, has, as we hear from one of them, been making favorable mention and recommending the circulation of the SOUTHWESTERN among our colored brethren in St. Louis and Missouri. That he can safely do. For one so strongly intrenched in the love and confidence of these brethren as himself need apprehend no serious rivalry from us among them even if we desired it, which none better than they know we don't. All hail generous Dr. Fry! He must have taken time to consider the peculiar relation our paper sustains to the colored people.

Singing the Songs of Our Fathers.

REV. W. H. JACKSON, TEXAS CONFERENCE.

On my recent visit to Pattison, Texas, I met in the revival of Rev. F. Gilmore, one Sister Fanny Tibbs, who is a member of W. Tabernacle M. E. Church, Galveston, Texas, of which Rev. P. Morgan is preacher in charge. She is the greatest rivalist of a lady as ever seen. She carries Dr. Taylor's "Plantation Melodies" as her music, and can beat any one using them.

She has memorized a great nnmber of them, and is a great help to a preacher in a protracted meeting. She is a member of a singing band at the above named church, and they adopt Dr. Taylor's "Plantation Melodies."

Sister Tibbs is the wife of Bro. Solomon Tibbs, a local preacher of Mt. Vernon Church, of Houston, Texas. He has a wood yard on the W. N. G. R. R. We heard Bro. Tibbs preach a sermon which was well done, and should he go out as a pastor, he has the help in the person of his wife, which is more than hundreds of our pastors can say.

The people gather from far and near to hear her sing. I fully believe that she can beat the author, suiting the tunes to songs of said book.

I advised her to get a hundred copies, and enter upon the sales and teachings of the book, for great success awaits her.

May God bless her Christian labor, and give us one thousand such as she.

Funeral Sermon of Sister C. She. Mark.

REV. E. HENDERSON.

Subject, Human Life, Psalm 39-48.

"What man is he that liveth, and shall not see death?"

We have much to lead us to a consideration of our latter end. Time, in its measured portions, is continually wearing away. There is an annual death in nature which day after day, sinks into the grave of night, and a solemn voice re-echoes from the hollow sepulchre, "what man is he that liveth, and shall not see death." Let us contemplate man's life. It may be regarded in many points of view.

First. Its sorrow; the time of life is like the ocean during a storm, one wave rolling incessantly npon another. What trying scenes, what painful anxieties; man is born to trouble.

Second. Its uncertainty, dangers surrond us, both seen and unseen. Death lurks in secret ambush and rushes on his prey without a moment's warning, ministering to our destruction.

We are hastening to the house appointed for all living souls. We no longer hear the sweet voice of our beloved sister, for she has gone to join the angels. We would not detain her here, when a better home awaits her, beyond the river. I can only say that our loss is heaven's gain. You know how she lived and how she died. Oh, may we all die as happy as she, for the whole world can say a good woman has died.

Third. Its shorness. We have noticed the shadow swiftly passing along the ground on a cloudy day suddenly darkening the places irradicated before by the beams of the snn, bnt as quickly disappearing. Such is the life of man, for he fleeth as quickly as a shadow and continneth not.

Fourth. Its valne. Who can estimate it aright? How sublime are the purposes for which it is given. It is the day of salvation; it is the golden season when grace may be obtained, it is the period when the ship of the Gospel lies in our harbor bound for Immannel's land, waiting to take us in as passengers to that part of peace. What is life? Life is only a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights; we cry aloud and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry.

From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead, there comes no word, but in the sight of death, hope sees a star and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing.

Here lies our sister, who has fallen into that dreamless sleep that closes her eyelids in death, and left all earthly friends far below, while on her forehead fell the golden dawning of a grander day.

Beyond these chilly winds and gloomy skies,
Beyond deaths cloudy portal
There is a land where beauty never dies,
And love becomes immortal. Amen.

Gen. Grant's Monument in Sierra Leone.

We are gratified to learn that a subscription list is now open at the United States Consulate in the settlement for the monument to Gen. Grant to be erected in New York, and which will be contributed to by the four continents. It is satisfactory to know that a nnmber of our leading men have sufficiently appreciated the matter to give it their hearty and practical snpport.

Subscriptions from one shilling upwards are gladly received, as it is not the money so much that is wanted as the expression of sympathy implied in the gifts. And we have no doubt that our indefatigable friend, Consul Lewis, will be able to make a report that will do no discredit to Sierra Leone.

It will gratify our people to know that the Executive Committee of the Grant Monument Association, of which ex-President Arthur is chairman, has as Secretary Prof. Richard T. Greener, a negro, who is a prominent and able defender of the race, and was chosen not only for his recognized ability but that Africa might be represented in the effort to honor the memory of a man who did so much to bring about the enfranchisement of six millions of Africa's descendants.—Sierra Leone Weekly News.

Last Sunday, the 4th inst, whilst two colored men, Alfred Flemming and Polite —— were crossing False River, opposite New Road, the skiff, which was a very small one—little larger then a pirogne,—sprnng a leak about fifty yards from the opposite shore, and snnk almost immediately. One of the occupants, on seeing the boat abont to sink, jnmped in the the river and tried to swim ashore, but being encumbered with his shoes would have soon went down if it had not been for the assistance of his companion, who upon the skiff sinking clung to the sides, and had presence of mind to hand the end of an oar to his sinking companion, and pull him back to the side of the boat. The accident was witnessed by a number of people on the island, and soon a couple of boats went to their assistance, and they were rescued from their perilous position.—Pointe Coupee Banner.

A very paintul accident occurred Thursday evening at 4 o'clock on the plantation of Messrs. McCollam & Cocke at Bayou Black. Geo. The young man was taken to town yesterday morning, for treatment. The hand is so lacerated that it is feared amputation will be necessary.

A Worker's Prayer.

"For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you."—1 Cor. 11:23.

Lord, speak to me, that I may speak
In living echoes of Thy tone;
As Thou hast sought, so let me seek
Thy erring children, lost and lone.

O lead me, Lord, that I may lead
The wand'ring and the wav'ring feet;
O feed me, Lord, that I may feed
The hungering ones with manna sweet.

O strengthen me, that while I stand
Firm on the Rock, and strong in Thee,
I may stretch out a loving hand
To wrestlers in the troubled sea.

O teach me, Lord, that I may teach
The precious things Thou dost impart;
And wing my words, that they may reach
The suff'ring depths of many a heart.

O give Thine own sweet rest to me,
That I may speak with soothing power
A word in season, as from Thee
To weary ones in needful hour.

O fill me with Thy fullness, Lord,
Until my very heart o'erflow
In rich'ning thought and glowing word,
Thy love to tell, Thy praise to show.

O use me, Lord, use even me,
Just as Thou wilt, and when, and where;
Until Thy blessed face I see,
Thy rest, Thy joy, Thy glory share.

Domestic Hygiene.

For the SOUTH-WESTERN.

How to Be Handsome.

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

There is a great desire with almost everybody to look handsome and appear well. Nor is this a wrong ambition. There are various notions as to what constitutes the real points going to make up beauty, but still the most of people agree on the essential appearances of handsomeness. "Handsome is that handsome does," is an old saying, and as we judge, has as valuable as gold. "Beauty is only skin deep," while ugliness goes to the bone," is another saw, having it much of truth; but still proper care in and within may enhance the beauty without.

There are some simple, yet excellent hygienic rules, which may be observed by both men and women, greatly to their improvement of the person, and making them selves really handsome and attractive.

1. "Keep clean, wash freely. The skin wants to be allowed to act naturally and freely. Let its thousands of sweat pores, or little air holes be closed up, and handsome never takes its flight. Dirt closes up these pores. Wash away the dirt, open the pores, and be handsome. Soap and water are cheap, and may be used in quantity with all safety.

2. "Eat regularly and sleep enough—not too much." The stomach gorged cannot do its work well. You cannot crowd a mill and make good flour; you cannot drive a horse night and day and have him fat, fresh and strong. The stomach needs rest as much as the arm, the foot, or hand. It cannot get rest unless it has regular times for work; then rest may follow work. Sleep is rest. Your horse needs rest. He sleeps and rests. So you should rest at proper intervals by quiet sleep. On awaking the eyes ought to be bright, the step elastic, the muscles strong and the skin clear.

3. Sleep in a cool room, and in pure air." Bad air is always poisonous, but if inhaled while one is asleep it seems to poison more surely than when awake. In Louisville, Ky., years ago, when cholera was raging as an epidemic, on one square particularly infected, every one who slept there was attacked and died of the dreaded disease, while those who went there cared for the sick, but slept elsewhere, were entirely free from the disease. The continuous inhaling of good air constitutes good to make one handsome.

4. "Good teeth are a help to good looks. Brush them with a soft brush, especially at night. Go to bed with cleansed teeth." If you have good teeth and a fair skin don't use tobacco in any form. A tobacco mouth sends out a tobacco breath more offensive than language can describe. The teeth should not be cleansed with acid, for it eats away the enamel, and at last injures the teeth. Good teeth, and a well cleansed mouth must put a sweet breath. A foul breath always makes a handsome face seem repulsive.

5. Let no intoxicating liquors pass the lips and enter the mouth if you would be handsome. Paintings either of portraits or landscapes may be very handsome, but a nose painted by alcohol is never handsome. Some have spent $10,000 on painting their nose, but no man has yet succeeded in making a pretty picture on his nose. Nor is the bleer eye, the real whisky eye, or beer eye, handsome. If one tries he can soon get the "Billie Barlow" face and eye," but he never can fully get rid of it. Not long ago we met a judge, who, in other days, was a great drinker. He painted his nose to perfection. About twelve years ago he was converted and became a new man. He has been constantly a total abstainer from all that intoxicates, but he cannot yet take in that red nose.

6. To be handsome the mind needs to awake and become active. When it awakes really "the dull, sleepy look is away from the eyes." To wake up the mind we need to read, "not trashy words, but books and papers that have something in them." It is surprising how closely piety and continued thought is connected with good looks. The student may be singled out in any company. The mind stamps itself upon the face. Indeed thought sets its seal upon the whole man. The counterfeiter, leaning over his work of fraud continuously, he presses on his pen face the term "fraud," not in letters, but in lines while he who goes about doing good, comforting the distressed, blessing the sick, aiding the distressed, and lifting up sorrowing hearts, carries continually upon his face the words in fact of "benevolence, faith and love."

7. To crown handsomeness with moral beauty one needs to be spiritually holy. There is good hygiene in a holy religious life. The pure do not get into prison where they are compelled to breath the impure and poisonous bad air of prison cells for years together. As a consequence they are far healthier than those who break into prison. Purity and handsomeness go strangely together.

Our handsome or unhandsome appearance depends upon ourselves. Study to be handsome.

Is There a Cure For Consumption?

We answer unreservedly, yes! If the patient commences in time the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," and exercises proper care. If allowed to run a course too long all medicine is powerless to stay it. Dr. Pierce never deceives a patient by holding out false hope for the sake of pecuniary gain. The "Golden Discovery" has cured thousands of patients when nothing else seemed to avail. Your druggist has it or can send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption with numerous testimonials. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The following cure for roup is given in an exchange: "Shut the bird in a warm place, having previously cleaned it thoroughly, then give a teaspoon of castor oil, more or less, according to age, then place within reach some cooked food and clean water. Repeat this two or three times a day till the fowl is well enough to run out with the others." But be careful not to let the fowl get the roup if you can help it.

Coal Oil or Petroleum may be very nice for illuminating or lubricating puposes, but surely it is not the proper thing to cure a cough with. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is looked upon as the standard Cough remedy.

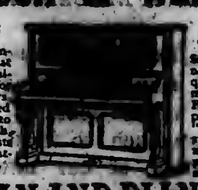
American Abroad.—Peculiar Characteristics of Americans—The Evils and How Restored.

In this age of bustle and hurry, an age devoted to great projects and enterprises, the American people are taking the lead in the furtherance of noble works, and in the advancement of the sciences and arts. In these they deserve to take a high rank, and through the united works of millions, the American continent is fast being built up from its untamed state and being placed on an equality with the older continents beyond the ocean. The American people are fast, under these influences, developing into a nervous, energetic race, remarkable for its vim and business qualifications; yet there is danger that in the course of years these very elements may combine to the ruination of the physical character of the people, and leave them feeble and altogether different from their forefathers. General debility is now much more common than formerly, and seems to be on the increase among the masses. Many remedies have been extensively advertised for this wide-spread complaint, but none of these have been so successful or met with such general favor as the remedy manufactured by Dr. S. B. Hartman, and named by him PERUNA.

Mr. S. S. Goudy, of Massillon, Stark county, Ohio, writes: That he has been troubled with general debility and dyspepsia for several years; that he was induced to try PERUNA for his complaints, and that after using three bottles of the medicine he was greatly relieved. It braced him right up and gave him energy, and restored him to his youthful vigor. He ascribes his cure to PERUNA, and says it is a wonderful remedy.



Adolph Bakhaus & Co., Springfield, O., writes: "We are having a good sale for PERUNA. It sells as well as any medicine we have, and gives the very best satisfaction."

Mrs. G. W. Needham, Newtonville, Clermont County, Ohio, says: "I have been a great sufferer for the last six or seven years, with general debility and change of life. I was very much reduced. I have taken four bottles of PERUNA, which has restored me to perfect health and strength. We think PERUNA a safe and good medicine."

PE-RU-NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price. We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. S. B. HARTMAN & CO., Columbus, O.

DANGER SIGNAL.

When a person gives you counterfeit money he perpetrates a crime against the law and your pecuniary interests; but when he gives you an inferior and dangerous medicine in the place of one of recognized and well known curative properties he commits the blackest of crimes, for he conspires against your health and life.

"The New York Herald," Sept. 21, 1885, says: "To endorse a counterfeit medicine is to injure the manufacturer and the buyer, and the buyers will soon drop away from a counterfeited medicine that they find worthless. Manufacturers of counterfeit articles fail because they have not the experience and appliances of the large manufacturers to produce the most curative results. The large manufacturers have the strongest incentive, while they are protected, to make their medicine as perfect and curative as possible."

For example, take the experience of Simmons Liver Regulator prepared by J. H. Zeilin & Co., of Philadelphia; their firm has devoted years of time, employed the most eminent chemists of the land, and spent thousands of dollars in bringing their medicine to the perfection it has attained. They expended a large amount of money in bringing it to the attention of the people, and its use has made Simmons Liver Regulator widely popular. In order to make money from the great reputation gained by this remedy, unscrupulous adventurers have gotten up cheap counterfeits, dangerous to health, and stick on these frauds a name closely resembling Simmons Liver Regulator, to deceive the unwary into buying their inferior goods.

FERNANDINA, Nassau Co., Fla.

"I have used Dr. Simmons Liver Regulator and always found it to do what is claimed for it. The last bottle and two packages did me no good and were worse than nothing. I see it is not put up by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and not genuine, and a waste of money to buy it. I would be glad to get the pure and genuine. Send me some from honest hands (with red Z and Zeilin & Co.'s signature on the Wrapper). The fictitious stuff sold will injure some one badly.

BENJ. T. RICH."

The genuine Simmons Liver Regulator has become the Faultless Family Medicine and has the endorsement of the thousands who have used it. If you want Simmons Liver Regulator see that the Druggist gives you the genuine, not something he claims as "just as good," and because he makes more off it.

Prophylactic Fluid.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE.

Wonderful Healing Properties of

DARBYS PROPHYLACTIC FLUID

HEALING, CLEANSING, DISINFECTING.

IN CASE —OF— Accidents.

For Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Wounds, Bruises, etc., it is invaluable and gives instant and permanent relief. It immediately allays pain. Nothing is necessary but to apply it directly to the parts affected. It will keep down inflammation, Gangrene or Proud Flesh, and in a short time will heal without applying anything else. This was fully proved in the military hospitals during the late war. It has performed astonishing cures both in the case of men and animals afflicted with chronic sores. It cleanses and heals obstinate Ulcers, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas and running sores of every kind. It destroys the disagreeable effluvia, arising from Cancers, Abscesses, Ulcers and every kind of purulent discharge.

FOR THE TOILET AND NURSERY.

In the water used in bathing add a small quantity of Darbys Prophylactic Fluid. It is a cleansing lotion for the skin—healing, purifying and refreshing. Removes all taint of Perspiration from the body and whitens and softens the skin. Cures eruptions, Blotches, Prickly Heat, etc. Used as a dentifrice it purifies the breath, preserves the teeth and cures toothache, sore gums, canker, and deodorizes bad breath. Sore or inflamed Eyes are speedily cured. Perfectly harmless, used internally or externally.

FOR ANIMALS—HORSES, DOGS, ETC.

Scratches, Sores, Galls, Bruises, Cuts or Wounds of any kind quickly and permanently healed by washing with the Fluid. Dr. J. HOUGH, the distinguished Veterinary Surgeon, says: "I use Darbys Prophylactic Fluid all that it is represented. As a local application I believe it to be without an equal." For Colds and Sores it acts like magic."

Distemper, Diarrhœa and Worms in dogs quickly cured. It destroys all insect life, vermin on dogs and other animals—cleanses the skin—cures Mange, Scurvy and all kinds of skin diseases.

Poison at the Front Door.

No article entering so generally into the food of every family has been found more villainously adulterated than baking powder. For the purpose of underselling those powders of absolute purity and wholesomeness which alone are safe for use in food, hundreds of dealers are putting up baking powders with cheap and adulterated cream of tartar, which contains lime, earth, etc., adding strength by the free use of alum.

These adulterated powders are "shoved" upon the public with the greatest persistency. They are first given away—left in samples at private residences, with circulars containing bogus analyses and certificates, and false representations as to their value, etc. This fact of itself is sufficient to condemn them. A first-class article will sell on its merits. No manufactnrer whose goods are of value can afford to give them away, and none but the cheapest make and most interior or unmarketable goods require to be distributed free in order to get the public to use them, and this method is adopted only by parties who have failed to dispose of their wares through the ordinary and legitimate channels of trade.

Free samples of articles of food left at the house should be regarded with suspicion. There is no guarantee of their wholesomeness, while there is real danger that they contain a fatally poisonous compound. Many instances of poisoning from the use of such samples are recorded.

The only safe way is to consign all such samples immediately to the ash barrel, and turn a deaf ear to the statements made by their venders. It is not worth while to trifle with life and health to the extent of using every doubtful baking powder that comes along. Better to rely upon an old reliable brand, like the Royal, which has by a quarter of a century's constant use proved its perfect wholesomeness and efficiency, or some other brand that is not so worthless and cheap that its proprietors can afford to give it away by the cart-load. It is in favor that the Royal Baking Powder is never given away, sold by means of lotteries, nor accompanied by chromos, spoons, crockery, or other gifts, except the gifts absolute purity, wholesomeness, full weight, and superative leavening power. Its own merits have been its chief advertisement, and they have secured for it the confidence and patronage of the American people to an extent beyond the combined sale of all other baking powders. The Royal Baking Powder is certified by all the Government chemists as absolutely pure and perfect.

LESSON HYMN, S. M.

[illegible] Redeemer saved
With his own precious blood.

[illegible] Christ, O God
[illegible] before thine stand,
[illegible] apple of thine eye,
[illegible] on thy hand.

[illegible] shall fall,
[illegible] ascend;
[illegible] tells be given,
[illegible] shall end.

P. C. 878, the year of the [illegible] of Jehoash, or Joash, in [illegible] Jerusalem.

Jehu, tenth King of [illegible] Jehoash, or Joash, eighth [illegible] Judah; Hazael, King of Syria; Shalmaneser II., King of Assyria. Read 2 Kings 11.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

1. The High Places, v. 1-3.
Who succeeded Jehu as king?
What was the character of his reign?
What sin did the people still retain?
2. The Neglected Temple, 4-8.
Of what did Jehovah command the people to take account?
To whom were the offerings to be returned?
For what purpose were they to be used?
How long was this command neglected?
Whom did the king rebuke?
What command did he give the priests?
How was the command received?
3. The Wise Priest, v. 9.
What preparation did Jehoiada make for receiving the gifts?
Where did he place the treasure chest?
What was put into the chest?
4. The Abundant Treasure, v. 10 15.
Who took acount of the treasure?
To whom was it paid out?
For what purpose?
What exception was made?
How was trust in the workmen's honor shown?
What reason is given for this confidence?

TEACHINGS OF THE LESSON.

Where in this lesson are we taught—1. A regard for the Lord's house? 2. The duty of laying by something for his service? 3. The confidence which faithfulness inspires?

THE LESSON CATECHISM.

1. What did Jehoash order should be done with the money that was brought into the Lord's house? That it should be used for repairs.

2. Did Jehoiada do at once as Jehoash had commanded? He did not.

3. When Jehoiada received the command a second time, what did he put beside the altar to receive the money? A chest.

4. To whom was the money given when it was told? To those having oversight.

5. Why did they not reckon with those to whom they delivered the money? "For they dealt faithfully."

EXLANATIONS.

Jehoash began to reign—That is, in Judah, contemporary with Jehu, king of Israel. Wherein Jehoiada—He did what was right as long as Jehoiada lived, to instruct him. The high places—The places devoted to idolatry. Dedicated things—Holy things. The money that every man is set at—A devout Israelite could dedicate himself or his child to the service of the sanctuary, and could redeem the dedicator for a money value. The estimation for a male between twenty and sixty years of age was fifty shekels of silver; a female thirty shekels; from five to twenty years old for a male twenty shekels; female ten shekels, etc. See Lev. 27. 1-13

Doctrinal Suggestion.—The public worship of God.

LESSON I.

THE LESSON CATECHSSM.

1. what did Elisha tell the king of Israel? Where the Syrians were encamped. 2. What did the king of Syria do? Sent to Dothan to capture Elisha. 3. What did Elisha say to his fearing servant? "Fear not." 4. What did Elisha pray the Lord to do? "Smite this people—with blindness." 5. When they were smitten with blindness what did Elisha do? "Led them to Samaria." 6. When their eyes were opened at Samaria what did the king of Israel do? Fed them, and sent them away.

American Bible Society.

The stated meeting of the Board of Managers was held at the Bible House, on Thuraday, August 9th, 1885, Henry Dickinson, Esq., in the chair.

The religious services were conducted by Rev. W. W. Atterbury,

Among the matters passed in review by the Board were letters of thanks from the Bible Society of France, the Waldensian Committee of Evangelization, and the German Mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church; the annual letter of the Eastern Turkey Mission, by Rev. E. M. Cole of Erzroom; letters from Rev. E. M. Bliss announcing his safe return from a three months' tour; from Mr. C. T. O. King of Monrovia, Rev. F. W. Reverend and Dear Brethren—Permit me to ask you to remember our work beyond the sea, in Africa, India and Japan; and, by so doing, push vigorously the benevolent cause.

"The earth-born shadow now may shrond
Our thorny path awhile;
God's blessed Word can part each cloud
And bid the sunshine smile.

Only believe with living faith;
His bow of love and peace
Shines sweetly through the vaulted skies,
A pledge that storms shall cease."

May His blessings rest upon you and your labors and our meeting in next March. I am truly and respectfully your humble servant in Christ.

Postmaster General Vilas is preparing his annual report, and will reply to the attacks of the steamship companies making general opposition to steamship subsidies as unsound in policy.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FOR THE CURE OF
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

Smith's Tonic

IS THE TONIC THAT CURES.

EUFAULA, Ala., Feb. 25, 1881.

Doctor—I take great pleasure in testifying to the virtue of Smith's Tonic Syrup as a remedy for chills. Years ago, after trying quinine and other medicines without success, I was entirely cured by it of chills which had lasted nine months. In May, 1880, I was again attacked with chills; they have at irregular intervals been troubling me ever since. I had a chill thirteen days ago; I then commenced taking the tonic and have had no symptoms of a chill since. I shall continue taking the tonic until thirty days have passed without a chill. It is a good appetizer, and the best chill medicine known to me. It has been used also by our children in Tennessee and Florida. It has invariably wrought a cure.

Very truly yours,
MRS R. H. RIVERS.

PINE LEVEL, MANATEE CO., FLA., May 15, 1880.

Dr. John Bull—Dear Sir: I have been using some of your Smith's Tonic Syrup in my family for chills and fever. It is without a doubt the best remedy for chills and fever ever offered to the public. As I live in a portion of country where chills and fever and fever and ague are very common, I wish to know your prices for the Tonic Syrup; also the price of your Worm Destroyer. Let me hear from you soon. Yours fraternally,
LEROY L. LANGFORD.

FLEMINGTON, Fla., Jan. 2, 1880.

Dr. John Bull's Estate—Inclosed you will find five dollars. Please send me the worth of it in Smith's Tonic Syrup to cure of stage driver, Gainesville, Fla. Everybody that I have given it to wants me to get more of it. Please send immediately, as we are sick, and Smith's Tonic is the only tonic that will cure the fever. By so doing you will much oblige, respectfully, MRS. H. BIRD.

ATLANTA, Ohio, Dec. 6, 1880

Dr. John Bull—I received your medicine two weeks ago Friday. I was nearly dead. I had one of my old, nervous attacks. I have taken the tonic (Smith's Tonic) two weeks, and now I write sitting by the fire, and I made up my bed this morning, and I feel better, decidedly better; thanks to you, a thousand thanks. It is a miracle to me and many others that the Smith's Tonic would cure such a disease, for I think I can truly say I am getting well, but I cannot express my gratitude and heartfelt thanks, so will close I have taken two bottles and a half. Smith's Tonic SYRUP.
The Best and Safest Remedy for Chills and Fever, or Fever and Ague.

COVINGTON, Ky., May 21.

There has not been for many years in this country such a general complaint about chills and fever. This depressing disease is now prevailing in many portions of Kentucky and elsewhere, where the people have long flattered themselves that they were entirely exempt from its influence. To those who are thus afflicted, we wish to recommend Smith's Tonic Syrup, believing it to be the very best remedy extant. Every one we have heard of using it, pronounces upon it in the very highest terms. We have lately used it in our family with marked success. The ingredients are simple, and the Tonic can be used freely without any detriment to the constitution whatever. If the direction, which always accompany every bottle, are carefully followed, it will in nine cases out of ten result in a permanent cure, whether the disease be of short or long standing.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine to the subjects of this disease everywhere, sincerely believing that the use of it will verify every word we say.

P. B. WILES.

BIGBEE VALLEY, Miss., Aug. 11.

Dear Sir—My wife has been afflicted with chills till her health has become very bad. I, being a physician, have tried almost everything in Materia Medica recommended for chills. Quinine, even the name, has become disgusting to her. As a dernier ressort I finally concluded to try a bottle of Smith's Tonic, when to my astonishment my wife missed her chills; and by the use of two bottles she appears to be perfectly well.

I have since used it several cases, and have not known a single chill after twenty-four hours' use of the Tonic. I am highly gratified with its sure and certain effects. Yours truly,

P. C. LEE.

OFFICE OF DR. A. BROWNE,

Dr. John Bull—Dear Sir: After using your invaluable medicines in my practice, and finding them to be everything they are recommended in curing diseases I have concluded to act as agent for you. I live at the head of navigation. This is a great shipping cor.

Write me and oblige, respectfully,
A. BROWNE.

JASPER COUNTY, Mo., Sept. 16.

Dear Sir—I write you for the purpose of learning the cost of your valuable Smith's Tonic Syrup for curing chills. I am a farmer, I have taken your medicine in Northern Iowa, and I know it is the best medicine for ague that is used, or at least it has proved so in all ague districts of my acquaintance. I could mention many families who have taken it after their children had become pale and emaciated with fever and loss of appetite. A few bottles of your Tonic would restore that natural healthy color to those cheeks that are so we come to the anxious mother.

You will do me and suffering humanity a great favor by writing me the cost of your Tonic by the dozen bottles at your office. There is a large emigration from the North here into Southwestern Missouri. The change of climate causes more or less of the ague, and we cannot get along without Smith's Tonic. Please write me Direct, Alba Jasper county, Mo. Fraternally yours, etc.,

N. M. SMITH.

CALHOUN, Ala., Sept. 24.

Dr. John Bull—Dear Sir: Having used your "Smith's Tonic Syrup" in chills and fevers satisfactorily, I am determined to use it so long as it gives such. Since I commenced the use of the Tonic in my practice, I have not been able to keep a supply on hand.

Most respectfully,
DR. JOHN P. MUSHAT.

GASTON, Ala., May 14.

Dr. John Bull—Dear Sir: "Smith's Tonic Syrup" has recently been introduced in this section, and has not failed to cure the most obstinate cases of chills. I used more of it than all other preparations combined.

Very truly yours,
J. E. WESCOTT.

LIBERTY HILL, Willison co., Tex.

Dr. Bull—I have been taking your Smith's Tonic Syrup for the chills, and it has cured them, for which I am thankful. My husband has been sick with the chills for a long time. We haven't been able to get medicines so we have had to get along the best we could. I have suffered a heap with a pain in my left side for years. The doctor says that it is a disease of the heart. It seems like there is a sack of water gathered there. It sinks as I move around. My stomach pains me all the time, and my liver don't act. In fact my whole system is out of order. I have falling of the womb at times, and suffer fearfully from it. My oldest boy has the asthma so he is not able to work. Doctor, as we haven't money, nor can we get it, in this situation I will send to you, trusting to your generosity. If you want to help them that can't help themselves; no one can be more thankful than me. Yours respectfully,
MRS. SHELTON.

MIDVILLE, BURKE COUNTY, GA.
Feb. 4, 1882.

Dear Sir—All last summer and fall I was constantly annoyed by the chills and fever, when a friend of mine told me to Smith's Tonic Syrup. I immediately sent to Augusta and bought a bottle, which stopped the chills at once. I did not have another one after taking it. I told several other parties, who say it gave full satisfaction. I think it one of the best remedies for chills and fever ever introduced in Georgia, and would like to have the agency to sell for you at the above place.

I am agent for the C. R. R. and South Ex. Co., and can sell quite a lot of your medicines. Trusting soon to hear from you, I am, respectfully, etc.,

What is the Relation of the Sunday-School to the Church.

MISS SARAH E. CLARK.

The Sunday-School is the elementary part of the Church. The Church principally depends upon the Sunday-School for success. It is one department of the Church. Hence the Superintendent is an officer of the Church. He is under the pastor over all school interests. He is elected by the Sunday-School Board, approved by the Quarterly Conference, and thereby becomes a member of each body. In consequence of which he carries his opinions upon every point with the Board. And presents the interests of the School before the Quarterly Conference. This is not merely his privilege but his duty. He is to bring the ideas of the Church into his School, and direct the school toward and finally merge it the Church.

For these reasons and purposes has he been taken into the confidence of the Church and School. Under his superior the pastor, his duties are numerous, difficult and clearly set forth in the Discipline. A pastor neglects his duty when he neglects any interest of the School.

Our Church embodies, in various official bodies from Official Board to the General Conference, the last of which is the law making body of the Church.

The Sunday-School is the inferior educational factor preparidg the advance steps leading to the final unity of all Christian effort, and to the obliteration of all things which cause division.

It is destined to soften the denominational asperities and dogmatic inflexibility of churches toward each other. The Sunday-School constitutes one phase of Church work. A form of Church activity; a department of Church evangelism. It is the church of Christ assembled to study and teach God's word by the help of the holy spirit. It is the Berean appearance of Church life. Its most apropriate symtol is an open book and brooding dove, it represents light and life. It is a wing of the main structure, it is the teaching service of the Church. It is not so much the children's home as it is the Bible hour. It is the time and place for an open view of the wondrous things hidden in God's law. It is no more a substitute for the Church than it is for the home.

The Church in the house, is as essential to a perfect house as the school in the chapel is to a perfect Church. The Church in the school is essential to affective work. The school is the child of the Church. A Church without a Sunday-School is a childless home. A Sunday-School without a Church is a homeless orphan, either would be an anomally.

The Child in the midst is Christs method of teaching the Church, it is also his call to a teaching Church. The Church owes the school personal service. All the Church should become Bereans. If the Church is an army all the soldiers should be present at drill, as well as dress parade.

The nursery of the Church is for infants of years as well as infants of days. The children will be taught of the Lord when their parents are devoted and intelligent enough to teach them.

As to the finances of the school, that is a vicious parsimony which compels the school to support itself. It puts a premium on selfishness and mortgages the future to support a penurious present.

The school in return owes the Church regular attendance upon the preaching service. For this there is and can be no sub stitute. The Children's Church should be that of their parents, and the pastor should feed the entire flock.

Young voices should join with the old one in hyms and prayers. The same songs should be heard in Church and school. The volume of praise should be as the sound of many waters.

The stream of Charity should flow full and strong in every channel of Church benevolence.

The work of the Sunday-School should mean early conversion and consecration to church work and life.

"Those that be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God."

These conditions being met the Church at work will be the school at worship. The Sunday-School is not simply under the supervision of the Church, but it is an actual portion of its membership. Every pupil of the school should be regarded as a member of the Church on probation. And every teacher who performs his whole duty will be a class leader in the Church. They should hold meetings for conversion and progress, and at official meetings they should report the spiritual condition of attendants. From the first the pupils should be taught to feel, that as a member of the school he is also a child of the church.

Finally the relation of the Sunday-School to the Church is that of a child to its mother.

The Elective Course of Study. Is it Best?

J. J. HOLLAND B. D.

This Revised Course had its origin we steadfastly believe in a bona fide desire to accomplish good results. But often where benefit may be intended the reverse is liable to occur.

The Bishops cannot be said to have reccommended this emasculated course in the sense claimed. While we must not forget that it was considered and left to the option of the conferences, we must be careful in claiming for it full Episcopal authorization. Immediately after the adjournment of the General Conference they arranged the course now in use—to which this storm of objections come; some of which let us consider by casual analysis and comparison. In the first place it is argued that, "The Compendium of Christian Theology," by Pope, is too abstruse, scholastic, and costly for those entering our Southern conferences.

If we consider Pope from an impartial and reasonable standpoint this claim might not hold good.

There are two classes of men to be considered. Those self-taught, and the school taught. Among our ministers the former are vastly in the majority now, and may be for some time. Now is the study of Pope too much for these men as a class; provided they undertake it diligently?

Secondly—We claim as a first principle that in these times inability to read reasonably the Holy Bible and the hymns in our Hymnal intelligibly is unpardonable on the part of our ministry and greatly to be discountenanced. And a man who cannot do these cannot master Pope's Theology nor any other. There is nothing in it which any energetic, moderate scholar cannot by digging comprehend it if but to a limited extent. Dr. Pope, in what we consider a comprehensive style, but presents analytical outlines of Theological Study. Not labored, not stilted; not abstruse in the sense claimed. That he differs in modes of expression, in arrangement, style and statement of the truth from Wakefield and other Theoligians, must be admitted; but his presentation and discussion of this Divine science is to us invaluable. And if the compendium seems scholastic this is a resultant of the consecrated scholarship of the author.

Is there objection to the Biblical proofs in verification of the Divine sanctity of Theology? None. Is there objection to the argumentative or the dogmatic portion of the work? None. Are the historical statements and treatises objectionable? No. What then? The work is too hard and abstruse for the mental caliber of the men entering our Southern Conferences. This seems to be the sum total of the objection to Pope. And it is because we cannot accept this objection, that we oppose in our humble way this "Elective Course," believing it to bear upon its face, though perhaps upon its unintentionally, the cast of a reflection that will be self imposed upon every conference that may adopt it. We argue that the regular course can be reasonably mastered. The student is required to complete one volume of Pope a year. Now substracting sixty-five days to cover the Sabbaths etc., there remains three hundred days, and allowing all necessary inroads upon time, and grant the student of the course two hundred days of active study. By reading two and one half pages of Pope, one and a half pages of Harman per day for the two-hundred days in the year the ground laid down in the two most objectionable books will be covered and easily reviewed in a shorter time. But objection to the quotations in the Latin, Greek and Hebrew found in the works is raised in behalf of self taught men. But is it fair? while admitting such quotations is it not true that accompanying them is the English translation? Must the appearance of a few classical sentences in these standard works deter us from studying them because we may not all be classical scholars? I am sure not.

Thirdly, Harman may be complex, but his arguments and the proofs and conclusions produced in his "Introduction to the Holy Scriptures" confuting German rationalities Theories many of which in diverse form meet us daily, and his battling against infidel theories that confront us under various aspects, render it of value to the whole church. Dr. Nast as far as he goes is good, but Harman to our mind is decidedly the most advantageous to the Methodist ministry. And again the same objection can be urged against Butler's Analogy and Jevon Logic and perhaps other books in the Regular course, if we admit the objections to Pope and Harman. We find several of the same books in both courses which is commendable but why seek to substitute in lieu of the most important books others which do not rank so high as Theological authority? Why this endeavor to supplant the books designed to develop mental capacities as well as instruct; by something simpler and not calculated to necessitate that close study without which development is an impossibility?

Fourthly, This conference course is not capable of developing either class of men to the same extent of the regular course, and to claim so much for it is unreasonable.

Look over the work of our church to day throughout the South, and what do we find among many of our members? Inexcusable lethargy, which renders many unable to give an intelligent reason for the faith that is in them, and yet, it is proposed to require less work of them. Granting that the books of the regular course, some of them may be a little in advance; will the substitution remedy that? We are sure trial would show the negative.

It is claimed that this elective course is not of necessity permanent, but the conference that adopts it, may at its option rescind it. This is a strong reason for objecting to it, for it can not be considered a necessary expedient. And we plead against its adoption by our conference because we consider it a step backward. One that will terminate in laziness, incompetency and inferiority in our ministry. We must prepare to meet our brethren, of other creeds, upon the arena as their equals. We must be able to defend the banner of our church, her polity and doctrine; evincing ourselves worthy the name of soldiers of Christ. The period of appealing to men's prejudices and passions—thank God!—it is nearing an end. The time is coming, yea, now is the time when the pulpit must appeal to the hearts consciences, and reason of men.

I urge that we be up and doing. What has been accomplished in older conferences can be accomplished by us. They never asked for quarters, and why should we? Notwithstanding the state of the work, the condition of the people; nor what seems to be the urgent demand, let us "make haste steadily," let us pause and think.

Let those conferences, who have considered this course—try the experiment; but it is our honest conviction, that if this course is allowed a place among our conferences generally, the course of higher education will receive a severe blow. Though intended for a blessing it will terminate a curse. Forbid it brethren! If the reason we have attempted to give showing why the elective course of study is not best, shall but awaken attention, our object shall have been accomplished.

Our Church bishops, general officers, all, stand pledged to higher education. Development of the whole man is the "esprit du corps" of Methodism.

We must advance all along the line. Let our colored conferences, to whom this course is especially presented, in the light of manhood and reason, gratefully recognizing the kindness proposed, face the proposition exclaiming: "No step backward." Nulla vestigia retrorsum. Study to show thyself approved unto God, a work man that needeth not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of Truth.

A Definite Aim in Life.

REV N. H. WILLIAMS, SAVANAH CONFERENCE.

I have felt it the most indispensible duty of ministers to read, and write a great deal. By so doing they will become fluent readers, and ready speakers. Every man of some degres of education, industry, and intelligence, possesses certain powers of greatness in one direction or the other. But the most difficult thing for us to find out is where our greatest strength lies, whether we can best use it to an advantage, as a farmer, lawyer, doctor, minister of the Gospel, merchant, mechanic, or as a shrewd politician, or in some of the many various and useful pursuits in life.

The first thing to be considered we wish to suggest is that as we first begin to ascend the height and depth of knowledge and science, we should begin to learn where we can do the most good, exhibit most perfectly our genius, and develop each power of greatness to perfection, we should make our greatest aim in life to do every thing well that may be enjoined upon us; and thus acquit ourselves with credit and reward. Let us bear in mind that it is not how much we do, but how well it is done.

The great mistake which is found among our colored students is that they enter the higher schools of education without a definite aim in life; and when they are cast out upon the mighty ocean of time, they are as a ship without a pilot—having an indefinite landing in view.

The power by which every nation wields her Golden Scepter over the universe, lies mostly if not wholly in these three words—Christian Education, Wealth and Labor."

The growth of our nation of color, at this age of progress, and in the most distant future beyond greatly depends upon the attention given to the useful trades of every kind, which are so essential to any nations progress.

We are blessed in this Southland with institutions where the young of the land can go, and obtain professional trades, we should urge this great necessity of learning a useful trade upon the minds of our people. It is and has been neglected too much in urging the necessity of an education. If we are masters of our trades we may expect to boss them." and take contracts, if not we may expect to take the lowest places and be driven as a mere shingle boy. We cannot all be preachers, and teachers: but we all can be Christians. All men cannot be great, but all men can be good.

The fame of many great and good men will never be heralded around the world. But the good they do will live after them, in the community of which they shall have gone. Let us not seek to come before our communities and the world as a terrible giant to be worshipped; but as a good man to be feared and loved.

Murfreesboro District—Third Round.

C. H. BULLINGTON, P. E.

I have just closed my third round, and the work is going forward very nicely; at Lebanon, C. B. Wilson is in charge, and makes a good showing. North Lebanon circuit, R. Anderson is doing well, and the members say they are trying to take care of their pastor, and he is trying to push the work.

On Alexandria circuit, B. B. Manson was pastor but he left, and I had to supply the work with W. C. Miller from McMinnville, who is doing well.

At Caney Fork and Carthage, R. F. Whitley, will bring up all of his collections, I believe.

Martin's Creek, C. Green is doing well.

On Liberty circuit, P. R. Woodson, every thing is looking well.

Cookville circuit, J. A. C. Wade, is advancing.

Sparta circuit, S. Knight, needs churches. We want to build here as soon as we can, they have lumber on the lot in readiness.

McMinnville station, A. Martin is not doing much now, but I hope the people will come out to church and will do a little toward paying for it. John Coppage supplies the work. Bro. Green failed to come.

On Tullahoma circuit John Kenner is in charge, and is doing all he can to bring the work up but it will take a long time.

On Shelbyville circuit, John B. Maloney has made a good pastor and taken 50 or 75 into the church this year. Churches are badly needed.

At Spencer the work has been dead for a long time, and Bro. T. Woods is trying to work it up.

On Woodbury circuit, B. Jones has been sick all the year, and nothing has been done.

At Stone River, W. L. Lillard, the work is doing well, about 20 joined the church.

At Murfreesboro, C. L. Seward, is moving along finely.

New Orleans District Conference.

L. P. CUSHMAN.

Conference is at hand, but the Bishop has not come, and so the appointments have not been made. That is a thing that has not as yet been done. No Methodist minister knows the place to which he may be assigned till after conference. Some are wasting time in thinking and talking about their next appointment, but they do not know where it will be, nor whether it will be rough or smooth. It is safe, however, to say that it will be a place where they will have many temptations and trials which they cannot foresee or provide against, but it is foolish for a man to run into garnets or a bramble bush with his naked fist.

First Street is having a year of prosperity and great prosperity. They think they have the best church there is in the Louisiana Conference, and Bro. Qualls thinks First Street is not the best people in the Sunday School is strong and vigorous. Nearly twenty-five have been added to the length of the church, thus greatly increasing its sitting capacity, but it is the same old complaint, room enough for the people. The house is packed every Sabbath night, many going away unable to find even standing room. Some of our people think they would imitate the Savior if their lives become too full and go up into a mountain as "Noah's ark" and preach church work. It would tend to the glory of God. This writer knows that $50 can be secured toward the erection of a new church at

The future is everywhere bright, and there is a good deal of human nature in most all men. A Methodist minister needs to maintain a manly independence, think for himself, judge for himself and decide for himself, but he must shun all arrogance, and yet we would not advise him to ask counsel of a fool, nor of one who would think him a fool if he did not follow his [illegible].

It is with pleasure that we express our gratitude to God for the success He is giving Bro. Lyon at Sixth Street. The church has been enlarged, its sitting capacity nearly doubled. The Sunday-school is one of the best in the city, and over fifty have been converted to God, and joined the church on probation. Every interest of the church is carefully looked after.

The success and comfort of every Methodist preacher depends upon the divine blessing. To secure this he must be in harmony with God in His inner and outer life, but it makes a wise, contented, useful servant of Christ and adds no sorrow.

Union Chapel is not in paradise, but in a part of New Orleans where sin and Satan have a common center, but God is making great of use it in saving men, and in building up his kingdom in that part of the city. We know of no church that is doing a better work. Bro. Duncan is not one of the men who is satisfied with inferior accomplishments. He spares no pains to win souls, to comfort believers or to honor Christ and God has been with him blessing his work. The Sunday-school has nearly doubled. The current expenses are met.

May God give us more men whose goodness will save them from vanity and pride.

Letters from the Pastors.

Rev. Isaac M. Horton, Jefferson Town, Ky., writes: "Rev. F. P. Fielding preached for me at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. The future outlook is very prosperous. We want to know who is the leading man in the district! It seems to me that the big charges take up all the elder's time. I am under my elder, and I never caused any of them a moment's trouble, and I am now on my 14th year. If the bigs would attend to their business better, little preachers could have the elder come to see them. I have always tried to make my elder happy. When I took charge of my present work, which seemed very dark, I could find no record of the work. I went to Jefferson and found 20 members. We had a glorious meeting on the fourth Sunday in August and we collected $42.65. By the help of God, I expect to go to conference, I do not care whether any one looks after me or not, I will add to that million of dollars the missionary secretaries are calling for."

J. L. Massey, Mason, Tenn., writes: "Our church at Galway was set on fire on burned down, on Monday night, July 27. We had just commenced a day school, taught by Miss Lulu Truman; she is teaching and we are preaching under the trees."

B. Carr, Belsora, La., writes: "I found no members and no Sunday-school. Since February I have raised up a church, and we met on the first quarter with six persons. The Lord has blessed us with a Sunday school of 28 scholars, and on Children's Day we received 9 into the church. We are working hopefully to get clear of debt. P. H. Priestly has labored hard with us."

W. W. Brown, Plantersville, Texas, writes: "My great revival closed in July, with 24 converts, 4 reclaimed. The Lord has blessed our labors this year. My Sunday-school is doing well, they had not a Sunday-school, on this work, for three years, and Children's Day was never observed until this year. The pastor told me that he worked for himself and not for the church. The work is improving."

J. K. Comfort, Columbia, Miss., writes: "We have just [illegible] our new church and dedicated it July 26. Our beloved elder, W. McDonald was with us on that occasion, and preached to a large congregation. The third quarterly conference showed the work in a better condition than ever before; collection at dedication service, $12 70; five came forward and joined the church. This is the second new church building I have raised up during my pastorate."

J. R. Carnes, of Goliad, Texas, writes: "Our third quarterly conference was held July 18 and 19, Rev. G. W. Richardson, presiding elder, in the chair. The writer was not present, but the brethren informed him that they had a very encouraging time, etc. The Sunday School superintendent reports a good time in Sunday School. The elder was with him in Sunday School. As usual, on Monday evening, they had one of those old time love feasts in which all seemed to enjoy themselves. Collection for presiding elder was $8 and some few cents. The probable cause for this shortage may be partially owing to the writer's neglect to make a public announcement for the occasion, for which act of negligence he humbly asks the pardon of his venerable presiding elder, as it was the first time of his failing to announce the coming of his presiding elder. He prays that it may be the last. The reason why the writer was not present at the quarterly conference, he was in Corpus Christi at the time, and was unavoidably detained there on account of high water, the Neuces river being swollen out of its banks, and overflowing nearly all of the low lands for a distance of more than a mile; the ferryboat was also washed away, which kept us in Corpus Christi seven or eight days longer than we intended to stay. It was the presiding elder's good intention to have been present with us on this visit to Corpus Christi, but found after coming as far as Goliad, and no one to pilot him through to Corpus, a distance of 80 miles. The weather being very inclement, and the roads almost unfit for traveling, well in fact he could not have reached Corpus Christi had he started, from the fact there was no way of crossing the river. He reached Corpus Christi after three days travel, under heavy rain fall, which lasted nearly all the way. Bro. B. Lott, Sisters Harriet Sly, Mary Blackwell, Lizzie Hall, Hannah Hassell and Fannie Billups, accompanied the writer, on this his second visit to Corpus Christi, we were cordially received by the little band of Methodist that we have here, who seemed to try to do all that they could to make us comfortable. The members of the Free Mission Baptist Church; also the Missionary Baptist, made it their business to try to make our stay pleasant, by inviting us to their houses, where they had prepared the many good things for us to eat; of course we came not here to feast, but to minister in the things of God. The writer had previously inform, the citizens publicly concerning his business and for being in the city, but they said you must enjoy yourself while here, we shall spare no pains to make your stay pleasant; and they did not, for we were constant on the go from this place to that place to dine: so frequent were these invitations, that I slightly entertained fears that my company of Christian workers would be termed as the hash brigade, but I think we got away without being branded as such. We would not forget Mr. W. H. Leonard, president of the I. A. T. P. Club also Mr. C. Parker vice-president, who also made our stay pleasant, by giving a nice fishfry and picnic, especially for our enjoyment, and we did enjoy it. We hereby tender them and the other citizens of Corpus Christi, our heart felt thanks for the kindly manner in which they entertained us, during our stay in their city. The result of our visit and stay in Corpus Christi, we remained 12 days in Corpus Christi, during which time we were not idle, though enjoying the pleasure above mentioned, we preached or lectured on every evening. We collected during our stay, $122.50; $96.10 which remains in the hands of the treasurer to purchase a church lot upon which to erect a Methodist Episcopal Church. Can those born live? Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? My answer is stand still and see the salvation of the Lord. On Saturday night previous to our departure from Corpus Christi, Miss. H. G. Hassel, president of the Woman's Home Mission Society, at Goliad, together with Mrs. Lizzie Hall and Miss Fannie Billups, organized the Woman's Home Mission Society, with 12 or 14 members: Mrs. Bell St Clair, was elected as president. Mrs. Lizzie Hall and Miss Fannie Billups, delivered appropriate essays on the following subjects: "The Orphans or the Poor and Our Duty Toward Them; and Temperance," Mrs. Hall wrote the former; Miss Fannie Billups on the latter. These two subjects were ably illustrated. Many spoke in commendable terms of the able manner in which these two ladies spoke. Miss H. G. Hassell, opened the exercise with a very appropriate address, subject "The Missionary," Many white citizens were out to witness the exercises, and were much pleased. Such Mr. Editor, is a brief synopsis of what we both saw and heard and enjoyed as presiding elder.

Rev. C. D. C. Bryan, Mandeville, La., writes: "We were glad to receive our Sabbath School workers, Bros. M. C. B. Mason and E. Lyons. The weather was bad, and a storm came from the northeast, and the trees lost some of their branches, and everything appeared dark and cloudy for the night, as we thought. But that God, who speaks to the winds, and they obey his voice, caused the winds to abate, and soon the moon was seen and a beautiful night we had. The people came out to hear the great Lyon and Mason. The opening address was made by Bro. Lyons, which was well delivered. His lecture on the use of Sunday Schools, and how to make them interesting will not be forgotten soon. He also gave the parents and officers and teachers good advice how to conduct a Sunday School. We were glad to have Bro. Lyons talk so nicely to the parents, and he received many amens. After Bro. Lyons' address Mrs. A. E. Bryan and the school sang "Bringing in the Sheaves." Then Bro. Mason arose full of life, and the spirit of God was burning on his heart, for we certainly felt it. He gave the local preachers and other preachers to understand that it was their duty as well as the pastors to help build up the Sunday School. He gave some interesting points on parents neglecting to send their children to the Sunday School and their ruined state or condition. We had a happy time, for the Lord was in our midst. We only regret we cannot have Bros. Lyons and Mason with us oftener."

Rev. T. Watkins, of Georgetown, Texas, writes: "My work is in very good condition. We have had seven converts at Georgetown and five at Round Rock this year. The two Sunday Schools are prospering. Elder Madison held the second quarterly conference, and preached two able sermons."

Rev. A. Alexander, of Navasota, Texas, writes: "My camp meeting convened July 8 and closed on the 27th. We added 43 to the church on probation and 24 converts. Rev. E. Jefferson assisted me. Rev. B. M. Taylor held the third quarterly conference, and administered the sacrament to a large number of people. Rev. Thos. Cole preached two sermons. The meeting was a pleasant and a successful affair."

Letters From the Laity.

C. Hayman, New Orleans, writes: "I am a constant reader of the SOUTHWESTERN and believe that it is tending to do much good throughout the land. I am a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a lover of its many institutions for good and especially of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. It has been a cause of much good, and has placed many children in school that would otherwise have been in none at all. I have been teaching mission school, this is my fourth year. I began teaching in Clinton, La., under the management of Sister Hester Williams, of Baton Rouge, who is truly a worker in the vineyard of the Master. She has traveled through that part of the country and with the assistance of Rev. W. P. Forest, who was pastor at that time in Clinton, she has been the cause of much good being done. For the years 1884-85 I have been teaching in Pleasant Plains Methodist Episcopal Church, New Orleans. Rev. W. P. Forest, pastor, and I must say that I felt encouraged to go on in the good work. Pray that the Lord may bless our efforts."

Geo. Byers, Saratoga, Ark., writes: "We have a young Sunday-school started about the second Sunday in April, the average number of scholars is 30. At our celebration 75 marched, near 50 speeches were delivered, there were between 600 and 700 persons on the ground, and about 500 took dinner with us. Some of the doctors and merchants were present. There was vocal and instrumental music. Collection, $8.55; for children's day $1.75."

S. McDaniel, superintendent of Sunday School at Gold Creek Grove, Ark., writes from Preston: "We conducted exercises on July 31, when Dr. E. K. Turner delivered a beautiful address on education. There were declamations by Alex. McDaniel, R. Saxton, W. E. Saxton and J. A. Saxton. Miss Mary Saxton spoke about punctuality; Miss Francis McDaniel on giving thanks to the Lord. Other declamations were by Misses Annie and Mollie Smith. Mr. C. N. Smith delivered the closing speech. The school is in better condition than ever before. There are workers interested, and 34 members."

The M. E. Church.

At the Loveland Camp grounds a number of new residences have been built this season, and are now occupied. Bishops, missionaries, editors, pastors, evangelists and professors will labor in the meetings. Mrs. Whitridge will have general charge of the meetings held in the "Childrens Chapel;" Rev. S. O. Royal and Rev. Marion Le Sourd will jointly have charge of the young people's meetings in the tabernacle. The Loveland Prayer League has representatives in the young people of almost every Methodist Church of Cincinnati and vicinity. Rev. R. E. Hudson, the singing evangelist, will have charge of the revival and congregational singing, with Mrs. D. L. Aultman as organist. A Government Post-Office will be kept on the grounds. The services on the German encampment will be held under the management of Rev. G. Guth. The camp-meetings begin this year at 3 P. M., Tuesday, July 28, August 6.

To Conference Secretaries.

Dear Brethert: I have been troubled by the discrepancies existing between the statistics as given in the General Minutes and the statistics as given in the Conference Minutes. They ought perfectly to agree. The time has come when Methodism should have reliable statistics.

Will you please send for a copy of the General Minutes as soon as published, and notify me of any mistakes whatever, and I will have a table of "Errata" prepared, with all mistakes printed therein—for the use of all the Boards of the Church and of all others interested.

Let us conspire to attain absolute accuracy in our statistical tables.

C. C. McCABE.

Retrospect.

When our Church Extension work was organized in 1864, we had in round numbers, 6, 800 Traveling Preachers, and 928,000 members, with 10,000 churches worth $24,000,000, and 2,900 parsonages worth $3,000,000. Within the twenty years ending October 31st, 1884, our Church Extension work has been organized, and has collected and disbursed $2,535,000; of which $515,000 is a permanent fund to aid Churches by loans, and of this $337,000 have been returned and reloaned to Churches. In this way 5,000 churches—more than half the number added since our work began—have received aid from our Board. During this period our Preachers have increased to 12,800 and our membership to 1,800.000. Let every one help on the work of Church Extension.

One Million Dollars.

More cheering words from our leaders. Hopeful responses come from every quarter. Read the following letters from presiding elders about raising a million for Missions:"

G. W. Richardson, San Antonio District, West Texas Conference: "You can rely on San Antonio District for her share of the million. I have full faith in the success of this advance on the missionary line."

W. H. Coffee, Salisbury District, Delaware Conference: "A million for missions has been passed down the line, and the brave officers have cheerfully responded. The result is an increase in the missionary collections of about 100 per cent. By the help of God we can and will do our part of the work. There shall be no failure at this end of the line."

We go in for the Million—A Voice from the Pacific Coast.

Wm. Abbott Esq., superintendent of the Central Methodist Episcopal Sunday School, San Francisco, sends a printed programme of a concert given in the interest of the Missionary Society, one feature of which was an address from Bishop Fowler. The sentiment of the meeting expressed in votes and dollars was: "We go in for the million; we have 21,000 Sunday-schools."

We would like to hear of 21,000 such concerts, proceeds to go toward the million. Why not? Nations have sung down tyranny. Why may not churches sing up liberty? True liberty only follows the Gospel of Jesus.

Let us have 21,000 concerts in the interest of missions. Can a man say: "I love Jesus Christ." and fail to join in this song of victory? "God had but one son, and he was a missionary."

The Million is Coming.

Bishop Warren thus writes:

Dear Bros. Reid and Mc. Cabe—There's glory in my soul Central Illinois Conference raised $1433 to-night and put herself about $100. 00 beyond the million line.

Yours H. Warren.

This is an increase of over $6000. 00 Glory to God! What is the South going to do about it?

Ten cents per member is the million dollar line for many districts in the South. Will they all measure up to it?

Good News.

1 Cor. 15 Chap.

There is a word in ... little understood. We ... Gospel. We ... every day and there are many who do not know what it ...

Yes even many Christians who are members of the Church and do not know the meaning of the word Gospel.

Now I shall try to explain the word. The word Gospel means "God is Spell" or "good spell." or in other words "good news."

The Gospel is good tidings of great joy. No better news ever fell upon the ear of the Family of Man than the Gospel. When the Angels came to proclaim the tidings what did they say to those Shepards on the Plains of Bethlehem. Behold I bring you sad tidings. No. Behold I bring you bad tidings. No. Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall lie to all people; for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savoior.

If those Sheperds had been like a good many people of the present time, they would have said, we do not believe it is good news. It is all excitement. These Angels want to get up a Revival. These angels are trying to excite us. Don't you believe them, that is what Satan is saying now. He is telling the poor sinners when they hear the Gospel, Yes, he says, it will make you miserable. Yes Satan knows the moment a man believes the Gospel is good news, and the very moment a man says in his heart I believe God's holy word, then Satan starts to telling you it will only make you miserable. Never the glorious morning when the Son of Man bursts asunder the bands of death and rises a conqueror from the grave; because I live he shouts, Ye shall live also, Ye shall also. Is not this good news about a Gospel which makes it so sweet to live so sweet to die?

Besides this, this sheet says of certain persons who placed memorial windows in a church, that they "bowed the knee to Baal." Also, after speaking of the desecration of the Sabbath, "hardly a religious paper dares to open its bribed, hireling mouth." What a bare faced lie!

It calls our Methodist Missionary Society, "the terribly apostatized, mammonized, hireling curse the Church has taken on."

Not content with all this, it devotes a large amount of its space to decrying every form of society, the use of organs and choirs in church service, the wearing of corsets, the giving of any titles to any person whatever, shaving the face, (characterizing barber-shops as the Devil's sink holes of iniquity), wearing silk "plug" hats, or of jewelry, feathers, plumes, flowers, etc. etc. etc. ad infinitum. But nowhere have I seen anything said said against dringing of liquors, nor against the saloon. This would be omnireformer held up his hands in holy horror at the bare thought of a barber-shop or a tall hat or white hat, but saloons and places of worse resort are let go uncensured. Truly the race of cranks is not yet extinct.

THE SOUTHWESTERN

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor

THURSDAY, OCT. 29, 1885.

In the South and it is hot.

Col. Pinchback, of New Orleans, La., was in Covington, Ky., lately.

"My business with the Lord is fixed."—Last words of Rev. Elijah Hesbit, West Texas Conference.

Hon. J. M. Langston, after a long absence, comes again for a visit to the scenes of his early life in Ohio again.

Kansas Work.

Bros. Rector and Butler have the charge of our colored work in Northwest Topeka, and besides this there is a good work at Lawrence and Rosedale under Bro. Gibbs, and also at Independence, besides other places.

Our Methodism Among the Negroes in Iowa.

Muchakinock, Iowa, is a mining town, with about 2000 colored miners. It and Oscaloosa forms a circuit in the Des Moines conference. It has two churches valued at $800 each, with an aggregate of 120 members. The buildings are frame and under the pastorate of Rev. L. H. Reynolds; and in the same conference, in the city of Des Moines, we have a good brick church, valued at $3500, with a neat frame parsonage and 20 members. At Ottumway, in the Iowa conference, we have a membership of 15 without a house. So the good work is gradually spreading.

A Million Now.

A million for missions is in line with the purpose of the Lord to bequeath upon his Son "the utmost part of the earth for a possession and the heathen for an inheritance." He cannot do it without millions, and he expects these millions to come forth as the consecrated free will offerings of his people. The people are ready to give them. Will each pastor see that every member of his flock has not only the opportunity, but an urgent personal request to do so, and the names of givers are set down, brought to conference, and printed in the minutes, so that others, seeing the record of their good works, may be inspired to likewise glorify our Father who is in heaven?

Please Remember We are Waiting at the Door.

One colored men's convention is just over at Lynchburg, Va., and we hear of another in Illinois. Verily these preachers and politicians, whose hunger for "something" is insatiable to rapacity, are determined to exhibit the fullness of their "fluence" without delay. They are exceedingly "fluent," as much so now as they were when they were busy at the same kind of labors for "something" from the Republicans. Flexible political convictions are, indeed, a great convenience. The colored people do well to do their own thinking; but these conventions represent their thoughts in a very circumscribed degree.

Let It Alone.

The people of Bowling Green, Ky., are enthusiastic in their desire to entertain the next session of the Lexington conference. They say they can do it. The conference voted almost unanimously to go there. Why, then, should the presiding elders interpose to prevent the accomplishment of their wishes? Hands off! The conference is competent to decide where it wishes to meet, and the people are the best judges of their ability to entertain it. If there are ministers located beyond the railroad streets and the roads, when times are a little muddy, the church would probably survive that misfortune as the people do a great many muddy sermons which the ministers preach to them.

Infamous Meanness.

Presiding Elder J. N. Irvin, of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion [illegible] Kentucky knew [illegible] not telling the truth [illegible] Rev. John E. [illegible] of the Lexington conference, [illegible] appointment said [illegible] to the Zion church the Zion connection has in St. Louis, which is Washington Chapel, besides paying his expenses to the conference at Indianapolis, Ind., if he (Christopher) would leave the Methodist Episcopal Church and join the Zion Church. We always regarded Irvin as a better man than that. He knew that Elijah Curry was going to Washington Chapel when he promised it to Christopher.

This is probably the sort of taffy that was given to L. R. Cotterell, which caused him to oscillate as a member of three churches in two years, so that his ministerial stability is ruined, and he has from Zion Church the poorest appointment he has ever received from any.

And that also is akin to the untruthful promises made to Elder Lindsey that he should be either appointed as a presiding elder or to the Bowling Green charge by its former pastor. Though after he yielded to the vile proselyter the interest of himself and his most amiable wife were played with, his appointment being to an insignificant charge in a swamp, and overshadowed by our magnificent church in Covington, Ky. Such conduct is wholly unworthy of the name of Christ, and we are glad to say that the Southwest Kentucky conference and its excellent Bishop, Turner, took very little stock in it. Indeed, that staunch old veteran, Bartlett Taylor, prononnced some pretty sharp sentences against it as did C. O. P. Rors also. Bro. Lindsey is a Christian gentleman; we so know and so commend him; but the methods employed to secure his return to the African Methodist Episcopal Church are beneath the dignity of the Christian Church.

Shame on such meanness. We did not offer any inducements for him to leave it, nor did we receive him until after he had applied to us for admission at two separate sessions of our conference; but on his return we wish him well.

Well Done, Faithful Servant.

Mrs. H. A. Hanaford, of Ithaca, N. Y., who taught the first colored school in Morristown, Tenn., after sixteen years' absence, is visiting her old pupils there. She attended the late commencement of our seminary at that place, and was warmly welcomed by her old pupils, many of whom are now sending their children to the institute, which is evidently the outgrowth of her early efforts. Mrs. Hanaford is a white lady, and what she endured for the sake of those whom she felt it her duty to aid will never be told on earth.

But there must be to her a very high degree of satisfaction in the reflection that by faithful labors in teaching, she has impressed her spirit upon the second generation, and that with the arrival and departure of years and men, her ideas imparted while working there, will remain and shape the course of the generations yet to come.

What a fearful responsibility rests with teachers and preachers. How carefully they should be chosen, and how conscientious they should be. What a vast chasm there is between the lofty heights of conscious rectitude on the part of this lady as she contemplates her past work, and the dismal swamp of remorse with which another teacher, who comes to mind as we write, must think of his work as a public instructor.

He is a grand master of speculative masons, advocate and patron of liquor saloons, and at the same time a school teacher. But comparisons are odious. It is far better that children should not be taught at all than that they should be taught by such a teacher as this man is.

And there is no after antidote for the poison with which these reprobates and intellectual lepers taint the purity of early maiden hood.

The only safety lies in keeping girls at least far away from them.

Shame upon the State or association which gives them license to teach and pays them for it, though their term of service is little else than a protracted debauch.

Chattanooga.

The SOUTHWESTERN has at last penetrated East Tennessee and as far as Chattanooga. This is a city of about 25,000 inhabitants. It is situated on the Tennessee river. The population in 1860 was about 6,000.

Here on the 25th of November, 1863, Gens. Grant and Bragg met and one of the most obstinate battles of the war was fought by the armies which they commanded. The Confederates lost about 6,000 men in killed, wounded and missing, while that of the Union Army was reported to be near 6,000

Lookout Monntain, 6 miles away, looks grimly down upon you from every quarter of the city, and reminds you of Joe Hooker's battle on its breast above the clouds. Mt. Cameron, one of the old forts dismantled, is an object of interest to all strangers coming here.

There are some very neat buildings and the uniform heighth is two stories, although here and there is one above this heighth. Most all the leading denominations have churches here and the churches are usually good ones. The First Methodist Episcopal Church is the finest church structure in the city. It is about such a building and cost about the same amount as that erected by our colored members in Austin, Texas.

The colored members of our church here are happily located, they own a fine lot fronting on three of the most prominent streets, namely: Lookout, East Fifth and Georgia avenne.

They are about to build a neat new brick building, and we learn that they have been offered $500, not to build it on Georgia avenne, which is the most prominent of the three streets, and is improved beyond their grounds, which Lookout and East Fifth is not. It is situated only a short step from all the prominent points, and in good view of the new Chattanooga Methodist Episcopal University.

It is likely those who feel like they would be hurt if a good orderly Negro church was next door to, or across the street from their home, or in the way to their down town store, may be able, by the promise of money enough, or in some other way, to prevent our brethren from building on this beautiful and all-commanding site. But we hope all efforts to the contrary may fail, and the church be erected right there. Its usefulness as a social elevator for the Negroes will be greatly enhanced by its being located where the best order will be required and enforced.

At this point and on all such occasions the white members of our church can do far more for the colored ones in the towns about the South than by any other work.

If they will talk with our preachers and official men in these towns, and by their advice and counsel, prevent them submitting to any such inducements as referred to in the above case.

We repeat they will thus render those of our people who are neophytes in business, and the church itself, an invaluable service.

An imposing stucture here, is called the Rust block. The Adamses own good property here and are building more. They have been the architects of several of our school buildings.

Several colored men are in business here and several own good property, but the mass prefer to lease and build on leased ground at a rental of from $12 and upward per year.

There are three Methodist and six Baptist and one Congregational churches here among the Negroes.

One of the Baptist churches is of the "foot washing type," and another, belongs to the independent order. The independant body is a split from the regular church not recognized or fellowshiped in the association. We have always thonght that in such cases "every church, being her own sovereign," as we are told, that the seceders were as lawful as those who remain.

The city colored school being some time ago in a very prominent street, another was built, the colored people moved to, and the one they vacated put in repair for the use of the whites, but they have not sent any children to it yet.

Our church at present occupies a somewhat dilapidated frame house, that of the African's and Zion's are no better; all need new houses, and all will soon build better ones. Our parsonage is the best, but the African's have a good parsonage also, and both ours and theirs are neatly furnished.

Mrs. Johnson, the pastor's wife is a lady of fine attainments. The pastor has closed his first year very successfully and was presented with a complete suit, including the necktie, as a testimonial of esteem in which he is held by the people.

The ladies are quite active here, they have a good building erected on the church ground, and two Home Mission and Christian Aid Societies look after the poor and such as are without Christian nurture.

Mrs. Mary Louisa Edwards is an efficient helper to the church in evangelistic services. The church contains a membership of 500; has $1,000 in treasure for the new church, and is in good condition. Sunday the 18th, we preached at 11 a. m; baptized the following persons at 3 p. m.: Cora P. Houston, Gertrude Clark, Dora Parks, George Knox, Jas. H. and Richard W. Sewell infants and Mrs. Irena Hutcherson adult. Fourteen subscribers were secured for the SOUTHWESTERN and left with the pastor. There are several churches around this city. Rev. Eli Provine, the presiding elder, and J. L. Mann resides here, also Dr. J. P. Andrews, of Meharry Medical college, and he is doing good work both as a doctor and a Methodist.

Bishop Walden, and Drs. Cranston and Hartzell passed through this city lately, en route to the Holston Conference, sitting at Johnson City this year.

Dr. T. O. Carter, editor of the Methodist Advocate, resides here but he too is a member of Holston Conference and is away attending it. He is held in high esteem and properly so by the pastor and brethren here. Bro. B. H. Johnson our pastor here is a good worker, and a good man, and the church esteems him very highly.

The Blood of the Martyr is the Seed of the Church.

In 1860, just 25 years ago, Bishop Janes, of the Methodist Episcopal Church was compelled to leave Brenham, Texas, and the conference he proposed to hold was broken up by the citizens of Texas. But the seed sown there was not to be so easily plucked up. No weapon formed against the righteous can prosper.

The work of planting "Northern Methodism" as it was called, went steadily on. Now and then some one suffered, but they understood from the start that theirs was a heritage of suffering. They knew that "these light afflictions were for a moment." They were confident that for them to live was Christ, and to die was gain.

They reckoned that the sufferings of that present time was not worthy of the glory that should be revealed. Though they wept, they went fourth bearing precious seed, and now they come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

On the 5th of July, Janes' Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church was dedicated to God at this same Brenham. This is an evidence of the decadence of the acrimonious sectional feeling which ruled, ruined there 25 years ago. It was an occasion of much interest locally as when these facts go forth it will be generally in Methodist circles. The building is 28x46 frame and well put together. It is situated on a broad avenne, with lot 150 feet square. The property is worth $1,500, of this $500 was donated by the Church Extension Society. The balance has been secured by the personal solicitation of Rev. Harvey Webb, the presiding elder, and Taylor Moore, the pastor. There is $100 of debt remaining, which the generosity of our wealthy brethren need but know to remove.

An invitation to be present failed to reach us until July 14, nine days too late for participation in these most interesting services.

The pastor and elder are very grateful to friends who have aided them. The names of contributors are to be enrolled in a memorial tablet to Bishop Janes.

The efficiency, courage and industry evinced in the carrying of this work forward to the successful issue herein announced, is in itself the very highest complement that can be paid to the workers.

Some Negroes Who are Succeeding.

The Negroes are gaining a solid position in this country, and it will yet be found that though there are many things reprehensible and to be regretted in its make up, the race is nevertheless marching steadily forward.

It is universally conceded that the Negroes not only can, but that they have learned and are able to deal with the weightier matters in literature. As orators they are in high demand, and all accord that they are fluent talkers.

In domestic service no class has been able to supplant them. Upon field, farm, plantation or at any sort of manual labor they are the peers of the best workmen and this will not be questioned. Chastity in his sextual relations and economy in his style of living are the two points at which the progress of the Negroes has been slowest. Indeed it seems that against his growth at these points has been set all the effort of his foes. Should he succeed in mastering his own spirit at this point, then will the Negro have attained unto the plain path, which leads to the goal of race, hope and ambition.

That goal is wealth and good character, as a race.

As to amalgamation, the tendency on the part of the Negroes except a few in middle life, in large cities, is away from it. Those who practice it do so mostly, we judge as a sort of proof to themselves that they are free, and can exercise their right to be eccentric if they wish. They esteem that as a good plan to secure a bit of cheap notoriety, and it is a morbid ambition for such, which goads them on to this first act in the farce of race salvation by race destruction or miscegenation. But this element is so small nnmerically and so remote from the mass of the Negro people, that its influence really amounts to nothing any way.

Those who are practical amalgamationists have taken their fortune of whatever sort and retired into the lines of another race where they are not welcome. Hence in all calculations touching the Negroes, their place will be either with the white or without all race lines. They are a caste nnto themselves, but they will in three generations, by progressive amalgamation, restore the white color and wipe ont the Negro. It is not proper to classify their wealth with that of non amalgamation Negroes because the heirs of the former may be of the white race, and of the latter not.

The showing put forth here is the result of investigations among people who are of all hues, shades and varieties of complexion from ebony to crystal, but they are all American Negroes, and are fully identified with every movement for the elevation and perpetuation of the race.

Mr. Toombs and those who think like him can now wipe their eye glasses, read, ponder over, reflect and meditate upon, peruse thoroughly and inwardly digest the true inwardness of meaning to the instances of Negro thrift, frugality and good economy cited here below.

At Georgetown, Scott county, Ky., Mr. James Bailey, a Negro, is a boss contractor and builder, having contracts in hand at present to the amount of $20,000.

He owns good property, his sons are all well educated and are either teachers or in government service.

Mr. Lacy of the same place is a fine bird fancier, and has a large stock and has taken several premiums. In this place is also a machinist, silver smith and telegrapher, and some of the best farmers, and horse tamers in the county.

At Versailles, Woodford county, Ky., there is a first class grocery store and livery stable owned and run by Negroes.

Until recently Slickaway's only grocery was that of Mrs. Bird, a Negro.

At Winchester, Clark county, Ky., there are more than 20 Negro firms doing successful business making money and saving it.

All of them either use their own property for their business, or own property which they rent, but, in every case they own their residences.

They are: Jerry Taylor, groceries.

Julia Taylor, family grocery.

Madam Mary Wills, varieties, groceries and eating house.

James Wills, grocery and bar room.

Jerry Steveson, eating house and green groceries.

Robert Gay, caste barber stop.

Silas Martin, grocery and eating house.

James Robinson, shoemaker.

John McDonald, livery and feed stable.

Jerry Johnson, grocery, butcher and dealer in coal.

Willis Ramsey, grocery and eating house.

Robert Brown, dealer in real estate, owns several pieces of property.

Harvey Coombs, boot and shoemaker.

Scott Williams, grocery.

Jerry Wilson, family grocery.

Mrs. Lucy Hickland, family grocery.

J. R. Gardener, coal merchant.

J. R. Wans, groceries, coal and wood.

Wm. Bell, shoemaker.

James Berry, grocery. They carry stock of $50 to $2,500.

At Flemingsburg, Fleming county, Ky., we have here a grocery by T. R. Fletcher, and Bro. Parker conducts an extensive and paying blacksmith establishment, besides owning two houses in and several lots outside of the town limits.

Mr. Morgan Ashford, has a home that verges close to the larger idea of a residential mansion, and nearly every colored family of the village owns a home of their own.

Their homes in this place are better kept than in most places we have visited.

At Frankfort, the capital, there are Negroes of solid wealth. Mr. Tab, brother and heir of the late Peter Smith, Esq., is worth $25,000, or more in real estate and money.

Mr. Martin E. Boyd is a successful shoemaker and free holder there.

Berea College, in the centre of this country, does a good work, educating white people, and colored children of white people. It is in this way doing a work largely its own and one that is very useful.

At Lexington, the great capital of the Blue grass region, the Mecca of horse men, the indigenous soil of pretty women, the native heath of brave men, the spot where the gods have poured forth into all their subjects the nectar of generosity and high culinary art, and also the place where this editor first saw the light.

Mallin and Johnson, the former white and the latter colored, are or were, until quite recently, carrying on a copartnership, carriagemaker's estadlishment, at No. 11 Vine street.

Albert Johnson is ont of an old and wealthy Virginia family and not the modern Kentucky Johnsons. His master was his father, who left him with an education, a trade, and gave him some money. He spent a good deal, but saved enough of the money, with his mother's help, to purchase one of the neatest 6 acre lots in the suburbs of Lexington, on which he has a fine cottage, finely furnished. He has a charming, scholarly wife and five children, Albert, George, Florence, Saida and Beulah. They are beautiful children, and he is devoted to them. He does not drink, but Kentuckian like, sets out the liquor to all comers and does not often have them refuse it. Our party did.

He is a first class forger and had a very creditable exhibit of tools made by himself, on exhibition at New Orleans. And many others have failed to receive them back since the Exposition has closed.

Solomon Blackburn runs a large establishment of new and second hand furniture at Nos. 14 16 Vine street. He does a big work and makes money. No white man was his father, for he is a pure blooded Negro. He is a very competent, highly successful and respectable gentleman. Just a few doors from Mr. Blackburn is the Curd House. Mr. Henry Scroggins, late editor of the Kentucky Republican, has it in charge and no where in a public house have ever been made to feel more at home than when recently a guest of proprietor Scroggins. It is a hotel on a high key, finely appointed and splendidly conducted, in every way deserving and constantly increasing its receipts of business. The management of this enterprise marks Mr. Scroggins as a success.

Robert Gray is a practical tinner and deals in tinware, stoves, hollow ware, castings, woodenware, etc., at 57 East Water street. He has four young men of color, learning the business, and they are quite diligent, we saw only one of them smoking at his work bench.

Green McPheeters is a carriage maker.

Henry King, and the Taylor Bros. are in the livery stable business, in separate firms. The Taylors are well established and quite successful.

Mr. James Ellis is a first class miller and has a good business at which he makes money.

William Andrews and William H. Spears are both barbers, the latter accommodates colored customers and has been so well rewarded that he has a handsome brick residence, No. 16 Short street.

By reference to our columns last fall and winter it will be seen that what we now find in Kentucky, we then found equaled in Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and other Southern States. These successes are in the nature of an index, showing what will happen by and bye.

The Negroes have good reason, take courage and the SOUTHWESTERN and trust God and go forward. Their friends may also be sure that for this race there is a future all bright with promise:

"There is a good time coming, boys,
Work a little harder."

Personal.

—Rev. H. Dupuy, of Franklin, Ky., is doing well at that peint.

—Rev. J. H. D. Payne and wife, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, are in Bowling Green for the present. His appointment is at Pryerburg.

—We hear that Rev. M. W. Jamison has reunited with the Baptist Church whence he came, and that Rev. Aaron Jones has been appointed to Eddyville, Ky., in his stead.

—Mrs. Melvina, wife of Rev. A. Booker, presiding elder, of the Louisville district, Lexington conference, has been quite sick and he confined by her bedside until recently. She is better now.

—Rev. T. G. Montgomery, of Shreveport, has been on a visit to friends here. He preached at his former charge, First Street Church, at Simpson Chapel, and at Sixth Street Church; all were glad to see him. His friends of First Street gave him a nice supper, and after a few days of rest he returned to his work full of rejoicing.

The New Orleans Picayune, of Oct. 21, was a twelve-page edition, printed on new type by a new press. For forty-nine years it has been a leading and influential newspaper, and it looks as though prosperity had rewarded its toil some efforts. We extend it a fraternal greeting on the opening of a new era in its career.

—Rev. Robert Buckner, of New Haven, Ky., is doing the work of an evangelist in old fashion pioneer style. He has an appointment at Pitt's corner, largely composed of white people. Sometimes he walks through his circuit calling and and holding prayer meetings in the homes of the people, and after the manner of Lorenzo Dow making his own publication for the coming Sabbath. At such times the people give him more gifts than he can usually manage to get along with. The last trip resulted as follows. Money, $6; molasses, six gallons; sweet potatoes, one and a half bushels; and one-half dozen chickens, with the promise of a better effort when he come again. Verily there is a living for the preacher on the poorest work, if he has only the tact and industry to "go" and get it.

Church Polity.

MR. EDITOR, If a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church be debarred from attending her church, it being forbidden by her husband. What shall be done with the member?—Subscriber.

Ans. The pastor, officers and members of the church should sympathize with, and pray without ceasing for her deliverance from this great cross by the conversion of her husband.

They should improve every opportunity of demonstrating the evil of his course, by the rectitude of their conduct and good order of their church services. They should thoroughly inform themselves of the nature of the husband's objections, by courteous and Christian conferences with him touching the matter. Then if it proved to be an exhibition of unreasonable capriciousness on his part, we should advise the member as a last resort, in case the husband refused to change his life, that she had better obtain a mensa et toro, that is a separation from his bed and board, until such a time as he would allow her the liberty of conscience, and the privilege of Christian communion at church.

MR. EDITOR: Ought a local preacher or an editor to be addressed as Rev. for example Rev. Richard Snow?—Subscriber.

Ans. Technically no. But before we can give an unqualified answer to this question, we must find out exactly what you mean by it. If as we apprehend is the case, you mean to inquire of us, whether a man who is unordained but holds a license to exercise what himself and his brethren judge to be a call to preach or hold meetings for exhortation and prayer in the Methodist Episcopal Church, he being all the time dependent upon some secular calling for his maintainance, should be addressed as the reverend so and so, we should reply that it would be improper to address him thus, because the term reverend is employed to designate any person exclusively engaged in ministerial duties, being ordained thereto by the church of which he is a member.

We think it proper however, to designate all pastors as reverend whether they are ordained or not. This covers such cases as those where local preachers though unordained are used as supplies in the pastoral work of our church. It is entirely proper to so address all located traveling preachers, and such as are employed in educational or similar work of the church.

For the Southwestern.

The Hope of the Negro.

REV. J. D. JOHNSON.

Deprive the Negro of education and you will take from him all that he may hope to be. No nation can be great without education. If the Negro wishes to attain that high standard of manhood, he must first have thorough mental development.

The young men that are in pursuit of education, must have a will and a purpose; and they should not leave school on accounnt of hardship and poevrty; they should remain there until they accomplish what they desire. I know that the temptations are great when we look around among our people and see the great need of better teachers, preachers and leaders generally. The demand is so great that the poverty stricken man, with but half an education, is persuaded to enter the work at once without any preparation whatever; this he should never do.

From the surrounding circumstances, the question of what can I do, after I have taken a thorough collegiate course, naturally presents itself. I would answer it by saying be and do what you what you have prepared yourself for. But I am a Negro, you say, my skin is black and I am scorned by the opposite race on account of it. Prejudice seems to be the natural enemy to the Negro and is destined to keep him from progress along the line of attaining high positions.

His hopes should be no less great. Is the Negro any more incompetent to fill the offices of trust and honor than the other people of this country. Is he naturally an insignificant being because he is a Negro? Can he not study as well, go as far and make as rapid progress in science and other high studies as the sons of other races? History will furnish me the answer.

As leaders we have John M. Langston, Douglass, Bruce, William and even our own Marshal W. Taylor, Editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate. These are Negro leaders, and I could name a great many others who have done honor to the race and have been blessings to this country.

We have not had time to develop as high a type of civilization as the opposite race. We as a race and American citizens are very young. Born about twenty two years ago without a foot of land, without money and absolutely friendless. But thank God, the Negro presents a different aspect to day. "To day after twenty two short years of freedom, many of which have been cloudy, without any apparent silver lining, we present you the results. We present in the United States 7,000,000 Negroes with nearly 1,000,000 of children in school, publishing 80 newspapers furnishing 16,000 school teachers, about 15,000 students attending high schools and colleges; owning 5,000,000 acres of land in the South producing 1,000,000 more bales since than before the war; deposited $56,000,000 in the frendulent Freedman's Bank $100,000,000 worth of taxable property."

Through the agency of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the M. E. Church, we have established a good many Colleges and Universities in the South where the Negro children can go and enjoy the advantages of the higher learning and bnsiness qualifications.

When we take a retrospective review of the past, we should then look to the future and have for our motto "Nula Vistigia Retrorsum." If we hope recognition from the people other races, we have a great deal to do yet; we must remember that we are yet in the land of our thalldom, here in the midst of our severest trials and difficulties, we are to have these privileges and achieve our most brilliant success. We should learn to labor and wait, but I believe we have learned the former. We should remember Laboret Ommnia Vincit."

The time has been when the question of what shall we do with the Negro, was the discussion of the day, but that time has passed and now, he is a citizen and the people of this country must respect him as such.

Let the lightning of proscription flash and the thunder of guilty temptation roll, but our march shall be onward and upward. Let us, as we march, fan to the flame of patriots and thus kindle race love in the hearts of the youths.

The capacity of the Negro is as great as that of any of the homogenous. But the Negro seems to hope to be but two things—a preacher and a school teacher, God has something else for him besides preaching and teaching. He must prepare himself to be a physician, Lawyer, Banker, Merchant, Land-holder Miner, and Farmer. I have great hope of the Negro when he shall have done this, these are vocations for all, and the Negro must avail himself of these opportunities.

When he shall have engaged in these professions, then will he be recognized as a citizen.

Then will this war of races cease. His color will disapear before his reputation. He will not only be a prisoner at the bar, but a judge upon the bench.

[The writer means that color cast will pass away when the Negro shall become wealthy, artistic, and solid in his character and this is true But the Negro's color is destined to be the distinguishing complexion of a mighty race of men on this earth forever, and it may be beyond this earth also.—ED]

Books and Current Literature

The labor problem will be discussed in The Century during the coming year by several writers of prominence. The first article in the series is by the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott. It will appear in the November number, with a full page engraving of a picture by a young American artist, Robert Koehler, called "The Socialist." This picture will be remembered as attracting attention in the last annual exhibition of the National Academy.

The frontispiece of the November Century will be a drawing by Mary Hallock Foote, engraved by Mr. T. Cole. The reason that there has been less of Mr. Cole's engraving in The Century lately is, that he is engaged in an interesting and important art enterprise for that magazine. For two years Mr. Cole has been making engravings of the old masters in some of the principal galleries of Europe. It is said that the work in this direction already done promises results in wood-engraving not hitherto attained in the rendering of these masterpieces.

The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending Oct. 10 and 17 contain The Recent Progress of Democracy in Switzerland, by Emile de Laveleye, Nineteenth Century; A Scottish Dame on her Travels, 1756, Blackwood; Lord Houghton, Fortnightly Review; Rural Roads, Macmillan; Chance Continental Acquaintances, Blackwood; Dean Church on the Psalms, Spectator; The Windward Islands, Macmillan; The Chess Player, Temple Bar; An Episode of the Armada, Nineteenth Century; Founding of the Congo Free State, Scottish Review; The Krakatoa Eruption, part V., Leisure Hour; Life in the Bastile, Gentleman's Magazine; Milk Fair, All the Year Round; A Prosperous Peasant, Spectator; An Episode in the Life of the Duchesse D'Angouleme, St. Stephen's Review; The Rescue of Greely, Spectator; Japanese Ladies and their Hair, Japan Mail; select poetry and miscellany. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

The Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World, described by the sculptor, Bartholdi, is an illustrated pamphlet published for the benefit of the Pedestal Fund by North American Review, 39 Lafayette Place, New York. It is illustrated with pictures of the statue and events in its history, and contains a portrait of Bartholdi.

"Royal" Declared the Best.

The fact that Royal Baking Powder is, in all respects, the best baking powder offered to the public has been established beyond question.

Prof. H. A. Mott, when employed by the U. S. Government to analyse the various baking powders of the market to determine which was the best and most economical, after an extended investigation, reported in favor of the Royal, and it was adopted for government use.

Prof. Mott has continued his examinations of baking powders sold at the present day, and now affirms it as his deliberate judgment, arrived at after most thorough research and a careful examination of the principal brands of the market, that the Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public:

OFFICE, DR. H. A. MOTT, CONSULTING CHEMIST,
61 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, Feb. 12, 1885.

* * The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for them and the U. S. Government.

I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportion of the same, and the method of its preparation, THE ROYAL BAKING POWDER IS UNDOUBTEDLY THE PUREST AND MOST RELIABLE BAKING POWDER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; It produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Sedgwick STEEL WIRE Fence

Is the best general purpose wire fence in use. It is a strong net-work without barbs. Don't injure stock. It will turn dogs, pigs, sheep, and poultry, as well as horses and cattle. The best fence for Farms, Gardens, Stock ranges, and Railroads. Very neat, pretty styles for Lawns, Parks, School-lots, and Cemeteries. Covered with rust-proof paint, or made of galvanized wire as preferred. It will last a life-time. It is better than boards or barbed wire in every respect. Give it a fair trial; it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in lightness, neatness, strength, and durability. We make the best, cheapest, and easiest working all-iron automatic or self-opening gate, and the neatest cheap iron fences now made. The Boss folding poultry coop is a late and useful invention. The best Wire Stretcher, Cutting Pliers, and Post Augers. We also manufacture Russell's excellent Wind Engines for pumping, and Geared Engines for grinding, etc. For prices and particulars ask Hardware Dealers, or address, mentioning paper,

Trust.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

A picture memory brings to me;
I look across the years, and see
Myself beside my mother's knee.

I feel her gentle hand restrain
My selfish moods, and know again
A child's blind sense of wrong and pain.

But wiser now—a man gray grown—
My childhood's deeds are better known;
My mother's chastening love I own.

Gray grown, but in our Father's sight
A child still groping for the light
To read His works and ways aright.

I bow myself beneath His hand;
That pain itself for good was planned,
I trust, but cannot understand.

I fondly dream it needs must be,
That as my mother dealt with me,
So with His children dealeth He.

I wait, and trust the end will prove
That here and there, below, above,
The chastening heals, the pain is love.

Domestic Hygiene.

Bad Conditions and Diseases.

GEO. L. CURTIS, M. D.

"Cleanliness, dryness, light and ventilation," are the direct antagonists of all disease. Where they exist in large abundance disease has to take its flight. The majority of buildings designed for business or homes are not constructed with a view to health, or the highest degree of comfort. The usual desire is to save expense, utilize space, and get on with as little trouble as is possible. One writer says, "Of the whole six or seven millions of dwelling-houses occupied by the people of the United States, it is safe to say, not an average of one in ten thousand is fortified against a filthy soil." If the surroundings of the people could be placed in the most perfect condition, and "cleanliness, dryness, light and ventilation" be enjoyed to their utmost, one-half of the diseases which now afflict the people would cease to be known, and the longevity of the human family would be greatly increased.

CONSUMPTION.

"Of all the diseases which afflict people who live in houses, consumption is probably the most universally prevalent and fatal, killing in the United States alone about 190,000 people annually. What are the causes most promotive of consumption? Soil moisture, the gases of decay, deficient light, and deficient ventilation. Acute diseases of the lungs kill about as many as consumption, and then the conditions promotion of consumption are most abundant." (Sanitarian).

ZYMOTIC OR POISON PRODUCED DISEASES.

Diphtheria, typhoid, diarrhoal diseases and dysentery are zymotic diseases, produced by some spore or cell of poisonous character retained or propagated in bad air, garbage and sewage which come in[illegible] human system to incubate and produce diseases. About one-[illegible] of all who die, perish of [illegible] diseases. They are created [illegible] evil surroundings, want of clean[illegible], want of destruction of gar[illegible] etc. Children largely suffer [illegible] diphtheria, and always after [illegible] exposed to unhealthy and [illegible] influences.

ILLUSTRATION.

The Massachusetts Board of [illegible] gives the following case: A [illegible] kept a house with a cel[illegible] the cellar was an open [illegible] close to it was a deposit box [illegible] sink. The gases were cast [illegible] into the cellar. In [illegible] stored provisions of [illegible]. The windows were [illegible]. The only escape [illegible] and moisture and ground [illegible] which was ab[illegible] the drinking water, was [illegible] the floor [illegible]. After a few [illegible] in the house the [illegible] died of fever. [illegible] and the [illegible] with [illegible] sickness. The house occupied by another man [illegible] was soon taken ill, and [illegible] closed with [illegible] life. A physician took the house. His wife soon after died of fever. Another physician took the house, and within a few months came near dying of erysipelas. The house received no treatment. At last a sensible man got hold of the property, and he thoroughly changed the water supply, the cellar and the method of disposing of sewage. He let light and air into the cellar, in plentiful abundance. As a result, the house became as pleasant and healthful as any other well ventilated place. A foul cellar, a pool of festering sewage, and contaminated water are death traps even when found about a palace.

SOME IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

The following pertinent questions have been asked in a circular letter. We may read them, and then ask if we are guilty:

"Are the sanitary surroundings of the (our) house perfect? Do the trees and shrubbery permit sufficient exposure of it to the sun? Is the water pure and drinkable? If from a well or cistern has it connection with the external air? Is the cellar dry, well ventilated, and free from decomposing matter, which may give forth seeds of sickness and death? Has the cellar a drain? Is the cellar air entirely excluded from the air supply of the furnace? Has every bed chamber free ventilation, and direct means of communication with the external air? If contagious or infectious disease has occurred in the house, have the sick chamber, etc., (bedding, wearing apparel, curtains, carpets and upholstered furniture,) been thoroughly disinfected, and the wall paper removed? Has each water-closet means of external ventilation, and not into an entry or bedchamber."

REASON WHY FARMERS GET SICK.

It is true farmers take a large amount of outdoor exercise, and ought to be free from sickness, yet they are subject to sickness, for the reasons given by the Sanitary News:

1. "Farmers, as a rule, resume their labors too soon after meals."

2. "Farmers, generally, do not pay attention to bathing."

3. Kitchen and other drainage is often disposed of too near the house."

4. "Uncleaned cellars and untrapped cellar drains are often sources of disease in the farmer's family."

5. "There is a disposition on the part of some farmers to plant too many trees around the house."

6. "The location of a dwelling on a malarious site is often the cause of periodical fevers."

Consumption Cured.

The Recipe will be sent FREE with full diction, Catarrh, Asthema, Bronchitis, rections for preparing and using. Send 2 cent stamp. Address Dr. W. H. Armstrong, 44 Nth 4th St., Philadelphia, Pa. (Name this paper.)

A hundred years of the movement of this organization has put Methodism in the lead of all specific forms of church order and work in the world. This was done amidst oppositions and contumelies, for the first half of the century, almost unparalleled in the history of ecclesiastical conflicts. But through all Methodism won her place, not by assertion of any divine right to precedence, but by the divine right of hard work for humanity and God.—Pacific Christian Advocate.

Parties are useful, and public servants are useful, alone as they are made tributary to good government on earth, and as thus and thereby they help onward that kingdom of purity, of righteousness and of peace, which abideth forever.—The Watchman.

Kentucky Correspondence.

REV. W. H. ONGLEY.

Making a short visit to my daughter lately, at Hawesville, Ky., during the very hot weather, I made inquiry relative to our work in that community. The young pastor, Bro. ——, who follows Bro. Posey, is doing well, and taking care of the plants that good brother left to be murdered. Rev. J. Campbell pastor of the M. E. Church South, speaks highly of the little church and flock. He administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to them, one Thursday night, while I was in the town, and expressed his deep regret to the writer of this afterward that he hadn't my company and assistance. Subsequently he had me preach for him twice, and the fraternal relations existing were made pleasant and agreeable. I trust some good was done. I believe, too, you pungent notes against the follies of churches spending so much valuable time and money on excursions, festivals, etc., is doing good. If the SOUTHWESTERN could be taken by the brethren in Hawesville, Cannelton, Hardinsburg, and other points in that region, it would pay them and you!

A very destructive fire occurred while in H. Fifteen of the business places were consumed, among them the best brick buildings, occupied by merchants. The loss was reckoned at $75,000; insurance only $24,000. The Methodist and Baptist churches both caught, as well as some others in the vicinity; but by constant watching, and work, and a merciful Providence, they and the entire town were saved from further damage. It is hopeful that the frequent disasters which have befell them and their neighbors will check wickedness and intemperance in the community, for whisky and other vices, known to exist, have been the immediate cause of all their troubles. Ah, it is so everywhere! But prohibitionists are increasing in Kentucky, and in all the States of the Union. May God forbid that the stigma—a nation of drunkards—should rest upon our favored land!

I continue my walks and talks for collections, hear from some, get promises to pay by and by. I shall keep on in the good work and labor of love.

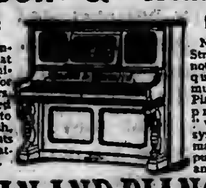
Diabetes Cured.

New Orleans Picayune, Jan. 20, 1884.



Mr. Mathias Doll, business place No. 23 North Peters street, residence Royal street, between Jeanne and Bartholomew, New Orleans, has been a most intense sufferer from kidney trouble (diabetes) for the last six long and weary years. He said to us: "Even earlier than that I frequently suffered from pain in the back, and frequent making of water, but gave it no thought until about the time stated, when the almost constant desire to make water became unendurable. The pain in the back, and sometimes in the legs, made me so lame at times that I could scarcely walk. I consulted one of the best doctors in this city, and was under his constant treatment for one entire year without deriving the least benefit. I then consulted from time to time, during the last five or six years, six other physicians, each one standing in the front rank of the medical profession in New Orleans, and though I sometimes was a little relieved of some excruciating suffering, yet upon the whole I was not only no better, but in many respects much worse. My limbs became so swollen and sore that I could not cross my legs when sitting on a chair—all of which, they said, was caused by diabetes. I then tried some highly lauded patent medicine. But they all turned out to be humbugs. I had given up all hopes of ever getting relief, much less being cured, when I noticed in the papers some wonderful cures that PERUNA had made in this city, as prescribed by Dr. Hartman, giving the name and address of each person treated. I called to see him; he at once prescribed his PERUNA, which is not over three weeks ago. I am so much better that if I would not improve any more, I would not for any amount that I had not placed myself under his treatment. All my pain and lameness is gone. The swelling and stiffness in my legs has disappeared, and instead of making water every fifteen minutes, I now make it once in three hours during the day, and only twice in a whole night. I am, indeed, quite well again. Don't hesitate, don't say humbug, but get the PERUNA at once and take it as its printed label directs, or, if you think this is only an advertisement, and not strictly true, call and see me and see for yourself."

Mrs. Huldah Riple, Smethport, McKean county, Pa., writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN, & Co., Columbus, O. I have used your PERUNA and it has done me a great deal of good. Have recommended it to many of my friends, who have since expressed themselves as wonderfully pleased with its virtues."

PE-RU-NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles $5. If you cannot get it from your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price. We prefer you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order from us at once as directed. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O.

"How's Your Liver!"

In the comic opera of "The Mikado" his imperial highness says:

"He makes, to some extent,
[illegible]
merriment."

A better task than making evil [illegible] a mass of harmless merriment no person King or layman, could take upon himself. The liver among the ancients was considered the source of all a man's evil passions, and the chances are that to-day that if one's liver is in an ugly condition of discontent, someone's head will be mashed before night!

"How's your liver?" is equivalent the inquiry: Are you a bear or an angel to day?

Nine tenths of the "pure cussedness," the actions for divorce, the certain lectures, the family rows, not to speak of murders, crimes and other calamities are prompted by the deadening effect of the inactivity of the liver upon brain. Fothergill, the great specialist, says this and he knows. He also knows that to prevent such catastrophies nothing equals Warner's safe cure renowned throughout the world, as a maker of "Sick evil liver

A running river
Of harmless merriment."

Lost Friends.

We hardly think it necessary to say anything in connection with these letters more than heretofore. All others will be charged fifty cents. Persons will please send the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any cases where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

Mrs. Harrison: Mrs. Mary Hamilton wishes to find her mother, Lucinda Chambers, she was bought by a widow lady Mrs. Deane, and was married from Aberdeen Miss., to [illegible] during the war. She left [illegible] children when she was sold, Robert, Mary and George. She carried the baby, George with her. All Methodist preachers will please help an only daughter find her mother. Mr. Editor: I wish to inquire for my father, Samuel Dodd, I have not seen him since 1829, he was then in Nacogdoches, Tex., I have heard that he was in Washington, [illegible] Andrew Ky Dodd, Ky. [illegible] Texas.

Cleveland District Sunday School Institute, East Tennessee Conference.

REV. L. M. MOORES.

Our district Sunday-school that was to convene on the 2d of July, 1885, with no one present but the people of our own circuit, outside of the presiding elders. The pastor of the Georgetown work was on hand on the second, but the train [illegible] out too soon for the [illegible] so we had to accept [illegible] in his stead, and this [illegible] every thing to a stand [illegible] one whole day, and on the [illegible] received another telegram from the [illegible] Rev. E. Prodding elder. We [illegible] learned [illegible] sick, At [illegible] with [illegible] the people of the [illegible] Mount [illegible] of the [illegible] in this [illegible] Moores, a [illegible] girl of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school in this city. The last was received with so much power that it brought tears to the eyes of the people and by request we send it to you to publish. The institute did a great deal of good in this place, and no doubt would have done all the pastors, teachers and Sunday School superintendents, good if they would let the 4th of July take care of itself and come to the institute, as God wants leaders. May the Lord help us to repent of our idleness, and get down to the Master's works of teaching and saving souls, for we must have more of God's moving cloud to go on before this people and that will lead them straight. If we ever expect to lead them to the happy land of Canaan. Let pastors, teachers, officers and superintendents fall into line.

Cincinnati Letter.

LEMUEL M. HAGOOD.

The thermometer is still cutting high notions, nothing less than ninety seems satisfactory. But two classes of our citizens have been affected by the heat. Those who were able to go to the "watering places," and those who were unable to go. The former left some time since; the latter wish they could have gone. The ice and coal dealers are discouraged; the former, because so many people are wanting ice and so much of it; the latter because the people, fearing hard winter, are putting in their winter supply and keep their teams out in the sun too much; the former to get even, raised the price of ice, and the latter followed suit. Grant memorials were many and appropriate.

Next to Sol, "Sam Jones," creates the greatest stir. At the camp meeting at Loveland, he electrified, edified and terrified the people The first pass he made at Love Land came near collapsing the whole camp; editors, squirmed, preachers quaked, sinners laughted, then frowned, then cried and when he sat down all the people said "Amen."

Preachers tremble when they see
Sam Jones get down upon one knee;
They think they're going to hear their doom,
And hence they fall into a swoon.
He is a man of many parts,
He always touches sinners' hearts,
And scathingly false Christians chide
And often causes them to hide.
They have invite him to come
To Cincinnati pretty soon,
And see if he can only do
Our Cincinnati any good.
Now should he come, then you will see
Backsliders, hypocrites will flee,
And ministers, whose circumstances,
Allow their folks to go to dances,
They go to church and look so queer,
Then return home and sip their beer,
Will leave the town, till he is gone,
Or else they'll have to "stand the storm;"
For when he talks the fur will fly;
He does not fear our "old red eye."
He makes men laugh,
He makes them weep,
He never cares for their poor craft
Who go to church simply to sleep.
When he gets here we'll let you know,
Though some one's sure to leave the down;
We'll write him up and tell you sure
If he has turned things upside down.

of life which is usually unappreciated until it is lost, perhaps never to return, is health. What a priceless boon it is, and how we ought to cherish it, that life may not be a worthless blank to us. Many of the diseases that flesh is heir to, and which make life burdensome, such as consumption (scrofula of the lungs), and other scrofulous and blood diseases, are completely cured by Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" after all other remedies have failed. Dr. Pierce's treatise on Consumption mailed for 10 cents in stamps. The Death of Rev. E. M. Manson.

REV. J. L. MASSEY.

We were alarmed at the sad news of the death of Rev. E. M. Manson, a member of the Tennessee Conference in charge at Brownsville, Tennessee, who fell asleep in Jesus, August 14th 1885.

A meeting was called for the purpose of draping our church in mourning for our beloved elder and the pastor appointed the following committee: Miss Lulu Truman, chairman; Miss Leanna Bess, Miss Nancy Gilford, Miss Victorie Gilford, Miss Rachel Singleton, Miss Sophia Jackson, Mrs. Minervia Worthern and Mrs. Vina Manuel.

The above committee passed the following resolutions.

Whereas, God in his wise providence, has seen fit to remove from our midst by death one of the most usefnl young elders of the Tennessee Conference, West Tennessee district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as a pastor, as a teacher and as a co-laborer with Christ.

Resolved, That we will cherish his memory, and that the strong arm of protection may be extended around his dear wife and little son The wife has lost a husband and heaven has gained a saint. He shall not return to us, but we shall go to him.

Servant of God well done,
Thy glorious warfare's passed;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

Our beloved Bro. Manson will be very much missed in the district conference, which will convene at Mason, August 25th, 1885, as he has been the secretary of this district for 4 years.

"Rest from thy labor rest
Soul of the just set free
Blest be thy memory and blest
Thy bright example be."

"All Men are Liars."

said David of old. He was probably prompted to make the above remark after trying some unreliable catarrh remedy. Had he been permitted to live until the present day, and tried Dr. Sage's Remedy, he might have had a better opinion of mankind. We claim that no case of catarrh can withstand the magic effects of this wonderful medicine. One trial of it will convince you of its efficacy. By druggists; fifty cents.

Surely, the world moves, and there is little occasion to take up the lament that the world is growing worse, and religion dying out.—Michigan Church Advocate.

Chills and Fever. Malaria

"The undersigned has no hesitation in asserting that the judicious use of Simmons Liver Regulator as a preventive and tonic to the system, will secure immunity from the weakening and dangerous effects of malaria and will effect a cure of chills and fever and all malarial disorders. LESSON HYMN. S. M.

Hymnal No. 817.

Lord, if at thy command
The word of life we saw,
Watered by Thy almighty hand,
The seed shall surely grow;

The virtue of Thy grace
A large increase shall give,
And multiply the faithful race
Who to Thy glory live.

Our multitudes confer
The heart-renewing love,
And by the joy of grace prepare
For fuller joys above.

Time—B. C. 838.

Place—Unknown.

Rulers—Joash, grandson of Jehu, twelfth King of Israel; Amaziah, ninth King of Judah; Benhadad III., King of Damascus; Shalmaneser II, King of Assyria.

History—During the reigns of Jehu and Jehoahaz, Israel fell under the power of Syria, which was ruled by Hazael. Joash, who was king of Israel when Elisha died, regained much that had been lost, and his son, Jeroboam II., conquered Syria, and made Israel almost as powerful as it had been under David and Solomon.

QUESTIONS FOR HOME STUDY.

1. A Royal Visitor, v. 14

Who was stricken with a fatal illness?

What royal visitor had he?

How did the king show his grief?

What was his language?

Who had used this language before? 2 Kings, 2 12.

2. A Prophetic Lesson, v. 15 19.

What four things did Elisha bid the king do?

What did the arrow signify?

What was the king then directed to do?

Why was Elisha displeased?

What did the king lose by his failure?

3. A Sacred Sepulcher, v. 20-21.

What befell Elisha?

What calamity fell upon Israel?

How was a funeral disturbed?

What was done with the dead man's body?

What miracle followed?

4. A Fulfilled Prophecy, v. 22 25.

Who was Israel's greatest enemy?

Who their greatest defense?

Why did the Lord graciously regard them?

Who succeeded Hazael as king of Syria?

What did the son of Jehoahaz recover from the Syrians?

LESSON OUTLINE.

Where in this Lesson do we learn—

1. That [illegible] are honored in their obedience [illegible]?

2. That a good man's influence [illegible]?

CATECHISM.

In the school

1. What did Elisha tell Joash to do? [illegible] arrows.

2. What was the reason why Joash was to smite the ground? [illegible] wroth with him.

3. What did Joash do? Smote thrice and stayed.

4. What did the man of God say to Joash? [illegible] thou hadst smitten five or six times.

5. What was done to the man that touched the sepulcher of Elisha? He revived.

APPLICATIONS.

1. The power of Israel—King Joash on terms of Elisha living and dead.

2. [illegible] need of Elijah.

3. Elisha saying, "Take the bow," and the horse-[illegible] indicate that the [illegible] it was spoken was the defense of Israel. Elisha put his hands—To signify that he must look to God for strength. He shot—The shooting toward Syria indicated his success in his warfare with that country, for Israel was now under the Syrian yoke. Smote thrice, and stayed—Probably regarding it as a foolish sign; but by despising the sign he lost the thing signified. Spied a band—As roving companies of Moabites were ravaging Israel the funeral train broke up in haste and disorder for fear these were enemies. Cast the man—This shows their haste. Three times—This was according to the prophecy of Elisha when Joash smote but thrice on the ground.

In Memoriam.

Miss Virginia M. J. Riche, a member of the faculty of New Orleans University, born March 20th, 1861, died Oct. 22d 1885.

She entered the New Orleans University at an early age, and graduated at 19, receiving the degree of B. S. The following year she was appointed a member of the faculty of the University, served faithfully, and was dearly beloved by the other teachers, and all the students.

While teaching, she was converted during the great revival at the University, conducted by Rev. W. R. Webster, of New York.

She joined the Wesley Chapel M. E. Church and labored faithfully till her death.

The sad news of her death came to our knowledge yesterday evening after the dismissal of school, and was painfully announced by the President of the University in the chapel service, on the following morning. Oh! What throbbing hearts. There was a feeling of the most profound sorrow on part of both teachers and students.

Notwithstanding the sorrow there was a sense of joy to know that she lived and died a true Christian. May we follow the example of this noble and exemplary character, who passed into eternal bliss.

Be it resolved, That we, the undersigned committee, elected by the other students of the University, extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in behalf of the New Orleans University, in this their hour of bereavment.

Resolved, That the chapel and her recitation room bear an ensign of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the SOUTHWESTERN, and other papers in accordance with the desire of the President.

A. J. FORD, Chair'n,
E. M. WILLIAMSON,
A. P. CAMPHOR,
E. M. CARTER,
JNO. H REED.

In memory of our friend and fellow teacher, Virginia M. J. Riche who died at 11 a. m., Oct. 22d, 1885. She was earnest and faithful as a teacher. She has endeared herself to her students as well as to her associates in the faculty of our school. We have lost in her a valued friend and helper.

We extend our sympathy to all her sorrowing relations and friends. Her friends sorrow, not without consolation and hope. Her Christian character and influence will not be soon forgotten. Our consolation is that she is safe forever with the heavenly Father, and our hope is that we shall meet her in the world where death enters not.

For all Brain-Workers.

Mr. J. R Francis, of the Religio-Philosophical Journal, Chicago, says: "Parker's Tonic is the specific for all the ills that literary flesh is heir to. For the Southwestern,

The Circulation of Our Books and Periodicals.

REV. H. W. TATE, WILEY.

Our publications, both in book and magazine form, are choice literature, which should have a greater circulation than they do. They need only to be introduced and they live on their own merit. These messengers of truly and evangical light are silent instructors in Methodism to the people, enlightening them in the great cardinal principles and usages, we advocate and upon which we firmly stand.

The responsible factor in the circulation of our literature among the people is the pastor. Where the pastor is not interests of our church are not properly presented, causing little to be known of this grand department of our church work. The people will not be intelligent Methodists nor wide awake Christians. Under such circumstances the Discipline will be little regarded—Methodist loyalty rare—the pastor and people apart with but tolerable success in the benevolent enterprises of the Church, meagre support for the Gospel and little interest manifested in the general church interests. The exhortation to every one is "be diligent to spread them." One of the duties enjoined upon a preacher in charge is to "take care that every society be duly supplied with books and Methodist literature."

Rev. John Wesley says: "It can not be that people should grow in grace, unless they give themselves to reading." Should the above wholesome advice be carried into practice, instead of having ignorant members and unwise officials, we will have intelligent audiences' learned officers, men up with the times that are prepared for the preaching of the day, men qualified to defend "the faith once delivered unto the saints." Men not only intelligent but faithful worshipers. Much of our district is new work, known as prospective, missionary and matured.

But it all needs more and better information than acquired up to the present. The room of improvement is but just entered by most of us, we the pastors may have gone further than the people, but they must be brought up to the plane upon which we stand. If we are below the people in intelligence and zeal, it is high time to move up in our proper sphere.

The reading and studying of our standard works and offical papers will assist greatly to enlighten our laity, and interest the general public in the great cause in which we are laboring. My observation is that where a pastor diligently circulates our literature, he succeeds the best in pastoring his flock, in building up the church, and holding our own in the communities where our societies are established. Our publicaiions are intended to assist the pastor in his charge, and to help him inspire his flock to better and nobler Christian lives.

Their influence among our membership cannot be done without, when once we see their great advantage. If our literature is not to be circulated and help us, what is the use of its publication? All Christian denominations have their book and periodical literature to assist the ministry and for such purpose is ours. Circulate our literature all you can and among all you can.

I will now adduce some reasons for the circulation of our literature. The kind of literature has much to do with its circulation. I am free to say that our book concerns publish as good literary matter as is in circulation. There is none better in print. Good reading is what we need in each and every household. This we have in an abundance, and at reasonable rates. Have you heard our literature condemned, or rashly criticised by competent judges of such? I presume not, It is too good. There is no fault in it. People of limited means can buy but few books. These few should be the best in the market. We have them; they are made and handled by our agents: Tell the people. Good reading is much like good company. We estimate people by their associates, and we can generally tell the moral status of reading people by the kind of literature they peruse. The mind should be fed with choice reading. Our reading has much to do in the framing of our characters. Place the best books and papers at the disposal of the people, that they may gain good and useful information and lead upright lives. Bad literature is poisonous to the mind. Supplement this by that kind of reading in which we believe, know and love, and is good for everybody.

The circulation of our literature tends to increase an interest in our general work. The laity that reads and are acquainted with the general work of the church are apt to be more in sympathy with and readier to support them by their means and talents. People need to know the object and working of a good movement before they feel interested and willing to help that enterprise. If we want larger missionary contributions we must circulate the literature that contains the information on that subject and the cause will command itself. Our literature abounds in all that is desired upon this subject and all the general interests of the Church. The preacher in charge that has a reading congregation of Methodist literature will always raise his assessments for the benevolent causes of the Church.

Another fact is that the free circulation of our literature will make better Methodist of our membership.

There is such a thing as a religious instinct, we can be provoked to good works by our more zealous brother whom we observe, in reading of the success of our workers in other charges we are stimulated to try and will likely do more than we would have done otherwise. We will not know what is being acheived by the church unless we read her standard works and current literature. Our church requires an intelligent membership to carry out her great plans.

Reading our literature is a great means to learn of the machinery of the church in activity and our duty as members.

We should thoroughly acquaint ourselves with our church and her needs. Another reason for the circulation of our literature is that the profits of the Book Concern are applied to the fund to aid worn out, preachers, widows, and children of deceased ministers, also to help make up the deficiency of traveling preachers who do not receive all of their salary.

This measure is wise, and the greater the profits, the greater will be the appropriation for the deserving causes.

The more of our books and papers sold and paid for the more will be the profits and the necessitous cases receive greater appropriations.

DR. JOHN BULL'S

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the [illegible] CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed [illegible] out. In a great many cases a single bottle has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. Use no other.

The Tennessee Conference.

FIRST DAY MORNING.

The 20th session of the Tennessee Conference, of the Methodist Episcopal Church met in Gallatin, Tennessee, Oct. 22d, 1885, at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Bishop W. F. Mallalieu, D. D., presiding.

The conference opened with religious exercises conducted by the bishops, Elders Price, Key and Dr. Marshall W. Taylor.

Dr. J. Braden called the roll and 42 members answered to their names. Dr. Braden was elected secretary, H. W. Simmons assistant and J. W. Pickett statistical secretary.

The various usual committees were appointed.

On motion, it was agreed that we meet at 8 o'clock a. m., and adjourned at 12 m.

Rev. Dr. Marshall W. Taylor, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN; Dr. Earl Cranston, of the Western Methodist Book Concern, at Cincinnati; Dr. Hartzell, of the Freedman's Aid Society; Rev. Dr. Wright, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Rev. T. B. Fletcher, of the East Tennessee Conference, was introduced after which Drs. Cranston and Hartzell, delivered addresses in behalf of the interests which they severally represented.

On motion of Dr. Braden it was determined to hold a statistical session at 3 o'clock p. m.

After announcements, the conference adjourned with the benediction by Dr. Wright.

AFTERNOON.

The afternoon session met as ordered.

Rev. Oslvin Pickett in the chair and conducting the religious services, assisted by Rev. B. Anderson.

The secretary called the roll by districts, and each pastor as his name was called, handed in his statistics and moneys, after which the conference adjourned, with the benediction by C. L. Steward.

NIGHT SESSION.

The Temperance Anniversary was held, presided over by A. Phillips.

Speakers for the occasion, S. P. Danley, Dr. Denny and H. W. Key, these were very earnest appeals for the cause of temperance, Bro. Phillips does not forget the collections.

We are dismissed for the night, after a busy day.

SECOND DAY.

Conference met promptly at 8 o'clock a. m. Rev. Henry Primm preached a sermon, after which Bishop Mallalieu took the chair.

Rev. C. H. Bullington offered prayer.

Minutes of yesterday's sessions were approved and the roll of absentees called most of whom had now arrived.

Rev. Wilbur P. Thirkield, Dean of Gammon School of Theology, of Atlanta, and Dr. A. H. Gillett, [illegible] of the Methodist Episcopal [illegible] School Union for the South[illegible], were introduced to the con[illegible].

Dr. Gillett then delivered an ad[illegible] on the interest of the Sunday-[illegible] work.

[illegible] by Prof. Thirkield, on [illegible] of an educated ministry.

[illegible] DeWitt, of Gallatin, was then introduced.

The twentieth question was taken up and after the passage of his character, Rev. C. H. Bullington, pastor in charge of Murfreesboro district, reported his work, and the report showed an increase in churches, lands and labor all along the line.

The following elders were called, B. F. Whitley, L. M. Haygood, O. Green, W. C. Miller, T. E. Wood, B. James and G. W. House, the latter had left his work, and on motion of C. Pickett, a committee was appointed to investigate the cause.

Bro. Braxton James had died triumphantly, and gone to heaven; the others, after reporting their monies were severally passed.

James Pickett, presiding elder of the Nashville district, after the passage of his character, reported his district. Bro. Pickett is one of the fathers of this conference. One can gather from his report that he dearly loves all his men, and as he has served his full time on this district, leaves it in good shape for his successor.

The following effective elders, reported their collections, and their characters were passed: P. Gregg, S. T. Hickerson, H. Primm, M. Williams, T. Wood, H. Robinson, W. Bryant, A. Phillips, H. W. Key, J. W. Pickett, P. Martin, J. Braden, M. Dart and W. Patterson.

Rev. S. P. Bell has gone to his rest.

On motion of J Braden, W. Patterson was granted a location at his own request.

Rev. Jesse P. Price, presiding elder of the West Tennessee district, after passage of his character, gave a detailed report of his work.

Bro. Price showed that the work had not suffered for want of his attention, hard times had visited the West, but none of these things moved him and his faithful brethren.

This is his last year on the district, but his record upon it is one which will stand and grow with the flight of time.

The character of these elders passed: J. B. Bradford, F. R. Summerville, A. Burdette, H. Dunlap, D. Cook had left the church; Bro. E. M. Manson had fall at his post, but said: "I am going home."

Revs. Ray and Blue, of the M. E. Church, South; Revs. H. Baugh, W. Wilson, W. H. Haward, of the A. M. E. Church, were introduced to the conference. The usual announcements being made the conference adjourned. Benediction by H. W. Key.

AFTERNOON.

We all met in a Sunday-school institute, conducted by Dr. Gillett, Prof. Thirkield and J. F. Moreland assisting, this certainly was an occasion of great profit to all towns of the Sunday-school came.

NIGHT.

The congregation assembled to hear Dr. Gillett lecture on the Sunday-school publications of our church, who for an hour held the wrapt attention of the large crowd which came to hear.

The smiling face of A. Phillips is seen at the table, who lets every body know that he understands how to call the collection. This done we were dismissed by Prof. Thirkield.

THIRD DAY.

The conference met at the appointed time.

Rev. W. L. Taylor preached a warm sermon, evincing much thought and care in preparation.

At 9 o'clock the Bishops called the conference to order.

Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

Business resumed and dispatched with usual brevity.

Several fine young men were admitted on trial, viz: Wm. Gardner, Thomas J. Goodall, H. Baugh, Alfred F. Lane, Crawford B. Wilson, John Coppage and Joseph Harrison.

Reports from various committees came in regular order. A few statistics. Probations, 1200; members, 7265; deaths, 168; children baptized, 326; adults baptized, 931; churches, 115; value, $102,180; parsonages, 13; value, $4200; raised for church building, $3737; paid debts, $1601; present indebtedness, $4069; Sunday schools, 137; officers and teachers, 842; scholars, 7247; Missionary collections, $479 60; Church Extension, $78; Sunday Schools, $26 05, Tracts, $11 60; Freedmen's Aid Society, $1120 40; education, $51 31; American Bible Society, $8 30; ministerial support, $10,496 11.

FIFTH DAY.

The large church was filled to its utmost capacity at an early hour to see and hear the last of the conference. The Bishop gave a timely and encouraging exhortation to the brethren.

The transfer of the writer from the East Tennessee Conference was announced.

The odds and ends of business having all come in, resolutions of thanks to the Bishop, railroads, pastor, Presiding Elder, Gallatin, cooks and people, being offered perfect silence pervades, and now, once more, we are carried by the Bishop to a throne of grace, where he commends all to the care of our Heavenly Father.

With grace the Bishop gave us our appointments and disappointments, thus closing, it is said, one of the most pleasant sessions of the Tennessee conference, which meets its next session in Nashville.

It Must Be a Million.

Bishop Bowman writes: "It looks as if your call for a million will be answered. God grant it!"

Bishop Andrews: "The recent marvelous success of our Missions is God's signature to the Missionary plan. May our dear Church signalize its entrance upon its second century by this advance to a million a year!"

Bishop Harris: "The need for Missionary money was never so pressing as now; our people were never so well to do as now; and the Million for which you ask the Church should be given in this year of grace Eighteen hundred and eighty five.

Bishop Merrill. "I desire to express my gratification that the call for a Million is put so squarely before the Church, and that the outlook is so encouraging. There is need for every dollar of it without attempting to open a new mission anywhere on the broad earth."

Bishop Warren. If the Church would give one hundredth as much money per year to save the world as she gave to save the nation, your ideal Million would be called the day of small things.

Bishop Foss: "We must march up to the million dollar line at once. The perishing world demands it of us, and we are able to do it."

Bishop Ninde; "The call has come none too soon. The Million can and must be raised."

Bishop Mallalieu: "A Million for Missions means many souls converted and saved who would be lost forever if only three quarters of a million should be given. Philanthrophy, Patriotism, Christianity demand that we should do more for Missions. Men are perishing for lack of knowledge we might bestow."

Bishop Fowler: "I expect the West will give a grand response. The East will complete the offering as soon as it has a chance. God wants this million. "We are laborers together" with Him."

Bishop Foster: "My prayer is, that you fail not of the Million. The perishing world joins in the prayer. The love of Christ pleads for it. The Church will respond. I hear nothing but encouraging words for the grand effort. Go forward, in the name of the Lord, and may his blessing be with you."

Bishop Hurst is in Europe, on his way home from India, and in a recent letter he writes: If from all the lands where our people are now singing centennial psalms our Church were suddenly blotted out, there is aggressive force in India Methodism alone to sail to all the continents and plant it over again."

The great success of the India Mission must be repeated in many lands.

Bishop Walden and Bishop Taylor are far away and have not been heard from, but doubtless will be ere long.

Let us get up to the Million Dollar line, and through Divine help we will be able to hold the position and then "to further conquest go."

From the Districts.

Columbus District—West Texas Conference.

P. M. CARMICHAEL, P. E.

The finishing up of the second round, found us at the district conference, LaGrange, July 2d, where we had a nice business like meeting.

From here we moved on the third round, and met Bro. S. Gates at Columbus, found that he had accomplished a great deal since the last quarter. He also was preparing for a camp meeting, which we trust, will prove a great blessing to the people of Columbus.

We met Bro. E. Cogswell and the brethren of the Alleyton and Tolan work alright, with good reports, and hopeful for the future. They give assurance of paying the the pastor all his salary, and of raising all the benevolent money. God grant it!

From here we went to Oakland. Mr. Editor, there are some men who know how to manage, and how to preach to draw the people to them. It is not right for a minister to deceive his congregation, and it is a sin for him to applaud himself, to get up in the pulpit and say that he can excel such and such a preacher or to say that the people say so.

We have some preachers who will get in the pulpit and refer to all they see bad out among the people in away to insult them. He may not mean to insult them, but at the same time does so.

There are some preachers that make unwise propositions with the people, such as daring the sinner to do certain things, if so they would pray God to kill them. Calling the church members to the mourner's bench, also asking, "all that are ready to die this moment, come and give their hand." I have heard of all these things being done by preachers, but Bro. Cooper at Oakland is not that kind of a man, is the reason he had 70 conversions at his camp meeting. I never enjoyed myself better in my life than I did at Oakland. The church is paying Bro. Cooper very well and are raising their benevolent money.

Bro. E. Cogswell held Bro. James Brawley's quarter at Schulenburg, last year. The pastor reports 18 conversions.

At Welder and at Peach Creek I found Bro. Stevens, started in a camp meeting, which resulted in 23 conversions.

Our next appointment was Lull Mill, where we found another camp meeting in progress, closed with 20 conversions. Both Luling and Peach Creek will raise all their benevolent money.

We go next to Lockhart.

Columbus, Texas.

Huntsville District—Texas Conference.

E. LEE, P. E.

Owing to the hard times on the Huntsville district, Texas conference, I have not been able to write anything concerning the districts in the way of success, but now I thank God the people have made good crops on all the following portions of the district, and money begins to be in circulation. The people seem to be in better circumstances.

Last week after visits to all points on the circuit, four, viz., Harden [illegible] elder to [illegible] in charge [illegible] people, and A. Adair, being older elders in the conference they could hold these two quarters, while I gave my time to the new work, which are the five new counties I mentioned in my last letter. If I have to borrow money to travel on, I shall go to the poor places that need me most.

Times have been so hard here that the pastors and members of the district conference failed to attend the spring district conferences, but since then most of the pastors have had success in building up the church spiritually.

H. W. Wilson, at Hunsville has had many conversions, of both old and young.

At Willis, Rev. Jeremiah Smith is laying a strong foundation, and many have been converted this year and added to the church by him.

A. Britten, at Danville, is holding the fort and advancing a little.

At Montgomery, Rev. John Guess is having great success on one part of the circuit, and many have been added to the church.

At Walker circuit, Calvin Moore is having a grand work.

At Lovelady, Richard Williams, is doing a good work, and has built one new church, after plan No. 1.

At Wallisville, Spencer Kelly, built one new church, which blew down while attending the annual conference, at Navasota, Texas, Nov. 20th, 1884, and has raised more benevolent money than any man on the district, thus far, and he was in the lead last year at the conference, and if the brethren do not look out he will lead the van this year.

Jesse Jones, local preacher, supply at Georgetown, is striving to build up the work.

Rev. A. J. Neely is doing good work in Jasper and Newton.

Bro. William Brooks, in Harden, is sticking to the cause like a hero.

Rev. Samuel Allen, is organizing a good church at Woodville.

Bro. Toby Ward, has the confidence of the people at Town Bluff, and his church is in the lead.

Rev. D. Atkins, is successful in gathering a fine congregation at Liberty, and has added many to the church.

Bro. A. Williams, at Orange, is finishing up his last year and is leaving one of the next best churches in the Texas conference; a fine liberal congregation. They take care of the preacher and have him a nice parsonage, furnished, with four rooms, all owned by our church. He has been blessed with 25 conversions.

Bro. A. Adair, writes: "That he has added many to the church.

Bro. McKinzie is storming the fort at Camilla, Cold Springs circuit. Everywhere throughout the district the people are perfectly willing to raise the one million dollars for missions, and not slight, in the least the other benevolent objects.

Beaumont, Texas, August, 14, 1885.

Ohio District—Lexington Conference.

HENRY W. TATE, SECRETARY.

The twenty fifth session of the Ohio district, of Lexington conference convened in Rust M. E. Church, on Thursday, Oct., 8th, 1885, at 9 a. m., Oberlin, Ohio, Rev. Joseph Courtney, presiding elder of the district in the chair.

The devotional services were conducted by Elder Courtney, who read the 24th Psalm, and the 5th chapter of the 1 Thessalonians; after which the conference united in singing hymn 778,

"And are we yet alive,
And see each others face!"

Prayer by Rev. Joseph Adkins.

18 members were present at the opening session.

The forenoon sessions were devoted to the regular business and the afternoon sessions were taken up in the discussion of the literary programme.

Henry W. Tate preached the opening sermon.

The presiding elder's report was able and clear. The conference brethren expressed their appreciation of his report, by a standing vote. Our presiding elder is serving his third year very acceptably, he is liked by all his preachers and there is brotherly love over the entire district. Eight churches have been bought and erected since his term began, and many others have reduced their indebtedness. Reports were made by 21 pastors, 13 local preachers, 3 exhorters, 10 district stewards, 6 class leaders, and 6 Sunday-school superintendents, each showing prosperity in their respective fields of labor, many mentioned the dullness of the times and a decrease in church financial receipts. The following local preacher's license were renewed and their characters passed, Elam A. White, Charles Rice, Henry Harris, London Facing, James Battise, Spencer T. Jackson, James Justice, Joseph Holmes, Eben Jackson, Samuel Justice, Silas W. Fleming, Evan Johnson, Geo. E. Ransom, W. H. Redman, Harvey Marcellus, Geo. F. Branch, Lafayette Mann, Thomas Williams, Caswell Smith, Robert Easton, H. G. Jenkins, Payne, Theodore Wilson, Joseph Adkins, John Ramsey, A. Baty, total 26.

The following local deacons' characters passed: Jared Carey, Henry Stith, Lewis Mason, James Mantz, W. B. Mantz, Alexander Austin, L. E., total 6.

W. T. Franklin, late pastor of Steubenville, Ohio, as a supply was expelled for immoral conduct. John Husbands was discontinued. J. W. Brown, Turner Freeman and Jno. L. Griffith were referred back to their quarterly conferences for further investigations.

Samuel Reed was received from the Baptist Church as a local preacher, with us.

Joseph Adkins was recommended for admission into the traveling connection.

The license were renewed and the characters passed of all the exhorters, except Richard Eubel and Quinn Ward, whose cases were referred back to the quarterly conference.

The literary programme proved to be an important part of the conference and was actively engaged in by the brethren.

The subjects introduced and discussed were the following:

"Ministerial Responsibility," J. Courtney.

"The Circulation of our Books and Periodicals" H. W. Tate.

L. M. Hagood's paper on "The Best Method of Pastoring a Church," was read by the secretary.

"Can a Professor be a Successful Christian and Neglect the Means of Grace," W. H. Brown.

"The Work and Qualifications of a Class Leader," Nelson Haward and J. H. McCullough."

The Sunday-school convention was held on Wednesday, preceding the conference, and was ordered to be reported by J. F. Moreland, to the SOUTHWESTERN.

Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, was selected as the seat of the next conference.

Rev. Marshall W. Taylor, D. D., editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, favored our conference with his presence during a portion of the session. The Doctor is always a welcome guest among us; he having been presiding elder on this district, is generally known, and has won for himself a great name among us, and the people. His address and sermon will long be remembered. The conference passed the following resolutions in behalf of the Doctor, and his excellent paper.

Whereas, We have been favored by the presence and profitable instruction of Rev. Marshall W. Taylor, D. D., editor of SOUTHWESTERN, during our session; be it,

Resolved, That we feel highly favored by his visit and very grateful for his timely instruction; be it further,

Resolved, That we commend the SOUTHWESTERN, and its able editor as worthy of the support of all of our charges.

By order of the conference, it was decided to hold two sessions of the Sunday-school convention, one in the Eastern, and the other in the Western part of the district.

Letters from the Pastors.

G. J. Izard, Blossom Prairie circuit, Texas, writes: "The third quarterly conference was held at Bagwell, Saturday the 15th inst., at 3 o'clock p. m., conference opened. The roll was called and nearly all the conference brethren answered their names, and some of them reported interestingly. All promised to do more for the Lord than ever before, no conference complaints, nor appeals. The business of the conference went on lovely. Surely the Lord sat in the chair with Bro. Webb, while presiding. Bro. Jackson could not be with the elder at night he had been from home carrying on a protracted meeting and attending the Sunday-school convention for nine days. Bro. Webb preached a cheering sermon at night upon "The Influence of Man, or a Christian." Many hearts were made glad. On Sunday at 10 o'clock, Bros. Bird Montgomery and James Woods conducted an old fashion prayer meeting. At 11, the elder preached a soul thrilling sermon, from the 21st chapter of Isaiah, followed by the sacrament and the Lord's supper. The man who God sent preached a sermon upon benevolent causes, and made it so sweet and interesting, that the sentiments will long remain in the hearts of the people. I thank God we are moving on very well. We have our church up and ready for use. Some of our friends in Bagwell have assisted us in building. The following are those who helped us: Dr. Strong, $15 worth of nails; J. T. Lee, a heating stove and broom; T. S. Hays, brick and lumber, for the cistern; L. M. N. Baker, $20 of lumber. So you see brethren it is not contrary to the will of the leading class of white people to build Methodist Episcopal churches. Capt. Towns gave $4 worth of shingles. The next quarterly conference was voted to Blossom Prairie, and Bagwell alternately."

E. J. Jefferson, Hempstead, Texas, writes: "Our camp meeting closed on the 16th inst. We had the blessing of God with us during our meeting. We had 25 conversions, 49 additions. We had also in our midst, Rev. W. H. Hamilton, of Hearne; Rev. A. Alexander, from Anderson; Rev. B. W. Taylor, from Honston; Rev. Osborn, from the African Methodist Episcopal Church at Hempstead; Rev. Dr. Ridley, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, preached for us. Backsliders, reclaimed 6; baptized 10 adults. We administered the sacrament to 139 persons. We also had in our midst Rev. J. S. Whitaker, of this city and Rev. J. A. Tillory, of Courtney."

H. W. Simmons, Murfreesboro circuit, Tenn., writes: "Since I have been on this circuit, I have done what I could to make it second to none; and the Lord has ever been with me. Our church is on her onward march, and spiritually alive. Our presiding elder's services have been of great value to us, he is a man whose heart is in the work. He is not rash, but pleasant, yet, firm in his deliberations and sermons. We love him for his tenacious principles as well as his eloquent sermons. We had a two week's meeting, and on the second and third nights we had 8 conversions, we were blessed with 18 souls for the Master's service. The same number has been received into our church. Our basket meeting on last Sunday was nicely attened."

Rev. W. H. Jackson, Brenham circuit, Texas, writes. "That his camp meeting closed with the fourth quarterly conference with the following results: 14 converts; 6 backsliders reclaimed; 39 accessions to the church. One of our converts, Mrs. Hannah Brooks is 105 years old. We had the aid of that noble revivalist, Rev. M. Reddick; and Revs. J. H. Holland, J. Jackson, A Neely, J C Williams, of the African M. E. Church; W S Yancy, of Hempstead, and many others. It closed with our noble presiding elder, W B Pullam, who I need not undertake to say any thing about, for all who have met and heard him preach, say he is the best. I never expect to forget that noble sermon he preached on the 6th inst., from the 9 chapter of Hebrew 27 verse. I have never heard any thing to compare with it. Except the one our noble editor preached at Navasota last November, 1884. While Bro. Pullam was preaching one of the vilest sinners of our community fell under conviction and rose next morning filled with the Holy Ghost. The reports of pastors, local preachers, exhorters and class leaders showed that they had been at work for the Master, and on our arrival on this circuit, Dec. 16th, 1883, we found 76 members and the minutes of the same year claimed 134. The elder administered the sacrament. We ask for your prayers and may you prosper in your labor."

M Reddick, Brenham, Texas, writes: "That his third quarterly conference was held Aug. 8-9th, Elder Pullam in the chair, he presided with honor. The brethren were promptly on hand with good reports. Pastor's reports showed 5 conversions; 5 deaths; 4 children baptized. Paid pastor in charge, during the quarter, $78 70; presiding elder preached a noble sermon, text, St. John, 14, 6 verse, to a crowded house. Elder's collection $24 15; after which 115 communed at the Lord's supper. Total paid to pastor to date $184.70; paid presiding elder, $61.45; benevolent collection, $15.10; paid sexton, $21; to the sick, $5.60. The work is on increase, financially and spiritually. Pray for us through. At first we labored under a very dismal cloud, but the Son of Righteousness has banished them. Rev W H Jackson is closing a successful camp meeting with 14 conversions; 6 backsliders reclaimed; 37 accessions to the church. He is an excellent captain and Satan hates all such as him."

J L Massey, Mason, Tenn., writes: "A grand picnic was given at Galloway, Tenn., on Aug. 9th, 1885, by the members and friends of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the benefit of the pastor, and made $25. A few nights before the picnic some one set our church on fire and burned it down. Bro. William Bess, the steward, is the right man to keep a pastor living."

A J Fletcher, Big Springs, Tenn., writes, "The fourth quarterly conference, for Big Springs charge convened the 25-6 of July, Elder E. Provine was with us, and the meeting was protracted several days, resulting in the conversion of many precious souls, and several accessions to the church. The sermons, speeches and lectures of the elder had a good effect, and will be long remembered. The Lord has blessed our work this year. Our benevolent collections are in advance of last year."

P V Crawford, Liberty Hill, Tex., writes: "I entered my work Dec. 20th. I got off the train at Hutto, my nearest charge being Rice Crossing, where I proceeded and there met Mr. Langham, whose wife is a devoted member of our church. The people there were very kind. From there I went to Pond Spring, at which point I met Bro. Jones Washington, who will do all he can for the cause of Christ. He is worth $7,000. From there I went to Liberty Hill, where I met Bro. William Burton, one of our leading men of the church, and a good Christian gentleman of excellent parts. The people there were glad to meet me. From here I proceeded to Burnett, and met Bro. Wilson, who gave me the conditions of the church, we are without a house. We soon began talking business and laying plans, but times were so hard, that was all that could be done at first. Now the prospect is a little brighter for the lumber is being put on the ground, and by the annual conference, we expect to have another house for the Lord."

J D Walden, Meridian, Miss., writes: "The elder held our third quarterly conference, Aug. 8 9th, it was well attended. On Sunday at 11 o'clock we had our love feast and at 3 p. m. the elder preached us a fine sermon, and at night we had an audience between 600 and 700. The Lord's supper was administered to 178 persons; accessions to the church 50; paid pastor $110.10; paid elder $17. Our Sunday-school is getting on nicely, under the superintendency of Prof. J H Brooks. Our church is doing well. Pray for us."

J F Marshall, Alexandria, La., writes: "Good Tiding's Day was appropriately observed here. The beautiful and edifying service, prepared by Dr. J H Vincent for the occasion was carried out to the letter. At the close a collection of $7, was taken which will soon be forwarded to the Sunday-school Union and Tract Societies in New York."

J W Russell, Anchorage and Middletown, Ky., writes: "When I first came to this work I was quite discouraged, but since God has moved away the cloud of darkness, and the light is now shining all around my work, I feel like marching on. Soon after I came here we had a great revival and sixteen souls were converted and added to the church, afterwards we went to work in earnest and soon we had a nice parsonage and have finished the foundation for a new church. The corner stone was laid Aug. 9th, 1885, with a grand crowd on the grounds. The following brethren were with me: M W Taylor, D. D., Rev. W H Lawrence, Rev. J N Newby, Rev. N H Tolbert. Raised $35 that day."

Rev. S Green, Evergreen, La., writes: "Sister Baxter, of Alexandria, and Sister Holden, of New Orleans, organized Women's Home Mission Society, with 23 members, and a mission Sunday-school with 37 in attendance. Opened a mission school on Sept. 1st, and organized another, two miles below Evergreen at Smith circuit. Our opposers are many, but the Lord is for us and who can be against us."

T Ward, Spring Hill, Tenn., writes: "Our new church in Spring Hill is almost finished, and we hope to have it out of debt by October, when the district conference will be here, yet times are hard and money hard to get. There are willing workers in and for the church, so we are moving along. It is the only church on the circuit that we can winter in. Buell Hill church fell in last month, and there is not much church at Beech Grove, and our people are not able to build soon, and pay their preacher."

H L Kennedy, Summit, Miss., writes: "The protracted meeting began on this work at Magnolia, May 18th, and closed June 3d. 13 joined the church; 9 converted and were baptized. We had Bros. J H Cook, of Crystal Springs; H May, of New Hope, and M H Foster, of Durant."

Letters From the Laity.

H. O. Williams, of Camp Parapet, writes: "We have a loving pastor in F. T. Johnson. He has been able to keep us up with the day. We have learned more since he has been here than before since the church has been established."

B. D. Dixon, of Dresden, Mo., writes: "I have just closed a protracted meeting which began July 5, and continued until Aug. 7. It resulted in 17 conversions; received on probation, 2; from other churches, 3; baptized, 18. Rev. C. Tayse, of Warrensburg, assisted me for eight nights. We have succeeded in building a little church at Lamonte, where I found a lot had been purchased and a frame upon it. This was traded for another 50x142, with some timber besides. With this, and $13 worth of additional lumber, $16 50 for carpenter's work, a little church was put up. I put on two coats of paint. We have bought lamps, and are trying to get it ceiled and settled before winter sets in on us. The Lord has dispersed a very dark cloud."

Missionary Catechism On the South American Methodist Episcopal Mission.

When did the Methodist Episcopal Church sends its first missionary to South America? In 1836.

Who first went there and what did he do? Rev. Fountaine E. Pitts, of the Tennesee Conference, by appointment visited Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Ayres, Montevidio, and other places. "At Buenos Ayres he rented a room, furnished it with seats, and began preaching to the people. At Rio de Janeiro he formed a small society of religious people, giving them promise that a pastor should at no distant day be sent them." Mr. Pitts returned in 1830.

Who were the first missionaries? In 1836 Rev. Justin Spaulding was appointed to Rio de Janeiro and Rev. John Dempster to Buenos Ayres.

Who reinforced the Brazil Mission in 1837? Rev. Daniel P. Kidder, as missionary, and Rev. R. McMurdy, a local preacher, and wife, as teachers. Mr. McMurdy only remained one year, and Mr. Kidder returned in 1840.

What was done there from 1837 to 1842? The missionaries gave special attention to the distribution of the Holy Scriptures and Christian tracts—preached to the seamen on the vessels in the harbor, and made excursions to different portions of the Empire preaching the Gospel. Mr. Kidder was the first Protestant minister that ever visited Para.

When organized in 1841? The mission in Brazil was given up, owing to a financial crisis in the United States which seriously affected the contributions to the Missionary Society.

What did Mr. Pitts do in Buenos Ayres in 1835? He organized a church of ten members and opened public worship in a private house.

Did the Government permit the missionaries to labor among the natives? It did not, but with its consent they confined their labors to the foreign population.

What missionary went out in 1839? Rev. W. H. Norris was appointed to Montevideo.

How was the mission of Buenos Ayres strengthened? By Hiram A. Wilson as teacher in 1838, Rev. Orrin A. Howard and wife in 1840.

What now become of the missions in Buenos Ayres and Montevideo? The missionaries were recalled in 1841, owing to the inability of the Missionary Society, and leaving us to the ultimate success of the mission.

What work was done in 1842? Rev. W. H. Norris went out in 1842 to Buenos Ayres upon the promise of the foreign residents to pay $1,000 toward his support.

When was the first Church dedicated in Buenos Ayres? On June 1, 1843. During 1843 liberal collections were made for both [illegible] to assist in building a church.

What missionary went out in 1845? Rev. Thomas Carter was appointed to Montevideo.

How was the mission of Buenos Ayres strengthened? By Rev. Orrin A. Howard and wife in 1846.

What was done in 1847? Rev. Daniel P. Kidder returned to Rio de Janeiro and Rev. John Dempster to Buenos Ayres.

What was done in 1848? Rev. Fountaine E. Pitts returned to Buenos Ayres.

What was done in 1849? Rev. Daniel P. Kidder returned to Rio de Janeiro.

What was done in 1850? Rev. Fountaine E. Pitts returned to Buenos Ayres.

What was done in 1851? Rev. Daniel P. Kidder returned to Rio de Janeiro.

What was done in 1852? Rev. Fountaine E. Pitts returned to Buenos Ayres.

What was done in 1853? Rev. Daniel P. Kidder returned to Rio de Janeiro.

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR, D.D., Editor

THURSDAY, NOV. 5, 1885.

Between vice and virtue there is a great gulf fixed. The inhabitants on either side can have no dealing with each other.

"Every one that putteth away his wife and marrieth another, committeth adultery, and he that marrieth one that is put away from a husband committeth adultery."—Luke, the evangelist.

Miss V. M. J. Richie, whose obituary, appeared in our issue, Oct. 29, was regarded by this editor as a most excellent young lady, whose qualities both natural and acquired fitted her well for any station in life. It has been attested by those in position to know, that she was a very superior teacher. We feel a personal bereavement in her untimely death.

When Dr. Herschel first discovered Sirius its brightness overcome him, and sinking back in a swoon he exclaimed. "Oh, that sun! Oh, that sun!" So it is in a greatly magnified degree as looking by faith, through the Lord's precious promises until we are made partakers of his infinite love. Christ is our great fixed star finding whom we can, but exclaimed with Herschel, Oh, that sun!

"In Peeps at Real Girls in China," Miss Clara M. Cushman, the author, tells how Mrs. Wang came from Shantung to Peking, 400 miles in a wheel-barrow that she might learn to read the Holy Book. She learned to read and disproved thereby the charge that she was crazy. There are many thousands of hearts still yearning to read the Holy Book. Glimpses at Miss Cushman's book will help us to appreciate their difficulties, and stimulate us to give liberally toward that million for missions.

From the Rev. Dr. H. M. Crook, Professor of Ecclesiastical History in Chicago Theological Seminary, "Theological Encyclopedia and Methodology," by Drs. Crooks and Hurst, based on Hagenbach, is the best way to be recommended to the American theological public. The valuable and indispensable book of Hagenbach is not merely [illegible] in American dress, but [illegible] an independent author. [illegible] example, some of the German periodicals. We have not met any thing to detract from the general [illegible] the book, which is issuing [illegible] Phillips & Hunt, Publishers, 805 Broadway, N. Y.; [illegible] & Stowe, Cincinnati and Chicago. Price $3.

Knoxville.

Chattanooga nestles at the rocky [illegible] of a range of imposing mountains [illegible] East Tennessee, not the name of which is Missionary Ridge and the lofty crown of Lookout Mountain, famous for the battle fought there in the days of the rebellion. It is named from Chattanooga, a Cherokee chief. It is situated [illegible] and in the lap of [illegible] mountains, and is a [illegible] town, with a population of [illegible] 12,000. It is [illegible] its few manufactories shall be largely increased.

The settlers of East Tennessee came latterly from North Carolina chiefly, but originally from Wales. They have inherited the historic and traditional instinctive independence which is characterized by the love of freedom in that people, and that which they demand for themselves they are quite willing to accord to others.

They were loyalists during our late war, and their stubborn courage, thorough knowledge of their mountain country and vigorous support of the Union cause, under the leadership of such chieftains as Horace Maynard and William G. Brownlow, better known as the "fighting parson," gave the Confederates no little disturbance of mind and confusion of plans. No Highland chief in the mountains of "bonnie" old Scotland ever led his clan with firmer tenure of love, or to surer victory than that with which these men guided their adherents in both our diplomatic and military contest for the supremacy of the nation and the integrity of the Constitution.

The old Brownlow homestead remains here an object of historic interest to all comers of course.

Three of the parson's sons are here in the real estate business and are doing well.

The scene of Andrew Johnson's toil and public career is five miles away—just far enough for the distance to lend enchantment to the view which Knoxville took of him.

Johnson City, a thriving little place not far away, is named for him. There the Holston conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church has just held and concluded one of the most pleasant and useful of all its sessions.

In religion Knoxville is Presbyterian. Its name was given it in honor of John Knox, the great reformer, whose spirit is still marching on among its citizens.

They have some substantial buildings, and a good training school here for Negroes.

We have two good houses for the white but none for the colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Church here as yet.

We have a membership of over one hundred strong and a lot of 50 feet front has been secured, upon which a church, worth one or two thousand dollars, is to be erected soon.

This work was, until lately, a part of the Holston conference.

Four years ago they divided as a conference, retaining the same friendly relation as members of the same church. In consequence each party has more work to do, whereby their experience is enlarged, and hence each has taken on a greater degree of prosperity.

There is a great amount of hard work to be done in this country, and the men in the field seem possessed with the requisite courage and ability to do it.

The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church is the most numerous body of Methodists here, but it has been losing ground in late years. Its members have swarmed twice—once they hived into what is known as Soney Methodist Episcopal Church in the suburbs called Eastport. In this Eastport —— Church the East Tennessee Conference is holding its fourth annual session with that pure and gentle man, Bishop John F. Hurst, presiding.

Hon. George L. Seney, of New York, gave $500 for the erection of this church, and in acknowledgement of his charity it has been christened in his name. It is a small, but well built structure, and very properly situated for the people concerned.

Rev. D. E. Lewton, a man well known as an itinerant for fifty years, has been of invaluable service in giving advice in matters of business among these brethren, and is worthy of all honor for his work's sake.

Cordial testimony to his great worth and many virtues is universally given by his colored brethren.

The conference has a seminary at Morristown, forty miles away. They have a good start, 170 pupils enrolled, an able and beloved teacher in the person of Prof. Hill, president of the institution, and they are wisely planning for greater things. The boarding is good, the dormitories under good supervision, and all things of the character to make this a most appropriate place to send a young lady for instruction.

We know that there is a wide circle of the very best people now as in the past depending upon our advice in the matter of deciding upon the location of their patronage, and we intend that those who follow our direction in sending their children to any school shall not be disappointed after they have done so. Hence we give these indorsements only where our knowledge and conscience both are satisfied. Such an indorsement we now give to Morristown. The Baptist have a good house here, and a numerous congregation.

The Congregational, African and Independent Methodists are also at work here.

Rev. A. J. Warner, an old friend of our early life, is in charge of Zion's interest, and, as usual, is making it hot for sinners.

Rev. D. W. Hays is pastor of our church, and where he is pastor the church is bound to prosper.

The Negroes of this city at present are happy in a pastorate for all the churches, which is much above the average, there is not one lean intellectually among them.

There are about 7000 Negroes here, and they are engaged in almost every calling. They are lawyers, merchants, tradesmen, teachers and laborers. The women are house maids, cooks and washers.

There is a plenty for all and more of the first class in ability and energy could find work.

The common schools are good—one of them excellent, both buildings and work. It is largely a work of charity, directed through a good lady, who resides here and spends her time in philanthropic labors. It bears her name, and is called the Curtis Building.

Prof. Moore teaches a smaller school in the suburbs, and giving first rate satisfaction, together with Mrs. Brooks, a colored lady of rare gifts and experience as a teacher, who teaches the higher classes there.

S. J. Harris and Eli Provine, presiding elders, with the ministers on their districts, being assembled for business, we have a look upon this fine body of men, visit Bishop Hurst, roll about the city with Elder Hays in Elder Harris' buggy, and then leave at 5 p. m. to meet the Tennessee Conference at Gallatin.

Gallatin.

The seat of Sumner county, and of the twentieth session of the Tennessee Conference, is a pleasant little village with good prospects ahead.

The church in which the conference is meeting is a spacious frame, built some years ago by Rev. H. W. Key. It is under the present pastorate of Rev. Miles Williams, a most agreeable young gentleman.

The county has 7331 colored population, of whom 1391 are voters.

A good per cent of this population has settled about Gallatin, though quite a number have gone from here since the war.

It is from this town and county that our colored membership in Indianapolis, Ind., has been largely made up. George W. Hutson, James Caruthers, Samuel Body, and James Montgomery, founders of that church, went from here. Gabriel Jones, now a teacher and a prominent citizen and churchman there, also went from here, as did Harrison Donald; Theodore Hutson, deceased, and a good many others, all of whom this editor received into Coke's, now Simpson Chapel, during his pastorate there.

Tennessee has a total colored population of 403,243, of whom 80,200 are voters. These people furnish the principal laborers of the State, especially the middle and western sections of it.

In East Tennessee the white people do a good deal of the laborious work themselves. They produce barley, buckwheat, corn, oats, rye, wheat and cotton. East Tennessee spring wheat is early on the market, and is a good trade. Out of a total acreage of 539,309,179 they plant 722,569 acres in cotton. This is chiefly cultivated by Negro labor, and the yield is about 330,644 bales. The State has also $20,092,845 invested in manufactories, from which $37,094,886 is produced annually.

In this State with its great possibilities ahead we have firmly planted our Methodism.

We have four conferences here as follows: White two; the Holston and Central Tennessee, with a university and feeders ample for all present necessities. Colored two—the Tennessee and East Tennessee, with a first-class college at Nashville, and a feeder at Morristown, and another in the western part of the State.

Some very enterprising and prosperous men are connected with this work, colored and white, while, as educators, both Drs. Braden and Spence have a national reputation.

The proceedings of the East Tennessee and Tennessee conference will be given here in full.

Both were pleasant and profitable sessions. We have already said that Bishop Hurst presided at East Tennessee.

On the same day, Oct. 22, Bishop Mallalieu, with his usual grace and pleasant manner, called the Tennessee Conference to order at Gallatin.

The outlook was for a prosperous and harmonious session.

Drs. Cranston, Hartzell, Gillett and Prof. Thirkield were present, as also this editor, in behalf of the several interests they represent.

Dr. Braden, who is a member of this conference, was elected secretary.

The conference was being well entertained, and good audiences were present both day and night. Three members, viz., Bros. Braxton James, L. J. S. Bell and E. M. Manson were reported deceased.

They were well beloved brethren and men of promise. Their loss is Methodism's loss, and a severe stroke to the conference.

Rev. A. J. Fletcher, of the East Tennessee Conference, was transferred to this one.

Rev. H. W. Key, Jesse Price, C. H. Bullington and Calvin Pickett are very prominent men here.

Indeed, they are leaders, and are very highly prized for industry and zeal in the cause of the church.

One district more, the Tennessee River, has been formed, making four instead of three as formerly.

Rev. J. P. Gregg, Calvin Picket and H. W. Key have been assigned to districts.

Revs. Jesse P. Price and James Pickett having served their terms out with credit returned to the pastorate again.

There were several changes, but we believe, upon the whole, that there was very general satisfaction given by all that was done, and that it was a very profitable conference.

Frauds at Elections.

That there has been frequent and grave, if not a system of frauds perpetrated at elections in the South, for a number of years past, is not denied here, or doubted to any general extent in the North.

These frauds were said to be necessary as a means of preventing the domination of ignorance and pauperism, over culture and thrift.

And it appeared as if these explanations had been by a sort of common consent received with satisfaction. Since it was only in the South, and chiefly affecting the Negroes, this methodic plan of reversing the will of the majority, by the minority, seemed to give little or no alarm.

The North viewing the matter from a business standpoint, presumed to look on serenely, confident that their section would be untouched by this new danger.

She did not yet understand that the disease was infectious, and that when it was once fairly settled up on the people of the South, it would surely and steadily extend its death dealing influence to other sections of the country; and ultimately overthrow the chartered right of majority rule every where.

But by recent and flagrant proceedings in various sections of the country outside of the South, the danger which threatens our common liberty and sacred, and time honored institutions, has been fully exposed to view.

The recent gigantic efforts at fraud in Cincinnati, call to mind several instances of like character which have lately disturbed the political equipoise of the nation.

1. The last election for United States Senator, from Ohio, was beclouded by the general charge of frauds.

Methods uncommon in that region, were said to have been resorted to, and by their use it is claimed that the defeat of such men as Hon. Allen G. Thurman, Hon. George H. Pendleton and Gen. Durbin Ward, was secured, and they prevented from obtaining such recognition of their purity and worth as the people by their representatives was quite desirous of bestowing upon one or the other of them.

2. The long contest for Senator from the State of Illinois, which finally resulted in the choice of Gen. John A. Logan, it is said, was brought about by a combined, and persistent effort to defeat the will of the people by fraud.

3. By combinations in New York it has come to be regarded as difficult to determine whether an election has been secured by fair or foul means

4. The present election in Ohio has made the grasp of Senator John Sherman upon a seat which a majority of 20,000 Ohio people wish him to retain uncertain. If elections come to be understood as non-expressive of the peoples' will, they will loose their use and force as an element in our government, and lawlessness, rather than order will be the rule.

With a free election and a fair count, the reputation of candidates being equally good, we believe that in Virginia the Republican, and in New York the Democrats would succeed. Whatever may occur in New York, only those who are blessed with a degree of ignorance, uncommon in our times can fail to forecast the result of the contest in Virginia.

Gen. Lee will be inaugurated Governor there if his life is spared until the time. We have no objection to his election, and inauguration to that high office in the State which has given some of the grandest statesmen of their times to the country: But we regret that the issue of the election there or elsewhere in our country should be a certainty before the votes are cast and counted.

As in the human, so in the political body, disease attacks the weaker, and proceeds to the strongest points. Contagion first seizes the foul and vicious, but marches rapidly thence to the slaughter of the fair and virtuous.

So the only protection and safety for the strongest, lies in strengthening, and guarding the weakest points in our political system. Let not every State be guaranteed a Republican form of government only, but let all the other States in their Federal and associate capacity demand this as the one sufficient basis of their own sovereignty. Then may we hope to enjoy the best results of our theory of a government for, by, and of the people.

If we would enjoy the blessings in this country of our best posibilities as a Republic in pertetuity, we must hasten to a time when the most ignorant, the poorest, and the blackest elector may use his franchize of citizenship, and dispose of his suffrage as his reason, and his judgment inclines him; and if that reason and judgment is obnoxious to society in general or in particular, let that society avail itself of the means always at the command of a cultured people to persuade, and ally to themselves the other classes. If they will not do this, but persist in allowing the rights of the weaker part of society to be trampled under the feet of unscrupulous men; they may depend upon it that the destruction of their own rights will speedily follow.

It must be burned into the depths of every American's consciousness that the integrity of the laws, and the rights of every citizen must be sacredly maintained. That the ballot is the potent agent in the hands of an American citizen for expressing, and asserting his political convictions. Hence to in any way taint, vitiate, or deprive him of the right to cast and have it counted as he cast it, is to degrade and enslave the voter. And because this "nation can not long exist part slave, part free," to do this, is an unpardonable offense against the peace, and prosperity of the State.

It is full time that those who offend against the public demand for pure elections should learn this lesson, and those at Cincinnati of whatever party, or social position should now be made to feel the strong hand of the law, as a warning, and an admonition to others against any repetition of their high crimes and misdemeanors.

Let us have a free ballot and a fair count from one end of this nation to the other and by all parties.

The East Tennessee Conference.

Fuller returns from this conference will be given later.

So we learn that it was a pleasast session, and that as when he previously visited this country, so now has Bishop Hurst won for himself golden opinions, and the hearty approval of his brethren. No change has been made in the presiding elders or the more important charges.

The conference is small, but has a band of earnest, devoted men, who will yet, greatly increase its strength and importance.

They go forth this year with a fresh consecration, and mighty impetus given by the advices of that chosen, and precious servant of God, the Bishop. The appointments are as follows:

Thanks, But You Are Mistaken.

The Christian Recorder, official paper of the African Methodist Episcopal Church congratulates us upon our statistical showing as presented in the SOUTHWESTERN of Oct. 8th, but is not right sure that we ought to credit school property to our colored members when it was bought by the whole church, and as the Recorder presumes has more white than colored trustees. If the Recorder will please re-read our summary of the table on page 4 SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE Oct. 8th, it will find that we set down the following items clearly.

Fifteen schools and colleges, value	$150,000
Four hundred and fourteen parsonages	172,817
Two thousand two hundred and fifty churches	2,366,575
Total	$2,689,392

The total indebtedness on this property is $227,874. Add the value of the schools, parsonages and the debts together, and the sum is $530,686, which substract from $2,689,392, and the result clear of all debt is $2,158,706 worth of church and parsonage property belonging to the colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Does the Recorder now understand it? This includes the school property, "sah."

The Recorder has also a few observations on our "African Policy," which it will be time enough for us to discuss when the African Methodist Episcopal Church inaugurates any policy, save the stay away sort for Africa.

There is a mistake about the pastorship of our schools, a count will show that a majority of them are colored men. As to colored teachers, we are giving employment to about 30 of them. Is that not more than African Methodism in its various denominational forms employs altogether? Ha!

Another word. The SOUTHWESTERN called upon the church to man these schools as far, and as fast as possible, with colored teachers, and the response was promptly given in favor of such a course. As an earnest of their intention to do this, two colored gentlemen, being entirely competent, were asked to accept the management, each of an institution, but they declined. At present Rev. Alfred W. McKinney, has charge of Burt Normal School, at Huntsville, Ala., succeeding excellent white [illegible] there. Are you enlightened? Then you know the Con[illegible] don't employ any [illegible] Do they? Now then let us have your figures!

Gen. McClellan Gone.

Major General George B. McClellan of the United States army born in Philadelphia Pa., Dec. 3, 1826, [illegible] at his home on Orange Mountain, New Jersey, at 3:10 Thursday morning Oct., 29, of neuralgia of the heart.

A Week of Humanity.

The grand concerts and musical concert given by the Columbus Lit[illegible] Circle on Monday evening, Oct. 26, 1885, at Wesley Chapel for the benefit of the Old Folk's Home was in every respect a success. The musical and vocal display of the children was fine likewise the rest of the programme, and the verdict of all that the evening was one long to be remembered.

Personal.

—Bro. [illegible] and Sister Provine are a handsome and well-mated pair.

—Archbishop P. R. Kenrick is the senior Roman Catholic prelate in the country.

—The address of Rev. H. W. Simmons will be hereafter at Springfield, Tenn.

—Gov. Walden is said to have [illegible] of camp life in Montana [illegible] hand.

—Rev. John Qualls has been doing a good work at First Street [illegible], New Orleans, La.

—Rev. R. R. Smith of Cincinnati [illegible] pastorate of the Methodist Church in Helena, [illegible]

—Rev. W. Thomas says that [illegible] Sunday, of Newtown, [illegible] his third year with [illegible]

—Rev. [illegible] Hays, of the Louisiana Conference, is in good health and has been actively at work preaching every Sabbath and on other occasions.

—S. P. Angell, Esq., dealer in guns and sewing machine furniture at Knoxville, Tenn., was lay delegate to the General Conference of 1884, and is in prosperous circumstances and high esteem.

—Rev. D. W. Hays gave us a cordial invitation to his pleasant home Knoxville, Oct. 19, and his wife who is a superb cook, gave us such a dinner as would gladden the heart of any travel-worn itinerant.

—Rev. D. W. Hays is a high liver, a good eater, and his wife is a good cook, an affectionate mother, and with all an educated lady. They have three children, and the relation between parents and children is of the most inspiring quality.

—Rev. A. H. Gillett, D. D., gave a few rousing talks to the Tennessee preachers on Sunday School work, and then bounded away for other engagements; he is doing a great deal of work with a like amount of good.

—Prof. Hill, of Morristown Seminary, East Tennessee Conference, has been transferred to that conference in compliance with the expressed desire of its members. We regard him as a complete and useful fit to the position he so amply fills.

—Rev. Ernest Lyon, of Sixth Street Church, New Orleans, La., has, as we learn, made an exceptionably good pastorate in that charge. Besides meeting usual expenses, he has accumulated $700 for repairs on the church.

—We had a pleasant ride from Gallatin to Nashville with Dean Thirkield, who is actively at work in the interest of Gammon School of Theology, at Clark University in Atlanta, Ga. He will succeed if there is any regard for a clear brain and incessant toil.

—Bro. Warner, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Chattanooga, is an old friend, formerly of Cleveland, and he is no less genial and cordial in the South then in the North as we see. It was the warm grasp and earnest request to "come and see me."

—Rev. S. J. Harris is a smooth intelligent and expeditious presiding officer. A visit to his quarterly conference in Knoxville, indicates also that Bro. Hays has been careful in his directions to the officers in their duties, as every officer was ready with properly prepared reports of their work.

—Revs. Eli Provine and S. J. Harris, presiding elders of the East Tennessee Conference, are above reproach in character, rather scholarly in attainments for men who began in their day and generally beloved by their preachers; their wives are of more than average culture; good cooks and chaste keepers at home.

—Rev. J. A. Pearce of the Kentucky, has been transferred to the Holston conference, and stationed at Knoxville, where he is to arrive on the 20th inst., and a cordial reception awaits him. If any words of ours will aid in clearing the way for the year of all his ministry there he has the words.

—Elder J. W. Mann, of the Holston conference, believes that appointments read out, or matrimony solemnized on Sunday, are invalid as binding contracts in law. After a most agreeable session of his conference at Johnson City, East Tennessee, he is back at his home in Knoxville for a few days needed rest prior to the resumption of his labors on his district.

—Bishop Harris is in fine health, having made his European tour of [illegible] and returned safely without accident or sickness. He is now in the South hard at work again. These are pleasant memories of a former visit by him to Tennessee, and the brethren of the last Tennessee conference therefore received him gladly. His patience, affability, scholarly dignity and Christian gentleness, then, as now, captivated all he met and secured him many friends.

—Rev. L. P. Cushman, presiding elder of the New Orleans Louisiana Conference District, is in his parish, hard at word. He will build from ten to thirteen new churches this year. He is able to discover pleasing signs of progress among his preachers and churches throughout his work. No one more heartily rejoices in the good work thus exhibited than we. And it is appropos for us to remark here that any observations we may have made in this paper were not designed to affect personally such single minded and zealous men as we regard this gentleman to be.

—True and brotherly, as through all the nearly twenty years we have known him as a faithful friend and teacher and minister among the colored people, Dr. John Braden, president of Central Tennessee College, was the first to greet and the last to leave as the train rolled out of Gallatin, Tennessee. Only once in three years has there been any thing the least ont of harmony with the simplest and completest brotherly feeling manifest to us in our observation of this gentleman's bearing among the Negroes. And that was fully explained away in twenty-four hours. Let it be carefully remembered that we raise no objection to teachers such as he is, and a few more we could name with equal emphasis.

Church Polity.

MR. EDITOR: If the reading colored people in general were to object to the phrase Negro being applied to them, would it be the duty of colored editors in common to drop it?—Subscriber.

Ans. Not at all. The editors are or ought to be themselves members of the reading class and leaders of it.

It is the duty of the editors, writing for information of the public, to use such terms as the public best understand. Morover to resist the word Negro being applied to them, would be for the colored people to engage in endless controversies, both oral and written.

Such controversies, without affecting the purpose for which they were carried on, would serve to waste time, kindle strife, and delay the consideration of questions vital to the interest of the race.

There is nothing objectionable to the word Negro in itself, and if there has been any thing attached to it the objectionable thing has been the outgrowth of our previous condition, and present circumstances. Hence when the memory of the passed shall be blotted out, and the circumstances of the present changed for the better, the objectionable features, which in the minds of some supersensitive people have been associated with the word Negro will follow them, and the rising race will not, nor should not dispise the name or the day of their small things.

Schools and Colleges.

Four or five school teachers can find employment by addressing Rev. Robert Buckner, New Haven county, Ky.

Morristown Seminary of the East Tennessee Conference is entering upon a prosperous season.

Morristown Seminary of the East Tennessee Conference now has 170 pupils enrolled. Several are in the boarding department, and their table and dormitory accommodations are excellent. They have four teachers besides President Hill, and will soon need more, although for want of funds they are in danger of loosing one rather than increasing the number they have. With continued and increasing prosperity they will 'ere long require more soon. More land has been secured and an industrial department will be in operation shortly. One very proper feature here is this, they hire no outside help. The girl students do the house work guided by the matron, and this is the best thing that could be done for the girls. In dealing with our schools we are dealing with the vital interest of the Negroes at this time, and for this reason we determined from the start that we would put our indorsement under no institution unless it was in all respects a good one. We learned parents to believe this of us and hence we speak with the more care. But can cheerfully say that Morristown is worthy of a generous patronage.
